One of the hardest things about being a philatelic editor is to find new ways to present information. Most collectors nowadays are specialized (many, in my view, to an excessive degree). I believe a major role for this journal is to inspire collectors to pursue new collecting interests and fields of study. When reviewing articles submitted I always ask myself, "Would this article encourage me to take up the subject myself?"

All too often, my answer is negative, or at least doubtful. Such was not the case with the lead article this issue by Carlo Rasmussen. This piece is centred on a thematic study of the Gota Canal in Sweden. The subject will strike many readers, those in North America anyway, as somewhat obscure and esoteric. What makes this article of real value is that the author describes the process whereby he formulated and developed the topic, and how he researched and assembled it. I hope this article will inspire philatelists who have as yet never accepted the challenge of thematic collecting to stick their toes in the water.

Another columnist makes a debut in this issue. Donald LeBlanc of Caraquet, New Brunswick will be contributing regularly on Canadian plate blocks. This is a subject that has not received much attention in the philatelic press in recent years, despite the fact that plate blocks continue to be a very popular with many collectors.

Perhaps it is appropriate here to say a few words about our regular contributors and columnists. A few readers have written to ask why a particular column was missing in a particular issue.

Not all columns will appear in every issue. In fact, if all did appear at once, there would be little room for feature articles. For one reason or another, authors are often unable to meet deadlines. Remember, all are volunteers. They have pressures at work and family obligations that have a first claim on their time.

Several of our new columnists have agreed to write on the understanding that they would be able to contribute only three or four columns per year. I was quite agreeable to this proposition. A large pool of regular columns ensures that the journal will consistently offer a wide range of subjects, and that every issue will have something of value and use to every RPSC member.

The advance work done by the organizers of ROYAL*1994*ROYALE has been most impressive, and our annual convention promises to be one of the best ever. I hope that a large number of RPSC members will attend. Why not make your vacation plans now for a visit to the beautiful scenery, low-key atmosphere and friendly folks of the B.C. interior.

An entry form for the show was included in the previous issue. It is repeated again, along with hotel registration information, a proxy form for the annual meeting, and other information for the show. All this material is in an insert in the middle of this issue, so that these pages can be removed without cutting up the magazine. A detailed schedule of events and further show information will appear in the March-April issue.

President Bill Robinson's query some time ago concerning RPSC members who received Canada 125 medals continues to draw responses. Considering the size of the Royal membership roll relative to the population of Canada, it is obvious that our members received a disproportionately large share of these medals, and that RPSC members contribute to their communities widely, consistently, and selflessly. This is another reminder that philately and good citizenship go together.
DOMINION OF CANADA

This time an offer of Canadian Revenues. Very many, by the way, were engraved by the finest masters of the art, working for the American Bank Note Co. The Canada 50¢ Bluenose or the 1893 Columbus set, all by the same engravers, cannot compare to what they did for quite a few Canadian Revenues.

By the way, keep this in mind: Not one Canadian revenue stamp was ever aimed at collectors. Mint revenues up to about 1940 were never sold to anyone, let alone collectors. In fact, it was illegal to own certain issues mint ($5,000.00 fine and/or jail time.) One paid for the stamps; they were put on a document by the clerk, forthwith cancelled; and the document was filed by the clerk and that was that! One walked away with nothing.

Offered — A specialized lot of mint and used Canadian revenue stamps, all the work of the American Bank Note Co., at $100.00 for the lot. Several of the aristocratic Supreme Court Law Stamps are in the lot.

Offered — An 1864 Canada Revenue set of proofs by the same American Bank Note Co., all in brilliant mint colours. (They were put away in 1864 and first saw the light of day in 1990 in the New York Christie sale of the American Bank Note Co. Archives.) Set is complete. Price $300.00.

Either or both can be had on approval.

KUDOS TO KRAEMER

Sir,

I have just read the article on the Collingwood post office in The Canadian Philatelist of Sept.-Oct. 1993, and was very impressed with the history. I am writing to point out some additional information. Referring to the sub post office No. 1, which is listed as having the number 331147: this is a later number. The sub post office originally opened with the number 2596.

I do like to read the type of article written by Mr. Kraemer. The collectors who study cancels and the histories of post offices are in my opinion the real philatelists. Thanks for allowing me to ramble on about my interests and thanks for a real nice postal history.

David Platt
Port Elgin, Ont.

(Ed. note: Most students of Canadian postal history are familiar with these two series of numbers. The four-digit MOON (Money Order Office Number) numbers originally identified, for accounting purposes, all post offices that issued money orders. The six-digit POCON (Post Office Computerized Office Number) replaced the MOON numbers when the post office updated its accounting system.)

Sir,

I enjoyed the article on the Collingwood post office and I am glad that you were able to use the pictures I took for illustrations.

Could you manage to send some additional copies of The Canadian Philatelist. I would like to send one to a friend who works at the Cuba Ministry of Finance building pictured in the article. Others would be useful for responding to periodic requests I receive for information on philatelic associations in Canada. Additional information on the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada would also be welcome.

David G. Morrison
Second Secretary and Vice-Consul
Canadian Embassy, Havana, Cuba

Sir,

Further to the excellent Collingwood article which appeared in the current Canadian Philatelist, I submit a MOOD postmark (Money Order Office Datestamp), which is missing in said article.

GERALD E. WELBURN
PHILATELIC FOUNDATION

The Gerald E. Welburn Philatelic Foundation was recently established through the generosity and foresight of the late Gerald Welburn to promote and develop the hobby of philately. At the inaugural meeting of the Board of Directors in Victoria B.C., John M. Wallace was elected President of the Foundation, and Dr. Don Shorting the Secretary-Treasurer. Board members are Daniel Eaton, Vernon Richards, and Carol Hunt, Mr. Welburn’s granddaughter.

Gerald Welburn stood at the forefront of Canadian philately for many years, and his collections consistently earned prestigious awards. He formed superb collections of the stamps and postal history of British Columbia and Vancouver Island.

Individuals and clubs can support the Foundation with a donation. They can contact the Secretary-Treasurer at Box 5164, Str. B, Victoria, BC V8R 6N4. Their support will help the Foundation further the memory of a fine gentleman who brought love, patience, and a standard of excellence to the hobby that provided him with countless hours of enjoyment.

