A Best Seller Since 1976!

Do you remember 1976? The Olympic Games in Montreal... the Bicentennial of the United States of America... HABITAT, the United Nations Conference on Human Settlements.

All were events that shaped Canada and the world, commemorated on Canadian postage stamps. All were included in the 1976 Souvenir Collection of the Postage Stamps of Canada.

The Collection has come a long way from that early edition, when it was a softcover volume, featuring a black-and-white interior!

Today's Collection is an impressive hardcover book (with full-colour dust jacket) that includes over 100 full-colour photographs and illustrations. Of course, like its predecessors, the 1990 Collection features all of the actual stamps in mint condition, making the Collection an easy and attractive way to maintain your collection of Canadian stamps.

Add the 1990 Souvenir Collection of the Postage Stamps of Canada—only $26.95*—to your library today.

Order by writing to the National Philatelic Centre, Antigonish, Nova Scotia, Canada B2G 2R8. Or call toll-free in Canada (1-800-565-4362) or U.S.A. (1-800-565-1336). From other countries, dial (902) 863-6550.

From the Editor’s Desk
Guest Editorial by Charles J.G. Verge
“What Are You Looking for from Your Society?”

I chanced to glance through the Vol. 2 No. 1 (January 1989) issue of The Australian Exhibitor, the publication of the National Association for Philatelic Exhibitors (NAPE) of Australia, when I received it as an entry for the National Philatelic Literature Exhibition, held at Ottawa in conjunction with ORAPEX ‘91, the National level show sponsored by the R.A. Stamp Club — of which more in another article in this issue. In it I found an article by Gary Watson in which he wrote about “Why indeed would somebody join NAPE?”

As a follow up to my guest editorial in the May-June issue of The Canadian Philatelist/Le philatéliste canadien, I thought this was an interesting question to ask of members of our society. Why do you belong to the R.P.S.C.? What attracts you to it? Did somebody suggest you join or did you just think it was a good idea? What services do you receive for your membership fee? What do you do to help in the running of the society?

Mr. Watson proceeds to indicate that the answer “lies in The Three ‘I’s: Information, Ideas and Inspiration”. Because Information available through the organization is not readily available elsewhere, because Ideas are aired through its journal and because Inspiration is developed into motivation. I would like to think that these “Three ‘I’s” are but a few of the many reasons we are members.

However, I am not even sure that, as a society, the R.P.S.C. meets even these basic need of our members. Apart from The Canadian Philatelist/Le philatéliste canadien and the sales circuits, I don’t see many other major services being consistently offered to the members at large.

Sure, the society provides Commissioner services and judges for those who wish to exhibit. It tries to provide for National shows and meets once a year in Convention. As well, it has medals available for such shows. It does provide an anti-theft committee, and an embryo insurance service which could do with more publicity. These services only serve a small fraction of the society’s membership. A society however, is more than that. The R.P.S.C. is all its members. What do all its members want and need?

I would encourage you to tell us what you are expecting from your society. What are the members services you feel should be provided by the R.P.S.C.? Write to me in care of The Canadian Philatelist/Le philatéliste canadien with your suggestions.

Do remember however, that as a member of the society you also have duties, not only rights. My previous guest editorial on Participation made it quite clear that philately as a whole needs each and everyone of us to participate in developing the hobby. This also applies to our society. Ideas, innovation and creativity are not the sole preserve of the directors and officers of the R.P.S.C. To improve your society we need your help. Please share your thoughts with us and I promise I will follow up on each and every suggestion, idea, proposal, etc.

To follow up on the above, one of the most often made requests by our readers is that we translate some of the articles written in Canada’s other official language in The Canadian Philatelist/Le philatéliste canadien. For practical reasons of space, writer’s wishes, copyright requirements, unavailability of translation, etc. this is frequently impossible to do. However, starting with this issue, a synopsis of each article will be published in the other official language. In it you will find a succinct description
B.O.B. (BACK OF THE BOOK)

In Canadian philately the most important sideline is the one devoted to booklet panes and complete booklets. I've been buying these for some 50 years, piling them up. Many come in the hundreds of collections and dealers' stocks I've purchased over the years. Others came in large purchases direct from the Canadian post offices, in large quantities, in an effort tolocate certain known errors.

By now I must have several hundred thousand booklets on hand. There will never be time to properly organize these to fill want lists, etc. I'm going to clear these out in the form of packets of:

50 DIFFERENT BOOKLETS FOR $100.00

Order one and if you like it, order a still different lot of 50 for another $100.00, and so on until I have no more 50-variety-lots to sell.

Value? Well practically any Canadian booklet is well worth $2.00 minimum. All are long obsolete, by the way, and in perfect condition. Most will be in complete sets. I'm especially strong in the Canadian Centenary Booklets and the experimental 1985 sets. This last is a wonder. There are four different sets to start and due to printing problems and wide dispersion all over Canada I don't believe anyone in the world has the complete lot of 1985 booklets as they exist.

In fact I'm willing to pay anyone $5,000.00 if he can show me a complete collection of the 1985 booklets. This to show to me. After that, will buy up to 50 sets at $3,000.00 each set.

To say the least, this 1985 group of booklets will be a lot of fun to chase down. The booklets are out there, scattered all over Canada, in thousands of collections, etc. I'll have a fair number in my '50 for $100.00' lots. Also full details of what you will be up against!

"So as a buyer I get 50 different booklets worth $100 retail for my $100?"

Please, I do not do business that way. In the very first lot will be one booklet worth $100.00 alone (and just try to locate one elsewhere at less than $100.00!). There will be valuable sets worth up to $50, single booklets worth $5.00 and up each. The $100.00 lot is sure worth $100.00 of anyone's money, and if you don't think so, send it back for refund. Any of the subsequent lots can be returned for refund.

Remit $100.00 U.S.A. funds for the first lot.

Canadian collectors please remit $110 plus the 7% GST ($117.00 will do).

All $100.00 lots are sent out registered or insured. You can order up to 10 lots at one time. They will be all different.

of what the article is all about. I hope that this small improvement will go a long way to respond to our readers' wishes. Synopses will not be done for regular columns because the information in these is usually of a technical nature or the plethora of information they provide does not lend itself to summarizing. Stamp collectors, fishermen and children have one thing in common; they all like a good story. It is the soothing voice of the narrator that mesmerizes the child who wants to hear the same story time and again. The fisherman gets carried away with imaginary success, while the stamp collector embraces both elements: the hypnotic magic of an item which will become the "key" item in the collection, the financial heights to which it may rise and the actual price ultimately paid.

The philatelic marketplace is governed, as is that of any other commodity, by supply and demand. There is some direction given by catalogues, however one must bear in mind the time elapsed between their printing and their availability. Changes in catalogue prices, as well as at dealers, are affected by trends exhibited in the various major auctions.

The excitement of participating in an auction can be compared to that of a fisherman trying to hook a large fish. The competition offered by other anglers with more ample lures will raise a person's blood level while landing the fish and will fill the winner with euphoria. The loss of the bid will become the subject of yet another story about "the one that got away". Those collectors who resort to making their bids by mail or through agents may miss the heat of the battle but will still succumb to the pleasures of anticipation while waiting for the results.

Buying from dealers is a more subdued exercise. The excitement it offers is being able to identify the items of interest while perusing an extensive stock of material. This can be a bewildering experience for a novice who "needs everything" and a sobering experience for a seasoned collector becoming aware of availability and costs of cherished items. A dealer, particularly a knowledgeable one, will offer guidance and advice. The value of these cannot be estimated and should not be ignored.

In my own collecting experience, which brought me some very respectable awards, both national and international, I have always followed the advice of dealers but did not, at the same time, lose sight of some elusive items offered in auctions. This kind of mix, to my mind, is the best of both worlds.

Make sure, whether you are buying at an auction or from a dealer, that the firm is a member of its national professional organization (in Canada it is the C.S.D.A. - the Canadian Stamp Dealers' Association) and that it supports your own organization. The latter is expressed by the dealers' participation in shows sponsored by the Royal and by their advertising in The Canadian Philatelist.

Happy "fishing" and a jolly story time.

MORE ON THE SEAWAY INVERTS

Dear CP:
The story of the "Seaway Inverts" sold at Southampton, Ontario unfolds as it was related to me by a member of the post office staff at the time.

Apparently a tourist residing at a summer cottage came into the post office and purchased a dollars worth of (Seaway) stamps for use while staying at Southampton. His wife, on going to use one, noted that it could be used upright or upside down and remarked on it to her husband. He immediately returned to the P.O. to find out if they were valid. He was assured that they were BUT was strongly advised to retain them as they might turn out to be quite valuable. So far as I know, his name or home address was either unknown or never requested and I have never heard of it. The news spread like wildfire throughout town and everyone who had purchased stamps at the time or received mail was scrambling about to see if they had any.

My part enters here. I had become know as an enthusiastic stamp collector and I suppose it was considered likely I would know what and how to market any if found. I was approached by "J.T." (name withheld) who asked me to market a block of four. At the time with the first inverts showing up at Winnipeg, I believe it was only K. Bileski who was showing any interest in buying them. In any case the block was forwarded to him. He paid $500.

This was shortly followed by a similar block of four presented by a Mrs. Phyllis Chatterton (now deceased). Again they were despatched to Bileski who purchased for a similar amount of $500.

Next, Mrs. Arthur Mahon had purchased a quarter’s worth of stamps, used three, had two left, mint, and was fortunate enough to recover one of the used stamps. In her case, Bileski offered $100. each for the unused copies and $50. for the used item, which was accepted.

Some years later a town resident, named either Gillis or Gillies, died and in her safety deposit box among other contents was a mint block of four of the Seaways.
The National Trust Company (Owen Sound, Ont.) was executor and asked me for an approximate evaluation and how to realize on same. I advised that at the time the stamps appeared to have a value in the neighbourhood of $10,000.
They might market through a dealer, advertise, or commit to auction. I never learned which avenue they elected to use or the actual sale value realized. I rather expect that with Bank/Clien ter confidentiality, there would be little purpose in making any inquiry of them.

I never heard of any further copies of the stamps coming to light up until 1988
when I moved from Southampton.

In a nutshell, it appears that there must have been pane of 50 issued out of Southampton, of which 37 have been accounted for above and would leave the remaining 13 in the pane unaccounted for. Who knows, there might still be some tucked away in someone’s safety deposit box or living room desk.

STYMIED BY STAMP STICKERS
Dear CP:
It seems to be one of the immutable laws of nature that the highest value stamps are always affixed in the top right hand corner of an envelope or package, and the lower values over to the left, or lower down.

This law seems to govern both philatelists and non-philatelists, with the result, of course, that the high value stamps are folded or damaged, and the low value stamps all arrive in pristine condition and lightly cancelled.

There seems also to be some sort of competition to see who can stick the high value stamps the most closely in the corner, or even overlapping the edges.
This practically ensure damage in transit.

"WHERE IS MY JOURNAL?"

It is nice to know that members look forward to receiving their journals.

A number of letters have been received wondering what happened to the May-June issue. It did not appear until mid-July and was certainly late. I hope that this number will be distributed by at least the end of August and that the September-October one will be out by the end of September.

