The 1985
50¢ Parliament Buildings Booklet

Are you aware there are four different booklets to end 1985, not just two as hitherto described? One of these is very good indeed and two others are scarce. All four are sharply distinctive. Also there are some attractive varieties worth 6 to 80 times the face value (that is what I’ll pay for them, offering to take unlimited quantities).

Find out what it is all about. I offer for $10.00 all four varieties, displayed in one of my mounts, plus full information on these and all variations. If you have any of these booklets you will need this lot to properly classify what you have. If you don’t collect Canadian stamps by all means get this $10 lot. It will introduce you to the most unusual single unit stamp issue in Canadian philatelic history.

Two very useful catalogues:
1. Scotts Canada Specialized new edition--$5.00 postpaid
2. Van Dam Canada Revenue Cat. new edition--$7.50 postpaid

CENTENARY SOUVENIR

As part of the celebrations of the 100th anniversary of organized philately in Canada, the British American Bank Note Company of Ottawa, Ont., prepared specially engraved certificates for Royal Philatelic Society of Canada members and life members. The certificates, featuring an engraving of the head of Queen Victoria from 1872, were given to members visiting the Royal booth at CAPEX *87.

Any Royal member unable to attend CAPEX may obtain one of these certificates by sending a request to Dept. M87, The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada, P.O. Box 5320, Station ‘F’, Ottawa, Canada K2C 3J1. Please give your RPSC membership number, advise if you are a regular member or life member, and enclose $1 for postage and handling.

RPSC FOUNDATION

The RPSC Philatelic Research Foundation took a giant step forward during CAPEX *87 with the appointment of directors for the incorporation of the non-profit charitable foundation and the election of an executive committee.

With official incorporation, the RPSC Foundation is in a position to support philatelic research and promote the hobby of philately in general.

The Foundation will be able to accept donations and bequests of collections and issue receipts for income tax purposes, something the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada is unable to do.

The executive is as follows:

President: James E. Kraemer
17 Commanche Drive
Ottawa, Ontario K2E 6E8

Secretary: Brig. Gen. George B. Robertson
1080 Ridgewood Drive
Halifax, N.S. B3H 3Y4

This RPSC centennial souvenir membership card, engraved by the British American Bank Note Company, is available to members who were unable to visit CAPEX.

JOINT ISSUE
Canada and the People’s Republic of China have agreed to the joint issue of a stamp in 1990 to honor the centenary of the birth of Dr. Norman Bethune.

Bethune, a Gravenhurst, Ont., native, was a surgeon who pioneered blood transfusions and battlefield medicine. A radical in politics, he lent his surgical skills first to the Republican forces in Spain during the Spanish Civil War and later to Chinese Communist forces in the war with Japan in the late 1930s. He died in China from an infection received after nicking a finger while carrying out battlefield surgery. He is revered by the Chinese for his help in those early days of the revolution.

Canada Post will issue a pair of domestic rate se-tenant stamps depicting Bethune in Canada and in China. The People’s Republic of China will use the same designs on a domestic rate stamp and an international airmail rate stamp.

The memorandum of agreement for the Bethune stamps was signed just before the opening of CAPEX and it was announced on CAPEX’s opening day during the unveiling of the U.S. and Canadian CAPEX issues.

Joint issues of stamps are not new for Canada. Several have been done with the U.S., starting with the 1959 St. Lawrence Seaway opening issue. In 1986, Canada and France issued a joint design honoring Jacques Cartier. That issue, incidently, was the first Canadian stamp printed by a French stamp printer.

REPRODUCTIONS STOPPED
The British Library has obtained an out-of-court settlement with a West German firm and a citizen halting the sale of unauthorized reproductions of rare stamps.

Photographs obtained from the Library with a false declaration were being used to make high quality copies of stamps that were being sold.

In 1986, the Library learned that a German company was advertising for sale reproductions of postage stamps which appeared to have been taken from photographs supplied by the Library for “private research and study”. The quality of these reproductions was so good that the Library feared there was a danger that they could be used for fraudulent purposes, as a small number had already been sold.

In April 1986, the Library issued a statement that even if permission had been properly sought, it would not have been granted for this type of commercial reproduction.

As a result of a settlement reached May 8, 1987 between the British Library, Pro Phil Forum POC GmbH of Bremen and Dr. Peter Winter, the company and Winter agreed that they used Library photos without permission. The unsold stock of reproductions prepared from Library photographs was destroyed under supervision of a Library staff member and some dies and printing plates were turned over to the Library.

The firm and Winter also paid compensation to the Library, including the Library’s legal costs.

As a result of donations and bequests, the British Library has some greatest collections of postage stamps and philatelic literature in the world. Noteworthy are the Tapling Collection, a basically complete world collection from 1840 to about 1890, the Harrison collection of die proofs engraved by J.A.C. Harrison, the Crown Agents archives and the Earl of Crawford Philatelic Literature Collection.

The Library has some 6,000 sheets on display at any one time and all material is available for study by appointment.
S.S. "SEGWUN"
Built in 1887 as a sidewheeler, and rebuilt in 1926 as a twinscrew vessel, the S.S. "Segwun" is the sole survivor of a bygone era when steamships ruled most Canadian inland lakes and rivers. She was retired in 1958 and converted to a museum. The dedicated efforts of individuals, corporations and government brought about her restoration and return to active service on the Muskoka Lakes in 1981.

The back of a S.S. Segwun postcard bearing an on-board cancel and the signature of the captain — similar items were presented to CAPEX jury members when they were taken for a trip aboard the century-old ship.

SHIP STAMPS
Gravenhurst, Ont., was also the site of a stamp launch on July 20. The launch marked the issue of two 36-cent stamps paying tribute to two Canadian ships, the Segwun, berthed in Gravenhurst, and the B.C.-based Princess Marguerite.

The 100-year-old Segwun is Canada's oldest operational steamship, having been assembled in Gravenhurst after being pre-fabricated in Scotland. Originally a sidewheeler named the Nipissing II, she was rebuilt as a twin-screw steamer and rechristened in 1925 as the Segwun. She still travels the Muskoka lakes and was recently refurbished following a public subscription campaigned.

The Princess Marguerite was launched in 1948, named after a ship torpedoed in the Mediterranean in 1942. This ship in turn had been named after a daughter of the CPR president. Originally in service of the CPR's 'triangle route' between Vancouver, Victoria and Seattle, the Princess Marguerite has been operated by the B.C. Steamship Company since 1975 and sails between Victoria and Seattle.

The se-tenant design printed by the Canadian Bank Note Co. is unusual in its layout. The Segwun stamp is 40 mm by 56 mm while the Princess Marguerite is 56 mm by 26 mm.

According to Canada Post, the only way to perforate the stamps was by a vertical layout pattern which results in three columns of five of the Segwun (left, centre and right) and two columns of five of the Princess Marguerite (left and right of centre) in each 25-stamp sheet.

Designed by Douglas Champion, the two

The Princess Marguerite and Segwun 36-cent se-tenant pair.
stamps are printed by five-colour lithography on Rolland coated paper with general tagging and PVA gum; 14 million stamps were printed.

The Segwun, incidently, has a connection with CAPEX. Members of the jury were treated to a cruise on the ship during the June international stamp show in Toronto.

They each received a postcard of the Segwun (which means Springtime in the Ojibway language), cancelled aboard ship and signed by the captain.

Scott No. 1116 used in combination.

KEEP THAT TAB

A Manitoba correspondent who puts together bulk lots for dealers writes to tell us that the 29-cent Angel Christmas stamp (Scott No. 1116) are hard to come by in used condition. Seems those who clip the stamps off envelopes are also cutting off the tab to left of the stamp impression containing the three-bar code for the concessionary Christmas card rate.

His experience may indicate that full used copies will be rarer than the current catalogue valuation of just five cents may indicate.

OLYMPIC EXHIBITION

An international Olympic Philatelic Exhibition will be held in Calgary, Alta. Feb. 13-21, coinciding with the XV Winter Olympic Games in that western Canadian city.

The 200-frame exhibition will form a major part of the visual Arts program of the Olympic Arts Festival.

In addition to the exhibition in the Calgary Convention Centre, there will be a bourse featuring dealers and postal administrations from around the world.

There will be court of honor exhibits by Dr. Juan Antonio Samaranch, president of the International Olympic Committee and from the archives of Canada Post.

There will be competitive exhibits in three classes:
- Winter Olympic stamp issues
- Winter sports stamp issues
- Winter sport stamps of one sport or one country.

A collector may enter more than one exhibit providing a separate entry form is submitted with each one.

For information, and entry forms contact: The Chairman, Olympex '88 Stamp Exhibition, Olympic Arts Festival, XV Olympic Winter Games Organizing Committee, Box 1988, Station C, Calgary, Alta. T2T 5R4.

NEW DIRECTOR

In the July/August edition of The Canadian Philatelist, we inadvertently left one name off our listing of the RPSC's new directors. That name is Dave Dixon of Oakville, Ont. who has also served the Royal as its treasurer for several years. Our apologies, Dave.

1988 ISSUES

Canada Post plans to issue 30-plus commemorative stamps in 1988. Continued will be four-stamp sets of the Science and Technology, Calgary Winter Olympics and the Exploration series.

A set of stamps depicting butterflies is also planned along with about seven stamps marking various anniversaries.

HELP WANTED
I am somewhat confused trying to identify (even with corner blocks) individual members of the current Canadian Heritage Artifact series with respect to papers, printers, plate numbers, marginal inscriptions (lack of or incomplete), gum types etc. Is there available a reputable accepted cataloguing of the numerous varieties? Such a listing would be most helpful. Any assistance you may be able to provide will be appreciated.

ELUSIVE BUTTERFLYS
I only need two sets — El Salvador 1969 butterfly set and its 1974 overprint — to complete a world collection of butterfly representations on stamps! As you can imagine, they are proving somewhat elusive.
A correspondent in Canada suggested I write to you in hope that you might include my request for help from your members in your magazine.
The stamps I need are:

EXCHANGES WANTED

Since the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada is the national society of philatelists in Canada, many requests for exchange partners are referred to us. As a service to our members, we are pleased to present these names so that those who wish to do so can make overseas contacts. We have no way of checking the credentials of the individuals who write to us asking that their name be published, therefore we urge that caution be taken when answering these requests.

