It is now barely six months during which I’ve occupied the position of President of The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada. It took me far less than that to recognize the tremendous job Jim Kraemer did in this office and is now continuing through his Executive Directorship. My thanks go to him and the many Officers and Directors without whom the Society would not be able to function. From time to time I will introduce to you these individuals by describing their positions or asking them to append a few words to this message.

Our greatest asset is our membership. The Manager of this department is Clifford R. Guelle. It is his responsibility to continue increasing our rolls as well as maintain the standards established for members. In comparison with other organizations our numbers are impressive. Yet, it is most important to continue the drive for new members for several reasons: costs of maintaining the Royal in some areas are fixed; large numbers of members would therefore forestall further increases in dues to keep up with rising inflation; larger numbers will offer us an opportunity to maintain a greater variety of services such as insurance at competitive rates, larger numbers will enable us to draw on more people to contribute to The Canadian Philatelist and make our national exhibitions so much more meaningful. Larger membership numbers benefit local clubs in staging new and interesting programs. If each one of us would bring only one new member into the Royal we could accomplish so much more in the fields of research, publications and areas mentioned above. Let us work for it!

The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada is a national organization with membership from coast to coast (and many in other countries). In order to reflect this national character and the bilingual nature of our country, we have retained English- and French-speaking editors. The present incumbents, Messrs Hendrik Burgers and Richard Gratton, are both bilingual. The masthead of our magazine is now reflecting its contents in both official languages of Canada and will continue printing articles in the language received. The day to day editorial management is in the hands of Hendrik Burgers and Maria Krupp, who have improved the magazine to a great extent in the short period spanning only three issues. The Editorial Consultant is Ralph Mitchener.

My thanks go to these four individuals who are contributing so much to the visible “face” of the Royal.

H. Burgers

I recently received a large envelope in the mail containing a glossy brochure extolling the virtues of “The world’s first collection of coins, stamps and banknotes of all nations.” The lucky persons buying this magnificent collection would “acquire and own a truly representative international collection of coins, stamps and banknotes.” The promoters of this nonsense even offered to buy your collection back within a year. Of course, they know full well that very few people who are suckered into purchasing one of these wonderful collections even bother to return them for that refund; those who do, face an uphill battle in any event.

Now I do not want to single out this particular promotion. In fact, it is probably not nearly as shrill and blatant in its attempt to capture a sucker or two; they do not even claim that the collection would be a wonderful investment as some have done. Many of these marketing marvels have so-called Advisory Boards of eminent authorities, intended to lure the prospective customer into believing that these people actually had a role in selecting the merchandise. Still, it is only one of a long line of “magnificent, stupendous, wonderful” collections or investments of coins, stamps, pewter or silver items, or whatever.

The awful truth about all of these things is that none of it is worth even remotely what one pays for it. Much of the marketing is based on P.T. Barnum’s old premise that there is a sucker born every minute (these days, perhaps even more than one, considering the increase in the world’s population). Did you ever try to sell your collection of miniature silver-plated antique cars, or FDCs from the world’s smallest stamp-issuing entities? Unfortunately, there have been people who bought investment quality coin, stamp or collectibles collections and who could ill afford to do so. When they tried to sell the collections back to the promoters, they found that there were certain “fees”; if they tried to sell them to a dealer, or at auction, they would only recoup a fraction of the purchase price. Not exactly what they had hoped for when they “invested” their hard-earned money.

The moral of this story? Don’t be dazzled by the promises of investment, exclusive collections, specially-commissioned art or other marketing tricks from the hustlers; it if sounds too good to be true, you can be sure that it is!

To end this issue’s editorial on an upbeat note: on behalf of all of us at The Canadian Philatelist I would like to wish everyone of our readers a happy holiday season and all our best wishes for the new year.

STAMPS OF THE RAJ

Dear CP:

After a lapse of some 30 years I am once engaged in philately. Recently, I inherited my father’s collection and will be specializing not only in Canadian stamps, but the stamps of pre-independence India and the Indian States.

While my Canadian Collection is in good shape, the India/Indian States Collection is in its infancy. I am aware that the latter have a somewhat limited appeal for most Canadian collectors and I am desirous of knowing if there are any societies in Canada which specialize in India/Indian States stamps. I know that such clubs exist in the U.K.

I would appreciate it if you could give me any help in this regard.

Other than Gibbons, Part 1, I am also having trouble locating any definitive works which deal with the stamps of India/Indian States.

I would appreciate it if you could advise me of anyone I might be able to contact in this regard.

Thank you.

George Wm. Hill

LETTER FROM THE COMPETITION

Sir:

I am a member of the British North America Philatelic Society and I am doing some research on the private stamps or labels issued by various express and courier services in Canada during the various Postal Strikes.

I have all of the issues and varieties listed in the 1983 Catalogue of Strike, Courier and Local Post Issues, edited by Kenny K. Nitsui and I am hopeful that I can supplement it with a Handbook giving more information on the companies and labels.

PERFORATIONS - DEFINITELY

Dear CP:

Last January, your magazine began the publication of a series of articles written by John G. Schmidt, titled “The Definitive Stamps of Canada 1977-1989”.

The publication of the above series was interrupted from your May/June issue and has not appeared since. No reason was given for this interruption and I wonder if there is a possibility that your magazine will continue publishing these articles.

In their November 5th issue, Linn’s Stamp News reports that a new perforation had been discovered on the 45¢ Pronghorn Antelope, 61¢ Timber Wolf and 75¢ Beluga. The new perforation is 13.25 all around. I have found the latter perforation on the Pronghorn and Beluga stamps but not as yet on the 61¢ Timber Wolf. Has anyone found the 61¢ Timber Wolf stamp with a 13 ¼ perforation and if so, when?

Jacques Perron
Montreal

I am especially interested in Companies OTHER than the JUAN DE FUCA DESPATCH SERVICE and the Winnipeg-Pembina issues printed by K. Bileski and used on mail carried between Pembina and Winnipeg, the story of these two companies and their forwarding services have been dealt with at length in various publications.

I would like to know anything about SNOWBIRD EXPRESS which apparently operated in the suburbs of Toronto and also in Kingston, Windsor, and Hamilton.
I enclose a photocopy of the labels that apparently were used on Railway trains during a Postal Strike. Have you any information as to the trains on which these labels were used, and the periods of use?

BRASIL’S BEST STAMP OF THE YEAR (1989)

Philatelists in all areas of Brazil have chosen their country’s best stamp of those issued in 1989. A total of approximately 32 stamps were issued during the year.

In first place was the stamp issued as a miniature sheet on March 23, 1989 to honour Ayrton Senna who won the World Championship, Formula 1, in 1988. Mr. Senna was born in Sao Paulo on March 21, 1960. The stamp designer was Martha Poppe, a Brazilian artist who graduated from the National Museum of Fine Arts and the Museum of Modern Art, both in Rio de Janeiro. The stamp was offset printed by the Brazilian State Mint in a printing of 200,000.

Trailing in second place was a stamp honouring the 20th International Biennial Art show in Sao Paulo followed by another miniature sheet issued for Philexfrance 89, marking the French Revolution’s bicentennial. The latter reproduces the oil painting “Largo da Carioca”, by Nicolas Antoine Taunay, (1755-1850), a French artist who came to Brazil in 1816 to establish a Royal School of the Arts which was later named The Fine Arts Imperial Academy. The original painting belongs to the Fine Arts National Museum in Rio de Janeiro. The stamp designer was, again, Martha Poppe and the quantity issued was 200,000. Date of issue was July 7, 1989.
PHILATELIC LITERATURE COMPETITIONS: GOOD OR BAD?

With philatelic literature competitions being planned for two national philatelic exhibitions next year - ROYALE 99 ROYAL for stamp club show programs and newsletters and for stamp columns in non-philatelic newspapers, and ORAPEX '91 for all other categories - I was interested to read two recent conflicting discussions about the merits of such endeavors.

Randy L. Neil's "Organizing a Philatelic Literature Competition" in the Sept. 1990 number of The American Philatelist bemoaned the fact that there are not enough. He felt that they can enhance the overall output of philatelic writing and can publicly show the wide extent of such writing.

Over the years, philately has had - and still has - an amazing quantity and variety of literature.

Having been literature co-ordinator at CAPEX '87 and having benefitted from invaluable assistance by volunteers both before and during the exhibition, I would quarrel with Neil's contention that literature competitions are very easy to organize. They require a great deal of advance work by show organizers and judges, not to mention the organizational work needed to make the entries available for perusal by show goers. However, even with these problems, I fully endorse his plea that more attention be paid to this aspect of philately.

Michael Laurence devoted part of an editorial in the Sept. 24, 1990 issue of Linn's Stamp News to criticizing these competitions. He referred to the self-selected nature of the candidates - but then aren't those who enter regular stamp exhibitions also self-selected? - and argued that that diminishes the significance of literature awards. If so, would it not do so for other awards? He also argued that literature awards are often determined by the superficial production values of the entries rather than by their inherent merit, due in part to limited time for judging.

He is certainly entitled to his opinions, which no doubt are based on personal observations.

I think he would agree, though, that making entries available to judges before the exhibitions are held - and this is often done - would enable more thorough examination of the material to be made. Indeed, many literature judges may spend more time in assessing entries than other judges do at exhibition frames!

Like them or not, literature competitions - as do competitive stamp displays - offer challenges to their entrants and add to established collectors' and to the general public's appreciation of philately. There will always be "pot hunters" among exhibitors, but there will also always be those who want to improve what they are showing, who want to share their enthusiasm about their interests with others, and who can benefit from the competitions in more than just the medal level sense.