The lateness can be laid squarely at the feet of your interim editors — myself, Jim Kraemer and Charles Verge. Faced with the shake up caused by the move of the national office from Ottawa to Toronto, and the need for interim editors to act until a new permanent editor was ready to take over — that should be for the November-December issue, we have done the best we could in the time that we could make available. That time was much more than we expected it to be!

I must add that Port Perry Printing Ltd. has been extremely cooperative in helping us during these months of transition. The fault of lateness lies with us in Ottawa and not in Port Perry.

THE ROYAL GETS MAIL

It comes from many sources. Not all letters relate to stamps or to the lateness of our journal.

A recent example, from the British Columbia Medical Association, had an inscription on the envelope front that caused me to take a second look.

The inscription read: "The Art of Exposing Yourself in Public." Not being cognizant of the latest medical advice on the subject, I naturally locked inside the envelope. Did the B.C. doctors think that the word "philatelic" was a high class euphemism for a strip joint? Did they think that the Royal was an association of male and female strippers?

Inside, I found a sheet with several large headings — "Do You?", "Are You?", "Want To?" and "How To".

Another sheet told me that for $275 plus $9 for postage and handling I could purchase a 20-minute training videotape on the subject.

It was time to read the finer print. I learned that the exposing related to coming across well in front of reporters, cameras, or an audience. There was no indication that I would have to disrobe to expose the "real me" in public. All it takes for proper exposure, I was told, are patience, practice, training and $284. For all that, I can presumably be an effective spokesperson for my organization.

For that price, I'll continue to stumble along in public in whatever clothes I happen to grab when I get up in the morning. That seems to be a sensible approach. I'll continue to expose myself as I have in the past, assuming Michael Madesker doesn't object! He shouldn't. Both our heads show lots of skin.

A FEW PERSONAL VIEWS ON EDITING

Language purists may wonder why certain words in different articles in this and recent issues of The Canadian Philatelist have different spellings — "honor" and "honour" for example.

In editing copy for publication, I try to make as few corrections as possible. Alternative spellings are bound to crop up in different manuscripts.

In my weekly "Stamps" column in The Ottawa Citizen I adhere to the rules used for spelling in that newspaper. Some years ago I was told that it was always...

Form is certainly important. I'd suggest, though, that content is more important. Twaddle, even with consistent and “correct” word usage, is still twaddle.

A CHANGE FOR THE 1992 SCOTT CATALOGUES

These volumes continue the practice, begun for the 1990 editions, of reflecting current retail market prices in the United States, as determined by the publishers. I won’t get into the controversy about whether the prices are accurate, and whether they reflect retail market prices in other countries.

The biggest change for 1992 relates to the minimum value assigned to stamps that are listed. The previous five-cent figure is now 15 cents.

As the publishers take pains to point out, this does not mean that the value of these stamps has tripled. What it does mean is that 15 cents represents, in the publishers’ opinion, “our best estimate of what the retail price of a single stamp is in the marketplace today...given the cost to a dealer of conducting business and handling individual items.”

They warn that “when valuing your holdings, it would be imprudent to consider the worth of each stamp to be a minimum of 15 cents...particularly when calculating what your value is prior to offering the material for sale.”

Will dealers’ boxes of loose stamps priced at five cents each — if such boxes still exist in any quantity — have the price for each stamp raised? That shouldn’t be the case. The 15-cent figure applies to stamps that the dealer has individually handled and priced and not to batches of stamps dumped into a box.

Set totals in the 1992 catalogues are not necessarily the sum of individual stamp valuations. A set can be priced lower if its market value has been determined to be less that that of its individual components. The pricing of the 1939 Canadian Royal Visit set of three stamps is a case in point. Their 1991 values as used stamps totalled 25 cents. Their 1992 values are 15 cents each but the used set price remains at 25 cents. In other cases, though, set prices go up because of the 15-cent stamps in them!

Valuations for Canadian stamps often vary markedly between the Unitrade Press 1991 Scott Specialized Catalogue of Canadian Stamps and the Scott 1992 Scott Standard Postage Stamp Catalogue. The fact that some dealers are still using the 1988 Scott Scott adds more confusion to the scene. Current Scott Scott valuations are for stamps in what some people would call a somewhat hybrid grade of fine to very fine. The Unitrade Scott distinguishes between fine and very fine.

WAVES IN A TEAPOT
For the record, passing mention should be made of the recent uproar in the American philatelic press and in the U.S. Senate about the printing in Canada by the Canadian Bank Note Co. of two U.S. stamps in the “Great American Series.”

The stamps are a 35-cent definitive issued on April 3 honoring Dennis Chavez — the first American-born Hispanic elected to U.S. Senate — and a 75-cent definitive slated for November 1, picturing Earl Warren, chief justice of the U.S. Supreme Court from 1953 to 1969.

Methinks that the uproar was really a tempest in a teapot if for no other reason that the fact that the Canada-U.S. free trade agreement is supposed to work in both directions. I have always admired American patriotism — we could do with similar zeal in Canada — but didn’t it go overboard on the printing of these two stamps?

I contrasted this one-roof museum approach to the bifurcated situation in Canada where we have the Canadian Postal Archives (CPA) on the one hand and the National Postal Museum (NPM) — which will house three-dimensional and other material not kept by the CPA — on the other.

Both the American and Canadian museums have recently advertised for directors. The American one offered an annual salary of $61,643-$80,138 U.S. for a director who, among other things, will be required to have relevant knowledge of postal history and philately.

The Canadian museum has been advertising — the closing date for applications was July 18 — for a chief at a salary range of $48,920-$55,166. That range is currently under revision. No mention was made of any postal history or philatelic background being required in the advertisement I saw.

I hope that our NPM will be successful in finding candidates with some practical knowledge of the area in which they would assume responsibility. The CPA is fortunate in having Cimon Morin as its chief. Will the NPM be able to attract a bilingual museologist from somewhere in Canada with a postal history and philatelic background?

SHOULD R. MOLAR BE DEALT WITH?
The appearance of R. Molar’s “Variations” column, which began in the last issue of this journal, must have been foreseen a number of years ago, judging by this stamp from the Maldives Islands that appeared in 1980.
Was it a long-in-advance hint — or a stronger suggestion — that Molar be pulled or, failing that, be given the brush?

A POST OFFICE CLOSURE
The Wyre Piddle post office in Worcestershire, England closed on May 31. What a chance for a punt! Do piddling post offices deserve to be closed because they are all wet? Did the postmaster sing "Raindrops Keep Falling on My Head" on the closing day?

GST AND STAMP AUCTIONS
Effective May 1, "new streamlined GST rules for auctioneers" began. As a result, some stamp auctioneers may have to alter the way in which they compensate vendors (i.e., owners) for material sold at auction. My interpretation of the new rules is as follows, based on my understanding of a Revenue Canada pamphlet on the subject.

Auctioneers’ invoices to both the purchaser and the owner for the goods sold — to include GST — would be the same, although special rules can apply if the goods are exported or if the owner is from outside Canada.

The treatment of GST for material sold on behalf on non-GST registered owners is of particular interest. In that case, using a $1,000 sale price as an example and — for the sake of simplicity — excluding applicable provincial sales tax and GST on any premium charged by the auctioneer to the buyer, the price — including GST — to the buyer would be $1,070. Deduction of the auctioneer’s commission chargeable to the owner — say 10% — from the $1,000 and adding GST to that commission would result in net proceeds to the owner of $1,070 minus $107 for a net figure of $963. Non-GST registered owners would get the gross proceeds, including GST, less the commission and any other charges by the auctioneer to the owner but excluding GST on that commission and those other charges.

In this example, the auctioneer would only remit GST to the federal government on the commission. He would have an input tax credit on the GST charge on the $1,000 sale figure if that GST charge was passed on to the owner.

The government appears to be the loser in this scenario in that it doesn’t get all of the GST chargeable on the total transaction. The non-GST registered owner gains! This anomaly, I understand, has been recognized by the GST authorities and thought is no doubt being given to correcting it.

Confusing? Yes! Streamlined? Maybe!

A GOOF IN THE LAST NUMBER
I erred in a note in the last number of our journal when I stated that Senator James A. Calder (1868-1956) was a Fellow of the R.P.S.C. The first Fellow, Fred Jarrett, was named in 1960.

No provision has been made for posthumous recognition. If it had been, Calder would certainly be among the list of Fellows as a result of his contributions to philately.

ATTENTION ALL CHAPTER PRESIDENTS AND R.P.S.C. REPRESENTATIVES
Cliff Guile, R.P.S.C. Membership Manager, has asked that all chapters furnish him with up to date listings of the names and addresses of chapter representatives who serve as contacts with the R.P.S.C. Those chapters without such representatives should appoint one as soon as possible.

This information is urgently required to update the National Office listings. Please send details to:

Philately is, to a large extent, based on the collection of adhesive postage stamps, even if any good postal historian will tell you that there were well developed postal systems long before mail had to be prepaid with little coloured labels. However fascinating the study of stampless covers, one must admit that the glamour of philately started with the "Penny Black," issued by Great Britain in 1840. But which countries were second, third and fourth? A little research produces the partial results shown in Table 1 below (covering only 1840-1860):

Globally

From the table it can be seen that Brazil was second, in 1843, and it was four years later that the U.S.A. and Mauritius put out their first issues. No new Number Ones came out in 1848, but thereafter there were regular annual issues over the next 40 years, with the exception of 1864 and the years 1876 and 1877. Table 1 shows only the first 49 countries and only the years 1840 to 1860.
Chart 1 shows how the new Number Ones came on the scene, from one to six each year, with a total of 93 Number Ones in the first 40 years. It is also interesting to make a cumulative total for the years, as plotted by the solid line in Chart 2. The dotted line shows a mean line drawn through the annual cumulative plots, forming a typical "S" curve, or Gaussian distribution. Such a curve is typical of a new idea that originates in one place, gradually gains adherents, then abruptly explodes in popularity over a period of time until "the market" is saturated (or in this case, when most of the countries had issued their Number Ones) and the curve levels off, with only occasional new converts. This last phase continues into the present, with late starters and new countries being formed every so often.

Continentially

On a continental basis, Europe started with Great Britain, of course, followed by Bavaria, Belgium and France together, nine years later (in 1849), then Austria, Prussia, Spain, and Switzerland together in 1850, Denmark and Wurttemberg in 1851, Luxembourg and the Netherlands in 1852, Portugal alone in 1853, no one in 1854, Norway and Sweden together in 1855, Finland in 1856, and Russia in 1857.

South America started with Brazil in 1843, then none till British Guiana in 1849, Chile in 1853, Uruguay in 1858, then a rush of four countries in 1858 and 1859, and the others somewhat later.

In North America, including the Caribbean, the U.S.A. was first in 1847, then Canada, New Brunswick and Trinidad in 1851, Barbados in 1852, Nova Scotia 1853, followed by Cuba (1855), Mexico (1856), Newfoundland (1857), etc.

For Asia and the Pacific, Hawaii is a first, in 1851 then India (1852), followed by the Philippines (1854), then a very slow build up with Hong Kong (1862), Straits Settlements (1867), Sarawak (1868). Asian countries (excepting India) did not issue Number Ones until Afghanistan and Persia in 1870, Japan in 1871, and China not until 1878.