DEMANDES D’ÉCHANGE

La Royal Philatelic Society ne s’occupe pas normalement des échanges entre philatélistes, mais comme elle est la société philatélique nationale du Canada, on lui transmet de nombreuses demandes de philatélistes désireux de trouver des correspondants pour échanger des timbres. Ainsi a-t-elle décidé, pour rendre service à ses membres, de publier les noms des intéressés d’outre-mer, afin que ceux qui désirent établir des rapports avec eux puissent le faire. Je vous signale toutefois que nous ne savons rien des personnes qui nous demandent de publier leur nom, c’est pourquoi je vous conseille d’être prudent en répondant à ces demandes d’échange.

PRESIDENT'S PAGE

James E. Kraemer

As members are aware 1987 marks the 100th anniversary of organized philately in Canada. During the Capex Palmares dinner I was most surprised and thrilled to accept on behalf of the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada a Special Award from the Capex Committee in honour of our societies centennial. The award, a very beautiful sculpture of a demure young girl, was the gift of the Fédération des Sociétés Philatéliques Françaises.

Hopefully in the future we will have our own permanent office where we can put her on display for all to admire and enjoy.

It was also the pleasure of the Royal to confer an Honourary Life Membership upon a great international philatelist, Mr. Ladislav Dvoracek of Prague, Czechoslovakia, the President of the Federation Internationale de Philatiele, (F.I.P.). Mr. Dvoracek has been a member of our Society for some time.

Canadians did exceptionally well at Capex 87, taking many awards in the different classes. One area that I wish to expand upon is the Literature class. There is a growing interest in philatelic literature. I also believe that exhibitors are not too conversant with the rules and regulations concerning literature at F.I.P. international exhibitions. For this reason I am asking our Editor to publish the F.I.P. regulations.

Capex attracted more than 230 entries in the Literature class. Canadians did very well receiving a total of 29 medals for the more than 30 exhibits entered. In addition several entries from other countries on Canadian subjects received awards including two Silver.

Heading the Canadian awards with a Gold medal was the book entitled, The Large Queen Stamps of Canada, by Dr. H.E. Duckworth and Dr. H.W. Duckworth of Winnipeg entered by the publishers, the Vincent Graves Greene Philatelic Research Foundation. Nova Scotia Post 1700-1867, authored by Dr. J.J. MacDonald and published by Unitrade Press received a Large Vermeil. Other awards were two Vermeil, three Large Silver, nine Silver, nine Silver Bronze and five Bronze. Our journal, The Canadian Philatelist, received a Large Silver as did BNA Topics, the official journal of the British North America Philatelic Society. The special Capex-15th edition of the Postal History Society of Canada received a Silver award with Felicitations. Our congratulations to all the winners.

Several items of interest to our members were discussed at the annual meeting of the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada and the meeting of the newly elected Board of Directors. Both meetings were held on June 20th in Toronto during CAPEX.

An announcement was made that The RPSC Philatelic Research Foundation has received its charter from the federal Department of Corporate Affairs. Your society has recently received stamp collections as gifts to the R.P.S.C. from two donors. By setting up a separate Philatelic Research Foundation an application can be made for registration as a taxable exempt foundation. The Foundation would then be able to issue receipts for tax purposes. A Board of Directors for the Foundation was also nominated and appointed. They will now formulate plans for the future. These plans will be reported to our members as they are developed.

A review of the R.P.S.C.'s finances over the past 25 years revealed that a singular problem has always been the cost of printing the journal and the associated mailing costs. The suggestion was made that the President in his next report should make members aware of these costs. The cost of one issue of the Canadian Philatelist, equated to the same number of journals in each case works out as follows:

* = During this period we used Mackie Volume Mailers in Toronto and were able to reduce postage costs by 20¢ per journal. Mackie were able to use 3rd class rates while we had to use 1st class.

 = We were finally approved for 2nd class mail rates.

 = Our 2nd class rates was reduced one level. There was also a half-cent postage increase.

It should be remembered that postage rates remained fairly static until 1982. The use of a mailing wrapper instead of an envelope reduced our costs from 7½ cents to 3 cents per journal. Your Board of Directors are aware that they must constantly review these costs in the future.

The Islamic Cultural Inheritance of Spain

by Jay Edward

In recognition of the importance of Arabic influence on Spanish life, the Post Office of Spain issued a set of four stamps on Dec. 3, 1986. Spain was under Moorish rule from 728 A.D. to 1492. The Moors under Tarik crossed the Strait of “Tarik’s mountain” (Gebel-el-Tarik or Gibraltar). Within a short time the Moorish Muslims took town after town in Spain without having to fight major battles. A wise policy of the Muslims of not seeking to change the religion of the people resulted in a fast pace of occupation. Within seven years, all but a few mountainous areas in the north of Spain were under the Moorish rule. The peoples of Spain could continue practising Christianity which they acquired from the Romans under Roman rule providing they paid a tax which was waived if they became converted to the faith of Allah. Besides Syrians and people of pure Arab stock, large numbers of Berbers from North Africa came into the country.

In early times Spain had traded with the Phoenicians and later came under the influence of the Carthaginians, only to become a province of the Roman Empire. After the Romans came the Visigoths who were in power from 414 A.D. to 711. Spain then came under the influence of Islam. In 756 Abd-al-Rahman I had proclaimed himself Emir of an independent Spanish state with no links to Damascus except for the Arabic language and the Islamic faith. The following seven centuries of Islamic rule left its mark on Spain to this day. Over 4,000 words in the Spanish language are of Arabic origin. Much of the Arabic spirit permeated the country’s culture, its architectural style, its people and their way of life.

The reconquest of Spain began with the first intrusions of the Muslim Moors. Historical scholars divide the reconquest into four periods.

720 - 1002: This is a period when there were only small focal points of resistance.

1002 - 1045: This was a period of probing by armed Spaniards to find a weakness in the Arabic defence.

1045 - 1250: This was a period when major offences reclaimed most of Spain. Alfonso VI gave great impetus to the reconquest when he captured Toledo in 1085. Later El Cid, the famous Spanish soldier of fortune against the Moorish rule, took the city of Valencia in 1094.

1250 - 1492: This was a 150-year period that culminated in the fall of Granada on Jan. 2, 1492. The last stronghold of Arabic rule collapsed. This long period before the final collapse of the Arabic rule was the result of continuous fighting among the Spanish nobles who controlled individual states such as Castille, Aragon, etc. Eventually Queen Isabel of Castille married Fernando, King of Aragon, and to a degree stabilized the Spanish states.

Much tolerance was shown to the Moors even after the Christian victory in Granada. But intolerance soon became prevalent. On either side the infidel was always the enemy.

The 7-pesetas stamp honours Abd-al-Rahman II, who was born in Toledo in 792 and died in Cordoba in 852. Conscious of the need to check the rebellion during the Castillian era and in order to elevate the prestige of the monarchy, he acquired and assembled literary works in the fields of philosophy, astrology, and poetry — the fulfillment of a deep desire toward the restoration of intellectual thought. In order to beautify the city of Cordoba he constructed gardens and palaces using waterways from the Sierras and widening the brick pavement leading to the Mezquita. On the left side of the stamp is a portrait of Abd-al-Rahman II while on the right side are columns and arches of the Mezquita Palace.

The 12-pesetas stamp is dedicated to Ibn Hazm (994-1064). A native of Cordoba and an intimate friend of Abd-al-Rahman V, he is considered one of the most important of the Muslim intellectuals. He was a poet, a theologian, a jurist, a historian, a moralist, and a political writer. Critical and hostile to the abuses of his sovereigns he wrote of the cruelty of the Mu'tadid of Sevilla who ordered his writings banned on religious grounds. The right side of the stamp shows the artist's impression of the writer Ibn Hazm. On the left side of the stamp is a vivid illusion of flames over his inflammatory book entitled, El Collar de la Paloma (The Collar on the Dove).

The astronomer Al-Zarquali who lived in Toledo from 1061 until 1080 and then moved to Cordoba where he died in 1100 is portrayed on the 17-pesetas stamp. Al-Zarquali constructed excellent astronomical instruments that permitted a study of the stars. On the right side of the stamp is a modern model of the type of astrolab which he invented, a considerable improvement and simplification of those in existence at the time. A treatise in the use and function of Al-Zarquali's astrolab for astrological study was translated into Spanish by order of Alfonso X.

The last value, the 45-pesetas stamp, shows King Alfonso VII, the first protector of the School of Traditional Studies in Toledo. The first translation of Arabic works by experts from Western Europe from the original Arabic, Hebrew and Greek languages to Spanish took place in this school. On the left side of the stamp is the reproduction of a painting showing the daily activities of the scholars at the school. First day of issue - Dec. 3, 1986

Number printed - 4 million of each value.
Size - 40.9 x 28.8 mm, horizontal format.
Perforation - 13.75
Method of printing - two-colour photogravure.

OUR VENDORS SPEAK

We sell the properties of 50 different owners in an average auction. All are pleased with what we do for them and some make the effort to write about it.

March 20, 1986

Dear Bill,

I duly received your check. As this is the last payment for the sale of our Canada Collection I want to express my thanks for the nice work you and your staff have done. As is common practice in auctions, some lots sold much lower than I had expected. But this was compensated by several others that went much higher. We were content with the total result. I must say I admire your valuation capacity of the collection as your estimation made prior to the sale, going quickly through the albums, was exactly the amount the collection fetched after auction.

Congratulations!

Yours,

J. L. van Diemen

DEALERS IN RARE STAMPS SINCE 1924
Universal Cancelling Machine

by Ross W. Irwin

The Universal Mail-Cancelling and Postmarking Machine has received scant attention by philatelists. This article is an introduction to the machine and its origin.

Hudson Maxim, whose brother Hiram invented the machine gun, owned a small corporation that manufactured high speed cheque-endorsing machines. George H. Graham had invented the machine and was the company manager. They needed an energetic salesman. Walter H. Bowes was working as a salesman for the Addressograph Company from 1906 and joined Maxim the next year. The Universal Stamping Machine Co. was incorporated in New Jersey in 1908.

Graham had also invented a machine to cancel stamps and postmark mail although there

The electrically-operated Model G could cancel up to 750 pieces of mail a minute.