MEISO MIZUHARA, 1924-1993

Mr. Meiso Mizuhara, President of the Japan Philatelic Society, died on 28 Nov. 1993 of pancreatic cancer. He started the Japan Philatelic Society in 1946, and remained its President until his death.

In 1946 he began publication of a philatelic monthly, and a year later published the first Japanese catalogue in English. He was responsible for the first colour Japanese catalogue (1975) and a Chinese catalogue (1980). His last book, on Korean postal history, appeared shortly before his death.

In addition to his work with organized philately and as a writer, Mr. Mizuhara's exhibits earned major awards on the international circuit.

MORE ON THOSE INK-JET CANCELLATIONS

In our last issue a couple of Letters to the Editor took issue with the way ink jet markings were being used by Canada Post. Since then, Mr. G.H. Churley of Burnaby, B.C. has received a communication from C. Frick, of the Customer Service Dept. of Canada Post's Pacific Division. For the information of those interested, we quote the following from this letter:

Your comments have been brought to the attention of our Mail Operations group and will be given every consideration. The new cancellation provides the addressee and Canada Post with a great deal more information about the date and time of mailing, and at which processing plant the piece was sorted primarily. As it is a new computerized machine cancellation, we are still examining the best placement of the cancell itself.

However, may I take this opportunity to point out that under the Corporate Manual System, Subject 1110.01, Section 3.3, the following is stated: "Canada Post is not responsible for the quality of the cancellation impression nor does it guarantee a philatelically acceptable cancellation mark."

Despite the above, please be advised that we are continuing our efforts to come up with a cancel that will prove efficient for Canada Post and our customers alike. Thank you for taking the time and trouble to write and allowing us the opportunity for further clarification.

AIDS STAMPS - A NEW THEMATIC?

Public health officials seeking to stop the spread of AIDS have enlisted postal administrations in their campaign, and AIDS awareness stamps have begun to appear over the past two years. One of the first was part of a five-stamp health set from Greece that appeared in May 1992.

stamp translates as "AIDS / BECOME AWARE AND PROTECT YOURSELVES." Despite the controversial nature of the subject matter, Greek postal officials reported few complaints about the stamp.

A pair of stamps from Argentina included the most explicit design so far — an animated condom. The other stamp in the pair is more reserved, showing the dark cloud of AIDS (SIDA) hanging over a house of life (VIDA).

To mark World AIDS Day, the United States issued a stamp on 1 December 1993 in support of the AIDS Awareness campaign. Uncomplicated and dignified in design, the stamp shows only a red ribbon, the symbol of the campaign, with a heavy black border and the simple inscription "AIDS AWARENESS."

AIDS stamps from other countries are sure to appear in the near future. Some may find the subject distasteful, but it is likely that we will be seeing exhibits on the subject of AIDS at stamp shows in the near future. This is not the first time that sexual subjects have appeared on mail. Postal historians are familiar with the "STAMP OUT VD" slogan cancels used by Canada during World War II, and similar slogans from other countries.

Are you a member of one of the numerous chapters of the R.P.S.C.? If so, you are probably in a minority in your local club. A very small percentage of the memberships of chapter clubs are also members of the R.P.S.C. Why? Is this Society promoted by your local Chapter Representative? Do you even know who is your local Chapter Representative? Do you attend your local club frequently? Do you actively explain to club members the advantages and reasons for R.P.S.C. membership? Do chapter members understand that the R.P.S.C. is not an elitist organization whose only function is representing Canadian philately internationally?

We need every one of you as active recruiters in your local club. The more members we have, the more services we can economically offer to you all.

Your executive are actively seeking ways of better exchanging information and views with the chapters, and you will be hearing more about this soon.

One service which many chapters use consistently is the Royal Sales Circuit, now managed by Mrs. Molly Krajewski. She always needs good material, and can use more customers. One club was upset recently when she asked for prompt return of circuits. This club was apparently in the habit of circulating the material to individual members rather than having it at a few club meetings, and then returning it. This led to excessive delay in returns, which is simply not acceptable.

Consignors expect their material to be circulated and returned reasonably quickly.

Another place where local chapters can help is in sponsoring our annual meetings. Most of the membership is concentrated in the southern Ontario and Quebec regions, so we expect many of our conventions to be held there. On the other hand, we like to spread these around the country as much as possible. This gives everyone a chance to attend at reasonable cost and with minimum travel at least every few years.

For example, 1993 was held in Ottawa, 1992 in Edmonton, 1991 in Montreal, 1990 in Regina, 1989 in Hamilton, 1988 in Winnipeg, and 1987 at CAPEX in Toronto. Do you notice any pattern in these functions? They seem to alternate between Ontario and western Canada — with one visit to Quebec. Where are the Maritimes? We have some good, active clubs there — but no conventions. Similarly, Quebec City last hosted a convention in 1984. What can we do about this situation? Do we expect too much from local sponsors?

When did your club last sponsor one of our conventions? If you are at all interested, please contact our Convention Coordinator, Keith Spencer. He is always glad to hear from you. If you have any ideas about how to improve our annual meetings and keep the cost reasonable, please don’t hesitate to contact me at any time.

The Canadian Philatelist
For many years coils were collected in pairs and that is why the early coils are much scarcer in larger multiples. Then came the line pairs and the coil jumps. These were often preferred in strips of four, to show the difference between the varieties and a normal pair.

The next development occurred when philatelists began to collect the start and end strips attached to the coil. When the coils were manufactured in multiples of ten coils, collectors mounted two side-by-side unsevered coil pairs with the break line in the centre. These looked like an imperforate vertical block-of-four. The score lines were sometimes so weak that they could be passed as imperforate in between.

Some of the Admiral coils perforated 12 horizontal were produced from sheet stamps, and the paste-ups can be found with the plate inscription beneath the paste-up.

Sometimes coils damaged during manufacture were repaired, and paste-ups were made to join the coils back together.

Line pairs and paste-ups are now gone, but double perforated coils and the odd jump can still be found. The large number of imperforate coils are due to undetected electronic machine problems, and collectors are delighted by this apparent lack of quality control.

Collectors should note that coil multiples are not commonly found on modern covers.