In the Australasian area, New South Wales and Victoria got the ball rolling in 1850, followed by Tasmania (1853), Western Australia in 1854, South Australia together with New Zealand in 1855, and Queensland in 1860. The Commonwealth of Australia itself did not issue its Number One until 1913.

In the general area of Africa, Mauritius comes in very early in 1847, Cape of Good Hope in 1853, Liberia in 1860, and others gradually in the late 1860s and 70s.

Design Characteristics

It might be of interest to see how the designers decided to present the 93 Number Ones to the public.

Colour (in descending order of choice)

- pink, lake, carmine, rose, red 22
- blue, dark-blue, ultramarine 20
- brown, bistre, buff, chocolate 14
Letters and/or numerals 12
Animals, birds, etc. 5
Total 93

Canada’s beaver was the first animal, Western Australia and Bolivia the first birds, Peru the first ship, and El Salvador the first scenery (with volcanoes).

This study has highlighted the way that the adhesive postage stamp was an idea whose time had come, and how it caught on worldwide over a comparatively short period of 40 years or less.

My apologies if I have missed your favourite island, or some special postmaster’s issue: any correspondence should be directed to the Editor for there is always something to be added to the most careful research. One wonders whether the postage stamp as we know it will now phase out over the next 40 years in a reverse “S” curve, as meter cancels, Telex, Fax and satellite networks take over the communications of the world.

Chairman ORAPEX '91

In conjunction with ORAPEX '91, the R.A. Stamp Club of Ottawa organized what may well have been the largest national level philatelic literature exhibition ever held in North America in honour of the 100th anniversary of its sister club: the Ottawa Philatelic Society (OPS). The OPS was founded by John Reginald Hooper, in 1891, under the French name of Société Philatélique d'Ottawa. As far as is known, the OPS is the longest continuous stamp club in Canada.

The R.A.'s national level philatelic exhibition was held May 3-5, 1991 at the Ray Kinsella Arena of the R.A. Centre and was the club's 30th annual show. As well, 108 entries were received from Canada, the U.S., Great Britain, Germany and Australia for competition in the separate philatelic literature exhibition.

There were 54 entries in the handbook and monograph section; 19 in the national and international philatelic journals and periodicals section; 15 in the section which included study group journals and newsletters; 14 in the auction catalogue section; and six in the "other catalogue" grouping. These numbers are certainly an indication of the healthy state of philatelic writing.

Judges Ken Rowe - Canada's only international level philatelic literature judge, Ralph Mitchener - well-known Ottawa stamp columnist and national level judge, and apprentice judge Cimon Morin - Chief of the Canadian Postal Archives, were hard at work reading and evaluating the entries well before the show opened. They began in mid-January. Show goers were able to consult all the entries at the philatelic literature reading booth, staffed by members of the Ottawa Philatelic Society. In celebration of its anniversary, the OPS sold special T-shirts and commemorative covers showing the club's centennial logo.

Gold Fever, a fantastic history of gold rushes throughout the world, as seen with the help of philately, was awarded a gold medal and the Literature Grand Award — a contemporary caricature of the Earl of Crawford (1847-1913), a well known philatelic literature collector. Kenneth Kutz, the author of Gold Fever and President of the Collectors’ Club of New York, was on hand to accept his award at the O.P.S. Centennial Banquet which also served as ORAPEX's awards banquet. Mr. Kutz was in Ottawa to see how the ORAPEX organizing committee had organized its literature exhibition. His visit was in preparation for the first international philatelic literature exposition which will be sponsored jointly by the Collector's Club and the Philatelic Foundation and will be held in New York November 4-14, 1992. Other gold medal literature winners were Walter Hubbard for North Atlantic Mail Sailings, 1840-1875 and Menachim Max Mayo who also received Felicitation of the Jury for his Anatolia. A complete listing of the literature awards and prizes as well as those awarded for the National Philatelic Exhibition will be found at the end of this article.

Once again this year request for frames exceeded demand and show goers were treated to a large variety of excellent... world class exhibits. Of the 41 competitive exhibits entered in ORAPEX '91, 15 were youth entries trying to qualify for CANADA 92, the International Youth Show to be held in Montréal March 25-29, 1992. The judges, Harry Sutherland, (Toronto, Ont.), Chairman of the Jury; Paul Burega (Nepean, Ont.); David Dixon (Oakville, Ont.); Clark Grier-son (Ottawa, Ont.); Denis Hamel (Toronto, Ont.); Steve Luster (Ashburn, Virginia); Michael Madesker (Downsview, Ont.); and the apprentice judges Robert Bayes (Vancouver, B.C.), Benoit Carrier (Montréal, Québec) and Piotr Madej (Toronto, Ont.), awarded four Gold medals, 12 Vermeil (one with Felicitations to Dr. Alan Selby for his Newfoundland 1897-1910), eight Silver (one with Felicitations to Gary W. Steele for his 1937-1942 Definitive Issue, Rates and Usages), nine Silver-Bronze, two Bronze and six Certificates of Participation.

The Grand Award, a bank made from a century old American post office box, was won by George B. Arfken, of Florida for his Canadian Overseas Letter Mail, A Study of Postal Rates and Regulations, 1870-1897. The Reserve Grand — a similar but smaller bank, was awarded to Me Guy des Rivières of Quebec City for his La poste ferroviaire française, 1845-1880. The Reserve Grand Award for Youth, a trophy donated by Canada Post, was taken home by Guillaume Vadeboncoeur. Guillaume received the highest medal level awarded to youth, a vermeil medal, for his Small Queens, 1879-1897. He and Ian Cochrane, the only other Ottawa entry in the youth section, who received a silver medal for his Soccer on Stamps, have both qualified for CANADA 92.

ORAPEX '91 featured a full slate of events. Ottawa Stamp Auctions held its traditional stamp auction, seven seminars and study group and society meetings were held (including meetings of the P.H.S.C., B.N.A.P.S. and Canadian members of the American Association of Philatelic Exhibitors). As well, for the second time ever, the Académie québécoise d'études philatéliques held a regular meeting outside Québec. Three judging seminars were also held. One on how to judge literature, was, for Bill Bailey of Vancouver, Paul Burega and Charles Verge of Ottawa, the last step.

tional literature judges. Interested exhibitors and collectors were also given pointers on how traditional and thematic judging is done. There was definitely something for everybody at ORAPEX '91.

Canada Post provided two different cancellations for ORAPEX '91. The first, which was available all three days - May 3, 4 and 5, 1991, featured philatelic literature. A second handstamp was used only on May 4, 1991 to honour the 100th anniversary of the founding of the Ottawa Philatelic Society.

The three-day cancellation design featured a stack of books to underscore the Show's theme of philatelic literature. The O.P.S. cancel showed the stamp club's crest. The cancellations were applied to covers presented by collectors, to mail outgoing from the Canada Post booth at the show, and to commemorative postal stationery (No. 8 & No. 10 envelopes) specially produced by Canada Post to promote CANADA 92 and whose first day of issue was at ORAPEX '91. As well, Canada Post, in support of ORAPEX '91, prepared 1000 of the No. 8 CANADA 92 postal stationery envelopes bearing, as a cachet, the likeness of J.R. Hooper, the founder of the O.P.S.

The combined banquet and awards ceremony in celebration of the OPS's 100th birthday was attended by some 100 guests and was held at the Radisson Hotel. Good food, good friendships and a good time was had by all. Gini Horn, Director of Library Services of the American Philatelic Society (APS) and associate editor of the American Philatelic Literature Review, was the guest speaker. Her interesting talk centred around the philatelic periodicals of the 1890s. Ms. Horn, on behalf of the APS, and Michael Madesker, president of The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada, both made presentations to Alain Racicot, president of the Ottawa Philatelic Society on the occasion of its centennial. Among the diners at the banquet were many former OPS presidents including Dr. Clare Hopkins who was president in 1942-43 and who is still a member of the OPS.

On closing this article, we must note with sadness the passing during the Show of Manfred Walthier. Manfred was a stalwart supporter of ORAPEX having been one of the initial dealers at the founding of ORAPEX in 1962. He died as a result of a stroke suffered the evening of May 4th in his hotel room. He loved coming to Ottawa and was always sad to miss an ORAPEX show if dates conflicted. As far as records are concerned, Manfred Walthier only missed two ORAPEX shows. To his family go our heartfelt sympathy.

Join us for ORAPEX '92, May 1-3, 1992, when our theme will be Spain-Canada friendship and we will celebrate the 500th anniversary of the first voyage of Christopher Columbus to the New World and the 50th anniversary of the R.A. Stamp Club's first conception. Don't forget that the R.A. Stamp Club and the other clubs of the Ottawa-Hull region are hosting 'The Royal' in 1993.

In my previous column I said that I'd have a Henry Hechler extract in this number of The Canadian Philatelist. However, it will be delayed until Sept.-Oct. issue. The reason will be obvious when it appears.

Over the years, philatelic fads have come and gone. Some have survived. One that has perhaps blessedly vanished is philatelic poetry.

The following lead article in the December 1892 number of The Ottawa Philatelist — it was number three of the four numbers that appeared — may help to explain the demise of both philatelic poetry and the publication itself. I've made a few very minor editorial changes, if for no other reason that I can now say that I've edited material prepared by John Reginald Hooper.

“Canadensis”, the author, was none other than Hooper himself, the founder of the Canadian Philatelic Association in 1887 and of the Ottawa Philatelic Society in 1891. Within a year of this appearing, he was in jail — charged with murdering his wife.

AN EVENING WITH THE PHILATELIC POETS
by Canadensis

Apparently poetry has come to stay with philately. The stamp poet is a fixture and no amount of abuse will drive him from his pursuit of dreamy effusions in Elysian fields. For my own part, although guilty of the unpardonable offence of writing so-called poetry, or rather doggerel rhyming, I disclaim any pretext to be classed as one who thinks his rhyme is AU FAIT. I have started a philatelic poetry album, and in it will be found the gems from all the well-known authors. My first page starts off with a composition given in the October 2. C.P. and written by myself:

Summers may come and winters may go,
But never another will be, I know,
So full of poetry, glory and gaieties,
So laden with errors and many rarities,
So full of surcharges, intangible lore,
Ahh! there was never summer like this before.
—Canadensis.

Of the regular writers, the two leading claimants to philatelic laureateship are Guy W. Green and Roy F. Green. They have both composed enough to fill several pages of my album, and it is a "toss up" who is the best. "Billy McGee's Sad Fate," by Guy W., is one of his best efforts. It portrays a boy who started to collect stamps with such enthusiasm that he grew weary and ill. The last verse tells the tale:

Out on the hill is a new-made grave,
And sadly one reads on the stone;
"Here lies in his youth, a boy who in truth Succumbed to Philately alone."

Guy W. is not very old, being born in 1873, but he has been a success as the editor of the Philatelic Fraud Reporter. His "Philatelic Fairie's Revelry" and "Ode to an Old Album" are fair samples of his poetry. One of his latest productions is entitled "My Phantasy" depicting a collector who apparently had a good supper late at night then got a "Jag" on and went to bed. It says:

I dreamed of an album, whose covers
With myriad figures were traced;
Of demons, hobgoblins and witches
Who swept over their surfaces raced.

Roy F. Greene, is the publisher of the Eagle Philatelist and has written several poems. His poem on "The Baby" written on the sixth birthday of the baby King, Alfonso XIII, is a notable example.