This issue of The Canadian Philatelist seems to have philatelic literature as its chief theme. It also contains guidelines of la Fédération Internationale de Philatélie for literature exhibits, and some thoughts about the content of stamp columns in non-philatelic newspapers. Blame for the theme can be directed at my interest in reading, and writing, about philately.

SCAVENGERS AT WATERLOO

A footnote can be added to Jay Edward's account of the 1815 Battle of Waterloo that appears elsewhere in this issue. In my search for stamps that I could incude in my teeth and dentistry thematic collection, I have finally found one showing the Battle of Waterloo.

Tooth-drawers - sometimes called "resurrectionists" - pulled teeth from corpses after the battle and sold them for use by dentists to replace their patients' original teeth. Resurrectionists also followed battles of the American Civil War and sold the teeth they pulled by the barrel.

The tooth supply from these and other battles may have lessened the demand for teeth from living persons. Such teeth - often from impoverished people - were bought and were then transplanted into other mouths.

These references and all sorts of other tooth trivia are contained in John Woodforde's The Strange Story of False Teeth, first published in 1968 and reprinted in a paperback edition in 1983. Both are out of print, but there may be copies in some public libraries. The main branch of the Ottawa Public Library, for example, has two copies.

The size of the Belgian Waterloo stamp is such that affixing it to an envelope would result in quite a licking — which is what Napoleon received at Waterloo!

CHRISTIE’S SEPT. 13 SALE OF B.N.A. PROOF MATERIAL

Initial apprehension that prices would be low for the 798 listed lots in this sale of the British North America section of the American Bank Note Company (ABNC) archival material was not borne out. Spirited bidding, perhaps spurred by low estimates for many lots, resulted in a total realization of over $4 million in terms of Canadian funds for those lots — 614 plus parts of eight others — that were sold.

Realizations for two lots are indicative of their variance from the pre-sale estimates in the auction catalogue. The production file of Canada’s 1898 map stamp, estimated at from $5,000-$7,500, sold for $60,500 U.S. including the 10 per cent buyer’s premium. The production file of the 1908 Quebec Tercentenary issue, estimated at from $7,500-$10,000, sold for $55,000 U.S. including the premium.

The sale had one glaring omission in terms of what was offered. There were no proofs — not even a single example — of the Canadian 12-pence black. Were they lost or removed or otherwise disposed of in years gone by?

The Canadian Postal Archivews (CPA) seems to have been the chief philatelic gainer at the sale. Over one quarter of the lots — 184 plus parts of eight others — were transferred from the ABNC holdings to the CPA. I, and others, have calculated the value of these lots that were sold — based on Christie’s estimates and on prices realized for those lots that were sold — to be in the vicinity of $1 million Canadian. In addition to the transferred lots, the CPA purchased 42 lots for about $200,000 Canadian (including Christie’s 10 per cent premium on each lot).

The announcement of the transfer was made the day before the sale and resulted in some disgruntled bidders who, after thorough viewing of the lots, found that some lots in which they were interested would either not be sold or had had items removed from them. I’ve been told that at least two thwarted bidders had considered suing because of the withdrawals.

There is mystery surrounding the reason or reasons for the transfer. Was it a free-will offering on the part of the bank note company? Was the material supposed to have been returned to the appropriate governmental authorities at the time the stamps were prepared? Was governmental pressure exerted to effect the transfer? Was a receipt for income tax purposes given to the Bank Note Company in exchange for the material? If so, under what circumstances? Why did the CPA take only parts of some lots and have to buy others?

In an attempt to ensure that philatelists and other interested parties are made aware of the full details about the transfer, I wrote to the CPA on Oct. 16, suggesting that the information be made available by means of a press release. I was told that in order to get information I would have to make an application for it under the provisions of the Access to Information Act.

The application, with a required $5 fee, was given to the National Archives of Canada (NAC) — the parent body of the CPA — on Oct. 23. I was amazed to discover that the $5 cheque cleared my trust company account on the same day. If only the information could be made available almost as fast!

I’ll report in a future note about the value all interested parties receive for my $5. The magnitude of the transfer is such that there should be a clear and full explanation of all circumstances surrounding it. It should not be glossed over. If it is, I am concerned about unwarranted secrecy doing possible damage to the prestige of the CPA.

If it behooves the NAC and its CPA to explain the transfer, it is also incumbent on them to ensure that all the material obtained from the ABNC archives is made available to interested researchers, and that some is displayed, as soon as possible.

To quote an Oct. 9 NAC news release:

“The material contains important Canada and British North America postage and revenue stamp pre-production ‘documents of record’ that had been retained by the American Bank Note Company and its predecessors since 1851 as well as various types of ‘visual’ documents representing some of the finest examples of the artistry, creativity and the craftsmanship that build the American Bank Note Company.

"Many of the newly-acquired pieces contain designer notations, approval signatures and related official commentary, and take on an even greater significance as being some of the very rare surviving British North America/Canada philatelic material from the late 19th and early 20th centuries."

The release goes on to say that "the lots represent a substantial addition to the philatelic collection at the Canadian Postal Archives." Indeed they do! So why don't we have the full story of their acquisition?

GST AND POSTAGE USERS
Will there be a run on one-cent stamps before Jan. 1? The domestic postage rate will go up next year from 39 to 40 cents, with all stamp purchases being subject to the seven per cent federal Goods and Services Tax which seems to be set to be introduced as of Jan. 1.

Persons using stamps in quantity might well purchase foreseeable postage needs prior to Jan. 1 in order to save seven per cent. I expect that there will also be a run on resetting of postage meters before that date.

There should also be a run on mint Canadian stamps that some dealers sell in large lots for 10 or so per cent below face without charging provincial sales tax, at least in Ontario. Next year even stamps sold below face value will be subject to GST, as will mint and used stamps and other philatelic material we add to our collections. So much for bargains!

MORE OOPS TO OOPS!
In my notes in the last issue, under the heading "OOPS!", I mentioned that Dr. Fritz Roett's surname was Roett, not Poett as it had appeared in the July-August issue. A friend of his called to advise me that the name still wasn't correct. His given name is Fitz, not Fritz.

I'll have to blame that typo on the program for ROYAL '90 ROYALE. "Poett" was our fault, "Fritz" wasn't.

MORE ON McSTAMPS
For some reason, philatelic stock of panes of 50 of the October 1 legendary creature stamps with corner marginal inscriptions were in short supply — at least in Ottawa. Many part panes were received at Canada Post philatelic outlets with the top and bottom strips of 10, and the other six right vertical margin copies, removed. Why, I don't know.

McDonald's Restaurants of Canada, official sponsor of the stamps, distributed two "treats of the week" in October. Appearing in both English and French versions, they included folders relating to two of the stamps and had the appropriate two stamps affixed to a card, cancelled with a day of issue "postmark" featuring the McDonald's logo.

Maria Krupp

November and December are traditionally very busy months at the National Office. Most membership dues fall within this time period, so we have to process well over 3,000 membership dues, which entails mailing out the dues notices, collecting the mail, entering the payments, balancing the entries and making the bank deposits. I would ask that members again take note that deposits are not made on a daily basis; therefore, it takes a couple of weeks during this period before cheques clear members’ bank accounts. Since there is only one person at the National Office, namely myself, I would ask that members please be patient, especially during this very busy period.

Orders have started coming in for lapel pins and the new crests that we now have available; however, we can always take more orders!

There are several members who have moved and not registered a change of address with the National Office. This results in the return of journals and other mail to our office and I would like to point out that this becomes quite costly over time. Please take a moment to send us your new address.

In conclusion, I would like to wish all of our members a happy holiday season and best wishes in 1991.

THE STAMP DESIGN

Each country has its own procedure for the designing of stamps. Generally a program or schedule is continually being planned, for the issuing of stamps often several years in advance, at least for commemoratives. When it is decided to honour certain people who have made a significant contribution in one field or another it may be decided to pay tribute to them on the occasion of the centennial of their birth or death, or when a particular event occurred.

There are many reasons why a country desires to issue a stamp or series of stamps. Stamps become a chronicle of a nation’s memorable occasions, an honor roll of its prominent citizens, a listing of its achievements, an historical record of its development, a display in miniature of its arts and crafts, a photographic window of its scenery, cities and monuments, a running commentary of its industrial activities, a collection of its natural wildlife, folklore and recreational pastimes; truly an all-embracing national archives. The religious observances of its people are appropriately remembered by most countries on the approach of such commemorations as Christmas and Easter.

Definitive stamps, on the other hand, portray respect for a country’s monarchy, leaders and centres of national government, while including a host of other subjects as a reminder of its heritage, natural beauty and peculiar fauna.

Many countries have an advisory committee, made up of representatives of artists, philatelists, information agencies and postal authorities, whose duty is to decide what stamps will be created and when they will be issued. Their critical advice is sought at various stages of design and production.

There is an amazing variety of framework, lettering and color accompanying the central theme of stamp designs. The total model of a single stamp involves the skill and imagination of a dedicated team of artists, each lending their particular specialty.

As a rule, a competition is advertised to seek suggestions, drawings, paintings, etc. This was so when the first stamp was being considered in England. Numerous ideas poured into the Treasury in reply to the invitation of August 23, 1839. Even so, the design was that of the inventor of the adhesive pre-paid postage stamp, Rowland Hill, the profile of Queen Victoria. Thus the famous Penny Black was born.

Children have been given the opportunity of submitting drawings for postage stamps by a number of postal authorities.