The 40 cent Quickstick booklets had an instruction printed on the back of the cover explaining how to use the stamps. A number of such booklets came out with an inverted instruction. Later, a sticker was used on some booklets to correct this error. Has any reader seen any of these booklets? Where can one obtain them?

CAD/CAM STAMP PRODUCTION

Naturally, any printing company that produces postage stamps is interested in fast, reliable and cost-effective production. Increased demands for large quantities make it essential for them to use techniques which allow such large quantities to be produced in a short period. Ideas such as continuous web-fed presses, six hundred stamps on a printing plate instead of two or four hundred, and automated perforating, tagging, cutting and packaging equipment have all contributed to faster production.

On the other hand, quality is demanded by both the post office and the postal user, and the printing companies cannot ignore it. Poor gumming, difficulties in separation, and unclear inscriptions do not contribute to good quality. In addition, printing companies try to reduce their spoilage to a minimum.

With the increasingly widespread use of computers in many production processes, it is not surprising that the idea of producing stamps by computer-aided design techniques is appealing.

In this process, the designer prepares his design and layout using a computer to enter all the information needed on a high definition, large character display screen. Once the design has been entered to his satisfaction, the information can be transferred to another computer, which instructs the production equipment to produce the needed number of stamp subjects on a sheet of paper.

The computer-aided manufacturing system depends on complex software. The information from the designer is transferred directly to the production machine, with no costly intermediate steps such as preparing dies and plates. Much time might be required for the design work, but the step from design to production would take only minutes.

The accuracy, repeatability and quality of stamps could be enhanced with the CAD/CAM method, and there would be few spoiled stamps. Research is under way for the use of special laser systems for producing many sheets simultaneously. This will certainly speed production.

The question is not can this be done, but only when.

The Toronto 200th anniversary stamp is still turning up with slightly different shades of blue. This is a feature that adds to the interest of stamp collecting.

Next to be issued were the five river stamps, an attractive set from an artistic point of view, but the stamps don't identify the rivers very well. Having lived near the Saint John River most of my life, I have difficulty recognizing the scene depicted on the Saint John River stamp. Perhaps the set's greatest merit is in familiarizing young Canadians on the geography of our country. It is possible that a great many Canadians west of Winnipeg have never heard of our Saint John River.

Next came the historic vehicles with the catchy ads on the souvenir sheet, and the catchy colours as well. This set was definitely popular and for a time difficult to pick up. One local dealer was selling the miniature sheet for two and one-half times face. Imagine!

September brought folklore, music this time. Again the designs were quite attractive, and again the theme was a bit lost due to the busy design: too much to examine in a small area. I'm sure few Canadians know much about the music or songs of this country. I didn't!

Now the dinosaur issue is another matter, and of course of international interest. Australia went all out with a miniature sheet of six dinosaur stamps which fit into a larger picture like a jigsaw puzzle. If that was not enough, the stamps printed in sheet form had a different perforation. Perhaps we in Canada were spared. Canada Post's foursome were bright and effective, but again the subject is not completely familiar. It would be much better to show the whole animal.

Now what about Christmas? Certainly the 49 cent stamp tells the story, but who is 'Ded Moroz'? I can't see why we should feature themes from other countries when we have so much in Canada to mark the Christmas Season. Although pretty, the set is divisive, and we have too many people in Canada now being everything but Canadian. Great Britain has the right idea. Their Christmas set is taken from A Christmas Carol by Charles Dickens. What could be more British? The stamps are cute, funny, and very different.

And last but not least we have that dismal Second World War issue. The theme title implies defeat and the subjects are so cluttered it is hard to tell what is going on in the design. Even the date in the background makes the picture more difficult to understand. You have to be over 65 to fathom the set and who wants to be reminded. Certainly the younger generation, our new stamp collectors, are not interested. But as a group they do look nice in our album.

Yet I think Canada Post Corporation should depict subjects of today and tomorrow. One suggestion would be a stamp with 'G.S.T.' on it to commemorate the day that tax is abolished.

DEFINITIVES / TIMBRES COURANTS
with John G. Schmidt

This column is a forum for information on Canadian definitive issues of all periods, and for discussion on the study of these issues. Each column lists new issues in summary, as well as recent discoveries and corrections to previously published information. Mr. Schmidt's listing of modern Canadian definitives began in the July-Aug. 1992 issue. Correspondence is welcomed, and should be addressed to John G. Schmidt, 2649 Shadow Court, Ft. Collins, CO 80525 USA.

The following correspondence was received from Bob Cumming in response to Hans Reiche's note on the "Canadian 5¢ Wilding Portrait Definitive of 1954" that appeared in the Sept-Oct 1993 issue of The Canadian Philatelist:

Your mention of the two dies for the 5¢ Wilding sent me to my plate blocks for confirmation of the information. What you wrote is partly correct; the part about the spur on the frame at the upper left corner. It appears that the transfer die might be the one you are writing about, and it looks to me as though the second transfer die may have more than one image. The spur does not look the same on all stamps of my two blocks of four, one UL, the other UR. Also, the spur is not as distinct on my copies as is shown on the example in your article.

The problem with the rest of the information is that there are 19 plates, and only Nos. 18 and 19 display the spurs. Otherwise, there is no difference I can see between Plate 1 and Plate 18. Plate 17 shows die wear, as do earlier plates. The wear becomes more apparent as the plate numbers increase. I note that my copy of the Winnipeg tagged variety is Die 1, with about the same wear as Plate 15.

I would suggest that there was only one basic die for the stamp, but that two transfer dies were made. It appears to me that this subject requires further study, since my few plates are hardly enough to reach a conclusive decision about this stamp. Complete sheets should be studied.

I will be pleased to correspond further if there is anything you think I can add to the subject.

A NEW PLATE BLOCK DISCOVERY IN THE ROYAL VISIT ISSUE

To commemorate the royal visit of King George VI and Queen Elizabeth to Canada and Newfoundland in May and June of 1939, a special set of three stamps was issued on May 15, 1939.