FELLOWS AND MEMBERS OF THE ROYAL PHILATELIC SOCIETY OF CANADA

We would like to introduce ourselves in this our first advertisement in ‘The Canadian Philatelist’ to those Fellows and Members who are interested in British stamps. We are a small family company offering a personal service at competitive prices dealing solely in the issues and postal history of Great Britain. We have considerable experience in most fields from 1840 to the latest issues and regularly handle rarities, proofs, telegraphs, postal fiscals, postage dues, plate flaws specialised shades of the 1902-35 period, some excellent errors and varieties on the issues of King George VI, Queen Elizabeth II, The Channel Islands and of course the basic stamps.

We would be delighted to hear from you, learn of your interests and receive your wants lists.

were some product quality problems with the machine. Maxim sold the business to Bowes in 1909 for $6,000, $1,000 in borrowed cash and $5,000 promised. Graham was the only employee.

Bowes spent many hours watching the sorting and postmarking operation in the New York City post office and saw the potential for his machine. Graham perfected the operation of the stamp-cancelling and postmarking machine and a demonstration was made at the Washington post office in 1910. The machine cancelled 700 letters a minute with few misses.

The U.S. Post Office was so pleased with the demonstration that 50 stamp-cancelling and postmarking machines were rented at $150 per year each. The machines were not sold.

The Universal cancelling machine was an instant success. Bowes travelled to Europe and Canada where the machines were rented. A new improved model was introduced in 1912. A Canadian Agency was formed about 1922.

The Universal Stamping Machine Co. moved to Stamford, Conn. On April 20, 1920, the company merged with the American Postage Meter Co., of Chicago, Ill. to form the Pitney-Bowes Postage Meter Co. The first postage meter was an adaptation of the Universal cancelling machine and the Pitney method of recording postage.

The Universal, later Pitney-Bowes, Model D Mail-Cancelling and Postmarking Machine was standard equipment in the U.S. Post Office. It cancelled and postmarked 500 letters a minute, automatic stacking the envelopes and had semi-automatic feeding. It handled envelopes of practically any length of width and up to 3/8 inch thick. A counter tallied the number of pieces cancelled. It was electrically operated. The rotary die had a printing plate 7/8 inches high by 2 inches long of seven wavy lines. Letters were held in the left hand, stamps down, and fed with the backs against the feed roller. The date die, within the town mark, was of loose type. Errors in setting type were common.

The Universal Model K Mail-Cancelling and Postmarking Machine was similar to the Model D, but was hand operated for smaller offices.

Universal Stamping Co. also produced a Model G and Model DD cancelling machine. Only the speed of operation was affected.
Some Great Canadian Philatelists of the Past

by Vincent G. Greene

In 1925 there were four serious philatelists studying the early postage stamps of Canada. They were: — Senator Calder of Ottawa who was an outstanding authority on the 1859 issue and later wrote a book on the 5 cent Beaver with several pages of insertions illustrating the different plate flaws and re-entries; — Colonel R.W.T. Lees-Jones of England, an authority on the 1868 Large Queens issue; — Dr. Robert Reford, a scion of the wealthy Reford Steamship family; — Alfred F. Lichtenstein of New York, perhaps the most dominant figure of them all whose collection of the ‘Pence’ issue was unsurpassed, containing 28 copies, mint and used, of the 12d black.

Lichtenstein made a fortune in the First World War as his firm was the only one in the United States making dyes after the supply had been cut off from Germany when the U.S. entered the War in 1917. He made his mark in philately by buying the finest collection of postage stamps ever assembled in the United States, that of George F. Worthington of Cleveland, Ohio for the gift price of $50,000 in 1918. (Worthington had lost his fortune by guaranteeing the bonds of an electric railway and his stamps were sold by the Trustee in Bankruptcy).

In addition to those collectors already mentioned, there was Gerald Firth of Pittsburgh who built a fantastic collection of the early stamps of Canada. Firth was an Englishman who had lost a leg in the First World War. Arriving in Pittsburgh after the war he amassed a fortune in the steel business with his Firth Steel Company. The greatest strength in Firth’s collection was in 1868 Large Queen’s issue which has probably never been surpassed. He wrote a small book, The 15 Cent which was a study of that stamp only. Firth never gave up his British citizenship and when he and his wife were returning from CAPEX in 1951 (where he won the second highest award after Gerry Wellburn’s British Columbia and Vancouver Island), he was stopped at the border by the U.S. Immigration officials and he had to make a telephone call to his friend, the U.S. Minister of State in Washington, before he was released.

Perhaps the most colorful figure of that period (1925) was that of Dr. Lewis Reford of Montreal. I only met him once when I had luncheon with him at the University Club in Montreal. A small man (like me) he was perhaps the greatest student of them all. He employed a girl whose sole duty was to check the perforations on the Small Queen’s issue. Reford discovered the 12½ perforation on the Indian red shade of the 3 cent value. Reford was a wealthy man and built magnificent collections of Canadian stamps. Jarrett told me Reford showed him a mint block of six of the 1 cent value of the Large Queen’s issue laid paper. The block must have been broken up or lost because it never turned up in the sale of Reford’s stamps by Harmer-Rooke in New York in 1950.

The most prominent Canadian stamp collector of the 19th century was W.H. Brouse, a Toronto lawyer (he was my godfather). Brouse married one of the daughters of George Gooderham, the wealthiest man in Toronto at that time. His palatial house still stands at the northeast corner of St. George and Bloor Sts. (now the York Club). I had a book showing photographs of some of the rarities in Brouse’s collection (I gave the book to my friend Dr. Chaplin and hope he still has it). The photographs clearly show the difference in collecting stamps in 1898 and at the present time. Several of the stamps were damaged and I particularly noted a Canada 6d perforated (presumably unused) with a corner off! No top-flight collector of today would dream of putting such a stamp in his collection but in those days 'the stamps were the thing!' Bourse founded the Toronto Stamp Collectors' Club in 1892 and remained interested in philately until his death in 1915.

Bourse applied a small rubber stamp reading "W.H. Bourse, Dominion Bank Building, Toronto" to the back of covers which had been in his collection. If my Godfather thought it was okay to put a rubber stamp on the reverse in his collection, I thought it would be all right to do the same to covers in my collection. If any readers of this article come across covers with a small oblong box in green with my name in it they will know where I got my inspiration!

Other notable collectors of the period included Mrs. A.R. Clark and George A. Lowe of Toronto; Chris Golden of Montreal, Donald A. King, Halifax and Henry Hechler also of Halifax.

I never met Hechler but Jarrett told me he was a dealer with an enormous accumulation of stamps. When his stamps were sold in London in the 1920s, Dr. Day of Pittsburg told me he bought a large carton of Canada Small Queens for a pittance and it took him years to sort it all out. It formed the basis of his fine collection of postmarks of this issue.

In the postal history field of Canadian philately, two names stand out: Dr. James Goodwin of Toronto, who died at the early age of 50, and Charles P. deVolpi of Montreal. They concentrated their studies on the pre-stamp covers going back to the French regime and the rare 'straight-line' and other postmarks and different rates of postage. It is sad to think that Charlie deVolpi never published a book on this subject. He lost or mislaid the manuscript before his death and it has never turned up.

In concluding this sketch of a few outstanding philatelists of the past I must include two men who were close personal friends of mine and could be described as great Canadian philatelists of the modern era. I refer to Dr. Clare Jephcott and Jim Sissons.

Clare Jephcott was not only a great student of the hobby but also he built what was perhaps the finest collection in existence of BNA stamps at that time. His widow, Isobel Jephcott, showed 12 frames of the collection at the London Exhibition in 1970 and won one of the highest gold awards. The Pence issue contained fine mint and used pairs of the 12d. Also, the used (Dundas) 12d which I consider one of the finest used copies extant. Jephcott was a perfectionist and his collection abounded in beautiful and rare stamps.

Although I haven't seen the collection for 17 years I shall never forget looking at and admiring the finest Nova Scotia cold violet shade of the shilling stamp in mint condition that I have ever seen. The collection also included a large envelope with a block of 12 and a single 6d — the largest known block in existence of this value. Some day I must write and tell you the history of this remarkable cover.

I first knew the late, great Jim Sissons when he was dealing in stamps and putting himself through law school, still in his teens. Jim was the son of Prof. Sissons of Victoria College and lived with his mother and father and brothers at 64 Admiral Rd., Toronto. He had an office on the top floor from which he conducted his stamp business. Jim was halfway through law school when he met the charming Emily Day, whom he later married. Jim knew he could make a good living by giving up law and becoming a full-time stamp dealer, and he told me that he'd never regretted the decision.

Jim was a natural born philatelist. He, more than any other man, put Canada on the world's philatelic map. I well remember when he attended the Charles Lathrop Pack sale of the Pence issue of Canadian stamps in the 1940s. Carrying high bids from wealthy collectors like Jephcott and Wellburn, Sissons literally bought the cream of the collection. Never again would the foreign dealers divide up the fine BNA collections among themselves. Jim had arrived, and if you wanted a fine piece in BNA stamps you had to pay the going price for it.

Jim started his auction service in 1946 and it proved a great success from the start. He described each lot himself and, as the years passed, his reputation grew, so that today he is remembered as one of the greatest philatelists of his time. Jim's untimely death in 1980 of a brain tumor was a shock to the philatelic world. After his death the business was sold to Lex to Ment who still provides the high quality of auctions under the name J.N. Sissons Inc. ☐

LES PAPIERS UTILISES POUR LA FABRICATION DES TIMBRES-POSTE DANS LE MONDE.

LES SUPPORTS DE FORTUNE
Nous avons vu dans la seconde partie de cette série d’articles sur les divers papiers rencontrés en philatélie, que certaines administrations postales portaient une attention particulière au type de papier utilisé lors de la fabrication de leurs timbres-poste ou entiers postaux.

Nous parlerons aujourd’hui des pays qui ont émis des timbres-poste sur des papiers de très mauvaise qualité ou des papiers destinés à un tout autre usage.

Les principales causes de l’utilisation de ces papiers hors du commun étant principalement reliées à un manque de papier adéquat dans le pays, ceci étant dû habituellement à une guerre ou à une crise économique, ou tout simplement par soucis d’économie de la part de l’imprimeur ou de l’administration postale.

Il est important pour le philatéliste en général, que le support de papier sur lequel est imprimé le timbre-poste, soit de bonne qualité. Idéalement, il ne faudrait pas qu’il se détériore avec les années et il est important qu’il ne soit pas trop fragile pour la manipulation philatélique ou postale.