Canada issued the set of Christmas stamps of 1970 from a competition open to Canadian school children, and in 1979 the Christmas issue included a stamp by a young artist giving her interpretation of the meaning of the International Year of the Child.
Great Britain issued children’s drawings for the Christmas season of 1981.

WORLD YOUTH EXHIBITION IN MONTREAL IN 1992.

Montreal’s Palais des Congrès will be hosting Canada ’92, a World Philatelic Youth Exhibition, from March 25-29, 1992. It will be sponsored by The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada and Canada Post Corporation with the support of the Fédération Québécoise de Philatélie.

The objective of the exhibition is to promote the educational and cultural values of stamps and stamp collecting for youth. Canada ’92 will feature a wide range of activities, including exhibit frames, dealer and postal administration booths, and many other special attractions to be announced over the coming months.

The official logo for Canada ’92 will feature a profile of the host city of Montreal, superimposed on a stylized drawing of a young person... within a stamp border. The logo is meant to represent the joys of philately, the city of Montreal and its look toward the future.

Canada '92 marks only the second time a world-class philatelic exhibition for youth has been held outside Europe. Canada was the first such host in 1982 in Toronto. Such exhibitions are generally held bi-annually: in 1990, the host city was Dusseldorf, Germany, June 20-24.

Because 1992 marks the 350th anniversary of the founding of Montreal, the exhibition has been designated an official event on the city’s calendar for the year-long celebrations. The history of the city of Montreal will serve as a central theme for the exhibition’s promotional and youth-related activities.

It is hoped that many of our junior collectors will not only be able to attend this outstanding world event, but will start preparing for exhibiting. Let’s hope Canada will again have some winners. If you are interested please write to 3025 George St., Duncan, B.C. V9L 2B1 and we will see that you receive entry forms and information as soon as they become available.

“ADOPT” A JUNIOR - A PROJECT TO INVOLVE SENIOR MEMBERS

One of our regular supporters is putting into practice a suggestion he has made. Les Mitchell of Mississauga, Ontario, has “adopted” a junior who wrote to Les thanking him for the Tonga stamps which we have been distributing (there are still some available) to interested juniors. Les writes, “...I have sent her a large number of my surplus stamps, have had her name added to Canada Post mailing list to receive regular information on Canadian issues, and we have been exchanging letters. It is very pleasant to be able to share.” We’re hoping that other R.P.S.C. members would follow suit, and that juniors might also write in and offer themselves for “adoption”. This would be a wonderful way of encouraging support for the younger generation. We, as Royal members, would feel a real sense of satisfaction that we are making good use of those many duplicates serving no other useful purpose. This column will begin to report the number of “adopter/adopteé” match-ups.

JUNIOR WINNER AT ROYAL '90 ROYALE

It is some months since Regina Stamp Club hosted the excellent Royal '90 Royale featuring the R.P.S.C. annual meeting and national exhibition (your writer was out of circulation for three months - hence unable to manage the usual continuity), but we trust it is not too late to make known the winner of the junior entries. Cindy Attrel, age 12 years, won a bronze medal for her exhibit of Girl Guide stamps of the world. Cindy started as a Brownie when she was eight years old and has been a Guide for three years, with 32 badges, and has her all-round cords, an achievement of distinction in Guiding. She obtained her collectors badge in both Brownies and Girl Guides, as she has continued to enjoy her favorite hobby. Cindy lives in Calgary, Alberta. Congratulations to you Cindy, well done!

NEW JUNIOR CLUBS STARTED

Several stamp clubs for juniors have been getting underway across the country, as reported to this writer, while others report on their usual happy progress. A Leaders’ Kit is continuing to be assembled and hopefully will be ready for distribution in a few months. A number of leaders have been sending in ideas by way of contents and activities, others have been requesting such helps. More suggestions are needed so please send along your successful projects for inclusion, and we will be glad to enter your name on the list if you desire a kit. An organized meeting with a good variety of attention-getting items is all-important to keep members attending regularly. It is a common observation that there is usually a large turnover of members from one season to the next. Don’t let this be too much of a concern, it happens in most organizations, especially of the ages 8 to 12 years. Sometimes it is wise to have two groups if you have enough leaders, one made up of the more serious older juniors (usually teenagers), another of the younger members, whose attention span is not too great and many of whom will require repeat demonstrations of the basic techniques of sorting (by type of paper backing), soaking, drying, selection for mounting, use of catalogues, mounting with hinges, etc. Patience is the key word!

A Look Into Naturopathy
– The Complimentary Way

By Asia Kleiman, M.D., N.D. and Jacob Kleiman, Ph.D.

Fig. 1. Hippocrates, considered to be the father of naturopathic medicine, is shown on a stamp released by Greece (Scott #1326) in 1979.

The history of natural healings is perhaps as old as mankind. Hippocrates (Fig. 1) is considered the father of naturopathic medicine. The Hippocratic school treated disease with diet, fasting, herbs, hydrotherapy, exercise, and spinal manipulation, prescribed from a basis of principles of healing that are now used as the foundation of naturopathy. Their most basic principle vis medicatrix naturae, which emphasizes the body’s ability to heal itself if given a chance, is still the central theme of naturopathic philosophy.

Fig. 2. The Fourth National Congress on Homeopathy, one of the important branches of naturopathy, was celebrated on a stamp issued by Brazil in 1952 (Scott #719).

Naturopathy underpins nearly all the therapeutic techniques in alternative medicine. Acupuncture, manipulation, homeopathy, diet, herbalism, all depend on the body’s ability to heal itself if pushed, needled, or coaxed in the right direction. From these origins naturopathic medicine has grown and developed. Naturopathic doctors throughout the world have worked within the context of natural therapies, often specializing in a particular aspect of naturopathy.

Fig. 3. Queen Victoria, a strong believer in homeopathic medicine, depicted on the “Penny Black” that is reproduced on another British stamp issued to publicize the London Philatelic Exhibition in 1970 (Scott #642).

Fig. 4. The celebration of the 80th anniversary of Queen Mother Elizabeth’s birthday (Bermuda, Scott #401).
One of the important branches of naturopathy is homeopathy. Dismissed at first as a passing fancy, it has been actually around for more than 200 years. Homeopathy, literally translated from Greek as "similar suffering", was introduced and popularized in Europe by a rebel German physician Christian F. S. Hahnemann in the late 1700s (W. Germany, Scott #B346. Dr. Hahnemann is depicted also on stamps of Brazil and India, see Figs. 8 and 9 in the text). Homeopathy treats injuries and illnesses with highly diluted extracts from plants and minerals that in stronger doses given to healthy people would produce symptoms similar to those of the illnesses being treated. This principle is very old and comes from the Hippocrates school of teaching. Hippocrates said "like cures like". Samuel Hahnemann combined this with holistic concepts, so that in homoeopathic practice a treatment is chosen only after a prolonged interview dealing with patient's medical, social, and emotional history.

The history of naturopathy, and especially homeopathy, in North America and the rest of the world was developing quite differently. The population of many European, Latin American and Asian countries accept it as a matter of course. Latin American countries like Brazil had developed a wide network of homeopathic clinics and had held national congresses regularly (Fig. 2). In Britain there are a number of homeopathic hospitals throughout the country. The British Royal family believes strongly in homeopathy and has done so since the reign of Queen Victoria (Fig. 3). The good health and longevity (Fig. 4) of the members of the Royal family is undoubtedly related to the fact that there always had been a homeopathic physician for the Royal family. Queen Elizabeth (Fig. 5), who has had only two weeks off for illness in her 30-year reign, takes with her a little box with homeopathic remedies everywhere she goes. Like his mother, Prince Charles (Fig. 6) is a believer in homeopathic medicine. His belief is so strong that he even took the unusual step of departing from the royal family's policy of avoiding controversy when, at the 150th anniversary dinner of the British Medical Association a few years ago, he said: "It is frightening how dependent on drugs we are all becoming and how easy it is for doctors to prescribe them as the universal panacea for our ills".

In the U.S. homeopathy was very popular at the turn of the century including among its followers such prominent people as Mark Twain (Fig. 7), John D. Rockefeller, and Harriet Beecher Stowe. However, following the Industrial Revolution and the establishment of the American Medical Association the role of homeopathy diminished and only in recent years it had shown signs of comeback. A vast amount of literature is written on different aspects of homeopathy and national and international conferences on homeopathy are held regularly in the world. Thus, the First International Homeopathic Congress was held in 1954 and was honored by a stamp issued in Brazil the same year (Fig. 8).

In 1977 the 32nd International Congress on Homeopathic Medicine, held in New Delhi, India was the theme of a stamp issued by the host country (Fig. 9). The fact that in 23 years so many international congresses on homeopathy took place stresses, indeed, the popularity and the importance of this field of naturopathy.

Another important branch of naturopathy is acupuncture, an ancient Chinese method of relieving pain and treating disease by inserting needles into various parts of the body. Developed in ancient China it is used now widely all over the world. Thus, modern Chinese surgeons use acupuncture as an anaesthetic in surgeries (Fig. 10). Acupuncture is used to relieve pain and to treat various conditions (Fig. 11), including asthma, ulcers, and mental... illnesses. Scientists believe that acupuncture works, at least partly, by increasing the brain's production of endorphins, chemicals that influence the body's awareness of pain. Acupuncture is used now in many countries of the Far East, Southeast Asia, Europe, and America.

International symposiums are held in different parts of the world on acupuncture and associated with it treatments (Fig. 12).