According to Mr. Winthrop Boggs, these handsome stamps (Scott # 246, 247 and 248) were the first bi-colour stamps since the Map stamp of 1898 and the first bi-colours printed entirely from engraved plates. This issue combined two separate plates, one for the frames (either in green ink for the 1¢, brown ink for the 2¢ and carmine ink for the 3¢) and one frame for the heads or monument (black ink in all cases). The plate block number is a combination of a colour frame number and a vignette or head number in black.

With Scott #246 the frame plate numbers in green ink are from 1 to 5 inclusively and the head plate numbers in black are from 1 to 4 inclusively. There are 72 possible different positions. The 2¢ issue (#247) includes three numbers of the brown ink frame plate (1,2,3) and two numbers of the head plate namely 1 and 2. In total there are 24 positions. Lastly, Scott #248, the frame plate numbers in carmine ink are from 1 to 5 and the black head plate are from 1 to 4. There are 80 possible different corner positions. All together, there are 176 possible blocks.

In a footnote, Mr. Boggs mentions that some of these combinations are rare, namely plates 1-3, 2-3, 1-4, 2-4 of the 1¢ issue and plates 5-1 and 5-3 of the 3¢ issue. What an understatement!

When discussing plate blocks one has to refer to the Plate Block Catalogues of Mr. Kasimir Bileski. A necessity for the serious plate block collector is either the 5th, 6th or 7th edition of his catalogue. The information contained in these books cannot be obtained from any other source.

This is what Mr. Bileski had to say about these 176 plate positions in 1962 (5th edition):

Combine one engraved duty plate with one engraved head plate, add three different denominations and with the help of several duplicate plates of each and forthwith the collector has a possible 176 colourful position blocks to locate. It is many years since the 1939 Royal Visits appeared but interest remains undiminished and the number who are trying to complete the fabled 176 must run into the thousands.

There are more of these rarities and perhaps present valuations may help turn them up. As matters stand, out of the 24 "impossibles"; 13 different have been found. One exists in 2 examples, another in 3, the rest one each, making a grand total of 16 blocks. We have priced all that actually have been seen. A blank denotes none found as yet. No one for example has found any of the 3¢ value 5-1 combination.

The blocks may be colourful but not as much as the language. His style of writing is unique. He evaluated the 'impossible 13' in 1962 as follows:

Figures 1, 2, 3. Rare plate block number combinations on the 1939 Royal Visit issue: The one-cent Plate No. 2-4, and two examples of the three-cent Plate No. 5-3.
These prices were estimated in 1962, over 30 years ago and 23 years after they were first issued. In essence we are discussing plate blocks that are 54 years old.

He confirms that they exist. Without stating that they are unique, he indicates that there exist at least two examples of one position and three examples of another. That would leave eleven positions of which only one example of each were known at that time. That explains why eleven of these were given a $1,000 value, why Plate 1-3 was given a $750.00 value (since there exist at least two examples) and finally why plate 2-4 UL was given a $500.00 value.

Mr. Bileski is of the opinion that there probably does not exist any of the 3¢ Plate 5-1 positions. The 1965 and 1968 edition of his catalogue all have the same reference material and same price valuations. In 1992, Mr. Bileski confirmed again to this writer of their existence and he also remembered that Mr. George Lee, now deceased, had at one time all known. He does not know what has happened to Mr. Lee’s collection.

We can follow the valuations of these over the years in different catalogues. Over a 30-year period the prices have hardly changed. For example, in the Unitrade Specialized Catalogue (1993 edition), pages 289 and 290, the prices are almost identical to those when the blocks were first reported in 1962. Other than premiums for VF and NH, the only change for the “Impossible 13” is the 3¢ Plate 5-3 UL that has increased from $1,000. to $1,250. I also find startling the fact that there have not been any new positions added to these 13 already known.

I have been receiving auction catalogues since the early eighties and I cannot remember having seen any of these plate blocks offered. However, in 1992 a few re-appeared on the market. Dealer Gary Lyon from Bathurst, New Brunswick, obtained a beautiful collection of the Royal Visit from the Ottawa area. Besides containing 147 different of the more common positions, it also included a 1¢ Plate 2-4 UR and a 3¢ Plate 5-3 UL. Mr. Lyon, at about the same time had obtained another example of the 3¢ Plate 5-3 UL. These three rare blocks quickly went into private collections, one going out west, the others in eastern Canada, but not before photocopies were made of the three plate corners and are shown as Figures 1, 2 and 3.

At first glance, the 3¢ block without the side margin could be an unreported UR position instead of a UL position. This is not the case as stated in the Philatelic Foundation certificate shown as Figure 4. Note also that the block had been submitted by George L. Lee, who Mr. Bileski confirmed had at one time all known. One final point on the 3¢ Plate 5-3 UL.
Since Mr. Bileski had placed a valuation of $1,000.00, being the only one that he had seen (the block of four without the margin) we can now correct the total number known from 16 to 17, but still only with 13 different positions.

Later in 1992 another block surfaced. On December 10th Montréal Stamps and Coins offered in the auction a 1¢ Plate 2-3 UL. Their summary was as follows: "Item 609. Plate Block, Canada, the 1¢ 1939, "Royal Visit" issue in the scarce upper left block #2-3. Disturbed gum. VF centering Cat. $1,200." It was accompanied by a photo reproduced as Figure 5. Surprisingly, it was sold at the hammer price of $170.00!

No others have surfaced until September of this year. On a business trip to Montreal, I was at a stamp show at the Palais des Congrès and met Mr. Ian Kimmerly from Ottawa. Knowing my interest in plate blocks, he informed me that he had an unreported position of the Scott #248 in his next auction schedule for October 16. He did not have any catalogues with him and I was quite sceptical of his statement. I did manage to see his auction catalogue in early October and there it was, an illustration of the 3¢ Plate 5-3 LL as shown in Figure 6. He described this item as follows: "Item 1452. #248 VF NH 1939 Three Cent Royal Visit, lower left plate #5-3 block of four. This is one of the unrecorded positions, might be the only remaining lower left plate block in existence and a nice showpiece for any important collection. We catalogue it as an upper left corner CV $2,000. Est 1,000."

