

RPSC Awards Criteria for Exhibits at National Level Shows

The RPSC is pleased to supply to each national level show, at no cost to the show, six RPSC exhibiting awards. The awards will be open to competitive exhibits at the national level (non-competitive and Court of Honour exhibits are not eligible). Membership in The RPSC is not required. The awards will be given out at the discretion of the jury, according to the following criteria.

RPSC Awards of Excellence in four categories (medal with inscription on the back):

- Treatment /Traitement
- Material/Matériel
- Presentation/Présentation
- Title/Synopsis/Titre

All single- and multi-frame exhibits in all competitive classes are eligible. The exhibit that best demonstrates excellence in each category will be selected at the jury's discretion.

RPSC New Exhibit Award (medal with inscription on the back)

The purpose of this award is to encourage the creation of new exhibits. Any single- or multi-frame exhibit in any competitive class that is being shown at the national level for the first time is eligible. New exhibit status should be indicated on the application form and the Exhibit Chair should provide this information to the jury.

The medal will be awarded to the exhibit that most impresses the jury in one or more areas including but not limited to originality, creativity, presentation, treatment, or research, at the jury's discretion.

RPSC Novice Award (medal with inscription on the back):

To be awarded to an exhibitor who is exhibiting at the national level for the first time. An exhibitor who has exhibited only at local or regional shows is considered to be a novice. Novice status should be indicated on the application form and the Exhibit Chair should provide this information to the jury.

There is no minimum medal level that must be achieved by the novice exhibitor. Only one winner will be selected by the jury if there is more than one novice exhibitor at the show.

If the winner is not an RPSC member, the award is accompanied by a one-year free membership in The RPSC.