Cet article familiarisera le lecteur avec plus d’une dizaine de cas où le papier utilisé pour la fabrication de timbres-poste ou d’entiers postaux:
- n’était pas destiné à l’usage postal mais à un autre usage spécifique.
- avait déjà servi à un tout autre usage.
- était de très mauvaise qualité et ne convenait pas à la manipulation philatélique ou postale car il était trop délicat ou possédait une mauvaise permanence.

Voyons donc, les exemples les plus connus de ce que l’on appellerait communément les “supports de fortune”, le terme anglais le plus souvent rencontré est indiqué entre parenthèses.
- papiers monnaie (banknote paper)
- papier ligné (ruled paper)
- papier pelure (pelure paper)
- papier à cigarette (cigarette paper)
- papier pour cartes géographiques (map paper)
- papier de riz (rice paper)
- papier translucide (translucent paper)
- papier Grande Concomration (GC paper)
- papier pour coupons de rationnement (ration ticket paper)
- papier de formulaire de bureau de poste (post office form paper)
- papier à cartouche de fusil (cartridge paper)
- papier journal (newsprint paper)
- papier non blanchi (unbleached paper)

Papier monnaie
Le Lettonie émit en 1919 des timbres-poste imprimés sur l’endos des planches de billets de banque bleus de 5 Rublis, préparés pour le compte du Conseil des Travaillleurs et Soldats de Riga. Ce papier (type 1) fut utilisé pour l’impression de plusieurs émissions (figures 39 a, b (recto) c, d (verso)). Il est intéressant pour le spécialiste d’essayer de reconstituer une planche dans son entier. Ce papier possède un filigrane montrant des étoiles et des triangles.
La Lettonie émit en 1920, d'autres timbres-poste sur l'endos de planches de billets de banque préparés par le gouvernement de Bermond-Avalov (figures 40 a (recto), b (verso)). Ce papier (type 2) est imprimé de couleur brun, rouge et vert à l'endos. Il possède une teinte rosée et un filigrane montrant des lignes ondulées.

Et enfin, la Lettonie émit pour une troisième fois des timbres imprimés sur des bons de caisse de 10 marks de l'armée allemande en 1920. Ce papier (type 3) servit pour plus d'une émission et ne possédait pas de filigrane (figures 41 a (recto), b (verso)).

Guernesey a utilisé du papier monnaie de couleur bleue pour leurs timbres en 1942.

Papier ligne
Au moins 3 administrations postales, à ma connaissance, ont émis des timbres-poste sur du papier qui était ligné d'un coté. Il s'agit de la Lettonie en 1919 (figures 42 a (recto), b (verso)), du Mexique en 1887, on retrouve des timbres-poste qui peuvent avoir des lignes verticale ouizontales (figures 43 et 44). Ces deux émissions furent imprimées sur du papier ligné du type que l'on rencontre souvent dans les écoles. Dans le cas de la Lettonie, les lignes sont distantes d'environ 9 millimètres, soit la même distance que dans le cas des timbres mexicains.

Panama utilisa en 1928 un papier possédant des lignes bleues beaucoup plus rapprochées les unes des autres (soit environ 2 mm de distance entre chaque ligne) (Figure 45).
Papier pelure

Le papier pelure est relativement dur et rigide pour son épaisseur. Il s’agit d’un papier vélin mince et semi transparent, on le rencontre le plus souvent dans les émissions du début du siècle, en Russie (figure 46) et en Ukraine (figure 47) par exemple.

Il est intéressant de noter que le timbre de la figure 46 existe aussi sous la forme de papier vélin non pelure. On utilise des calandres pour rendre le papier semi transparent et ce genre de papier peut servir à faire des enveloppes du type “glassines” par exemple.

Il est à remarquer que plusieurs catalogues ont tendance à affirmer que tous les papiers minces sont pelure, ce qui n’est pas le cas.

Papier à cigarette

La Lettonie a utilisé ce type de papier très particulier en 1919 (figure 48.) Le papier à cigarette contient des produits chimiques qui retardent as combustion, on utilise entre autres les produits suivants lors de sa fabrication: carbonate de calcium, barioxyde de titane, phosphates divers ...

C’est un papier très doux, fait à partir de pâtes spéciales et très blanc, à cause des produits chimiques incorporés, et qui est relativement mince soit environ .0017 pouce. Le timbre-poste letton fut émis sans colle au verso.

Papier pour cartes géographiques

Normalement c’est un papier qui possède une très grande résistance à la pénétration des liquides, une excellente résistance à la déchirure ainsi qu’au pliage, ce qui est principalement dû aux fibres spéciales qui sont incorporées lors de sa fabrication.

La Lettonie utilisa en 1918 pour l’impression de ses premiers timbres-poste du papier pour cartes géographiques. La guerre avait épousé les ressources locales et tout particulièrement le papier. Les allemands en évacuant la capitale Riga, avaient abandonné un stock considérable de cartes d’état major dont le verso n’avait pas été imprimé.

On imprima 2,725,000 timbres dont 1,125,000 furent dentelés 11.5 et 1,600,000 non dentelés. Les philatélistes amateurs de cassette s’intéressent tout particulièrement à cette émission car il existe 86 cartes différentes et chacune comporte 228 timbres-poste.

Certaines cartes sont imprimées en noir avec le nom des localités en gros caractères alors que d’autres sont en noir et brun-rouge avec le nom des localités en caractères plus petits. (figures 49 a (recto, non dentelé), b (verso, timbre dentelé)).
Pour compliquer les choses encore un peu plus pour nos amateurs de puzzles, certains timbres ont un dos blanc (figure 50) car ces cartes avaient des larges marges.

Papier de riz

Il s'agit d'un papier blanc très doux et rarement rencontré en philatélie, il fut utilisé par El Salvador en 1879 pour le timbre de 1 centavo vert. (figure 51)

Ce papier est fait à partir de minces feuilles de moëlle de l'arbre Fatsia papyrifera qui se retrouve à Formose et à Taiwan. On utilise de l'eau de riz dans sa fabrication pour l'encoller, d'où son nom.

Ce type de papier est très apprécié des chinois pour la peinture, on le retrouve dans une variété de textures différentes.

Papier translucide

Ce papier se distingue du papier pelure car il n’est ni dur ni rigide, et plus transparent. La province de Saxe a émis des timbres-poste sur ce type de papier (figure 52 a). Le même timbre existe aussi sur papier vélin épais contenant des fibres de pâte mécanique (figure 52 b). J’ai aussi rencontré ce type de papier sur des timbres fiscaux de Tchécoslovaquie (figure 52 c).

Papier Grande Consommation

Ce papier fut utilisé par la France et ses colonies durant et après la première guerre mondiale pour l'impression des timbres-poste de séries courantes (figure 53). Donc de 1916 à 1920 on rencontre certains timbres imprimés sur ce papier de très mauvaise qualité, on peut le distinguer habituellement assez facilement car il contient de minuscules fibres de couleur incorporées et le papier possède des nuances typiques.

Les trois principales nuances sont le gris, le gris-jaune, et le chamois.

Les feuilles portent dans les marges en haut et en bas, dans la couleur du timbre, les lettres GC (Grande Consommation). Cependant certaines feuilles de papier blanc, de bonne qualité, possèdent aussi l’inscription GC! (figure 54)
Ce papier contient des fibres recyclées et on a dû utiliser lors de sa fabrication des fibres semi-blanchies et de fibres de pâte mécanique.

Papier pour coupons de rationnement
Ces timbres-poste de Lithuanie furent imprimés sur un papier décrit par le catalogue Scott comme granité gris. Il s’agit en réalité d’un papier destiné à l’impression de coupons de rationnement pour le pain (figures 55 a, b, c).
Ces timbres furent imprimés à Berlin en 1919, il s’agit effectivement d’un papier granité (papier sécuritaire) mais puisqu’il n’était pas destiné à l’impression des timbres-poste, il devient un membre de la famille des supports de fortune.
On notera que la même série de timbres-poste se retrouve également sur deux autres types de papier; vélin blanc épais et vélin blanc mince.
Le papier granité possède un filigrane (ovales), le vélin blanc épais aussi (lignes ondulées) mais le vélin blanc mince n’en possède pas.

Papier de formulaire de Bureau de Poste
Lors de la guerre civile mexicaine de 1915, l’état d’Oaxaca émit une série de 5 timbres-poste et à cause de la pénurie de papier à ce moment, ils furent imprimés à l’endos de formulaires officiels du bureau de poste local. Il s’agit ici d’un papier vélin d’épaisseur moyenne et de couleur crème (figure 56).
Si on les regarde à l’endos, on s’aperçoit que certains ne comportent aucune inscription, d’autres ont une seule ligne de texte alors que d’autres en possèdent plusieurs. Il serait très intéressant de pouvoir reconstruire un formulaire complet à partir des pièces individuelles.

Papier à cartouches
La Russie employa ce type de papier en 1921 lors de l’impression de la série de la famine de Volga.
Ce type de papier épais et rigide avait déjà servi à la fabrication de cartouches de balles pour fusil. Ce papier est aussi utilisé pour le dessin et est très rarement rencontré en philatélie (figure 57).
Il est à noter que cette même série de timbres existe aussi sur papier pelure et qu’il existe de nombreux faux pour cette émission.

Papier journal
Le papier journal est usuellement fabriqué principalement à partir de fibres de bois mou non blanchies et traitées mécaniquement.
J’emploie le terme papier journal très largement ici pour tous les cas où il y a une très grande quantité de fibres non blanchies et provenant d’un traitement mécanique (pâte mécanique).
Il existe un test très simple et rapide pour savoir si l’on a affaire à ce genre de fibre, cependant le test a un côté négatif, il tache le timbre à tout jamais; il suffit de mettre une goutte de PHLOROGLUCINOL sur le timbre-poste et s’il contient de la pâte mécanique alors le papier se colorera en rouge.
Plusieurs pays ont utilisé ce genre de papier qui a la malheureuse propriété de se détériorer plus vite avec le temps que des papiers blanchis. Comm exmple, j’illustrerais quelques timbres sur lesquels j’ai effectué le test au phloroglucinol: Province de Saxe (figure 58), Iran (figure 59), France (figure 60), Russie (figure 61). Jersey a aussi utilisé du papier journal pour ses timbres-poste en 1944.