This block had been kept in a private collection, or numerous private collections without being mentioned in any catalogues for over 54 years. The impossible '13' should now be known as the impossible '13+1', and the total number known should be 18 instead of the 16 originally reported. I am certain that it will be mentioned either in the 1994 or 1995 catalogue of Unitrade, with a valuation certainly higher than the other 13. This block most certainly must be unique since it took 52 years for it to surface. It was sold for the hammer price of $1,000.00 plus 10% commission.

If we leave for a moment these 24 rare positions, I would like to make a few comments on the remaining 152 positions. When examining the valuations, the first striking point is that the majority of them are quite inexpensive to obtain. There are 74 corners that are valued at $5.00 or less and 38 corners from $6.00 to $15.00. This is unbelievable when one considers that they are all over 54 years old!

Another characteristic of collecting the common plate blocks of this issue is the fact that most of the 3¢ UL positions are in blocks of six, to get the full inscription.

Hagner sheets are ideal to collect these blocks and they are a beautiful sight when collected in matched sets. They are fairly easy to obtain from most dealers. They are also in good shape but one must sacrifice centering and gum.

To conclude, no discussion on plate blocks of the Royal Visit would be complete, without a mention of the imperforate plate blocks. At last count there are three examples of each of the following:

246a) 1¢ Pl. 2-1 UR Position
247a) 2¢ Pl. 1-2 LL Position
248a) 3¢ Pl. 2-2 LL Position

The last illustration shows an example of the 1¢ imperforate Plate No. 2-1.

Good hunting!

If anyone has any added information, I would be very happy to hear from you. I would appreciate any photocopies or confirmations in order to establish what is actually out there in regards to the impossible '13+1'.

Vignettes of Early British North American Postal History

by J.C. Arnell, F.R.P.S.C.

XXXI. The Early Postal Service to the Canadas in Support of the Transatlantic Mails

As might be expected, soon after the 1763 Treaty of Peace was signed between the British and the French ceding New France to Great Britain, London merchants petitioned the Government to establish a postal service between New York, the Falmouth packet port, and Quebec to support trade with the new province. As a result, Benjamin Franklin and William Foxcroft, the Deputy Postmasters General for North America, were directed to survey the route in anticipation of such action. While in Quebec in August 1763, they met Hugh Finlay, a young Scotsman, who offered to provide a post between Montreal and Quebec for a commission of twenty percent of the revenue collected.

One of the first problems to be solved was the postage to be charged on this new route. The 1710 Post Office Act had not foreseen the requirement for postage rates over such long distances as existed in North America and had only established one long distance rate, namely that from London to Edinburgh or Dublin at 6d. Stg. In the American colonies, this problem had already been faced and some specific rates had been set, such as: Boston to New York — 4 pennyweights (dwt.) or 1s. Stg.; Boston to Philadelphia — 7 dwt. or 1s. 9d. Stg.; Boston to Norfolk, Va. — 10 dwt. or 2s. 6d. Stg.

With this precedent, the postage between Montreal and Quebec was established at 8d. Stg., with New York to Montreal at 2s. Stg. and New York to Quebec at 3s. Stg. As the Mails went via Montreal on the way to Quebec, it must be assumed that the two latter rates were probably set by Franklin and Foxcroft. Finlay, having the contract between Montreal and Quebec, in all likelihood decided that the lower figure would produce more letters and more income for him. I do not have an example of my own, nor have I seen any letters showing these rates on letters to or from New York.

These high rates were protested by the colonists, who were supported by the local authorities, and the Post Office Act of 1765 recognized the need for rates over distances of hundreds of miles. The Act of 1765 established a set of rates which were in effect for an unprecedented 86 years. The first 60 miles cost 4d. Stg.; up to 100 miles, 6d. Stg.; and every 100 miles thereafter was an additional 2d. These rates reduced the New York to Montreal postage to 1s. Stg. and New York to Quebec to 1s. 4d. Stg. Although not pertinent here, this act also provided Halifax with a packet rate to any other seaport in North America of 4d. Stg.

Figure 1 is an example of this rate. It was a double letter rate letter from London dated 5 July 1769, marked with 2s. (2 N) unpaid packet postage to New York. It was carried by the Cumberland packet from Falmouth on 22 July and on arrival in New York was backstamped with a Bishop mark on 1 September and struck with a two-line ‘NEW/YORK’. The 2s. postage due was converted to eight pennyweights (8 dwt.) and 2 x 1s. (also 8 dwt.) double postage to Montreal added for a total postage due of 16 dwt., which was shown in red manuscript alongside the ‘2N’ in black.

![Image of a letter with postal markings]

There was no further change until the American Revolution, when all communication with New York was cut off. Following the signing of the Treaty of Paris in 1783 recognizing the fledgling United States of America, the monthly Falmouth—New York packet service resumed. Finlay attempted to work out an arrangement with the U.S. Postmaster General for Canadian couriers to carry Mails between Montreal and New York, because there was no regular postal service even to Albany from New York. This was objected to unless full U.S. postage was paid on all letters, even when carried at Canadian expense, which was declined. At the same time the flood of Loyalists into Nova Scotia had resulted in a strong demand for a packet service to Halifax, and the Falmouth packets began calling there on route to and from New York in 1787. Advantage was taken of this and an overland route was created between Quebec and Halifax to provide a transatlantic service.

Having lost out completely on what appeared to an easy money winner, the U.S. Postmaster General entered into negotiation with Finlay. This resulted in the 1792 Postal Convention, which allowed for the carriage of sealed mail bags through the United States by Canadian couriers on the payment of the regular U.S. postage between New York and Burlington, the most northerly American post office on the route. This postage was to be collected at Montreal and forwarded to the USPMG in Washington on a quarterly basis, twenty percent being retained as a commission for providing this service to the Americans.