Diet constitutes another important aspect of naturopathic medicine. A balanced diet consisting of a right mix of meat, fish and nuts, that represent "protein foods" (Fig. 13); carbohydrates, called "energy foods" (Fig. 14); and different fruits and vegetables, representing the "protective foods" (Fig. 15); is an essential part in treatments of many body disorders in naturopathy.

Herbal medicine is also an integral part of naturopathy. A herb may be used to stimulate the body to action, aid in elimination, help purge the body of toxic waste, or act as a nutrient. Medicinal herbs in many parts of the world have long played a major role in contributing both to individual health and to world development of medicine and pharmacology. Thus, Dr. Hahnemann praised very high the chinchona bark. The quote on the Indian stamp shown in Figure 9 says: "Chinchona bark was to Hahnemann what the falling apple was to Newton and the swinging lamp to Galileo".

Chinchona is a group of valuable South American trees and shrubs, now grown also in Asia and parts of Africa. They are evergreens with flowers that are usually fragrant (Fig. 16). Chinchona bark (also shown in Fig. 16) is used to make the drugs quinine and cinchona to treat malaria.

More than 5,000 kinds of medicinal herbs have been identified during the many centuries of human civilization. Thus, for instance, the Chinese have used ginseng for over 5,000 years. They composed the name "ginseng" from two words meaning "man-plant" because very often the roots resemble the shape of a man, sometimes in detail (Fig. 17). It was given the botanical name Panax, which means "all-healing" and is related to the word "panacea".

Naturopathy involves the use of natural therapies according to certain established principles. This is where naturopathy as a science is distinguished from folk medicine or any other "natural" therapy. While the techniques described above may be employed by the naturopath, they must be used according to the basic principles of naturopathy for the end result to be naturopathic medicine. Thus, for example, when a herb is used in a way described above, it works with the healing power of nature. It may, however, be used to suppress the body’s healing efforts, just as drugs might be used, to rid the body of its distressing symptoms with little thought for real causes or cure. In such a case the herb is not used according to naturopathic principles.

More and more people turn to naturopathic doctors for help. In North America there are three major colleges offering full time programs in naturopathy. One of the colleges is located in Toronto. In France, for instance, 20% of the population is regularly treated with homeopathy.

Naturopathy and conventional medicine represent two complimentary ways to treatment of patients and as such are going to enjoy an increasingly reciprocal relationship in the years to come. This is already evident in the growth of mutual respect and cooperation between the professions in recent years.

Napoleon I, who had been exiled to the Island of Elba in 1814, escaped and returned to France in 1815, 10 months after he was exiled. He immediately reassembled his army of about 1000 faithful soldiers. Marshal Michel Ney who had initially been entrusted with Napoleon's arrest by the King of France, assisted him. Napoleon marched into Paris 20 days after his escape, where he received a tumultuous welcome. Within 3 months he gathered a new army to meet the Duke of Wellington, Commander of the English army. Scottish units combined with a Belgium-Netherlands division were under the command of Prince William of Orange and General Chassé. The Prussian army was under Marshal Blücher.

The first battle took place on June 16 and 17, 1815 at Quatré-Bras and Ligny. On June 18 the Anglo-allied armies, consisting of 67,000 men and 184 guns, took up positions on Mont Saint-Jean. Three buildings had been fortified: the Hougoumont Manor, the Haye Sainte farm and the Papelotte farm. In front of them, on the plateau of La Belle Alliance, stood 74,000 French soldiers with 246 guns. The presence of so many soldiers in a limited area prevented an optimum deployment of troops. In addition there had been heavy rains and a severe thunderstorm a few days previous. The mud and wet ground hampered the advance of the artillery and the cavalry.

The battle began about 11:30 with a French attack on Hougoumont which was taken and lost time after time throughout the day. It was eventually destroyed by fire. At 13:30 hours Ney attacked the English centre with French cavalry, (the Haye Sainte farm), but failed to break through. The Prussian army under Bülow suddenly emerged from a wood and joined the battle. The French cavalry under Marshal Ney attacked, repeatedly shouting "Vive l'Empereur", but in vain. One hour later Ney captured the Haye Sainte farm with regiments of the National Guard. At this time Blücher's Prussian army of 60,000 joined the fight. The Allied forces began a general offensive and the French forces retreated in panic. Ney attempted to rally his forces for a last assault but it was useless. Wellington and Blücher met at 21:30 hours and congratulated each other on a great victory. The Napoleonic wars were over. More than 50,000 men died on the battlefield, among them Wellington's aide-de-camp, Colonel Gordon. Among the wounded was William of Orange.

Marshall Ney was arrested in France and accused of high treason. He was sentenced to death and executed under his own command on December 7, 1815 at the carrefour de l'Observatoire de Paris.

Today about 300,000 tourists visit Waterloo and its monuments. The stamp depicts Marshal Ney leading the French cavalry. Behind him stands his aide-de-camp Colonel Heymessen. In the background, the Emperor Napoleon rides a white horse. The stamp, designed by Jacques Deppée, was printed by rotogravure in sheets of 6 values with a total printing of 1,800,000 stamps.

Vignettes of Early British North American Postal History

by J.C. Arnell, F.R.P.S.C.

Part XV - The Illegal Carriage of Letters

The British Post Office always maintained that it alone had the right to carry the Mails, and this was embodied in the Post Office Acts, of which the following extract from 1 Vict. cap. 33 (12 July 1837) is an example:

wheresoever within the United Kingdom and other Her Majesty’s Dominion Posts or Post Communications are now or may be hereafter established, the Postmaster General, by himself or by his Deputies and their respective Servants and Agents, shall have the exclusive Privilege of conveying from one Place to another all Letters, except in the following Cases, and shall also have the exclusive Privilege of performing all the incidental Services of receiving, collecting, sending, despatching, and delivering all Letters, except in the following Cases; ...

The exception ranged from letters carried by a friend, by messengers on private business, from merchants relating to shipments, and the like.

And the following Persons are expressly forbidden to carry a Letter, or to receive or collect or deliver a Letter, although they shall not receive Hire or Reward for the same; (that is to say,)

Common known Carriers, their Servants or Agents, except a Letter concerning Goods in their Carts or Waggons or on their Pack Horses, and Owners, Drivers, or Guards of Stage Coaches.

The Owners of, or Sailors, Watermen, or others on board a Ship, Vessel, Steam Boat, or other Boat or Barge passing or repassing on a River or navigable Canal within the United Kingdom or other Her Majesty’s Dominions.

Notwithstanding this prohibition, the number of transatlantic letters from the mid-19th century that were carried privately is an indication of the degree to which it was ignored, undoubtedly because of the high postage rates. There is much evidence that the merchants in London and other inland cities regularly sent bundles of letters out of the post to forwarding agents at Liverpool to connect with American sailing packets for New York, where they were entered as ship letters, thus saving several shillings on each letter. Similarly, their Canadian counterparts sent many letters by trading vessels from Quebec or Montreal. Examples of these are shown in Figures 1 and 2.

Figure 3. Letter from Montreal dated 20 January 1842. Carried privately on the Britannia, which arrived at Liverpool on 14 February, where it was backstamped with a double oval “AMERICA/L” and rated 1/-Stg. postage due as a packet letter.

With the coming of steam and the large increase in correspondence, the practice appears to have escalated. In January 1843, Thomas Stayner, deputy postmaster general for the Canadas, noted in a letter to the G.P.O., London that, notwithstanding the very considerable number of letters thus sent thro’ the Mail - I am persuaded that an equal number at least (notwithstanding the present low rate of postage) is sent clandestinely by passengers via Boston and New York to Liverpool - more especially from the Cities of Montreal, Kingston and Toronto. It is well known that Travellers by that Route carry Portmanteaux filled with letters. I understand that many of the largest Mercantile Establishments send all their letters in this way. How the letters escape discovery and seizure at Liverpool and London I cannot tell.

When this was referred to William Banning, the Liverpool postmaster, he replied in March:

I have made particular inquiries here on this subject, and if Mr. Stayner means that the Letters are brought by Passengers in the Mail Steam Packets from Boston to this Port, I feel convinced that he has been misinformed.

Every possible care is taken to prevent any such illegal conveyance of Letters, a Notice is put up in each Cabin informing Passengers that they are liable to penalties if they convey any letters, and requiring them to delivery such Letters to the Admiralty Officer in charge of the Mail, who has a Bag for their reception; which he delivers to this Office on arrival and its contents vary from 300 to 600 Letters each Trip, which Letters are treated as if posted in the United States: the Officers are of opinion that they get all Letters from Passengers except a few Letters of Introduction.

As to Letters being concealed in Portmanteaus and other Luggage, the arrangements of the Customs Department here effectually prevent that. All Passengers Baggage & Packages pass under the examination of the Landing Waiters at the Custom House Depot, and a Clerk belonging to the Agents always attends this examination. I have questioned him and he states that he has never known any instance of any Letters being found except 2 or 3 Letters of Introduction which were unsealed ...

It is possible notwithstanding all this care, that a Passenger might conceal a few Letters about his Person, but I do not think this is done to any extent. If Letters were brought illegally to any extent, we should have no doubt find them dropt into the General Receiver of my Office, as it is not probable that passengers could delivery them all at their various destinations; not the attention of my Clerks has always been directed to detect this, but there have only been two instances of such Letters being found in the Receiver since the commencement of the Packets, in the one case 8 Letters, in the other 20, for Bye Towns were found, which were taxed & treated as Packet Letters.