Papier à base de pâte non blanchie
Il est très rare que l’on utilise de la pâte non blanche pour faire du papier à timbres-poste ou des entiers postaux. On utilise de la pâte non blanche pour faire des sacs de papier ou du papier d’emballage, car elle produit un papier très résistant et de couleur foncée.

On a utilisé ce genre de papier pour imprimer des entiers postaux du Ceylan dans les années 1910-20 (figure 62). Ce papier n’est pas ce qu’il y a de mieux pour l’impression et je ne crois pas que le roi George V aurait été fier du résultat.

On a utilisé de la pâte Kraft semie blanche pour l’impression d’entiers postaux canadiens et on en reparlera dans la prochaine partie de cette série sur les papiers.

J’invite tous ceux qui auraient des informations complémentaires ou des remarques concernant cette série d’articles sur les différents papiers utilisés pour l’impression des timbres-poste et des entiers postaux à communiquer avec moi.

On a aussi utilisé un papier sensibilisé à la lumière (contenant du prussiate de fer) pour la production de timbres-poste lors du siège de Mafeking en 1900; Ce papier était destiné aux dessinateurs.

Les timbres-poste de la Guinée Britannique de 1856 furent imprimés sur du papier d’emballage de paquets de sucre. De 1941 à 1944, dans les camps de concentrations polonais, on a utilisé entre autres, des paquets de cigarette, du papier hygiénique, des copeaux de bois etc...

La prochaine partie traitera des papiers les plus souvent rencontrés en philatélie tels les papiers vélin et les papiers couchés.

Fellows Of The Society

Harry Sutherland, Q.C.

By Beverlie Clark, F.R.P.S.C.

Harry Sutherland, Q.C., membership number 6216, was elected as a Fellow in 1968.

Harry is a corporate lawyer living in Toronto, and has been with the firm (Fraser & Beatty) for approximately 35 years. He was born in Toronto; however, his parents were from New Glasgow, Nova Scotia, and he was an only child. His education began at the Institute of Child Studies at the University of Toronto, graduating at age five. He then went on to Brown School, Upper Canada College, the University of Toronto Law School and Osgoode Hall.

Like many collectors he began stamp collecting as a youngster, set it aside during the teen years, then later on took it up again. His stamp collecting interests have taken him beyond the regular collecting routes. For many years he has been involved in the administrative part of the hobby, although still maintaining his collections. Since the late 1950s he has, in one way or another, faithfully worked for our Society. In 1967 he became president of the Society, stepping down in 1978. Today he is a member of the Board of Directors and also holds the positions of Board Secretary, Arbitration Committee Chairman and Director of International Affairs. In the latter position he has served as Canadian delegate at numerous international exhibitions throughout the world, for many years. As well as representing Canada with the Federation of International Philately (FIP), in 1974 he was elected Vice-President of the Federation of Inter-American Philately (FIAP), and in 1975 assumed the position of president of that organization. He is an international judge and has judged exhibitions throughout the world as well as across Canada.

In 1958, Harry was elected a Fellow of the Royal Philatelic Society of London. He also served on the Board of Directors of the British North America Philatelic Society, and is a member of most major philatelic societies.

Besides his philatelic hobby he also enjoys the hobby of wine collecting and has an extensive wine cellar in his home which continues to grow. He is also known to travel around the world tasting wines. As well he has been a science fiction devotee since the age of 12.

It is with devoted and conscientious members like Harry that our Society continues to have a voice in philately throughout the world and at home.
A Fascinating Glimpse Into The Forger’s World

By Natie Becker, R.D.P.S.A.

All forms of art, be it oil paintings, sketches or a sculpture, have attracted forgers over the years. The manufacture of stamps, also an art, has been the target of forgers and in many instances, forgeries of stamps have been more sought after than the originals from which they have been copied.

Warnings have been issued from time to time about the various overprints on the stamps of South West Africa which have been known to have been forged. Those on the 1d, 2d and 1/3d King’s Head postage stamps with Type I overprint have been fully discussed elsewhere.

However, the forgeries were not limited only to those stamps. It appears that King’s Head specimen postage stamps which were correctly overprinted with Type I overprint had a black rubber hand-stamped impression of the word ‘SPECIMEN’ applied on the left in the same position as the genuine ‘SPECIMEN’ was originally overprinted. Values seen with this reasonably recognisable forgery are 1/2d, 1d and 4d although it is believed that other denominations could have been similarly produced.

An example of the 6d with Type VIa overprint (South West measures 16½ mm long in this overprint) has also been seen with the black rubber-stamped impression of ‘SPECIMEN’ having been applied along the left margin of the stamp. There never was a 6d 'specimen', the values in the Type VIa ‘specimen’ set only consisting of 1/-, 10/- and £1.

Whilst only King’s Head forgeries have been discussed at this stage, it must be recorded that the London pictorials were not ignored by the forgers. The 3d and 1/- stamps have been seen with the overprint applied vertically to the stamps as on the genuine overprinted stamps but with a difference in colour. The genuine stamps have the overprint in blue whereas in the forgeries the overprint is a blackish blue. Not being satisfied with this the forger then applied a violet impression of the word 'SPECIMEN' to each stamp. The word 'SPECIMEN' in the forgery is noticeably larger than the hand-stamped 'SPECIMEN' applied to the genuine stamps.

The next series of stamps to which the SWA overprint was applied was also not left untouched. An example of the 3d London printing has been seen with a similar application of the word 'SPECIMEN' as was applied to the 3d and 1/- discussed above.

As long as the collector is aware of what the original 'specimens' look like, he should be able to recognise these particular forgeries as such if offered to him.

The inverted ½d postage due

In 1923, the first postage due stamps (postage due labels) were overprinted for use in South West Africa. The ½d denomination is printed in black and green on unwatermarked paper and has a perforation of 14. The Type I overprint with 14 mm between the lines of the overprint was applied by the Government Printer in Pretoria, who also did the printing of the stamps. The overprinting was lithographed in panes of 60 units. South West measures 14 mm across and Zuid-West measures 13 mm.

As a result of possible carelessness, a single pane of 60 stamps was overprinted with the overprint in the inverted position, that is, upside down. Mr. H. Mallet-Veale recorded on pages 19 and 20 of his booklet South West Africa - A Check List published in 1928 that the inverted overprint exists. He did not elaborate any further. In The South African Philatelist of July 1925 (Vol. 3) Mr. Mallet-Veale wrote an article on the 'Inverted and Double Overprints' in South West Africa which had been recorded at the time and says:

‘Postage Due: ½d Black and Green, Pretoria perf - One pane from Windhuk!

Round about this time an article dealing with the inverted overprint on the ½d postage due appeared in the daily press together with two illustrations – one showing the genuine overprint and the other an example of the supposed forgery. The article states:

"On the ½d postage due the genuine overprint is rather better placed than on the other varieties (NOTE – Apparently referring to the inverted overprints on the 1d and 2d King’s Head postage stamps) but the words ‘South West’ and ‘Zuid-West’ slightly overlap the words ‘Unie van Zuid Afrika’.

Should be measured

If after having applied the above tests, a doubt still remains, then the overprint should be measured. For this purpose it is not necessary to have a genuine copy of the inverted overprint, for a normal stamp of any value of Type I will suffice.

A comparison of the genuine and forged overprints spacing between the words ‘West’ and ‘South’ and ‘West’ and ‘Zuid’. In the genuine varieties these words are spaced about 7 mm apart, while they are about 5½ mm apart in the counterfeit.

All the forgeries apparently emanate from one source, for all show the same discrepancies in the spacing of the overprint.

Of the genuine overprint there was only one sheet (120 pairs) each of the 1d and 1/3d values and 2 sheets (240 pairs) of the 2d denomination, while of the ½d postage due there was only one pane of 60 units, or 30 pairs.

From the figures it will be gathered that the postage varieties are very scarce and that the postage due is a rarity. Collectors, therefore, should view with suspicion any examples that are offered at a low price unless they come from a reliable source and carry a full guarantee.

It has been established that the overprint on a complete pane of the normally overprinted postage due stamps brought into use in 1923 showed a distinct misalignment of the overprint. All values in this series have been seen to have a gradual slope upwards from the left to the right except for the ½d value.

An inverted overprint would be the exact opposite, that is, the slope would be downwards from the left to the right. The extent of the slope ranges from ½ mm to 2 mm on the different values, possibly caused by the degree of accuracy with which the overprinting plate was set in relation to a sheet of the postage due stamps requiring the overprinting. The space between the lines of overprint on the inverted overprint is 14 mm.

Major L.J. Worthington in his excellent series of articles on The Postage Due Stamps of South-West Africa reproduced in The South African Philatelist in 1925 from Stamp Collecting records on page 2 of the February 1925 issue that: "Overprints out of alignment, particularly between fourth and fifth stamps of fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth rows." He mentions that among others the ½d in the ninth and tenth rows are affected. The misalignments mentioned by Major Worthington here refer to what he calls setting B which is type-set.

The setting on the full pane of ½d postage due shows the following:

Row 1: All the overprints are the same height.

Rows 2 to 6: The overprint in row 6 is higher than in the first 5 rows, but the overprint from rows 1 to 5 slopes upwards from left to right.

Rows 7 to 10: The overprint slopes upwards from left to right from stamp 1 to stamp 6.

It is submitted that the identification recorded in the press cutting previously mentioned regarding misplacement of the overprint in the forgery should be treated with reservation as a full pane of the stamps shows the overprint in various positions.

The press cutting reproduced earlier requires further explanation. The space between 'West' and 'South' and 'West' and 'Zuid-' refers to the differences between these words on two adja-cing stamps. In addition the tabulation gives measurements between 'Africa' and 'Afrika' which is also the measurement between two adja-cising stamps. This latter measurement is taken from the right of the first A in Africa/Afrika to the full stop after Afrika/Afrika on the stamp on the left.

The court case of Philip Thomas Callard, a retired Government Printing Works official, was comprehensively reported in many newspapers throughout the Union of South Africa. It took place in the Pretoria Magistrates Court on 26 and 27 August 1931. As it is relevant to what has been discussed here, extracts are recorded from the reports in the Pretoria News.

"Philip Thomas Callard (61) a retired
Government Printing official appeared before
Mr. R.C. Okes in the Pretoria Magistrate's Court charged on four counts of contravening
Section 93 of the Post Office Act.