Another one, entitled "Through a Glass", is a tirade against counterfeit stamps and counterfeit philatelists. A verse:

I confess it looks honest as any in sight;
The engraving is perfect, the color is bright.
But though we may praise it, and call it first-class.
Quite rough it appears when you look,
thro' a glass.

"A Philatelic Wail" is another of Roy F.'s productions, and he was evidently tired of receiving so many of those little amateur efforts under the guise of stamp publications, so he wrote four verses to express himself, one of which was:—
'Twas a philatelic journal
Called the "Stamp Friend's Monthly News."
(Volume I likewise the number.)
Here I sit and idly muse.
'Tis to fill a long felt-want, and
Belongs to that vast tribe,
Coming monthly now to greet us—
"Sample Copy Please Subscribe."

A parody on this appeared in the Oct.
o. of The Stamp, by "Shepard," as follows:—
"SAMPLE Copy, Please Subscribe," in a phrase we all have seen,
Stamped upon all sorts of papers in inks of every hue.
It sometimes makes us weary, but there's one far worse than that,
"Your subscription has expired. Please renew!"

A.A. Bartlett, in his stamp
"Reminiscences" falls into poetry, warning collectors that they cannot achieve fame without years of toil:—
Let us then be up and doing
With a heart for any fate;
Still achieving, still pursuing
Learn to labor and to wait.

When those large U.S. post-cards first came out they were compared to a board and a shingle. The Oakland Enquirer says:—
'Twas not some legal document
That knocked me out so hard;
No, the postman only brought
A new style postal card.

The following egotistical effusion is from the pen of "Rex."
I can scribble stamplc verses
Full of smothered groans and curses,
I can write up catchy headlines that will suit philatelic taste.

On the slightest provocation
I can thunder an oration,
That will silence all collectors and scatter them post haste.

Frank Brown, the editor of The American Philatelic Magazine is responsible for the following:—
There was a maid in Ashantee
Whose clothing was awfully scanty,
To keep out the damp
She stuck on a stamp
'Twas found in the hut of a Fantee.

This is called nursery rhymes, or the "Excelsior" style of poetry, of which
"Canadensis" is very fond.

The Collector recently had a poem by "Jack" entitled "A Bucket of Stamps" in which he says:—
How dear to my heart are the stamps in my album,
As in turning the pages I present them to view;
There are the finest locals and departments so handsome,
And most every stamp the catalogue knew.

The rhythm of that rhyme however is not correct. The first line has twelve syllables, the second twelve, the third fourteen, and the fourth at the most, eleven, by pronouncing "e-v-e-ry" as with three syllables. This is the point in poetry; to be a success you must have correct grammar, with a clear meaning. The verse about should have been written either with 12 and 10 syllables alternately, or 10 and 8, although certain styles with 9 or 11 all through are frequently met with.

There are a number of peripatetic poets who occasionally fly off the handle with a verse or two. "C.H.P.R." in the Worcester Co. Philatelist gives us the following:—
'Twas deep within the night's dark watches
Where thick the shadows fell;
A man who sought a "postage" stamp
Dared ring a Druggist's bell;
The Druggist, though he slumbered sound,
Was very soon on deck;
And then that fellow got that stamp,
With both feet on his neck.

L.S. Morton, of New York, is getting quite a reputation as a verse producer. Here is one of his latest:—
Full many a gem, that might an album grace
The dusty chests in some old garret hold,
Full many a stamp was born to fade its face
And waste its rareness in the dust and mould.

Speaking of the bogus stamps and the counterfeits, "Brit" an English correspondent says:—
So long as the world goes round
Will fakers and fakes abound;
The people who make them
Will find folks to take them,
So long as the world goes round.

A couple of suggestive lines written by C.B. Corwin last year come to my memory much clearer in the light of past events. He says:—
If so soon I was done for,
Pray what was I begun for.

There are a large number of writers like H.H. Zobel, B.L. Drew and H.F. Kantner, who occasionally quote their favorite poet. The first mentioned sticks to Longfellow, the second to Shelley, and the last to Charles Mackey. My favorite poet is dead! Tennyson—sweet name to me; but his works still live!

"The Philatelic Waltizes" and "Postal Card Galop", composed by Hans C. Warner and Wm. A. Pond, Jr., are pretty productions in the musical line. One of these was dedicated to P.M. Wolsieffer.
A song and chorus was go up on the retirement of the old 3 cent green U.S. stamp:—
Good by, old stamp it's human luck,
That ends our friendship so;
When others failed, you always stuck,
But now you have to go
Good-buy, old friend of many years
Good-buy, old stamp, good-buy!

Another aspirant for poetical honors is our young friend Cleve Scott. He has only entered the ranks of the poets but bids fair to outtrival a Goodly number, Jewett's Philatelic Mocking Bird to the contrary, notwithstanding. One of his latest is on "Morgan, the Fraud," a verse of which runs thusly:—
Where is Morgan the stamp man of Camden, N.J.
The "Publisher of the Columbian Philatelist" they say.
Stamp out the stamp fraud as he enters the ring,
"Philately clear of frauds" we philatelists must sing.
Another of his attempts is entitled "A Philatelic Musing," depicting a dream. While not as good as the former, still it has certain redeeming features which can only be found upon reading the whole. One of the verses runs thusly:—

Two's the diligent brain of Wanamaker, The King of all his class, Who worked for the good of philately and all its jolly mass. Sebeck's speculation, busted clear unto the core, His speculation worsted, his schemes were no more.

With age this poet can improve. Above all things correct rhythm must be observed.

Then we have the doggerel rhymesters, alias boy poets, a good example of which can be found in the Pennsylvania Philatelist for November, and it goes under the Foxy name of "Why We Shout!" It is the richest thing in its line seen for many a day. No attempt is made at correct rhythm, but we give the best verse of all, which runs as follows:—

Then, oh then, with joyous shout Let us rent the air about, In an ecstasy of unadulterated bliss and cheer, And proclaim to every one, Who is longing for a gun The common reason for our shouting— "Winter'll soon be hear!"

Everyone who reads it no doubt longs for a gun and at the same time a tender wish that the "only boy poet" would have in sight. Freddy get your gun! The following memorial verse was written after recovering from a bilious attack consequent upon reading "Why We Shout?":—

Without the smile from stampic beauty won, Oh! what, a poet? A boy without a sun, And yet, perhaps not quite as bad as that For there still remains the solace of a foxy cat.

"Requiescat in Pace!"

The last offering — I hesitate to call it a verse — seems to be a Hooper concoction. Still to come, space and readers willing, are some examples of Hooper's limericks.

I wonder when the philatelic term "unhinged" originated? Applied to stamps, it is complimentary. Applied to the above examples of poetry, and to at least some of the people who wrote them, it may not be!

Part XVII — The Biography of a Letter Writer

Most postal history articles deal with the outside of letters, showing how the markings tell the story of a letter’s progress from the writer to the addressee; this is its essence. However, there is another side of collecting early stampless letters, namely their contents. The great majority of letters are either business correspondence, acknowledging the receipt of a shipment or reporting on the sale of goods, or are of a personal family nature, which is of little interest without knowing the family concerned. But every so often, the letter writer comments on a subject, about which we learned in school, and such references bring extra meaning to what otherwise might only be matters of passing interest. I have a number of this kind of letter and write about them on occasion to interest readers with another aspect of postal history.

One such letter was from John Nairne, the Seigneur of Murray Bay, written on 1 March 1799 to a relative in Edinburgh. This tells much about this early Scottish settler on the north shore of the St. Lawrence River, sixty miles through the wilderness below Quebec City. I have used this letter before in articles and the last time it prompted Allan Steinhart to send me a biography of John Nairne, which augments this letter and so justifies combining them.

John Nairne must have been interested in improving himself. For knowing the remoteness of Murray Bay even today from any centre of culture and realizing that the only means of overseas communication two hundred years ago was to flag down a trading vessel on its way to sea from Quebec City and hope that the captain would anchor long enough to receive letters, it seems incredible that Nairne wrote the following as a postscript to his letter:

“The Encyclopedia Britannica is no doubt completely finished by this time. I have received here as far as the 17th Vol Part 1st, but being so valuable a Book, would not choose to risk the other Volumes to be sent out here till the War is finished, as the Ships, for this Country are sometimes taken by the French = farewell.”

A couple of years ago, I happened to tell a lifelong friend, who is a bibliophile, about this comment. He told me that he had a copy of this edition of the Britannica, which he had found among old family papers. It was published in serial form, much like a modern magazine, and his copy was still in its original state—he has since had it bound.
Much of the letter tells of the problems of settling in Lower Canada some forty years after it was captured from the French. In fact, his comments help to explain the recent difficulties the Canadian governments have been having in trying to reach agreement on a Constitution for the whole country. He wrote:

"We are here at great distance from War, or any War’s alarms, being on the very best terms with our American Neighbours and the numbers of people in this Province increase greatly, only our Roman Catholic Subjects are yet as in the far back Centuries, which I often regret for this place from their losing a great deal of time by holy days and on idleness which for new Settlers on woody lands and with numbers of Children most of them (far from being able to pay me any thing for Such lands yet) require assistance...I have told you that our house is one of the best and largest in this part of the Country, though not to be compared to yours at Woodburn, and am likewise proud of my Garden, though Christine Scorns to look at it, and she holds us too cheap - We have no news in this Province, only of an instance which is unusual, that our Governor (Gen’ Prescott) and his Council cannot agree (are even at great variance) about granting away, what is called, the Waste lands of the Crown, to numbers of applicants who present themselves, that is of people applying for Lots of land, or Townships, in this vast woody Country which is so extensive in this Province, the boundaries are yet unknown. They differ in opinion about the value of such lands, whom of the applicants to reject (being mostly from the American States and afraid of bad Subjects) and whom to prefer... The members of the Council are unanimous in differing from the Council, judging the Governor’s ideas the best. It seems that most Gentlemen from Europe cannot easily comprehend a certain fact, in judging lands in this Country, which is that these (what they call) waste lands of the Crown till such time as expensive labour is bestowed upon them and roads opened are absolutely of no value, worth nothing and that it is of the greatest Service to the public in general to encourage Settlers upon them - This dispute must be referred to further instructions from home and it's to be hoped the British Government will decide that matter in a liberal manner and allow this Western World to be peopled as quickly as possible".

Perhaps Nairne had a personal interest in some of these lands as a speculation. In a codicil to his will contained in the letter, he listed Scottish property worth £4,000; the Seigneurie of Murray Bay, £1,000; two houses in Quebec City, £450; and an outstanding loan of £630. He was a wealthy man for his day.

While this letter was probably carried to Scotland by one of the first trading vessels to come down the river after the spring break-up of the St. Lawrence River ice, he mentioned that he did "not intend to answer till the Autumn by our fleet, being the surest Conveyance" other important letters. This referred to the annual convoy of trading vessels from Quebec, which were escorted by Royal Navy ships returning to England for the winter.

This letter, illustrated here, was landed at Greenock, where it was struck with a circular "GREENOCK SHIP LRE" and rated 6d Sterling postage due. On arrival at Edinburgh it was datestamped 25 July. As this was the correct inland postage to Edinburgh, it would appear that the 4d Stg. ship letter fee was overlooked.