Figure 2 is an example of a packet letter under this new arrangement. It was mailed in London on 7 Feb. 1793 with 1s. Stg. packet postage to New York prepaid. It was carried by the Roebuck packet from Falmouth on 16 February to New York in a sealed bag for Montreal. On arrival at the latter office, the letter was rated with 1s. 7d. Cy. postage due, made up of 20 cents U.S. postage to Burlington (1s. Cy.) and 6d.
Stg. (7d. Cy.) Canadian inland postage. This arrangement continued until the War of 1812, as shown in Figure 3, which is a letter mailed in London on 4 February 1812 with 2s. Stg. British inland and packet postage to New York prepaid and sent in a sealed bag to Montreal. It was carried by the Sandwich packet from Falmouth on 1 March to New York. On arrival at Montreal it was rated the same as the item shown in Figure 2.
Following the outbreak of war, there was no exchange of mails between the two countries until peace was restored in the spring of 1815. With the resumption of the Montreal — New York mail route, the U.S. Post office extended its service to Swanton, Vermont, close to the Canadian border, in order to increase its revenue from the Canadian Mails. At the same time, the USPO undertook to carry the Mails in its own system, eliminating the need for Canadian couriers. This change should have reduced the Canadian postage at the same time to 4d. Stg. or 4½d. Cy. for the journey of less than 60 miles. However, the Montreal postmaster, apparently without official approval, took the opportunity to extract extra revenue from a public only too pleased to be able one again to speed its overseas correspondence through New York.

As no record is known relating to what actually transpired at this time, the interpretation of the resultant postal charges is an educated guess, based on an examination of many contemporary letters and a consideration of parallel developments elsewhere. At about this time, several Upper Canada exchange offices with a water barrier marking the border began adding a 2d. Cy. local ferry charge, presumably to make it worthwhile for someone to take the Mails across the river to the American post office on the other side. Although there was no river to be crossed at the Lower Canada border, the Richelieu River lay between St. John’s, L.C. and Montreal, so perhaps this was the excuse for charging an extra 1½d. Cy. as ‘ferriage’ or ‘border transfer’ to bring the Swanton—Montreal postage to 6d. Cy.

South of the border, the USPO had introduced a surcharge on all inland postage to help pay off the war debt. By an Act of Congress dated 23 December 1814, all the inland postage rates were increased by fifty percent from 1 February 1815 and removed again on 1 April 1816, after the U.S. Postmaster General reported to the House of Representatives that the increase had not produced as much revenue as anticipated and that "the rates are considered too high, generally; and, from the information which I have received, much pains are taken to avoid postage, by seeking private conveyances." The rates returned to those established by the Act of 2 March 1799. In abolishing this surcharge, Congress increased the rates marginally by shortening the distances eligible for a given rate of postage.

While there does not appear to have been any official sanction given for a similar increase in British North America, the Montreal postmaster added fifty percent to the combined postage on letters between that city and the border exchange office when the postal service to New York was reestablished after the war. From 17 May 1815, the Canadian postage between the Lines (as the border was known) and Montreal was 9d. Cy., which was made up of:

- border transfer or ferry 1½d.
- inland postage 4½d.
- total postage 6d.
- 50% surcharge 3d.
- total charge 9d.

Obviously the Canadians were prepared to pay this exorbitant charge, probably because it was still cheaper and faster to send a letter via New York than to connect with the packet at Halifax. This surcharge was continued until 30 April 1819, more than three years after the Americans had removed their War Surcharge. Figure 4 shows duplicate letters, which reached Montreal just before and after the surcharge was dropped. They were from Liverpool dated 7 March 1819 and sent on different vessels to New York, arriving there on 25 and 26 April. They were both rated 20½ cents to the exchange office. The first one to arrive at Montreal (the duplicate) was rated 1s. 10d. Cy. (1s. 1d. U.S. postage + 9d.), while the original was rated 1s. 7d. Cy. (1s. 1d. + 6d.).

Figure 4. Duplicate letters, Liverpool to Montreal, April 1819, by separate ships. The upper, arriving in New York on 25 April, was rated 1s. 10d. postage due; the lower arrived a day later and was rated 1s. 7d. postage due.

To complete this strange local aberration in postage, the border transfer fee was dropped on 28 February 1837, concurrently to the abolition of the ferriage charge in Upper Canada. From then until 5 April 1851, the rate from Montreal to the Lines was the established 4d. Stg. or 4½d. Cy.
Figure 5. Montreal to London, 1838. Postage paid 4½d. Canadian rate to the Lines and 18¾ cents American Postage. Postage due 1s. 7d. Stg.

Figure 5 is a letter which was mailed in Montreal on 22 June 1838, with 4½d. Cy. paid to the Lines and 18 cents U.S. postage to New York. It was carried by the pioneer steamer Sirrus on the second of her two transatlantic voyages from New York on 1 July and arrived at Plymouth on 16 July, where it was rated 1s. 7d. Stg. postage to London as on an incoming ship letter.

The Canadian Philatelist
The R-100’s flight over Atwater Ballpark, and shortly afterward, the gift of an R-100 cacheted St. Hubert cover, was the memorable occasion of this collector’s start as a youngster. Those were the days when tobacconists sold singles from a five pack.

Prior to retirement, stamp collecting had been an off and on hobby for me. I had plate block collections, and some country collections. But this would change after I spent a week at HAFNIA 87, the international show in Copenhagen. There I was smitten by the thematic bug.

Philatelists who have been recently afflicted with the urge to form a thematic collection frequently ask questions such as, “Which catalogue lists my chosen subject’s or theme’s material?” Or “How do I develop a plan?” The most common advice given to new thematic collectors, that “One should know one’s subject thoroughly,” offers little encouragement.

Philately allows everyone to collect and participate according to their tastes and desires. Hence, all my comments are personal views and are not intended as authoritative collecting guidelines.

My main country collections consisted of the Netherlands and Portugal, both of which have strong maritime histories. Over the years I had accumulate some maritime, polar, and worldwide covers. Having been at sea during World War II, the choice of my basic theme was easily resolved. I had my own limited knowledge of the sea and some suitable material already on hand. Also, I thought that additional information would be readily accessible.

Before coming to the decision to pursue a maritime theme I had considered hydro power, thermal plants, dams and the Colombo Plan. My personal knowledge and experience would have favoured textiles, using the book D’Or Blanc (cotton) for a guide.

While working on the fisheries section of my maritime thematic collection, which soon acquired the title ‘Neptune’s Realm,’ I stumbled across Andres Von Brandt’s 1972 Fish Catching Methods of the World, with what appeared to be a tailor-made plan suitable for my collection. (Figure 1.)

To provide the novice or undecided collector with some confidence and a feel for theastics, I suggest that they try to illustrate a story or a book. For a work such as Pierre Berton’s The Last Spike, all that is necessary is a Canadian catalogue.