When the Custom House was queried about this, there was an equally negative reply. It was stated that "the Luggage and Portmanteaus of Passengers landed from the Boston & Halifax Steam packets, are always opened & strictly examined, and any Letters found therein, ... are invariably sent to the Post Office." It was doubted that any considerable number of letters could have escaped detection.

After receipt of these negative replies, Col. Maberly, secretary of the post office commented to the postmaster general "that Mr. Stayner's suspicions as to the extent to which the illegal conveyance of Letters from the Canadas is carried on must be unfounded."

While I have not collected "private" transatlantic letters as such, I have nevertheless accumulated quite a few, including a number from the age of steam. Among these, there is only one which I am reasonably certain was intercepted at Liverpool and charged as a packet letter. This is shown in Figure 3. Others were quite clearly mailed at the post office after arrival, such as the one mailed at Queenstown in Figure 4.

ORAPEX '91 WILL CELEBRATE THE 100th ANNIVERSARY OF THE OTTAWA
PHILATELIC SOCIETY

ORAPEX '91 will be a special show for the Ottawa and Canadian philatelic community. In 1991, Ottawa's National Stamp Show will be commemorating the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Ottawa Philatelic Society (OPS). It is not many clubs in North America that can boast such a centennial record.

The OPS was founded by John Reginald Hooper in 1891 under the French name of Société Philatélique d'Ottawa. It is not known why Mr. Hooper chose to use the French version of the Club's present name or when the club started using the English version. Mr.
Hooper himself, however, is well known as a collector, philatelic writer and founder of the forerunner to The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada (R.P.S.C.)

To honour this event the organizing committee of ORAPEX '91 has announced its intention to hold a three-day show instead of the usual Saturday and Sunday event of previous years. It will open at noon on Friday, May 3 and run until 4 p.m. Sunday, May 5, 1991.

As well, ORAPEX '91 will feature a national philatelic literature exhibition.

Former members of the OPS are invited to join in the celebrations. The OPS is hoping to have a huge turnout at its 100th anniversary banquet to be held on Saturday, May 4, 1991 which will also feature the ORAPEX '91 awards ceremony. The OPS is trying to locate all living former presidents. It is the hope of the present executive that these individuals will be able to add information to help complete the History of the OPS, which is presently being written, and that they will be able to attend the banquet. They should contact Al Racicot, President of the OPS at the address below.

ORAPEX is a nationally-accredited R.P.S.C. exhibition and bourse. This will be the 30th annual R.A. Stamp Club sponsored show and the 3rd annual national show to be held since R.P.S.C. accreditation was received.
It will once again be held in Ottawa at the Ray Kinsella Arena of the R.A. Centre. ORAPEX '91 will feature all the traditional events of past shows. There will be an auction, some 10 Study Groups and Societies will meet (including the P.H.S.C., B.N.A.P.S. and the Klussendorf Study Group), Canada Post will be in attendance, and a show card and souvenir cover with special cancellation will be available.

Enquiries are invited from dealers who wish to rent space in the bourse, from collectors who wish to exhibit and from writers, publishers and editors who wish to enter the national philatelic literature exhibition.

Additional information, prospecti and dealer applications are available by writing to the President, Organizing Committee, ORAPEX '91, P.O. Box 2788, Postal Station ‘D’, Ottawa, Ontario, K1P 5W8 or the R.A. Stamp Club (ORAPEX '91), c/o R.A. Centre, 2451 Riverside Drive, Ottawa, Ontario K1H 7X7.

Additional information concerning the 100th anniversary celebrations of the OPS as well as the Centennial banquet can be had by writing to the Ottawa Philatelic Society, P.O. Box 2899, Station ‘C’, Ottawa, Ontario K1Y 4M5 or at the addresses above.

Insurance Notes

Paul Smith

A question that is raised by many members when considering insurance under this program is: "Why would I bother when I have coverage under my home insurance policy?"

Yes, there is coverage provided under your home insurance policy, but this coverage is minimal at best. A standard home insurance policy covers for up to $500 minimum, any one claim and is subject to the deductible. The coverage provided under your homeowner's policy is limited and does not respond for your stamp collection in transit or at exhibition.

Under a home insurance policy, the stamp coverage can be increased in value but most insuring companies will request individual appraisals and the cost of the insurance coverage is 90c per $100 of value.

By comparison, the R.P.S.C. stamp insurance program provides you with the broadest protection offered. The coverage can be instituted with ease. There are no appraisals required except for stamps which are over $2,500 each in value or a collection which is over $75,000 in total value. There are no limitations in the coverage due to security except for those collections over $100,000 in value. The program coverage is uniform whether your collection is in transit within North America or on exhibition.

The program rate, 55c per $100 value, means an average collector can acquire superior coverage at a reasonable price.

By this time you should have received from me the mailing which was addressed to you, outlining the insurance program along with an application and a copy of the program wordings. As in all specially worded programs there can appear items which need clarification or correction. I am pleased to say that a handful of Royal members have taken a moment of their time to point these items out. I thank you for your assistance.

The following are points which the membership should be aware, have been corrected in their wording. Clause 11(c) Basis of Settlements, the value noted of $500 is incorrect and should read $2,500. Clause 11(c) 2 Canadian stamps has been adjusted to read: "The greater of 100% of value as shown in The Canadian Specialized Catalogue or market value."

Clause 7 Exclusions (e) is amended to read loss or damage by theft from any unattended automobile unless in the custody of railway express or air express, armored car companies or while being shipped by registered mail, security mail, priority post, insured parcel post or an unattended vehicle owned and/or operated by the insured which is locked and signs of forcible entry are visible. The last item of confusion appears to be within Clause 12. Please note that the minimum premium for each members memorandum is $10 as noted in Clause 12(d).

The Clause 12(a) refers to the whole stamp program.

Any enquiries, comments or criticisms will be gratefully accepted. Please feel free to call or write me at:

Many philatelic publications have reported about the lots which have been acquired by the Canadian Postal Archives from the Christie's auction sale of material from the American Bank Note Company's archives. A total of 234 lots rest now in the Canadian Postal Archives and these are being carefully catalogued. This is obviously a one time major addition. Thanks to the effort by Cimon Morin and others, these valuable lots will make much so far unknown information available to collectors. Researchers will have a most interesting time viewing these lots and reporting on their finds. It is hoped that lots which did not go to the Archives and which were obtained by other collectors and dealers will not vanish without information about them being recorded for future reference. Many valuable research collections have been taken apart without such information ever reaching the literature.

One would think that not much is happening in the manufacture of stamps but when discussing this with people who are familiar with printing processes, major changes are being planned in the preparation and production of stamps. The steel engraved stamps are almost out due to the high cost of production. Laser scan method for the laying down of the plate for printing is one system to be used.

Self-adhesive gum will be used in more and more issues and with it the type of packaging will be altered. Already a taste of this has been seen in a few Canadian and some USA stamps. With it the perforation of stamps will disappear and the stamps will be mounted on a peelable backing and will be imperforate. The materials which will be used for printing stamps on will change and plastics are being considered as well as metallic films. Holography is another feature which has already been tried once in Canada. The dispensing systems will make use of much more automation and ideas such as the banks use for dispensing dialed money bills will be tried for stamps, like a teller machine. There is no question that many new innovations will appear but whether collectors will be informed about all these details ahead of time is doubtful. Fortunately we have a few good watchdogs such as Beaudet, Singer, Siemens, Gronbeck-Jones and they will let us know what is going on.

* * *

Once again, Irving Singer comes up with some new and interesting items. The 39c coil has a constant plate variety with a short plate scratch just below the ST of Postes. This variety can be found on each of three positions in coil number 10, namely positions 5, 17 and 29. Another find is the existence of partly perforated stamps in the rolls. Viewing a roll in the stick the bottom of stamps starting with position number 4 show extensive incomplete perforations up to position number 9 or 10. The start of these rolls and the continuation of positions after 10 show perfect perforations. The reason for this phenomenon is not clear at this time.

DID CANADA POST SELL OUT TO McCaDONALD’S?

US consumer advocate Ralph Nader recently wrote a letter to Canada Post Corporation Chairman Sylvain Cloutier accusing the Post Office of selling out the nation’s integrity to a hamburger chain: “It is a sad commentary on your imagination if this is the only way you could think of to lure youngsters into stamp collecting,” says Mr. Nader.

Deborah Sauzier, a spokesperson for Canada Post Corporation stated that “without McDonald’s, we never would have been able to reach that many children and expose them to philately.” She added that the corporation would like to have all commemorative stamps sponsored eventually.

McDonald’s paid Canada Post $250,000 for the right to have its corporate logo printed on the stamp selvage.

This was the gist of a Southam News story that appeared recently in the Ottawa Citizen and other major newspapers across the country. Aside from the fact that Mr. Nader would be well advised to confine his activities to his home turf, his comment, as quoted, reveals that he certainly does not understand the difference between an honest promotional effort and an advertising campaign or sales tactics designed to mislead or dupe the consumer.

Your correspondent attended the Ottawa launch of this stamp issue and was impressed by the trouble that Canada Post and McDonald’s had gone to in order to ensure that the children present would enjoy the event. My impression was that those kids enjoyed themselves tremendously and, at the same time, learned a little about Canadian folklore and stamp collecting. They were certainly most enthusiastic. If efforts such as these encourage more youngsters to take up stamp collecting, then the hobby, Canada Post and the stamp dealers will all gain. I disagree strongly with Mr. Nader’s suggestion that youngsters were “lured” into anything. Neither, for that matter, were their parents. And what about all those stamps and stamp booklets from Great Britain, France and many other countries that have advertised margarine, soap powder and coffee grinders in their margins for decades? Methinks, the gentleman doth protest too much.