Nairne's biography shows that he was born in Scotland on 1 March 1731 to a family with Jacobite sympathies. He studied at Edinburgh until he enlisted in the 1st battalion Stewart's Regiment of the Scots Brigade at the age of fourteen for Dutch service. In 1757, he returned to Scotland and obtained a lieutenant's commission in the 78th Foot, going to Ile Royale (Cape Breton) in June with the regiment and took part in the capture of Louisbourg in 1758 and of Quebec City in 1759. An interestingly aside was that Nairne, like others of his ilk, suffered badly from the rigours of a Quebec winter and gratefully accepted the warm woolen stockings knitted by the nuns for the highlanders in their kilts.

By now he was a captain, having borrowed £400 from James Murray, the governor, to buy his new commission, he decided to look for some land. In September 1761, he went with his friend and companion in arms Malcolm Fraser to La Malbaie and, liking what he saw, he asked Murray for a grant of land. On 27 April 1762, Murray divided the seigniory of La Malbaie and granted it to Nairne and Fraser. Fraser took Mount Murray and Nairne took Murray Bay, which included the village of La Malbaie. To buy the equipment and existing buildings, he had to pay £85 6s. 8d.

On taking possession, Nairne retired from the army on half pay and brought some soldiers from the 78th Foot with him, hoping to found a small Scottish, Protestant settlement. However, they married local French Canadian girls and so negated his plans. When he later tried to obtain a clergyman for his seigniory, it was turned down because there were only five Protestant families in Murray Bay. His biographer referred to his constant lament that the Roman Catholic faith and its round of feast days prevented his censitaires from maintaining sufficient production—a subject dwelled on in the above letter.

He married Christiana Emory, another Scot, on 20 July 1769 at Quebec and for the next six years, he attended to his seigniory between trips to Scotland. With the threat of an American invasion in 1775, he undertook to raise a regiment of Canadians from La Malbaie and surroundings. He served as an army officer for the next eight years, rising to the rank of lieutenant colonel on 19 February 1783. After receiving this commission, he sold that of major in the Royal Highland Emigrants for £3,000 in the autumn of that year and settled permanently in Murray Bay, although he kept close links with Quebec City.
Things had prospered and by 1798, the parish that had been created on the seigniory had more than 500 inhabitants, including 100 men able to bear arms, with mills, fishing rooms, good houses and barns, fertile fields, and a priest with whom Nairne was on excellent terms despite his religious concerns. He personally owned three farms, each with 100 acres of arable land and buildings. His children all became integrated with their French neighbours, much to his dismay. When he became ill in 1802, he asked to be taken to Quebec City, where he died on 14 July 1802. Thomas, his only son to survive him, was in the army and not interested in the seigniory, which his wife took care of until her death in 1828.

Knowing more of the man from his biography, his letter becomes much more meaningful.

A So Far Unique Usage of the 1855 French Exposition Universelle Postmark?

by Ralph Mitchener, F.R.P.S.C.

The content of philatelic literature can be of great help in providing useful information. It can also be misleading at times.

Both of these aspects were evident in my search for clues about the cover illustrated in Figure 1. The search was aided by the holdings of the library of the Canadian Postal Archives, in Ottawa.

I chanced upon the cover a good number of years ago at a stamp bourse in Toronto and was attracted by the colorful combination of colors of the postmarks on its front.

Seemingly mailed from the Universal Exposition (a black postmark) in Paris on June 11, 1855, it has a black Paris-Calais railway backstamp of the same date. A boxed reddish-orange "PD" marking was, I assume, applied in Paris.

Dans cet article monsieur Mitchener informe nos lecteurs de la découverte de l'existence de la marque postale de l'Exposition universelle de 1855 comme oblitération de départ. Cette marque était jusqu'à maintenant inconnue utilisée pour cette raison quoique qu'on a longtemps cru à son existence sans en avoir de preuve. De plus monsieur Mitchener entreprends d'expliquer pourquoi la marque, lorsqu'elle est illustrée dans certaines publications, manquait les traits avant et après le mot POSTES.

A reddish-orange London (?) paid marking of June 12 contrasts pleasantly with the blue Worthing receiving postmark of June 13.

I do not know the meaning of the manuscript figure -- is it a "7"? -- on the... cover front. It is in black ink and does not seem to correspond to any contemporary France to England rate. There is also a manuscript marking -- is it also a "7" -- on the back of the cover (Figure 2). Could a British dealer years ago have charged seven shillings for the cover?

Two handbooks with information on French postmarks, Yvert and Tellier's Catalogue Spécialisé des Timbres de France (Tome 1, 1975), and Armand Mathieu's Oblitérations de Paris sur Timbres Détachés (1849-1876) -- published in 1974, illustrate a fairly similar 1855 Exposition postmark (Figure 3). Both sources note that it is only known on the back of envelopes as a receiving mark on incoming mail.

Was my cover doctored? I put it aside from some time and thought no more about it until, while browsing through the April 1966 number of the Balasse Magazine, I came across an illustration of an incoming cover to the Exposition with a backstamp that clearly showed dashes before and after "POSTES."

The earlier illustrations may well have been copied from a still earlier source. At any rate, it now seemed that they could be wrong.

I had previously shown the cover to several postal history dealers. None could give any indication as to its genuineness. Indeed, one took a photocopy of it with him while on a trip to Paris. He showed it to some dealers there and, again, could get no positive assurance.

It was not until recently that I had further proof that the dashes belonged, and that the cover in question -- having originated at the Exposition -- could, for at least the time being, be unique.

A thoroughly researched article, "Paris. 1855: Le Bureau de Poste Supplémentaire de l'Exposition Universelle" by Guy Prugnon, in the July-August 1989 number

My immediate problem was that the illustrations -- both looked the same and had the same July 12 date -- did not show dashes before and after "POSTES". The postmark on my cover had them.
of Le Monde des Philatélistes, casts much more light on the dashes and on the cover itself. An illustration showed a July 7 postmark -- on the back of an incoming cover -- with the dashes. Prugnon indicated that no covers had so far been found that had originated at the Exposition post office and that had its postmark. He made the interesting observation that if they do exist, they would have been sent to destinations outside France and would have been handed in at the counter.

Other correspondence originating at the Exposition would have been sent directly to the central Paris post office for postmarking, except for mail to officials at the Exposition itself which might also have had the postmark as an originating strike. No examples of the latter have so far been unearthed.

My search for printed information about the postmark seemed to come to a full circle when I saw an article -- "Exposition universelle: des oblitérations à rechercher" in the June 1991 number of L'Écho de la Timbrologie -- containing an illustration of a dashless July 12 marking. The article noted that it had a diameter of 21 mm -- that, at least, was correct -- and is only known on the back of covers as a receiving mark.

The often-used July 12 illustration needs to be updated, given that there is certainly evidence that there are dashes before and after "POSTES". If my example is genuine, it can now be documented that the postmark was also used at the Exposition post office on a least one piece of outgoing mail.

The A.I.S.P.* Philatelic Literature Prize

Since January 1, 1991, the Italian Postal History Association (A.I.S.P.) offers an award for a philatelic literature work. The prize will be awarded annually, and assigned to the author, or alternatively to the Editor, of a work related to philatelic and or/postal history literature. This work must have been published not earlier than five years prior to the date of the annual prize and written either in a western language or published bilingually.

The prize consists of a sum of 3,000 Swiss francs or the equivalent in gold coins.

A Committee of Experts will select the works to be entered into competition and will choose the prize winner. The A.I.S.P. Philatelic Literature Prize will be presented to the winner at a ceremony which will take place during the meeting of the A.I.S.P., expected to be each year immediately before Christmas.

The A.I.S.P. Association will take care to promote, through appropriate advertising channels, the institution and the availability of the Philatelic Literature prize.

Notes on Centennial Issue Precancels by E.R. Toop, F.R.P.S.C. and
H. Reiche, F.R.P.S.C.

In 1988 The Canada Precancel Handbook was released by The Unitrade Press, of Toronto. The handbook was the result of combined research efforts by H.G. Walburn, J.E. Kraemer, H. Reiche and T.A. Stott. Now, three years later, a number of new discoveries have been made. This new information is being printed in The Canadian Philatelist in order to keep precancel collectors up-to-date. This is the first report.

The precancelled Centennial issue of 1967 is well known for the various papers, dies and perforations which were produced by the two printing companies, the British American Bank Note Company and the Canadian Bank Note Company. The Canada Precancel Handbook indicates that two different types of overprints were used — a thin bar and a thick bar type. The thin bar was believed to come only from the Canadian Bank Note Company and the thick bar or medium thick bar from the British American Bank Note Company. The one-cent brown, The Standard Canada Precancel Catalogue No. X-454, printed by the Canadian Bank Note Company, has been found with thick bars. This raises the question as to whether the thick bars were applied by the Canadian Bank Note Company. We are unable to verify that the one-cent value was ever overprinted by the British American Bank Note Company.

The Canada Precancel Handbook notes that the six-cent black, The Standard Canada Precancel Catalogue No. X-460, reworked die perforated 12.5 x 12, was printed by the Canadian Bank Note Company. This is not correct. The British American Bank Note Company did the printing. The six-cent black die 1 printed by the Canadian Bank Note Company has now been reported on a ribbed type paper. This variety should be added to the list in the handbook on page 142.

The official release dates of most of the modern precancels are almost nonexistent. Fortunately, at least one can be recorded. The six-cent orange, The Standard Canada Precancel Catalogue No. X-459, was released on November 1, 1968. This release date is the date the precancelled stamp became available to the public.

A further report will contain new information on precancel warning strips.

OUR VENDORS SPEAK

Toronto, Ont.

Dear Bill,

I have had the opportunity of both buying and selling through your organization for many years and I feel the time has come for me to express my thanks for your assistance.

It has been my experience that while you are anxious to do the best you can for those who entrust their properties to you, of the same importance, you are very careful to provide potential buyers with honest and accurate descriptions. Illustrations are costly but, if items called for it, you provide them even though the probable dollar realization may not justify it.

I have also been impressed with the fact that you have brought out important features in your descriptions which the owner had not been aware of. This is a real philatelic service not only to the seller but the buyer as well.

Summing up, I have developed complete confidence not only in the manner in which you conduct your business but in the depth of philatelic knowledge throughout your organization as well.

I hope our relationship will continue for many more years.

Sincerely,

Harry W. Lussey

DEALERS IN RARE STAMPS SINCE 1924
Postmarked Ottawa
by Hans Reiche

Retail stamp stores appear to be becoming past history. Just very few remain which do not have tied to the store an auction, wholesale, consulting or other feature. Years ago many stamp stores were just retail stores and most of them did well. The demand for higher profits and larger sales against higher operating costs are probably the reason for these changes. These stores used to have very large selections and they kept their stock updated. Often one could buy unsorted material in boxes for little more than the wholesale price. The writer recalls buying used Admirals by the pound. Another box contained German Colonies and one large envelope had about 65 one-penny blacks of Great Britain, many in good condition with a price tag of $40. Those days are gone. Over the last few years this writer bid on various auction lots containing large lots of used Admirals, but so far no luck. All had been sorted before. The writer knows of two large never-sorted lots of Admirals and King Edward VII one and two-cent stamps, BUT! The owner calculated the lot by using the Scott Catalogue and added for the about 750,000 stamps a value around $50,000. His price for the lot was $20,000.