The choice of a title and the organization of a thematic collection into appropriate subdivisions can take time. Mine took a couple of years. Finally, the idea of building the theme along governmental administrative lines took shape. Neptune became the head of state, hence my title, ‘Neptune’s Realm.’

Most of us can manage to mount a presentable country collection using a standard catalogue. But with a thematic collection one can really feel out in the deep without a paddle. After reading a number of articles on theatics, I used the various authors’ interpretations of the F.I.P. exhibit regulations. Constructive criticism was harder to come by, so I decided to exhibit, mainly to obtain an evaluation of my efforts so far.

My ‘Neptune’s Realm’ has been exhibited several times, including at the 1990 Danish Nationals. Whether or not one exhibits, I feel that a thorough understanding of the rules by all philatelists will not only make exhibitions more enjoyable, but will assist in promoting consistency in judging. In my observations, interpretations of the F.I.P. rules vary not only nationally but more so internationally.

Developing the Plan

Once a general topic for a thematic collection has been chosen, a checklist of suitable stamps can be made by checking catalogues, page by page, checking not only the pictures of the stamps but also the printed information on appropriate stamp issues.

After establishing some rough boundaries, it is useful to check relevant books at a library. In many cases, the table of contents in books, or chronological listings and other material in them will assist in the development of a plan for the collection. Magazines such as National Geographic also provide helpful information and ideas.

During the early stages of building and organizing the collection, the title, subdivisions, and the topic’s boundaries will be in a state of constant flux. Inevitably, changes will be necessary.

Thematic collections differ from traditional collections in that we do not have blank spaces on pages to fill with the appropriate stamps. The scope of the collection is unlimited. Even the most advanced collectors occasionally must rework their pages.

A BRIEF HISTORY . . .

The Okanagan-Kamloops Area

The fur trade brought the first white men to the Okanagan with David Stuart, a trader with John Jacob Astor’s Pacific Fur Company being recorded as the first to see Okanagan Lake. Stuart was on a trading and exploration trip from Fort Okanagan to Kamloops.

The North West Company became involved in the fur trade using the Fraser and Thompson rivers to reach the Okanagan.

Trade routes through this area were established with many furs being bartered for. The Okanagan to Astoria route continued until the Oregon Boundary Treaty was signed establishing the 49th parallel.

With trade coming up through this area from Oregon country a customs house was established at Osoyoos for collecting taxes on cattle and goods heading north for the gold miners.

Fort Kamloops was established in 1813 as part of the trade route that continued to Fort George (Prince George).

When gold was discovered on the Fraser River and in the Cariboo the Okanagan route was used heavily as cattle were driven north to feed the miners. This continued as gold was found in the Big Bend country north of Revelstoke and on Cherry Creek east of Vernon.

Some of the cattle drovers discovered that the tall bunch grass would be ideal for cattle ranching, establishing large ranches in the Oliver, Keremeos, Penticton areas north to Vernon.

Mining camps also helped populate the Boundary-Similkameen region.

Father Pandosy set up a mission on what is now called Mission Creek at Kelowna which helped open the area to settlement.

As the region began to get the reputation as the California of Canada, land speculators laid out townsites and advertised the Okanagan in Eastern Canada and the United Kingdom.

The first commercial soft fruit orchard was established in Summerland in the early 1900’s and over the years fruit growing has been an integral part of the history of the Okanagan.

The S. & O. Railway, steamers on Okanagan Lake, better roads, the Kettle Valley Railroad continued to better the lives of residents and also open further development.

Logging, lumber manufacturing, ranching and orchards still play an important part in the economy of the valley.

The last few years have seen communities in the Okanagan-Mainline region celebrate their 100th anniversaries of incorporation. While we are a young region in history, we have an interesting past.

A BRIEF HISTORY . . .

Ogopogo

Ogopogo – the lake monster. Mythical, elusive – is this creature really in Okanagan Lake? Is it related to the Loch Ness serpent?

Or is it mud hens, beavers, sea otters, waves . . .?

Our Ogopogo, you can spell it backward or forward, has been seen by a select few who seemed to be treated with some skepticism by those who haven't viewed Ogo.

His home is reputed to be Squally Point, on the east side of Okanagan Lake opposite Peachland.

The Indians had a name for Ogopogo, Nha-a-itk. They believed he ruled the waves and his displeasure could blow up a storm, causing whitecaps and waves higher than a canoe.

Natives using the lake would carry an offering of some sort to throw into the lake to gain his favor.

Reports from early Native folklore tell of canoes crossing the lake without a sacrifice and a big storm blowing up and someone not making it to shore. It was believed the Nha-a-itk had taken another victim.

It was also believed that every three or four years Nha-a-itk would devour someone who ventured too close to his lair at Squally Point.

How did the name Ogopogo come about?

At a banquet in Vernon, as the wine flowed freely, some guest with music hall expertise recited a ditty from old London:

"His mother was an earwig –
His father was a whale –
A little bit of head, and hardly any tail –
And Ogopogo was his name".

Ogopogo has gained world-wide notoriety with Japanese television as well as U.S. networks having crews searching the waters of Okanagan Lake for the elusive creature.

If you want to look for Ogopogo while you are here – he seems to favor the Kelowna area south to Summerland – but he could be anywhere!

To keep Ogopogo and the name from being exploited, a Vernon citizen took out a copyright on the name and gave it to the city.
it is bilingual, with an English translation (Figure 2). The Dutch N.V.P.H. catalogue features an indexed listing of persons, events, flowers, and various other topics.

Cross-referencing catalogue numbers may be useful or even necessary when corresponding with other collectors and dealers who use different catalogues. A cross-reference list can be a real time saver. To further guard against confusion I always include the date of issue with all my listings.

My Introduction to the Göta Canal

The vignette on a commemorative cancel from Tröllhättan, Sweden ultimately led to my study of the Göta Canal and its subsidiary waterways (Figure 3). I had been told that the vignette represented Odin, the Norse maritime god, but I could not confirm this fact. I did learn that Tröllhättan was a waterfall, so I began checking if the vignette on the cancel had mythological connections.