(By the way, “Batavius” does not work for McDonald’s or the CPC!)

One of the most important adjuncts to a stamp collector’s activity is a book or books on the subject which he is collecting. Such books, while usually expensive, can save many times their cost by enabling the collector to find a rare variety at a modest price. In addition to the works on BNA philately published by the Vincent Graves Greene Philatelic Research Foundation, an important source of philatelic literature are the books published by the Royal Philatelic Society, London at 41 Devonshire Place, London WIN 1P3, England. Their current list of publications contains two books of use to any collector in the field: The First Decimal Issue of Canada 1859-68 and The Five Cent Beaver Stamp of Canada, both by Geoffrey Whitworth and published at £6 and £7.50 plus postage and packing. Their latest publication is a book in English and French with 200 pages entitled “France: The ‘Merson’ Type” by Dr. Jean Storch and Robert Francon available at £38.50 including postage and packing.

Cool Stamps

To remove postage stamps from an envelope, slip them into the freezer. When frozen, gently pry off the stamps.

This also works when stamps get stuck together.

Guidelines for the Exhibiting of Philatelic Literature at FIP Exhibitions

Introduction

These guidelines are intended as a checklist which is detailed enough to be of service for specialized literature exhibitions as well as for general philatelic exhibitions in which literature is only one of several classes.

General Principles

While the majority of the principles in exhibiting philatelic literature is identical to those which apply to other philatelic classes as well, there are certain distinct differences.

In the first place, the significance and importance of a piece of literature cannot be seen from the outside. Literature must be judged by its content, and obviously the judges have to be familiar with that content before the start of the exhibition. While the three to five days available for judging will allow time for review and some reading, it in no way suffices for each judge to read each entry thoroughly.

Second, literature exhibits cannot be taken apart and improved from one show to the next. In many cases, the exhibit represents a lifetime of research and effort which will service philately for years to come. For this reason, the exhibiting of philatelic literature must be looked at primarily as a means of encouraging and promoting such literary efforts, and only secondarily as a competition for various levels of awards.

Third, it follows that the public must be able to examine the literature. A glance at a row of books in a locked case gives little information, and is a disservice to the viewer and the exhibitor. It is the content that is of interest, not the covers.

The FIP has developed a comprehensive set of regulations for evaluating philatelic exhibits, incorporating those FIP principles common to all competitive classes. For philatelic literature, these principles are expressed in the Special Regulations for the Evaluation of Philatelic Literature Exhibits at FIP Exhibitions. They are supplemented by provisions which recognize aspects of philatelic literature which are Directives pour l'évaluation de la littérature philatélique aux expositions de la F.I.P.

Principes Généraux

Bien que la majorité des principes pour l'évaluation de la littérature philatélique soit identique à ceux qui s'appliquent aux autres catégories philatéliques, il y a quelques différences.

Tout d'abord, la signification et l'importance d'une œuvre de littérature ne peut pas être jugée de l'extérieur. La littérature doit être jugée pour son contenu et, évidemment, les juges doivent être familiarisées avec celui-ci avant le début de l'exposition. Si les trois à cinq jours liés pour le jugement permettent de recevoir et de lire, ce délai est insuffisant pour que les juges puissent lire tous les ouvrages.

Deuxièmement, les œuvres littéraires exposées ne peuvent pas être mises à jour et améliorées, d'une exposition à l'autre. Dans la plupart des cas, chacune de ces œuvres représente toute une vie d'efforts et de recherches, qui serviront la philatélie pour les années à venir.

Pour cette raison, l'exposition de la littérature philatélique doit avant tout être considérée comme une sorte d'encouragement et de promotion de tels littéraires, et seulement ensuite comme compétition pour les différents jugements rendus.

Troisièmement, le public doit pouvoir examiner la littérature. Un aperçu de toute une rangée de livres sous vitrine fermée ne donne que peu d'information et est sans intérêt pour le visiteur et l'exposant. C'est le contenu qui est intéressant, pas les couvertures.

La FIP a développé un ensemble de règles pour l'évaluation des œuvres philatéliques exposées, ces règles FIP étant valables pour toutes les catégories de concours. Pour la littérature philatélique, ces règles sont énumérées dans les Règlements Spéciaux pour l'Evaluation de la Littérature Philatélique aux Expositions de la FIP. Elles ont été complétées par des dispositions qui reconnaissent les aspects spécifiques de la littérature philatélique, les Règles Supplémentaires pour la Classe Littérature aux Exhibitions de la FIP. Ces deux documents, pris unique to this class, the Supplementary Rules for the Philatelic Literature class in FIP Exhibitions. The two documents, taken as a whole, constitute the requirements for exhibiting and judging philatelic literature at FIP exhibitions.

Use of the Evaluation System

STOCKHOLMIA '86 introduced the "point system" of the FIP General Regulations for the Evaluation of Competitive Exhibits (GREV) and the various Special Regulations (SREV), on a voluntary basis. The experience at STOCKHOLMIA has shown that the use of such a system, together with appropriate "scoring sheets", can be helpful in reaching balanced and rational evaluations. However, it must be emphasized that such a system cannot be applied mechanically; the final point totals also must be looked at in terms of the overall quality of the exhibits.

It may be helpful at this point to give some concrete examples of the use of the scoring system. These examples are not taken from actual jury results; they are, however, representative of the evaluations reached during jury deliberations.

(1) The Postal History of the Forwarding Agents, by Ken Rowe, published 1984 by L. Hartmann:

- Treatment of contents (maximum 40) 38
  Very clear presentation of a difficult, world-wide subject; the book is easy to use, and reliable.
- Originality, significance and depth of research (maximum 40) 37
  Particularly high marks for originality; Rowe was the first to systematically treat this aspect of post history (in 1966 and again in 1974), inspiring other scholars to do similar research. The subject matter is also of considerable significance. Quite thorough, considering the worldwide scope - but Dromberg's recent work on Finnish forwarders lists many important agents not covered by Rowe.
- Technical matters (maximum 15) 13
  A few problems with cross-indexing, and with placing of notes.
- Presentation (maximum 5) 4

Application du Système d'Évaluation

STOCKHOLMIA '86 a établi le «système de points» des Règlement Généraux de la FIP pour l’Evaluation des Participations en Compétition aux Expositions de la FIP (GREV) et les Règlements Spéciaux pour chaque classe (SREV) sur une base bien déterminée. L'expérience de STOCKHOLMIA a montré que l'utilisation d'un tel système, ainsi que celle de feuilles d'annotation appropriées, peuvent être utiles pour obtenir des évaluations équilibrées et rationnelles.

Cependant, il faut souligner qu'un tel système ne peut pas être utilisé mécaniquement; le nombre total des points doit être considéré comme la qualité moyenne des œuvres exposées.

A ce sujet, il peut être utile de donner quelques exemples concrets de l'utilisation du système de points. Ces exemples ne sont pas pris sur les résultats réels d'un jury, ils sont cependant représentatifs des évaluations déterminées durant les délibérations du jury.

(1) The Postal History of the Forwarding Agents, par Kenneth Rowe, publié en 1984 par L. Hartmann:

- Analyse du contenu (max. 40) 38
  Présentation très claire d'un sujet mondial difficile; le livre est facile à utiliser et bien documenté.
- Originalité, signification et profondeur de la recherche (max. 40) 37
  Particulièrement original; Rowe a été le premier à traiter systématiquement cet aspect de l'histoire de la poste (en 1966 puis à nouveau en 1974), inspirant d'autres chercheurs à faire une démarque similaire. Le sujet exposé a également une importance considérable. Tout à fait complet, considérant le monde entier - toutefois, le récent travail de Dromberg sur les expéditeurs finlandais énumère plusieurs agents importants non cités par Rowe.
- Problèmes techniques (max. 15) 13
  Quelques problèmes avec l'index et la place des annotations.

- Treatment of contents (maximum 40) 34
  Generally well written and edited, with good use of illustrations and tables. Most articles are in several languages, or at least have multi-lingual summaries. Not all articles are at the same level of clarity and technical soundness.

- Originality, significance and depth of research (maximum 40) 32
  This journal is a critical source for Estonian philately, and contains much original material. This particular issue has several articles reprinted from other sources; also, not all of the material is philatelic (some numismatics, some errinophil items). A single journal issue of course does not have the depth of the recent Handbook of Estonian Philately, although it must be remembered that much of the material in the handbook was originally developed within the pages of the journal.

- Technical matters (maximum 15) 14
- Presentation (maximum 5) 4
  Occasional weakness in offset reproduction, affecting the legibility of illustrated covers and documents

Please note that the comments above are meant to suggest the mental process used in reaching a "numerical" evaluation. Two aspects of that thought process are worth stressing. First, judges should look first for the positive aspects of the exhibits, rather than merely looking to see "how many points can I take off." Second, all evaluations have to be made on a comparative basis — what else has been published on that subject, how well are similar matters handled in other publications, even such questions as how significant a given publication may be for one country or language group as compared with others. These comparative factors can change from one year or one exhibition to another, and it's conceivable

  Ce journal est une source critique de la philatélie d'Estonie et son contenu très original. Cette édition spéciale comprend plusieurs articles provenant d'autres sources; de plus, tout le contenu n'est pas relatif à la philatélie (quelques articles numismatiques et "erinophilétiques"). Une publication unique n'a bien entendu pas la profondeur du récent manuel Handbook of Estonian Philately, il faut toutefois rappeler que la plupart des articles du manuel ont été, au départ, développés dans le journal

Notez que les remarques ci-dessus sont données pour suggérer le processus utilisé pour arriver à une évaluation chiffrée. Deux aspects de ce processus pensé valent la peine d'être soulignés. Tout d'abord, les juges doivent regarder les aspects positifs des articles exposés au lieu de se demander «combien de points puis-je enlever?». Deuxièmement, toutes les évaluations doivent être faites par comparaison: qu'y-a-t-il eu de publié sur ce sujet? Comment ont été traités les sujets similaires dans d'autres publications? Quelle est l'importance réelle...