The charges alleged that he unlawfully made use of Post Office stamps or dies in overprinting stamps, or alternatively, had in his possession imitations of the official stamps; (2) that he had in his possession four half-penny postage due stamps: (3) that he sold or dealt in spurious stamps. Advocate A.A. Roberts assisted by Mr.
H.C. Leith appeared for Callard, and Mr. A.G.
Humphries prosecuted.

Accused pleaded guilty to the alternative first count i.e. of being in possession of the official stamps or dies, not guilty on the second count and guilty on the third count.

J. A. Moss, Justice of the Peace, stated that accused appeared before him on July 19 and expressed a desire to make a statement. He was warned that he need not say anything which might incriminate himself. Accused then made the following confession:

'I was for 29½ years overseer at the Government Printing Works Pretoria, the last 3½ years of which I was in charge of the postage stamp printing department. In that capacity I had to account for all stamps leaving the printing department.

In November 1929 I was notified by the head of the Government Printing Works (GPW) that my services would be dispensed within three months' time, upon reorganisation. As I had always understood that I could serve until 65 years of age, this dismissal raised a feeling of resentment of unjust treatment in my mind.
Haunted by the fear of possibly having to be in a position of want in my old age, I took a waste sheet of sixpenny postage stamps and replaced it with a sheet of sixpenny stamps which I bought at the Post Office, to make my stock correct, my intention being to keep this sheet for some years in case I was hard up, and then to dispose of it to collectors.

About the same time I also took a waste sheet of threepenny postage due stamps, with a figure printed in dark blue ink, from a specimen book, and replaced it with a sheet which I also bought.
I had no intention at this time of selling the stamps.
Very unwisely
Shortly before Christmas 1930, I came in contact with one Schneider at the Johannesburg Post Office, quite accidentally. In the course of conversation I very unwisely hinted to him that I could put my hand on some curiosities for stamp collectors. A few days afterwards Schneider came to see me at my house. I was persuaded to hand to him a few of the stamps that he might show them, and get the possible market value of them, from a man whom he told me was a great collector, and was shortly proceeding to England.

I gave him these stamps on the strict injunction that they were not to be sold, but only priced, he agreeing to return them within a week. After two or three futile enquiries by post he wrote me enclosing the sum of £21. He followed this up by a personal visit and I was induced to hand him over the balance of these stamps for sale at a similar figure. He assured me that not one of the stamps would be offered for sale in South Africa, and that my name would not be mentioned in the transaction.

In all I received approximately the sum of £170 from Schneider, less an amount of 15% which I handed him as commission.

Second transaction
The second and larger transaction I was induced to enter into by the knowledge that I was faced with a direct loss of over £300 on a midgest golf course which I was running. During the whole of this period from my first meeting with Schneider, I was tormented by acute insomnia, brought about by neuritis.

At a later period one Bronks made himself known to me in Pretoria and informed me that he was the buyer of the stamps from Schneider, and that he had given Schneider a much larger sum than was paid to me.

In conclusion I wish to state that I replaced with purchased stamps the full value of the stamps I took. I had had in my possession for several months before I left the Government service certain type slugs which I borrowed from the GPW for the express purpose of stamping the words "South Africa" on two or three stamps to make complete the collection of an individual who was short of two or three varieties. He is an ardent collector, and the stamps he wished to complete are out of print. I received nothing whatever for this service, but obliged him. He is a well-known man in the Transvaal, and is a member of several important public bodies. I have never seen him since.

When the police came
I am quite aware that I did that which was irregular. I should have returned these slugs. I came across them in a forgotten corner while cleaning up, and was taking them to my workshop to destroy them just at the moment the police officers came to my house.

I have not and never have had any private printing plant or device in my home. The four halfpenny postage stamps in a block, taken from my wallet by the police, have been in that wallet for more than two years and I voluntarily offered the wallet to the police.

The small parcel of blank stamp edging was taken from the waste-paper heap, and kept by me for the purpose of repairing any paper document, music, etc. I made no secret of its being in my possession.

The statement was signed by Callard.

The Johannesburg Post Office
'M. Schneider, an employee of the Johannesburg Post Office, stated that he met accused shortly before Christmas, when the latter purchased stamps from him in the Post Office.

He asked me whether I ever came across any irregularities in stamps I handled. I replied that I had not. He told me that he had some curios, and asked me whether I would like to see them.

Accused suggested that if witness knew of anybody who might be interested in such stamps he would make them an offer. He sent witness by post a few specimens of 6d and 3d overprinted stamps. The colours of the stamps were different from the colours of current editions.

The stamps were sent to me for sale 'said witness', and I was supposed to sell them for about £3 or £4 a set of four. I tried to find a purchaser, but one man said the price was too high. I was about to return the specimens when a fellow officer in the Post Office, Mr. Price, said that he could sell the stamps.

Witness handed the stamps to Price who approached a stamp dealer, Bronks. Witness received £24 from Bronks for a few blocks of specimens. 'I cannot recollect how many stamps I sold' said witness.

Schneider said that he deducted £3 of the sale for commission for himself, and forwarded £21 to Callard.
In reply to a question, witness said that the only difference he noticed on the stamps was in the colour. He thought the paper was genuine.

Schneider said that in January he visited accused and told him that he knew of somebody who was willing to purchase more stamps similar to the last issue. Accused said that he would sell as many as required. Witness was given 18 or 20 blocks of 6d stamps, each block containing four stamps and a few 3d stamps. The colour of the 3d stamps was faulty.

Witness handed the stamps to Bronks, receiving on one occasion £100 and on another £65, and later £40. The stamps were all sold to Bronks.

Mr. Humphries asked - Did Bronks know Callard and the position he had occupied? Yes.

In March witness saw Callard again in Johannesburg. Accused said that had had been approached by Bronks, who had said that he had paid witness much more for the stamps that he remitted to him. He accused witness of taking much more than his fair share.

Mr. Humphries: And had you? Certainly not. I told Mr. Callard that I was willing to go over all the figures with him and Bronks.

In reply to a question by Mr. Roberts witness said that it was possible that Callard did not know Bronks or the transactions mentioned. He did not suggest that accused had had previous dealings with him.

A Lauchian, works manager of the GPW stated that all Union postage stamps are printed at the GPW. Callard was foreman of the Postage Printing Department.

Explaining the procedure followed in printing postage stamps witness said that the paper was issued to the foreman of the printing department after it had been doubly checked. After printing it was handed over to the clerical staff, when the output was checked. A certificate was issued for the same number of sheets delivered to accused, specifying good sheets, spoils and any waste. If a sheet was spoiled it was destroyed by the clerical staff. Accused had to account for every sheet issued to him and also for all clipped or short sheets.

Mr. Humphries: Are stamps which are not correct allowed to leave the printing works? No, every issue is always carefully checked and any freaks are rejected and later burned.

Witness pointed out several irregularities in the stamps produced. None of the stamps purchased, he said, would have been issued to the Post Office.

Mr. Humphries: Did accused have any right to borrow or remove any type from the GPW? Certainly not.

Detective Head Constable Barnard stated that on July 10, in company with Sub-Inspector Walters, he proceeded to accused’s house in Rosetta Street. On our arrival I saw accused walk across his yard carrying a small parcel which he placed behind a tub about 20 yards from the house.

Witness stated that accused’s house was searched. Callard offered his wallet for inspection, and in it were found four halfpenny postage due stamps. The parcel accused had been seen carrying was found to contain a box of printing type, similar to that used in stamp printing.

When I took possession of this it was put together in lines reading ‘South West Africa’, ‘Suid Wes’ and ‘Suid West’, stated witness. He found two stamps in accused’s possession overprinted with these lines.

W. C. J. Hand, stamp dealer, of African Arcade, stated that in February last he visited one Bronks, in Johannesburg, and was shown about 100 sixpenny stamps similar to those produced. Witness had tried to purchase stamps of that nature from the Post Office, but had been unable to get any. The stamps were priced in England at £20 a pair. They were treated as colour-error stamps.

Accused said that his financial position at the time was very uncertain. He had made three unfortunate investments since his return from England.

In explanation of his being in possession of the four halfpenny postage due stamps referred to in the second charge, witness said that he found them in his drawer a few days before he retired. They should evidently have been destroyed with the waste at the time the issue was printed. It was only accidental that they had not been destroyed. He did not attach the slightest value to them.

'I put them into my wallet with the intention of burning them,' he said. 'I was not aware of the possession of those stamps until I returned from a trip to Europe. I found them in an old office coat.'

The printing type and slugs, said witness, also fell into his hands without his having any

The above details are set forth to enable philatelists to check their overprints on items in regard to which they have doubt. It is unnecessary for me to suggest further pointers, as the information given above is sufficient for the purpose, except to say that collectors should seek the aid of any good printer if they are in doubt as to whether a stamp has been overprinted by hand or not.
thought of using them illegally. He borrowed them from the GPW to oblige an acquaintance who wanted one or two of his stamps overprinted to complete a collection.

I received no remuneration, and I should not have helped him if he had offered me money. I have never at any time had any idea of using those slugs illegally or for profit. I admit I should have returned the type after I had finished with it. I meant to do so, but I overlooked the matter.

Mr. Humphries: Who was this man who wanted you to overprint his stamps? The accused reply – I extremely desire this man’s name should not be brought into the case. I would rather take the blame myself.

In reply to further questions, witness said that he did not know that if overprinted stamps were not issued they were valueless to collectors. ‘I never at any time suggested to anybody that these were overprinted issue stamps.’

The accused refused to disclose the name or names of persons from whom he had purchased a sheet of threepenny postage due stamps, even when threatened with detention in jail. The accused subsequently said he did not remember.

Mr. Humphries asked accused how long ago he had used the official type for the purpose of overprinting the collector-friend’s stamp, as he had told the court yesterday.

Nearly three years ago, replied the accused.

How long did you think it would take for the ink on the type to dry? asked Mr. Humphries.

Accused: It should dry up absolutely within a week.

Mr. Humphries then produced a sheet of paper on which were certain faint type marks.

‘These impressions were made by the CID nearly three years after you said you last used the type,’ he pointed out. ‘How do you account for that?’

Accused: There is always a faint residue of dried ink on used type which will reproduce years after.