Unconfirmed news from a collector in Montreal indicates that the coil stamps have been found with a new perforation. All coils issued for some time have a perforation 10, but many new perforations have been found on sheet and booklet stamps. The Post Office does not announce these.

Looking through some old records it can be noted that it is 40 years ago that the first book appeared on Canadian constant plate varieties with the title Canada's Major and Minor Varieties from 1897 Up. Over the years many more publications appeared, expanding on the original. Today practically no collection overlooks such varieties and exhibitions often include them in form of plate flaws, re-entries and retouches. The interesting part is that the original publication resulted in further research, new finds and improved philatelic knowledge. For example a re-entry on the 3-cent Small Queen was listed. Finds of very similar re-entries gave way to a recently-started study of plate printing states of this stamp. This kind of study will give inside knowledge of the printing process and add information to the complex issue of the Small Queen stamps.

Royale* 1991* Royal, the 63rd annual convention and national show was held at the Dorval Community Centre. More about this show has been written by others. It was a very nice show and very enjoyable and well organized with some excellent exhibits. But, why can the various societies or organizations not get together and prevent overlapping of such events? A total of 15 shows were held at the same time such as ROPEX 91, WEPNEX, OKPEX 91, PARFOREX, WINPEX 91 just to mention a few of them. Attendance and the number of dealers could be improved by better show scheduling.

A question: what do you do with all the philatelic material which arrives every year? A not unusual arrival would be journals of eight societies, auction catalogues, price lists, newsletters and newspapers, Canada Post announcements, etc. Add all up in the writer’s mail amount to about 326 per year! Dealers are not interested in this and other collectors may have most of this themselves. Once in a while an ad appears for some special hard-to-find items. How about letting others know what you do or is the round box one solution for recycling?
Fellows of the Society
by Beverlie A. Clark, F.R.P.S.C.

Charles P. de Volpi
1910 - 1981

Charles Patrick de Volpi, member 4275, the dean of Canadian postal history, was elected a Fellow of our Society in 1976.

Charlie was born in Montreal on July 16, 1910, and died on November 24, 1981. As a young man he started as a salesman with Perkins Paper Products, of Montreal. He retired, after fifty years, as Chairman of the Board and owner of the company. Also, for a number of years he was Honorary Colonel of the Royal Canadian Hussars.

He started stamp collecting when he was 12 years old as a general collector, but before long he developed an interest in Canadian stamps. His postage stamp collections covered the period up through the Small Queens. However, by the early 1950s he had disposed of all his stamps when his main interest became Canadian postal history material of the 17th, 18th and early 19th centuries. Then in 1965-66 he disposed of most of collections retaining his great love and interest, the collections of the Fur Trade, Hudson's Bay Company and the North West Company of Western Canada from the mid-eighteenth century until the Second Riel Rebellion. He was always considered, during his lifetime, as the leading authority on Canadian postal history. His collections of "Canada Pre-Stamp", "Canada - 1851 to 1868" and "Western Canada Postal History" all won Grand awards.

Besides being honoured when elected a Fellow of our Society, he was honoured when elected to the Order of the Beaver, the honorary Fellowship of the British North America Philatelic Society. He was president of BNAPEX for 1955-1956, as well as being a founding member, and also served several terms as a member of its Board of Governors. He was the founder and first president of the B.N.A. Collectors Club of Montreal. He served on a number of philatelic juries - both nationally and internationally, and was host chairman for three BNAPEX conventions, 1953 (Montreal), 1962 and 1967 (Ste. Marguerite, Que.).

His great enthusiasm and interest for Canadian postal history, which lasted throughout his life, sparked his interest in numerous other fields of Canadiana collecting. The first - prints and illustrations - culminated in ten monumental "Pictorial Histories", which he began publishing in 1962. This interest then led Charlie and his wife, Margaret, into the collecting of china with views of various parts of Canada, including many from W.H. Bartlett's Canadian Scenery. In order to properly display it in their home they collected early Canadian tables, commodes and armoires. Some of the other fine Canadiana collections which he formed were: Canadian pewter (the largest and best documented collection), Eskimo carvings in ivory, Indian trade silver, Canadian silver, coins and medals, sugar molds, trivets, water colours, decoys, skates, toys (mainly primitive), and weathervanes. He also stripped, repaired, cleaned and restored his collections of furniture and artifacts.

He became an expert in all of his collecting fields, and went on to document all his material, building an enormous Canadiana library. He was a true collector - one who loved what he collected and collected items only because they belonged in his collections - not for financial gain.

During the latter years of his life he gave away many of his collections to universities and museums.

ARTICLES DE PAPIERERIE PRÉAFFRANCHIE ÉMIS À L’OCCASION DE CANADA 92
OTTAWA (le 26 avril 1991) – La Société canadienne des postes a annoncé aujourd’hui qu’elle émettra, le 3 mai prochain, des articles de papeterie préaffranchie pour souligner la tenue de CANADA 92, l’exposition philatélique internationale des jeunes, qui se tiendra au Palais des Congrès de Montréal du 25 au 29 mars 1992. C’est la première fois que la Société émettra de la papeterie préaffranchie commémorative.

Ces produits sont les premiers d’une série d’enveloppes préaffranchies commémoratives qui seront lancées au cours des prochains mois.

On pourra se procurer les nouveaux articles, une enveloppe préaffranchie numéro 8 et une enveloppe préaffranchie numéro 10 portant chacune un timbre de 0,40$, à divers points de vente et par commande postale pour la somme de 0,43$ et de 0,44$, respectivement. Le logotype CANADA 92 figure au dos des enveloppes.
Kinsella arena, May 3-5. The show is in celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Ottawa Philatelic Society.

Called Colonial Postage, the series features pre-stamped envelopes bearing reproductions of some of Canada’s early postage produced by the then-British colonies before Confederation.

Rather than a simple screened reproduction, each indicia design was created using the intaglio line work found in the original stamps.

The number 8 envelope bears the reproduction of a stamp issued by the then-colony of New Brunswick in 1851, the year that Britain gave the colonies control of their postal systems. The three-pence stamps shown on the envelope featured a royal crown and heraldic flowers of the British Isles, and could be used on local and inter-colonial mail.

The number 10 envelope features a stamp issued by the colony of Nova Scotia in 1853, which was the first colony to introduce adhesive postage stamps. The one-penny stamp shown on the envelope featured the young Queen Victoria.

CANADA DAY STAMP CELEBRATES CANADA’S 124TH BIRTHDAY
OTTAWA (24 May 1991) — Canada Post Corporation will be celebrating Canada’s birthday again this year with the traditional Canada Day commemorative stamp issue.

Le lancement de la papeterie préaffranchie s’effectuera dans le cadre d’ORAPEX, une exposition philatélique nationale qui aura lieu du 3 au 5 mai à Ottawa, à Ottawa, à l’aréna Ray Kinsella du Centre RA. Cet événement souligne le 100e anniversaire de la Ottawa Philatelic Society.

Initulée Timbres-poste des colonies britanniques, la série est constituée d’enveloppes préaffranchies sur lesquelles sont reproduits d’anciens timbres qu’ont émis les provinces canadiennes avant la Conféderation, à titre de colonies britanniques.

Les vignettes ne sont pas de simples reproductions: chaque motif a été recréé à partir du dessin original, une gravure en creux.

L’enveloppe numéro 8 présente une reproduction d’un timbre qu’a émis le Nouveau-Brunswick en 1851, année où l’Angleterre a confié à ses colonies l’administration du service postal. Le timbre de trois pence, sur lequel figure la couronne royale et les fleurs héraldiques des îles Britanniques, était destiné au courrier local et aux envois entre les colonies.

L’enveloppe numéro 10 porte un timbre qu’a émis la colonie de la Nouvelle-Écosse en 1853, la première colonie à introduire l’usage de timbres-poste gommés. Ce timbre de un penny a pour motif la jeune reine Victoria.

The 40-cent stamp shows a stylized maple leaf symbolizing growth and celebration.

The stamp will be introduced at the National Capital Airshow in Ottawa on Saturday, June 29.

July 1st this year will mark the 124th anniversary of Confederation, a day that features celebrations and activities on the grounds of the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa and in many towns and cities across the country.

The stamp was created by a team of designers who have never before designed a stamp: Jean-Pierre Veilleux, Lisa Miller, and Roger Séguin, and illustrator Laurie Lafrance.

The simple, abstract line drawing suggests the natural elements of sunshine and water above and below a maple leaf to represent growth and an atmosphere of celebration.

Official First Day Covers will bear an Ottawa, Ontario cancellation and a cachet featuring a colour photo of the Peace Tower during Canada Day celebrations.

TIMBRE POUR LA FÊTE DU CANADA: LE PAYS CÉLÈBRE SON 124e ANNIVERSAIRE
OTTAWA (le 24 mai 1991) — Fidèle à ce qui est devenu une tradition, la Société canadienne des postes souligne la fête du Canada au moyen de l'émission d'un timbre commémoratif.

Le timbre de 0,40$ a pour motif une feuille d'érable stylisée évoquant tant la croissance que les célébrations qui entourent la fête.

Le dévoilement du timbre aura lieu à Ottawa, le samedi 29 juin, dans le cadre du Spectacle aérien de la Capitale nationale.

Sera célébré le 1er juillet 1991 le 124e anniversaire de la Confédération. L'événement sera souligné au moyen d'activités qui se dérouleront sur la Colline du Parlement à Ottawa ainsi que dans nombre de villes et localités du pays.

Le motif du timbre est le fruit des efforts des graphistes Jean-Pierre Veilleux, Lisa Miller, Roger Séguin et de l'illustratrice Laurie Lafrance. Il s'agit de leur première participation à la création d'un timbre-poste.

Le dessin au trait simple et abstrait représentant la feuille d'érable bordée de deux éléments naturels, le soleil et l'eau, évoque la croissance et la gaîté.

Le pli Premier jour officiel sera oblitéré à Ottawa, en Ontario, et il comportera une photo en couleurs de la Tour de la Paix prise pendant les festivités organisées à l'occasion de la fête du Canada.

OTTAWA (June 13, 1991) — The third and final issue in the Small Craft stamp series will be issued July 18 with a set of four stamps featuring pleasure boats. The 40-cent stamps depict a verchère rowboat, touring kayak, sailing dinghy, and cedar strip canoe.

From their beginnings to today, boats have evolved from being used as necessary means of transportation to recreational tools.

In addition to pane stamps and Official First Day Covers, a limited quantity of special Souvenir Editions containing the 12 stamps in the series will be available for $6.95. The special edition will explore the pleasure boats issue and include a retrospective of the two previous issues in the series, which focused on native

DERNIÈRE ÉMISSION DE TIMBRES DE LA SÉRIE CONSACRÉE AUX EMBARCATIONS D’ORIGINE CANADIENNE - LES EMBARCATIONS DE PLAISANCE

OTTAWA (le 13 juin 1991) - Le troisième et dernier jeu de timbres de la série sur les embarcations sera lancé le 18 juillet. Ce jeu de quatre timbres de 0,40$ aura pour thème les embarcations de plaisance et illustrera la chaloupe verchère, le kayak de randonnée, le dériveur léger et le canot de cèdre lamellé.