(PENNY) BLACK DAY AT VICTORIA
VICPEX '90, an annual autumn stamp exhibition sponsored by the Vancouver Island and Greater Victoria Philatelic Societies, was held in Victoria, British Columbia on October 6 & 7, 1990. This year there were over 600 competitive and non-competitive pages on display. Included were several junior entries reflecting a successful club-sponsored programme geared to their interests. A total of 16 dealers formed a well-organized bourse.

A “first” for VICPEX was the introduction of a Court of Honour comprising two award-winning displays. One was an outstanding local presentation featuring the Postal History of Vancouver Island and British Columbia. The other, a significant presentation of the Postal History of Western Australia, was sent especially for the occasion from “down under”.

VICPEX '90 was exceptional in that it featured two outstanding and timely exhibits of the Penny Black. Issued in 1840 the Penny Black, the world’s first postage stamp, celebrates its 150 anniversary this year.

It is interesting to note that one of the Penny Black exhibits was from Canada while the other hailed from the United States.

An informative slide presentation by guest speaker Ken Johnson, of the Canadian Postal Archives in Ottawa, was well attended. Mr. Johnson outlined the functions and operation of the Archives and detailed some of the more recent acquisitions.

Drawing considerable attention was a display of postal artifacts, including old cancelling devices, postal scales and letter-carriers’ caps and badges.

A topical show to be held on February 2 & 3, 1991 will be the next stamp exhibition sponsored by the Vancouver Island and Greater Victoria Philatelic Societies.

DORVAL — YOUR ROYALE 1991 ROYAL HOST

The venue for the RSPC 1991 Show will be the Sarto Desnoyers Community Centre, at 1335 Lakeshore Drive, in the city of Dorval, over the weekend of April 5-6-7.

Dorval is one of the 29 municipalities which make up the Montreal Urban Community ... the second largest city in Canada. The city of Dorval, having a population of 17,000 within an area of almost 21 km², lies on the south shore of the Ile de Montréal. The island, situated at the confluence of the St. Lawrence and Ottawa Rivers, is 48 km long and 12 to 16 km wide: its most conspicuous feature being Mont Royal.

A brief history: On his visit to our shores in 1535, Jacques Cartier discovered a mighty river which he named the St. Lawrence. He sailed up it for 1,600 km until rapids (at Lachine) impeded further navigation. Before turning back he visited an Iroquois village - Hochelaga - on the island we know today as Montreal. It was he who named the island's 233 metres high mountain, Mont Royal. Another seventy-six years were to pass before Samuel de Champlain, father of Canada and founder of Quebec City, came to explore parts of this island. In 1642, the first French colonists recruited by the Société de Notre-Dame de Montréal under the leadership of Paul de Chomeday, Sieur de Maisonneuve, landed on the island (now abandoned by the Iroquois), and founded the tiny colony of Ville-Marie.

In 1663, the Société de Notre-Dame de Montréal ceded the island to the Messieurs de St. Sulpice who, 22 years later, sold a parcel of land described as the "domaine de la présentation" to one Agathe de St-Père. She in turn sold it to Jean-Baptiste Bouchard Dorval on January 29, 1691. Over the years a village grew up in that area and eventually - in 1892 - it was formally incorporated under the name of DORVAL, in honour of the pioneer who first started its development two centuries earlier. So, in a sense, Dorval will be celebrating its 300th birthday in 1991! Today the city is "twinned" to Oakville, Ontario, and Orly, in France.

The name became familiar to air-travellers when Montreal's first international airport at Dorval was opened for commercial air traffic in 1941. For over a year before then it had been used by the R.A.F. Ferry Command to shuttle aircraft across the Atlantic for the war effort. When World War II was over the present terminal was built, and gradually Dorval Airport was on the way to look as it does today.

The Sarto Desnoyers Community Centre, where ROYALE 1991 ROYAL will be stagged, was built in 1929 as the club-house for the Elmridge Country Club. The Municipal Council of Dorval took it over in 1966, and converted it to its present day use. On the other side of the road, facing the Centre, stands the Royal St. Lawrence Yacht Club, founded in 1888. Its setting is indeed beautiful, fronting on Lake St. Louis. It is there where the Exhibition Awards Banquet will be held on Saturday, April 6th.

And now a general note on Montreal, the City of Many Faces.

In recent years Montreal has overcome its island confinement in part by growing skyward. Buildings from 20 to 47 stories high – showpieces of renovation that mostly occurred between the triumphant Expo 67 World Exposition and the Summer Olympic Games in 1976 – have replaced many ancient structures. The city has also made use of a 500-year old idea attributed to Leonardo da Vinci. Underground walkways provide climate-controlled access to a thousand stores and boutiques, a number of department stores, two railway stations, four Metro (subway) stations, almost a dozen hotels, about 25 bank branches, a hundred restaurants and bars, three theatres, a concert hall, art galleries, and many commercial buildings. This underground network, extending over 13 kilometres, is effectively a city within a city.

Despite its multicultural heritage, Montreal is quintessentially French. Two-thirds of the city's population speak French; in this respect, Montreal is second only to Paris. The French atmosphere holds a strong attraction to visitors, as genteel culture, haute cuisine, and many old-world customs mix and co-exist within a modern environment. As Canada's second largest city Montreal is an industrial, commercial and financial centre of considerable clout. Although more than 1,600 km from the ocean, it is one of Canada's major seaports.

Contributing to the city's worldly and progressive attitude are Montreal's four universities, which include McGill University, one of Canada's largest, and the Université de Montréal, the largest French university outside of Paris. The commercial dynamism and cultural attractions that abound in the city have made Montreal a major convention centre. Its stimulating milieu draws a steady influx of international visitors.

How to get there: If you fly into Montreal from any point in Canada or the United States, you will land at Dorval International Airport. The hosts of ROYALE 1991 ROYAL have appointed AIR CANADA as their sole official airline. Special discounts are available to visitors of ROYALE 1991 ROYAL: ask your Travel Agent to refer to AIR CANADA Event File 91-141. Most hotels in the vicinity provide free shuttle transport service from/to Dorval Airport.

Should you decide to travel by car, please remember that in the Province of Quebec, turns are not permitted on red lights – only on green arrows or flashing green lights. Traffic signs are in French except when symbols are used. If you are coming in from the U.S.A. it is recommended that a Canadian Non-Resident Interprovince Motor Vehicle Liability Insurance Card be obtained from an insurance agent before driving in Canada.

Approaches: The major highway route from the south is U.S. 1-87, which becomes Autoroute 15. Autoroute 10 enters the city from the Eastern Townships and Vermont. From the east across the Champlain Bridge, Autoroute 20 allows controlled access to the downtown areas, and Autoroute 40 proceeds along the north shore of the St. Lawrence River. The Montreal Laurentian Autoroute, Hwy. 15, arrives from the north, while Autoroute 40 enters Montreal from the west.

The main Canadian rail system, VIA RAIL, has connections with all points in Canada and with major U.S. cities. AMTRACK lines connect Montreal with New York and other U.S. cities. Both systems use Montreal’s Central Station, located downtown — some 17 km from Dorval.

Where to Stay: There are a number of CAA 2-star and 3-star hotels in the vicinity of Dorval International Airport. To list but a few of the many ... Airport Hilton (), 12505 chemin Cote de Liesse, Dorval, H9P 1B7; Motel Journey’s End (), 340 av Michel Jasmin, Dorval, H9P 1C1; Hotel Beausejour (), 1010 Herron Road, Dorval, H9S 1B3; Holiday Inn - Pointe Claire (), 6700 Trans-Canada Hwy., Pointe Claire, H9R 1C2.

The latter two establishments have special rates for visitors to the Exhibition.

What to See: In a city of this size there are sights for all tastes. Museums abound (Canadian Railway Museum, Lachine Fur-Trade Museum, Museum of Fine Arts, etc., etc.), the Olympic Park, the Botanical Gardens (third largest in the world), Zoological Garden, many places of worship with outstanding architectural beauty (Christ Church Cathedral, St. Joseph’s Oratory, Basilica of Notre-Dame-de-Montréal; to mention but a few), and Old Montreal is a definite MUST. Space does not permit a more detailed description of the tourist attractions of this vibrant city. Visitors have a wide choice of city tour itineraries and prices. Contact the Montreal Municipal Tourist Bureau, 155 rue Notre-Dame E., for complete information on the visitor’s guide to Montreal. A visit of only a few days will whet your appetite to return and see more of this great city.

ANNOUNCEMENT TO “OUT OF TOWN” EXHIBITORS

We are planning to introduce an Innovation in our Show Programme, that we believe will be a “First” of its kind.

We really would like to see you come in person to participate in our Show: BUT; we will realize that some people just can’t make it. Surely this must be a disappointment to them ... but what if they were able to be “present” through a Video-tape of the whole proceedings??

We propose to do just that! VIDEO-TAPE the whole show!!

This Video-tape will be made available to whoever requests a copy of same: at COST to us, plus the postage to mail it to them. The Lakeshore Stamp Club Inc. has no interest in making a profit out of this innovative idea.