In reply to questions witness said that his position when he left the GPW was fairly sound. He received a gratuity of nearly £1200 the day he left. ‘In fact you were financially so well off that you undertook a tour of England, America and Canada, and took a new motor car with you?’ asked Mr. Humphries.

‘Yes’ replied accused.

Callard admitted that he did not gain posession of the sheet of sixpenny colour-error stamps legally. The money he obtained by the sale of the stamps was not legally his. Accused stated the money also did not belong to the Government and he had not been charged with theft.

Accused had been in the witness stand a total of an hour and three-quarters.

Mr. Humphries said the evidence went to show that the accused had been trafficking in “faked” stamps for some time. Two overprinted halfpenny stamps were found in his possession with the letters ‘South-West Africa’ on one, and ‘Suid Wes Afrika’ on the other. Accused explained that by saying he had used the stamps to experiment on before overprinting his friend’s stamp with the letters ‘SWA’.

It was peculiar, however, that there had recently been a large trade in South West Africa stamps, and that issues were always found in bilingual pairs.

In passing sentence the Magistrate said that the accused had abused his position of trust and that the legislative did not provide for the imposition of a fine. The accused was sentenced as follows:

On the first account there is no evidence by the Crown to show that the accused actually used the dies for illegal purpose. He had given an explanation which may or may not be true. The mere fact of being in possession of the dies, however, is serious. I will sentence him to two months with hard labour on that count.

The second count is not so serious, and I will sentence him to 14 days hard labour on that count, the sentence to run concurrently with the first term of imprisonment.

The third count is the most serious of all. The accused has pleaded guilty to being in possession of 240 “faked” sixpenny stamps. On that count I will sentence him to four months imprisonment with hard labour.

During the course of the trial the name of Bronks cropped up. He went to England and sold the sixpenny “colour error” postage stamps to Mr. Robson Lowe for approximately £1000. Mr. Lowe referred to these stamps as the “Callards” in a letter he wrote to a collector on 3 May 1963 who had queried the fact that the stamps were not listed in any catalogue. Apparently Callard after removing the sheet from the post office archives replaced it with a normal sheet. He passed one or two pairs through the post, two being addressed to his brother-in-law who was a partner in the transaction together with stamp dealer Bronks.

When Mr. Lowe bought the stamps from Bronks he was given an affidavit by Bronks that it was a genuine error of colour and that the used stamps had done postal duty. Mr. Lowe was suspicious and went to the High Commissioner in London and asked his advice. A cable was sent to the Manager of the Stamp Printing department in Pretoria in the High Commissioner’s name. Callard, the manager, replied that they were genuine. These colour error stamps are listed by Mr. Lowe on page 6 of his book The Encyclopaedia of British Empire Postage Stamps Volume II, The Empire in Africa. Mr. Lowe had to return the unsold portion of the sheet to the South African Post Office but some 15 pairs were retained by collectors in England as well as one cover according to Mr. Lowe’s letter.

As a result of the trial Mr. A.E. Basden read a paper at a meeting of the Pretoria Philatelic Society titled Union and SWA Fakes and Fancies. Mr. Basden draws on certain of the evidence led in the Callard trial and then gives a summary of the “slugs” recovered from the accused, made from a “pull” of the type. There were 16 different settings listed and these are recorded hereunder.

VII. Thomas William Moore, British Packet Agent.

In the fourth vignette of the series (The Canadian Philatelist Jan.-Feb. 1986, page 24), Figure 4 shows an 1822 packet letter which was sent from Quebec to London via New York. The postage was prepaid to New York, as required by the U.S. Post Office, and the letter was directed "To the Care of Th'. Wm. Moore Esq' Agent for H.B.M. Packets New York". Moore was essentially the British Post Office liaison officer at New York, who ensured that incoming and outgoing packet mails were transferred properly between the packet captains and the New York postmaster.

Until the 1783 Treaty of Peace following the American Revolution, there had been no need for a packet agent at New York — because the entire British North American postal service was a part of the British Post Office. It was managed by two deputy postmaster generals, of whom the more senior one was Benjamin Franklin. From 1761 until the breakdown of the postal system during the Revolution, John Foxcroft shared the office with Franklin. Foxcroft remained loyal to the British cause and was appointed the New York packet agent when the post was established with the resumption of the Falmouth-New York monthly packets at the end of 1783.

Under the 1792 Province of Canada-United States Postal Convention (cf. The Canadian Philatelist 1985, page 308), the incoming packet mails were sent through the United States unopened, on the basis of postage paid against a signed Letter Bill showing the contents. In an amendment apparently agreed in 1801, the New York packet agent was given the authority to lock and seal the incoming bags and to certify their contents for postage purposes and to pay the American inland postage to the Canadian border.

Thomas William Moore was the New York packet agent in 1810, and may have been appointed to the post as early as 1800. It is not known what salary he received, but a letter from the York, U.C. postmaster to his counterpart at Sandwich, U.C. dated 18 February 1816 (cf. Hennock's publication of the Earl E. Palmer Cross-border Collection, page 268) states that Moore received 2d. Currency for each letter sent to his care from the Canadas "for trouble". This fee was accumulated by Daniel Sutherland, the Montreal postmaster, together with the U.S. postage collected throughout the province, and forwarded by him to Moore and to the U.S. Post Office respectively. While the American prepaid postage was shown on all such letters, Moore's fee was not. Obviously there was no need, as Moore would know what he was due by counting the letters. Moore was very satisfied with his position, as well he might be, for it must have been very lucrative. He therefore was very upset when the Admiralty decided to discontinue the packet service to New York at the end of 1826 and substitute a Falmouth-Bermuda-Halifax-Falmouth route, with a Cunard mailboat carrying the American mails from Bermuda to Annapolis, as he was directed to move to the latter town.

While Moore officially accepted the move with equanimity, writing to Francis Freeling, the Post Office Secretary, on 7 December 1826 asking him to present his "humble respects to His Lordship the Post Master General, stating, that His Lordships commands shall be obeyed in every particular, and that (his) office shall be removed to Annapolis, immediately after sending the Mail on board the last Packet from hence to Falmouth," his private view was sent to an old friend in the London Post Office. As this letter gives a glimpse of Moore's earlier activities and the problems he faced with a winter move, it is reproduced here:
"I have to acknowledge your Letter of Condolence, on my banishment to Annapolis Maryland, indeed it requires all the fortitude of the bravest Mortal on the Earth to quit a comfortable Home in the depth of Winter in search of a dwelling in that forlorn place – during the late War, after superintending the departure of his Majesty's loyal Subjects for Six Months, procuring the necessary passports & engaging Vessels to convey them in safety to dear old England, the very day before the time expired for the departure of Alien Enemies, as We were termed, I received an order from the then American Secy of State to repair to Annapolis without necessary deviation from the Mail road, at four & twenty hours notice – I went accordingly – but such a place so out of the world that I left it, without asking leave & told them, the only possible way in which they could keep me there, was to confine me in prison – now am I banished by an order from Home, and must obey without a murmur, and should so do, if sent to Siberia – therefore your Letter of Condolence which accompanied the order for removal was well timed."

"At this Season of the year, all prudent persons residing here have stored their Cellars with fuel, and a variety of articles necessary for Winter consumption, mine are stored away with great care, and who is to reap the benefit? I know not – my House rent must be paid to the first of next May, my Office rent the same, Houses being let here, from May to May and cannot be disposed of, but by the year, – my furniture must be sacrificed, my wine, and everything sold, if I remove, at a heavy loss – but what has a poor Agent to do with a stock of Wine will be the question? true, he cannot afford it – and he ought to give it up, and crack a bottle at his Neighbours fire side, rather than his own, all this I allow yet I am much mistaken if the present arrangement lasts many years for of all Ports in the United States for a Mail Boat to be sent to, that of Annapolis will prove a sinking fund, no possible chance of a single Letter being sent that way, to aid in reimbursing the expenses attendant upon the hired concern from Bermuda – but I have no right to touch upon that subject – the experiment will be fairly tried & stand or fall according to its own merit, . . . being ordered to consult His Excellency – I shall mount and go – tandem – without a Leader. – My Gig will enable me, during a fine leisure day, to take dinner with his Majesty's Minister at Washington, where I have every reason to think I shall be a welcome Guest, and four hours drive will take me back to Annapolis making nothing of ten knots an hour with my gallant Grey. I have heretofore been blest with a buoyancy of Spirit, which has enabled me to struggle with difficulties and make light of them, but I candidly confess that my Spirits droop, and my mind cannot point out one gleam of hope of any thing like comfort in such a dreary spot.

Freeling was shown this letter and in turn passed it to Lord Montagu, the Postmaster General at the end of January 1827, noting that he had assured Moore "that your Lordship would not fail to give a favorable consideration to any Claims he may make, on account of losses sustained by the removal to Annapolis (a similar case having before occurred, when during the Plague at New York he was ordered to abandon his house, and transfer his office to the opposite side of the Hudson) and I trust that in this respect I shall meet with your Lordship's Approbation." Lord Montagu agreed that "Mr. Moore should certainly be indemnified for his expenses and losses by removing to Annapolis."

As the record shows, no one was happy with this arrangement, and objections were received in London from all quarters even before the plan came into effect. Lord Montagu, after reviewing the correspondence, noted: "I am very glad that the Post Office was not consulted and had no concern in changing the Route of the Halifax Packets; as we are thereby exempt from all responsibility on the subject", and directed that the correspondence be passed to the Secretaries of State without comment.

Moore was proven right about the route, for it was a total failure. As a result, after nine months the route was changed with almost no notice to Falmouth-Bermuda-Halifax-Falmouth, with the same Cunard mailboats now carrying the American mails between Halifax and Boston. This meant a second move for Thomas Moore, as he now became the Boston packet agent, a position he held for many years, through the transition to steam packets and the "closed mail" agreement. These will be described in a later vignette. Moore must have been so happy to leave Annapolis for the thriving port of Boston that he made no comment which appears in the official record.

The fabulous CAPEX *87 show is gone. It will be many years before another such major event will take place in Canada. What may be needed is a purely national Canadian show every so often and it seems that a certain group is now considering such a possibility. Of course more about CAPEX will be reported by other writers. Certainly the organizing committee deserves a loud bravo.