Servant autrefois uniquement de moyen de transport, les embarcations sont aujourd’hui devenues une excellente source de divertissement.

Outre les feuilles et les plis Premier jour officiels, une quantité limitée d’exemplaires d’une édition-souvenir contenant les douze timbres de la série, seront offerts au prix de 6,95$. Cette édition spéciale traitera des embarcations de plaisance et comportera une rétrospective des deux émissions précédentes.

As with the previous stamps in the series, designer Louis-André Rivard and illustrator Bernard Leduc collaborated on the issue, which features full-colour drawings showing each of the boats in use. Blueprint-style plans of the boats are shown in the foreground.

The verchère rowboat originally appeared on the St. Lawrence around the mid-1800s. The first to build this stable flat-bottomed rowboat is thought to be Louis St-Pierre, who lived near the town of Verchères, Québec.

The touring kayak is longer and wider than its white-water counterpart and offers great stability. Today’s high-tech materials like fibreglass and polymer have replaced the original hunting kayak made of driftwood and seal leather.

The sailing dinghy, popularly known as the Laser, was originally constructed in 1970 as a prototype for an American boat regatta. Initially called the “Weekender” it was designed to be small, portable, and suitable for use as either a pleasure or racing boat.

Cedar strip canoes are often used today by avid canoeists who enjoy the smooth, slick ride of a well-crafted wooden canoe. Made of planking laid longitudinally, it was first produced sometime around the mid-to-late 1800s.

Official First Day Covers will bear a Verchères, Québec cancellation and a cachet featuring a colour photo of a cedar strip canoe.

Tout comme pour les autres jeux de la série, le graphiste Louis-André Rivard et l’illustrateur Bernard Leduc présentent les embarcations dans leur contexte d’utilisation par des dessins en couleurs. En avant-plan de chaque timbre figure un schéma de la structure des embarcations.

La chaloupe verchère a été vue pour la première fois sur le Saint-Laurent vers les années 1850. On croit que le premier homme à construire ce type de chaloupe a été Louis St-Pierre, qui vivait près de Verchères au Québec.

Plus long et plus large que le kayak de rapides, le kayak de randonnée offre une grande stabilité. Les matériaux de pointe que l’on utilise aujourd’hui pour le fabriquer, la fibre de verre et les polymères entre autres, ont remplacé le bois flotté et la peau de phoque dont étaient faits les premiers kayaks de chasse.

Le premier dériveur léger, baptisé "Weekender", été construit en 1970 pour faire partie d’une régate américaine. Maintenant mieux connu sous le nom de Laser, le dériveur léger est petit et démontable, et peut servir aussi bien pour la randonnée que pour la course.

Le canot de cèdre lamellé est surtout utilisé par les adeptes du canot qui aiment glisser doucement sur les eaux calmes. Formé de lattes longitudinales, le canot de cèdre a été créé vers le milieu on la fin des années 1800.

Les pîls Premier jour officiels porteront une oblitération de Verchères au Québec et seront illustrés par une photographie en couleurs d’un canot de cèdre lamellé.

The Judging Column -
La rubrique du juge

by/par Charles J.G. Verge
Chairman, R.P.S.C. Judging Programme
Président, Programme des juges, S.R.P.C.

The purpose of this regular column will be to inform the readers on the policies, regulations and changes to same related to philatelic judging and exhibiting in Canada. As well, general information will be provided as to new accredited judges, changes in international judges and judging, information related to national and international shows, etc.

The column will be of particular interest to judges, apprentice judges, those that wish to become judges, exhibitors and potential exhibitors. It should also attract the general reader and member of the Society as, I hope, it would encourage them to join the judging or exhibiting fraternity. To reach that goal, I will attempt to demystify both of these areas.

At its meeting of May 4, 1991, held at Ottawa, the Board of Directors of the R.P.S.C. approved the motto and the philosophy for the judging programme and by extension the motto and the philosophy should be picked up by all judges as their own. This first article will consist in publicizing two new elements to what I hope will be a completely revamped judging programme in Canada.

THE MOTTO:
Judging Excellence through Quality Judging

THE PAPER:
A Philosophy and Approach for Philatelic Judging in Canada

OUR CUSTOMERS:
The philatelic exhibitor, the accredited judge, the apprentice judge and the potential exhibitor.

Cette rubrique a pour but d’informer ses lecteurs sur les politiques et règlements, ainsi que les changements à ceux-ci, relatifs aux expositions et à l’art de juger les collections philatéliques. De plus des informations seront fournies sur les nouveaux juges accrédités, les changements chez les juges internationaux et sur les expositions nationales et internationales.

La rubrique devrait être d’un intérêt particulier aux juges, aux juges-apprentis, ceux qui veulent le devenir, aux exposants actuels et éventuels. Par contre elle devrait aussi attirer le lecteur en général et les membres de notre Société car j’espère qu’elle les encouragera à devenir membre de la fraternité des juges et des exposants. Afin de les y aider, j’essaierai de démystifier le processus.

A sa réunion du 4 mai dernier tenue à Ottawa, le Comité de direction de la S.R.P.C. a approuvé la devise et la philosophie qui sous-tendent le programme des juges et par extension cette devise et cette philosophie devraient être adoptées par tous les juges comme leurs. Ce premier article énoncera donc les deux premiers éléments d’un programme renouvelée de l’art de juger au Canada.

LA DEVISE:
Un jugement supérieur atteint par un rendement de qualité

LE DOCUMENT:
Juger en philatélie: une philosophie et une approche
In the fast changing philatelic and world environment, satisfying all segments of the philatelic community is getting tougher and tougher. They demand and deserve more...better...more accurate judging. That means judges must improve their performance in every area of philatelic judging. They must anticipate, act and follow through better than before. Every one of the judges must work to continuously improve the quality of their processes, of their training and of their judging.

To keep satisfying changing needs judges and the Judging Programme Committee must:
- Maintain close and continuous communication with both judges and exhibitors as well as apprentice judges and potential exhibitors;
- Understand the judge and exhibitor’s needs ... exactly what products and services are needed and when and how they will be delivered;
- Commit to meeting those needs;
- Apply the resources, time, processes, tools and skills needed;
- Deliver what is promised when it is promised; and,
- Take pride in current successes and constantly work for continuous improvement.

JUDGES' INVOLVEMENT:
Our ability to satisfy all segments of the community depends upon our involvement.
Each judge has the ultimate responsibility for quality performance and quality improvement in their own judging. Insights based on direct knowledge yield many small - and sometime large - contributions to improving judging quality; but only if they are shared. In judging panel situations, however, improvements generally require cooperative action and teamwork. In fact, successful implementation of many significant improvements in

NOS CLIENTS:
L’exposant, le juge accrédité, le juge-apprenti et l’exposant éventuel.
Dans le contexte actuel de changement constant que l’on retrouve dans notre vie quotidienne et dans la philatélie, il devient de plus en plus difficile de satisfaire toutes les sections de la communauté philatélique. Elles exigent et se doivent de recevoir un meilleur service lors des jugements philatéliques. Ceci veut dire que les juges se doivent d’améliorer leur performance dans tous les domaines de jugements philatéliques. Les juges doivent anticiper, réagir et donner suite mieux qu’aujourd’hui. Chacun des juges se doit d’améliorer constamment la qualité des ses procédures, de sa formation et de ses jugements.

Afin de satisfaire aux besoins toujours changeant les juges et le Comité du programme des juges se doivent de:
- Maintenir une communication étroite, ouverte et constante avec les juges et les exposants ainsi qu’avec les juges-apprentis et les exposants éventuels;
- Comprendre les besoins des juges et des exposants ... quels services et matériels sont nécessaires et quand et où ils seront livrer;
- S’engager à rencontrer ces besoins;
- Y mettre les ressources, le temps, les procédures, les outils et les compétences nécessaires;
- Livrer ce qui est promis lorsqu’il est promis; et,
- Etre fier des succès obtenus et travailler d’une façon continue à s’améliorer constamment.

LA PARTICIPATION DES JUGES
De notre participation dépend notre habileté à satisfaire toutes les sections de la communauté.
C’est la responsabilité de chacun des juges de donner un service de qualité et d’améliorer la qualité de ses jugements.
philatelic judging in Canada can be achieved only through teamwork.

Using this teamwork approach we can:

- Tackle more opportunites and find better solution by drawing on the talents and experience of everyone in the philatelic community;

- Implement solutions faster. Teamwork improves communication, decision making, and action because participants share the learning and gain ownership in solutions;

- Set up a vehicle to communicate and share these improvements. This will allow judges, exhibitors, apprentice judges and potential exhibitors to significantly improve their overall performance; and,

- Recognize these improvements and those that have come up with them. Recognition will build good will and boost performance of people who have received positive feedback because they have done something special.

CONTINUOUS IMPROVEMENT:
To achieve continuous improvement, judges need to use common terms and tools, and a well-structured process.

When people in the philatelic community, judges in particular, use the same vocabulary, concepts and techniques, they communicate more effectively and work more efficiently towards improving the quality and excellence of judging.

Facts and statistics are essential to understanding and improving our judging processes. However, these facts and statistics should not be allowed to stifle intuitions. Sometimes, we all have very important insights about our particular areas of philatelic expertise that are based on experience or knowledge. But, because conditions change and past experience may no longer apply, intuitions must be verified. Fact-based knowledge is the basis.

Le raisonnement basé sur la connaissance personnelle, si il est partagé avec d’autres, permet des petites, et quelques fois des grandes, contributions à l’amélioration de la qualité du jugement. Le travail d’équipe et une action coopérative sont requises dans des situations de jury. En fait, une mise en œuvre réussie d’améliorations dans le jugement philatélique au Canada ne peut être atteinte que par le travail d’équipe.

En se servant du travail d’équipe nous pourrons:

- Entreprendre plusieurs projets et trouver de meilleures solutions en utilisant les talents et l’expérience de tous les membres de la communauté philatélique;

- Mettre plus rapidement en place les solutions. Le travail d’équipe améliore la communication, le processus décisionnel et la mise en œuvre parce que les participants partagent leurs connaissances et prennent possession des solutions;

- Mettre en place des moyens de communication pour partager ces améliorations. Ceci permettra aux juges, aux exposants, aux juges-apprentis et aux exposants éventuels d’améliorer d’une façon significative leur performance globale; et,

- Reconnaître ces améliorations et ceux qui les ont initiées. La reconnaissance contribuera à établir la bonne entente et à améliorer la performance des personnes qui ont reçu un apport positif parce qu’elles ont fait quelque chose de spécial.

AMÉLIORATION CONTINUE:
Pour en arriver à une amélioration continue, les juges se doivent d’utiliser une nomenclature et des outils communs, et des procédures bien structurées.

Lorsque les membres de la communauté philatélique, et les juges en particulier, utilisent les même vocabulaire, les mêmes concepts et techniques, ils for good decisions and solutions. As well, as in any other undertaking where there is a jury system, good decisions and solutions emerge from deliberations and consensus.

The cycle never stops; one improvement leads to the beginning of the next challenge. There are always opportunities to improve. Ideas for improvements can start when we make unsparring comparisons between ourselves and others. When we find another person or organization doing a better job, we can then pin down where, how and why they are better or doing it better.