Sorry: but at this early stage I can’t give you an estimate as to what the total cost would be. The tape at today’s prices would be roughly Can $5, and the postage would depend on where you are located. Let us make a rough guess … this memorable recording shouldn’t set you back more than Can $10!!

YOU figure out whether its worth it or not: then let us know if you’d like a copy.

O.K.????

NOTICE TO MEMBERS

A call for nominations of Directors of the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada is hereby set forth.

Eight (8) Directors will be elected at the annual meeting to be held in Dorval, Quebec at Royale ’91 Royal on April 6, 1991.

“Nominations must be in writing and be made and seconded by members in good standing of the Corporation. The person nominated must consent to his or her nomination and such nomination to be valid must be received by the National Office in Ottawa or by the President by January 1, 1991. All nominations will be placed before the Nomination Committee who will prepare a slate of Directors of those nominated to ensure national representation based on levels of membership.”

The proposed slate of directors will be published in the March/April issue (1991) of The Canadian Philatelist along with a short biography of each nominee.

People who love music have an added dimension in their lives. To love both music and stamps means that one has the best of two worlds. This publication is a 226-page check list and guide to all the postage stamps issued to date which have a reference to music, whether composers, instruments, performers or other connections. It is not a catalogue giving all the details of each stamp. The stamps are listed by year, with both Gibbons and Scott catalogue numbers and subject matter. In some cases stamps omitted by Gibbons and Scott are listed with other catalogue numbers such as Minkus, Feldman, Carus, etc.

The loose leaf format with each page punched for a two ring binder permits additions to be made. Each page is 5-7/8” x 8-1/4” (148 x 210 mm). Published by the author, Mr. Grimsey, 107 Charterhouse St., London, England EC1M 6PT, it is available from him with binder for £10. Although not mentioned it would be wise to include £1 extra to help cover postage.

DIE POST, IHRE GESCHICHTE IN WORT UND BILD, (THE POST PRESENTED IN WORD AND PICTURE), by Gottfried North: 20 x 26.5 cm, (7.875” x 10.5” approximately), 288 pages profusely illustrated with 65 black and white illustrations and 208 in full colour, hard bound in golden yellow linen with illustrated dust jacket in colour. ISBN 3-76850187-6, printed by R.v. Decker’s Verlag, G. Schenk, Postfach 10-26-40, D-6900, Heidelberg 1, Germany. Available from the printers at a price of 88 Deutsch Marks. Purchasers would be wise to include an additional 12 DM for postage purposes.

This book, printed in the German language on high quality thick paper, is superbly done. The designer, Richard Mader, has made certain that it is a quality production. The author, Gottfried North of Giessen, Germany, is the retired curator of the Bundespostmuseum (German Postal Museum), in Frankfurt. He has written this volume to honour the 500th anniversary of Maximilian II of the House of Taxis who began an organized postal service in 1490. It is evident that Mr. North’s 22 years with the Postmuseum has been of great help in writing this postal history as well as selecting quality items for reproduction.

Mr. North’s book is divided into two main sections. The first 114 pages is a textural history of the development of communications in Germany from ancient times through the middle ages to the present day. Seven chapters make up this section as follows:

1. Communications in Ancient times
2. Messages in the Middle ages
3. From the posts of Taxis to the German Reich
4. The German posts until 1920
5. Morse code, the Telegraph and the Telephone
6. Associated postal organizations and groups
7. From the German Reich to the German Republic

The second section, unlike the first section which has 50 illustrations in black and white, is made up of 165 pages of paintings, prints and artifacts related to the German posts. They are in full colour. In total, there are 208 illustrations professionally reproduced in colour. This section, “Die Post im Bild”, (The Post in Pictures) is segregated into 11 chapters as follows,

1. From Ancient times until the Middle ages
2. From Franz von Taxis to Heinrich von Stephan
3. Development of the posts - horse drawn post carriages
4. Postmen (Postillions), and their uniforms
5. Post boxes - delivery of letters until postage stamps came into use
6. Post Offices
7. Postal signs, Coats of Arms and banners
8. The Fieldpost (Military mail)
9. Telephone and Telegraph
10. Writing and writing instruments
11. Works of Art related to the posts.
Although written in German, it is easy to understand. The beautiful colour prints can be understood in any language. This is the type of book you will want to set out for your guests' enjoyment and pleasure. This reviewer has no hesitation in recommending it for your philatelic library.

AMERICAN BANK NOTE COMPANY PHILATELIC ARCHIVES

The National Archives of Canada recently announced the acquisition of a significant portion of the American Bank Note Company's historical philatelic archives.

The material contains important Canada and British North America postage and revenue stamp pre-production 'documents of record' that had been retained by the American Bank Note Company and its predecessors since 1851 as well as various types of 'visual' documents representing some of the finest examples of the artistry, creativity and the craftsmanship that built the American Bank Note Company.

Many of the newly-acquired pieces contain designer notations, approval signatures and related official commentary, and take on an even greater national significance as being some of the very rare surviving British North America/Canada philatelic material from the late 19th and early 20th centuries.

Acquired via a transfer of the American Bank Note Company and through purchase at Christie's auction held in New York on September 13, 1990, the lots represent a substantial addition to the philatelic collection at the Canadian Postal Archives (CPA), and will complement and enhance the heritage material that was transferred to the jurisdiction of the CPA by the Canada Post Corporation in April 1988.

HÉRITAGE PHILATÉLIQUE: LES ARCHIVES NATIONALES BONS PREMIERS À NEW YORK

Les Archives nationales du Canada ont annoncé l'acquisition récente d'une portion importante des archives philatéliques de l'American Bank Note Company.

Le matériel comprend, d'une part, une riche documentation entourant la production de timbres-poste et de timbres fiscaux du Canada et de l'Amérique du Nord britannique que l'American Bank Note Company et ses prédécesseurs avaient retenue depuis 1851, et, d'autre part, différents types de documents de nature «visuelle» qui illustrent le mieux le talent, la créativité et l'art de cette société.

Parmi les pièces que les Archives ont acquises figurent des notations des créateurs, des signatures d'approbation et des commentaires officiels qui leur confèrent une valeur nationale accrue puisqu'elles font partie de la rare documentation philatélique du Canada et de l'Amérique du Nord britannique du tournant du siècle qui existe encore.

Obtenus à la suite d'un transfert de l'American Bank Note Company et d'un achat aux enchères chez Christie's à New York le 13 septembre 1990, les lots représentent un ajout considérable à la collection philatélique des Archives postales canadiennes tout en permettant de compléter le matériel dont la juridiction est passée de la Société canadienne des postes aux Archives postales en avril 1988.
Precancelled Admirals Die 1 and Die 2 on the 1¢ Yellow and 3¢ Carmine
by J.E. Kraemer, H. Reiche and G.W. Walburn

The following list of Admiral Precancels (Die 1 and Die 2 of both the one-cent yellow and the three-cent carmine) is based on items reported to date by many collectors and dealers of Canada precancels. The original study was begun by Fred Keane and H. Heatherington. It was later further researched and up-dated by Hans Reiche and R.S. Cheshire. The Precancel Committee consisting of Messers, Kraemer, Reiche and Walburn has now completed the following specialized listing.

The number of each item reported to the Committee was used in calculating the current market values. New finds of additional unreported items could necessitate some changes to the market values. For this reason the authors intend to keep inventory records in the event that ratios change and revisions become necessary.

The Canada Precancel Handbook lists both dies of the one-cent yellow and three-cent carmine precancelled Admirals. The Standard Canada Precancel Catalogue does not list these dies separately but the "Known Canadian Precancels and Catalogue Number Cross Reference" section in the catalogue does list the applicable Scott catalogue numbers for each of the dies. An identification indicating the different characteristics of Die 1 and Die 2 for both the one-cent yellow and the three-cent carmine will appear on Page XIII of the Second Edition (1991) of The Standard Canada Precancel Catalogue.

1¢ Yellow Die 1 is No. 105
1¢ Yellow Die 2 is No. 105iii
3¢ Carmine Die 1 is No. 109
3¢ Carmine Die 2 is No. 109i

In both values Die 2 appeared later than Die 1. Certain precancels can only be found on one or the other die. Many do exist on both dies but some are very scarce. In several instances only a few copies have been found. For example, Toronto Style 7 exists on both dies for the one-cent yellow but Die 1 is more common. A specialized collection of Canada precancels should contain examples of both dies. Any precancel die not listed should be reported to a member of the Precancel Committee, Precancelled Admirals, Die 1 and Die 2 on the one-cent yellow and the three-cent carmine (The precancel numbers in the following listing are copyright and may be used in auction catalogues providing reference is made to The Standard Canada Precancel Catalogue. Precancel numbers in this listing may be used in philatelic writings provided the following credit is noted - "The Canada precancel numbers are used by courtesy of The Standard Canada Precancel Catalogue and its editors.")

DEMANDES D’ÉCHANGE

La Royal Philatelic Society ne s’occupe pas normalement des échanges entre philatélistes, mais comme elle est la société philatélique nationale du Canada, on lui transmet de nombreuses demandes de philatélistes désireux de trouver des correspondants pour échanger des timbres. Ainsi a-t-elle décidé, pour rendre service à ses membres, de publier les noms des intéressés d’outre-mer, afin que ceux qui désirent établir des rapports avec eux puissent la faire. Je vous signale toutefois que nous ne savons rien des personnes qui nous demandent de publier leur nom, c’est pourquoi je vous conseille d’être prudent en répondant à ces demandes d’échange.