Specialists sometimes talk about re-entries and retouches on stamps and these expressions have found their way into most specialized handbooks and catalogues. A term which is not as common as these two is a ‘misplaced entry’. Applied to a steel engraved stamp which has been laid down by a transfer roll method, a misplaced entry may have the appearance of a re-entry, namely showing doubling of certain portions of the design. A misplaced entry however, is usually well removed from the original design.

A misplaced entry may occur when a wrong subject of the transfer roll is used or when the roll is entered at a wrong place — too high, too low or too far left or right.

Another possibility is when another subject of the same value is being used on the roll, because the previously used subject on the roll is not suitable for further transfers. Not all subjects on the roll are exactly in line with each other and when another subject is used, it may require certain adjustments. If these adjustments are not made, a false or misplaced entry can occur.

The German Bundespost has issued some very nice colourful labels for automatic stamp dispensing machines. The picture shows the castle in Charlottenburg, Berlin. Users dial the denomination which is required for a letter and it dispenses these labels with the correct value printed on them. To avoid misreading the imprinted pfenning values have two stars in front of the value and Mark value one star.

The Ontario Centre for Microelectronics has announced the development of a Coloromet analyzer which can analyze colour and shade of material, including postage stamps. It is a handheld pieced equipment with a digital readout of the spectrum. Once more information is available, I'll let readers know. This kind of instrument should be useful to all collectors, but the price may be high.

A definition which is not very clear is what actually is postal history. A brief discussion with the Postal Museum indicates that there may be some differences of opinions of what constitutes this subject. Consulting various dictionaries, it appears that history deals with nations, people and past events. The question one may ask then how do for example postal cancellations or actual stamps fit into this? Hopefully someone will provide a suitable definition for the term postal history which may be used as a guide for postal history researchers, writers and exhibition classifications.

Speaking about postal history, an interesting phase occurred in Germany after World War II. The four allied occupation powers could not reach an agreement for postal services. To preempt the anticipated Soviet military administration plan to introduce a Warungsreform or currency reform which would affect postal matters, the Western Allies responded with their own currency reform and introduced it on 21 June 1948 in the three western sectors. This made it necessary to issue and devise temporary stamp issues reflecting the reform. The move was motivated by political events and the timing of these issues were kept secret for some time. The Eastern Zone responded on 23 June 1948, two days after the West. These historic events led to the overprinting of several stamps and permission to make use of existing stamps at 1/10 of their value lasted just two days. Covers with stamps reflecting the currency reform are not common.

Literature Reviews

This is the first new edition of this part of the Stanley Gibbons catalogue series in over five years. Many new issues (to early 1987) have been added and several improvements to earlier issue listings have been made. Prices have been extensively revised, especially in German Colony issues, but the editors note that the overall market for German stamps has remained fairly static.

Booklet lists have been added for Bavaria, pre-1945 Germany, Danzig, Saar, and the colonies.

The specialized catalogue contains listings of German States, Bavaria to Wurttemberg; Germany 1871-1945; Allied Occupation issues, British, American, French and Russian zones; German Federal Republic (West Germany); West Berlin; German Democratic Republic (East Germany); German occupation and plebiscite issues (Allenstein to Upper Silesia); and German colonies and overseas post offices (Cameroun to Togo).

Throughout the catalogue, stamp designs, varieties and watermarks are adequately illustrated.

A particularly thoughtful part of the catalogue is the use of the year or years of the listings on a page on the upper right corner of each page. This makes it very easy to find the stamp or set one is looking for if the year of issue is known.

Especially for the English-speaking collector of Germany, this catalogue is a welcome edition.

From 'abnormal' to ZIP code, this delightful book defines and illustrates the special language of philately.

Besides defining the terms that relate to stamps and their production, there's considerable emphasis on the language that applies to the postal history side of the hobby—postmarks, routes etc.

This edition by James McKay updates an earlier SG work by Russell Bennett and James Watson and contains much material on modern stamps and their production, eg phosphor papers, doctor blades etc.

Virtually all the terms are illustrated, either in black and white or colour. Unfortunately, the colour illustrations are all contained in a centre section, meaning one must turn to it from elsewhere in the book to find the appropriate illustration. As well, there is no index, making it more difficult to find particular terms though they are carried in alphabetic order. Not unexpectedly, there is a perpendicularly of terms and illustrations based on British stamps, printing methods etc.

Despite this, Philatelic Terms Illustrated is a fine publication, especially helpful to beginner and intermediate collectors. Even an expert would enjoy reading the book for the fine quality illustrations and for the concise definitions.

THE ROYAL PHILATELIC SOCIETY OF CANADA
FINANCIAL STATEMENTS
FOR THE YEAR ENDED
DECEMBER 31st, 1986

Auditor’s Report

To the Members of
The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada

We have examined the balance sheet of The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada as at December 31, 1986 and the statements of members’ equity, income and expense and changes in financial position for the year then ended. Our examination was made in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards, and accordingly included such tests and other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances except as noted in the following two paragraphs.

Fees and commissions received, by their nature, are not susceptible to complete audit verification. Accordingly, our verification of receipts from these sources was limited to a comparison of recorded receipts to bank deposits.

No physical inventory was made and accordingly the value of the inventory (which consists of medals, pins, ties, scarves and decanters) was not susceptible to audit verification.

In our opinion, except for the effect of any adjustments which might have been required had we been able to audit fee and commission income and examine the inventory, these financial statements present fairly the financial position of the Society as at December 31, 1986 and the results of its operations and the changes in its financial position for the year then ended in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

Notes to the Financial Statements

1. Significant Accounting Policies
(a) Inventory is determined and valued at approximate cost from the records as at year end.
(b) Income and expense are accounted for on the accrual basis. Membership fees received in advance are deferred and brought into income in the applicable year.
(c) Office equipment, exhibition stands and shipping cases are recorded at nominal value of $1 each. Additions are expensed in the year acquired.
(d) The computer is recorded at cost and is being depreciated on the straightline method at 10% per annum.
(e) Current assets in foreign currencies are translated into Canadian dollars at the exchange rate prevailing at the balance sheet date. Foreign currency transactions during the year are translated at the rate applicable at the time of the transaction.

2. Trust Funds Re Sales Department
The Society operates a sales department where members can offer stamps for sale to other members. The funds received from the sale of such stamps, net of commissions, are held in trust for owners until the books containing the stamps are retired at which time payments are made. The operation of the sales department is contracted out and the details of the operation are not part of the records of the Society. The net funds received on behalf of the owners, however, are held in bank accounts in the name of the Society. There were balances totalling $65,040 on deposit as at December 31, 1986 ($69,558 December 31, 1985).

3. Net Income from Sales Department
The detail is as follows:
Commissions........................................... $ 11,470 $  7,973
Cost of sales department...........................  6,356  6,400
Net income........................................... $  5,114 $  1,573
LIBRARY AFFAIRS

Available back issues of The Canadian Philatelist from 1974 to date that are currently available to members of the Society are listed in the accompanying chart.

They are priced at $2 per issue with a 10 percent discount for orders of $20 or more. Please add $1 to each order to help cover the ever-increasing cost of postage.

Some other issues, including those for earlier years, are occasionally available as a result of donations of back issues by members. Such donations, especially of issues that are short supply, are always appreciated.

Orders and enquiries should be sent to:

ANTI-THEFT COMMITTEE

It is with a great feeling of sadness that I have to advise all Members of the sudden death of Jim Beal, Chairman of the American Philatelic Society Stamp Theft Committee, on Sunday, July 19. Jim had been at Capex and had told me that he really hadn't been feeling too well and that he was bothered with severe pains in his right leg. I last spoke with him on the 16th of July and he said he felt much better but he found the heat and high humidity very enervating. It was certainly a great shock to receive a call from Danforth Walker, A.P.S. Insurance Plan Manager, the following Thursday informing me that Jim had passed away from an apparent heart attack.

Over the years, as an Officer of our Society, it has been my privilege to work closely with Officers of A.P.S. in establishing programs for the benefit of our Members. I worked with Bud Hennig while I was Chairman of the Judges Accreditation Committee on the R.P.S.C. – A.P.S. Judges Reciprocity Agreement and with Jim Beal on the Anti-Theft Committee. Both men gave generously their time to assist me in getting these two programs started and their advice and guidance was greatly appreciated.
Once the Anti-Theft Committee was established I talked to Jim at least once a week, often if we were working on a case — the record is 10 times in one day when we were chasing Frank Robertson! His knowledge, experience and connections based on many years of dealing with philatelic crime were invaluable and he was never too busy to give me the benefit of his accumulated experience. Jim had experienced philatelic crime personally when he answered a knock at his door one night, found himself looking down a gun barrel and was forced to hand over his very fine collection of Mexican. This was many years ago and to date none of his material has surfaced.

He was a fine person and philately is much poorer for his passing on.

Until such time as the American Philatelic Society appoints a successor the business of the Stamp Theft Committee is being handled by A.P.S. Executive Director Keith Wagner at State College, Pennsylvania. If any of our American Members have a theft problem they are advised to call Keith at (814) 237-3803 with the details.

NOTICE TO ALL ADVERTISERS IN THE CP

SUBJECT: Change of Advertising Manager

Dear Philatelic Advertiser:

After 14 years as Advertising Manager of the Canadian Philatelist, I have decided that is time for a change to instill new blood into this aspect of the RPSC and the CP. I have been pleased to contribute to the CP and the RPSC in this and other ways. I have appreciated the support over the years of all advertisers, including the chapters. The support of the printer, Mr. Henry Janssen has been invaluable and much appreciated, as was the cooperation of the various editors of the CP including Peter Mann, Ron Richards, and our new editor Jim Haskett.

Effective 1 October 1987 Mr. Paul Bureau, P.O. Box 15765, Station "F", Ottawa, Ontario, K2C 3S7 will assume the responsibilities of the Advertising Manager for the RPSC’s Canadian Philatelist starting with the January/February 1988 issue of the CP. All correspondence and advertising data should be sent to Paul for his consideration and action. If you send your ads to me there will be a delay as the ads will have to be forwarded to Paul.

I will be responsible for the September/October 1987 and the November/December 1987 issue.

I have also terminated my association as a Director of the RPSC but I have offered to serve on a new organization to be formed to raise funds for the RPSC. My special attention will now be devoted to the Canadian Aerophilatelic Society (CAS).

I wish all advertisers continued success in their philatelic endeavours.

Yours sincerely,

(R.K. Malott)