MANAGING OUR JUDGING:
In quality judging every one of us is involved.

We can all make improvements in satisfying the philatelic community, whether it is the exhibitor, our fellow judge or ourselves. To start with:

- Each of us must know his or her roles and responsibilities;
- Each must hold himself or herself individually accountable for the work done. However, once a jury has decided, solidarity amongst its members must prevail; and,
- With the knowledge of present performance, each must then establish goals for improvement, and continually drive to meet those targets. Though targets differ depending on the individual, some versions of the following examples will apply:
  - Meeting commitments;
  - Continuing education; and,
  - Following through, and following up, with any actions needed or promised.

Since community satisfaction drives our judging, each judge’s responsibility is understanding the needs of all segments of the community and translating them into actions that consistently meet those needs.

communicuent d’une façon plus effective et travaillent plus efficacement vers l’amélioration de la qualité et de l’excellence de l’art de juger.

Les faits et les statistiques sont des éléments essentiels pour connaître et améliorer les procédures de jugement. Par contre, les faits et les statistiques ne devraient pas brimer nos intuitions. De temps en temps nous avons tous des aperçus spéciaux dans nos domaines d’expertise philatélique qui sont basés sur notre expérience et nos connaissances. Par contre, parce que les conditions changent et l’expérience passée ne s’applique plus, nos aperçus spéciaux doivent être vérifiés. Une bonne décision ou une bonne solution est bâtie sur des connaissances basées sur les faits. De plus, comme dans n’importe lequel des processus où il y a un jury, les bonnes décisions et les meilleures solutions sont engendrées par les délibérations et le consensus.

Le cycle de l’amélioration ne s’arrête jamais, une amélioration engendre le début d’un nouveau défi. Il y a toujours des opportunités pour s’améliorer. Des améliorations peuvent naître de comparaisons inlassables entre soi-même et les autres. Quand nous trouvons un individu ou une organisation qui fait un meilleur travail, nous devrions donc essayer d’établir pourquoi ils sont meilleurs, où ils réussissent mieux et comment ils le font mieux.

GÉRER NOS JUGEMENTS:
Chacun d’entre nous est impliqué dans la qualité des jugements.

Nous pouvons tous faire des améliorations pour satisfaire la communauté philatélique, que ce soit l’exposant, notre juge-colleague ou nous-même. En débutant:

- Chacun d’entre nous doit connaître nos rôles et nos responsabilités;
- Nous devons nous rendre responsable individuellement pour le travail fait. Par contre, une fois qu’un jury a pris une
The Judging Programme Committee has the responsibility to ensure judges and apprentice judges understand how the Fédération Internationale de Philatélie (F.I.P.). The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada (R.P.S.C.) and Judging Programme objectives and regulations apply to their particular situations. The Judging Programme Committee is specifically accountable for:

- Setting clear priorities so that judges/apprentice judges learn, maintain and improve their quality judging skills;

- Giving the encouragement, training, tools and technical support needed to maintain judging skills, to solve problems and seize opportunities;

- Considering and responding to every recommendation and idea that emerges from the judges and the philatelic community;

- Accepting the risks that go along with trying new approaches;

- Recognizing and rewarding outstanding quality judging efforts and improvement suggestions; and,

- Ensuring that seminars are given so that exhibitors can understand the philosophy, approaches, regulations and rules concerning philatelic judging in Canada.

CONCLUSION: Meeting the challenge.

Underlying all these philosophies and approaches is the requirement to achieve two-way communications up and down the philatelic organization in Canada and to eliminate barriers across the organization as well. Open, effective communication is essential in quality judging.

Meeting the challenge of quality judging is critical to the success of philatelic exhibitions in Canada. In a truly quality-driven culture each and every person must contribute his or her best efforts.

décision, il incombe que tous les membres soient solidaires de la décision du groupe; et,

Avec la connaissance de sa performance actuelle, chacun doit établir des buts pour son amélioration et doit toujours chercher à atteindre ces buts. Les buts à atteindre sont différents pour chaque individu, mais une version ou une autre des exemples ci-dessous s'appliquent:

- Satisfaire à ses engagements;
- L'éducation permanente; et,
- Poursuivre jusqu'au bout et donner suite à toute action jugée nécessaire ou promise.

Parce que satisfaire la communauté est à la base de nos jugements, il est la responsabilité de chacun des juges de comprendre les besoins de toutes les sections de la communauté et d'être capable de passer des idées aux actes pour constamment rencontrer ces besoins.

Le Comité du programme des juges a la responsabilité de s'assurer que les juges et les juges-apprentis comprennent comment les objectifs et les règlements de la Fédération internationale de philatélie (F.I.P.), de la Société royale de philatélie du Canada et du Programme des juges s'appliquent à leur situation individuelle. Le Comité du programme des juges est responsable spécifiquement pour:

- Établir des priorités claires afin que les juges et les juge-apprentis apprennent, maintiennent et améliorent la qualité de leurs compétences;

- Donner la formation, les outils, l'encouragement et le support technique pour maintenir les compétences des juges, résoudre les problèmes et saisir les occasions d'action;

- Considérer et répondre à toute les idées ou recommandations émanant des juges et de la communauté philatélique;
For all of us as individuals and together as a Society, Judging Excellence Through Quality Judging is a never-ending necessity.

- Accepter les risques qui peuvent survenir quand on essaie de nouvelles idées;

- Reconnaître et récompenser des efforts supérieurs de jugements de qualité ou de suggestions d'améliorations; et,

- S’assurer que des séminaires sont donner afin que les exposants puissent comprendre la philosophie, l’approche, les règlements et les directives en regard du jugement philatélique au Canada.

CONCLUSION:

Rencontrer le défi.

Sous-tendant toutes ces philosophies et ces approches on retrouve le besoin d’atteindre une communication dans les deux sens qui parcoure tout l’organigramme de la philatélie organisée au Canada et qui assure l’élimination des obstacles à la communication au travers de l’organisation. Une communication ouverte et efficace est essentiel pour assurer des jugements de qualité.

Rencontrer le défi d’établir des jugements de qualité est critique au succès des expositions philatéliques au Canada. Dans une culture basée essentiellement sur la qualité de service, chacun d’entre nous doit y aller de ses meilleurs efforts. Pour nous tous, comme individus et comme Société, un jugement supérieur atteint par un rendement de qualité est un but sans fin.

This long awaited thirteenth edition has been in the making since the twelfth was issued in 1986. Started in 1968 by David Feldman, the Stamps of Ireland, Specialized adopted its present format prior to 1978. However this is the first time that the information has been presented in a double column format. Unfortunately just as with the reduced print size of the 1987 Specialized, this change does not add to the clarity of the presentation. The information presented in the Specialized is outstanding. Many specialized catalogues of other postal entities should take a page out of the MacDonnell Whyte effort. After a clear introduction and a brief review of Great Britain's stamps used in Ireland, the catalogue details the forerunners, the overprints, the definitives and their essays. Commemoratives and special issues are followed by airmails, the new automated postage labels, postage dues, booklet panes and booklets. Although the postal stationery section is not as detailed as that found in Otto Jung's specialized handbook on the subject, it is an excellent listing for even the advanced collector. A first flight section lists all the first and special flights to and from Ireland from 1924 to 1990 with a specialized section on the 1932-34 Zeppelin flights. This section even lists Ballon Monté covers from the siege of Paris in 1870.

This, and many other little touches, make the catalogue a very handy reference tool. Some of these touches are listings for watermark varieties, illustrated varieties with position numbers, prices for plate, imprint and traffic light blocks. listings and prices for booklet singles and se-tenant pairs and paper, gum and perforation varieties listings and prices. Another feature is its listings in an appendix of Railway Letter stamps, and the Presentation Packs and Exhibition Souvenirs issued by An Post and/or its agents.

Most of the glaring pricing and factual errors of the previous edition have been corrected and as far as I can detect, prices have remained fairly stable since the 1987 edition.

As the sole source for detailed catalogue information, Stamps of Ireland, Specialized is an absolute must for all Irish collectors and enthusiasts. It is highly recommended.

Available from: Some stamp shops in Canada or by mail from Ian Whyte (Ireland) Ltd., 27 Mount Street Upper, Dublin 2, Eire or from MacDonnell Whyte Ltd. 102 Leinster Road, Dublin 6, Eire. Price: $17.50 Can. (postage paid).

After just five editions, the Great Britain Concise Stamp Catalogue has established itself as the catalogue for the medium to advanced collector. It combines the listings from the British Commonwealth Catalogue and a lot of information previously only provided in the Specialized series. All this is in a handy-sized book not too much larger than Collect British Stamps.

Among the items listed in the Concise which are not included in Part 1 are inverted and reversed watermarks, booklets, official underprints, UPU specimens, first day covers (including illustrations of all British Post Office special first day of issue postmarks which is a boon to all topicalists), presentation packs, PHQ cards, yearbooks and gutter pairs. A useful five-page index is provided to aid in the identification of the single stamps of the decimal Machin definitives. There are, as well, clearly drawn diagrams of all the listed booklet panes.

The catalogue is complete to those stamps which appeared in the 1981 "Smiles" greeting stamps booklet of March 26. No less than 34 new varieties and errors on earlier issues are listed for the first time. These include the 1881 1d. deep purple on blued paper, the 1912-24 5d. Royal Cypher with reversed watermark and the 3d. and 1s. Royal Cypher postage dues with watermark sideways-inverted and reversed.

As far as prices are concerned, there is steady growth in several sections including used Queen Victoria from the Mulreadys to the Jubilees, King George V low values, King George VI generally and several mint Queen Elizabeth II pre-decimal definitives. There are some substantial increases in the decimal Machin section with, for example, the 26p type II from "window" booklets going from £1.90 to £4.50/£3.75 (mint/used). The complete pane's increase is proportionally greater going from £3.75 to £18! Special issues from about 1985 onwards are marked up once again and the 1988 13p Christmas stamp is priced for the first time at £3500. Finally the 1989 "Greetings" booklet (face value of £1.90) is up yet again, and now stands at an amazing £28.

Available from: Stamp shops and some booksellers or by post from Stanley Gibbons Publications Ltd., Parkside Ringwood, Hants BH24 3SH. Postage £2.75 UK, £5 overseas.

EXCHANGES WANTED

Since The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada is the national society of philatelists in Canada, many requests for exchange partners are referred to us. As a service to our members, we are pleased to present these names, so that those who wish to do so can make overseas contacts. Please note that we have no way of checking the credentials of the individuals who write to us asking that their name be published, therefore we urge that caution be taken when answering these requests.

DEMANDES D’ÉCHANGE

La Société royale de philatélie du Canada ne s’occupe pas normalement des échanges entre philatélistes, mais comme elle est la société philatélique nationale du Canada, on lui transmet de nombreuses demandes de philatélistes désireux de trouver des correspondants pour échanger des timbres. Ainsi a-t-elle décidé, pour rendre service à ses membres, d’ouvrir des services qui, pour le moment, ne nous permettent pas d’étendre les échanges avec eux, si peu importe à qui ils puissent être adressés.

Je vous signale toutefois que nous ne savons rien des personnes qui nous demandent de publier leur nom, c’est pourquoi je vous conseille d’être prudent en répondant à ces demandes d’échange.