After discussing my problem with a local librarian, I had books with information not only on the falls at Tröllhättan, but also on the Göta River and Canal and their associated waterways, which form an inland water transportation route through Sweden from Göteborg on the North Sea to Stockholm on the Baltic (Figure 5).

My search for information soon developed into this canal study, and has been broadened beyond my own collecting interests to show the varied information that, with a little effort, can be uncovered. Prior to this investigation the Göta Canal was a part page in my collection and my knowledge of it was minimal (Figure 4).

Not all the side canals were investigated in my study: for example, the Soots Canal is not included. Purposely excluded also is the story of the regal ship Wasta that was raised in 1961 after 333 years in the depths of Stockholm harbour. The ship is now a museum.

THE GÖTA CANAL AND ADJACENT WATERWAYS
GÖTEBORG — STOCKHOLM 620 km

To avoid the shipping tolls through the Danish controlled Kattegat or running their cannon at Kronborg Castle, Swedish authorities began planning a waterway across Sweden in the early sixteenth century. An initial plan was produced by Bishop Hans Brask in 1516.

Göteborg

Long an important port, Göteborg is now the most important container terminal in the Nordic area. A modern view is shown on Scott 862, issued in 1971. The route of the canal system from Göteborg can be traced on the map on a 1991 issue of Sweden. Another stamp in the same set shows the harbour area of Stockholm, the eastern end of the route.

Bishop Brask (1991)
The Göta Canal and its associated waterways connect Göteborg (left, Scott 862 of 1971) with Stockholm harbour (right, issued 1991). The route can be traced across the map stamp (centre) issued in 1991. Göteborg is now the largest container port in the Nordic area. Note the statue of Poseidon on the 1971 Götaborg stamp.

Other relevant and suitable map stamps are a Sweden issue of 1944 (Scott 348-50), commemorating the 300th anniversary of Johan Mansson’s first marine chart of the Baltic Sea; and the 1990 minisheet of Iceland, issued for NORDIA ’91.

The Karlsten Fortress, on the Isle of Marstrand a few miles north of Göteborg protected the Göteborg harbour. It was captured in 1719 by Peter Tordenskjold without a shot being fired. He was portrayed accepting the surrender on a 1990 Stamp of Denmark, and he also appeared on a 1947 issue of Norway, Scott 281.

Along with industrialization, the canal brought railways that, ironically, affected the canal’s viability by the early 1900s. Fryckstad, Sweden’s first engine, was built at Eskilstuna in 1855. It is shown on Scott 495 and 1134. The Gotland was built in 1878 at Tröllhätten.

Regular canal passenger service between Stockholm and Göteborg commenced in 1834 with a paddle steamer. The first propeller driven ship entered service on the canal in 1846.

The coast scenery north of Göteborg inspired Evert Taube’s sea poems.
Other Swedish stamps that pertain to Göteborg are the Waxholm boat ex-Stragnas Express (Scott 749), the Poseidon Statue by Carl Miller on a cancel, the Lion Fortress built 1687-89 (Scott 720 and 1221), and the Vinga lighthouse and pilot station (Scott 1089).

Scott 749 (1971), Scott 1089 (1974), and a Vinga cancel.

Göteborg to Vänersborg (Göta River to Väner Lake - 82 km, 6 Locks)

As a young prince, Härdräde in 1064 had 60 longboats hauled past the falls to Väner Lake, the third largest lake in Europe. These were large vessels, approximately 23 m. long, with 16 pairs of oars and single sail of 70 square metres. King Harald Härdräde appeared on Scott 305 of Norway, issued in 1950, and longboats are shown on Norway 248, issued in 1942.

The first lock bypassing Lilla Edet was built in 1607 under the reign of Gustav II Adolf. The design was similar to the 1438 Milano swing gate locks. The 1927 renovation of the locks in the canal included the installation on an experimental propeller type hydroelectric turbine designed by an Austrian, Victor Kaplan.

Victor Kaplan was portrayed on Austria Scott B151, issued in 1936. The Kaplan Wheel appeared on Norway #1105 of 1991 and on a 1984 Finnish issue (shown). Portraits of Gustav II Adolf can be found on Sweden 164-66, issued in 1920.

The Kaplan turbine found other applications elsewhere. The first American installation was in 1929 at the Lake Walk hydroelectric station in Texas.

Of four attempts to bypass Tröllhättan Falls, two were successful. In 1718 King Karl XII contracted Christoffer Polhen to build this portion of the canal. Necken, the mirage in the Falls, was shown on Sweden 1340, issued 1950, and Christoffer Polhen appeared on Sweden 427-29 of 1951.

Sweden 1340

Sweden 427 and Malmöi cancel.
The postcard of Tröllhättan Falls (right) would not be acceptable in exhibitions judged according to F.I.P. regulations unless the cancel bears directly on the theme of the exhibit. Affixing the stamp to the picture side of the card was permitted under the postal regulations of 1909.

Several stamps can be used to illustrate Vänern Lake: Sweden 1359 of 1981 shows a Bohuslan Boat (local craft), a 1984 issue commemorates the 400th anniversary of Kalstad, and a 1988 stamp pictures an iceboat.

The Dalslands Canal (Köpmanneshamn to Lake Stora Le) was built in 1864-68, principally for the purpose of bringing timber rafts to pulp mills. It is 254 km. long and contains 28 locks. This canal was commemorated on Sweden 744, issued in 1968 (left). Timber rafts appear on Scott 1168, issued in 1976.

The Soots Canal, also known as the Grasmo Canal, was built in 1847-49 by Engebret Soot. This was the first Norwegian canal. It had 16 locks and a 1.8 km. horse drawn railway between Mortsjølungen and Tvillingtjemene. Engebret Soot and a view of the Ørje Lock gates appeared on a 1986 issue of Norway (right).

The Säffe Canal and the Karlskoga—Filipstad Waterway, 70 km. with five locks, are part of the canal system. I have been unable to find any philatelic items for them.
Göta Canal (Sjötorp to Mem on Gulf of Bothnia - 190 km, 58 Locks)

This is the actual Göta Canal, opened in 1832. After various attempts, Thomas Telford made a survey for Count Baltzar von Platen, who pursued the work until his death in 1830. Eighty-six km. of the total length is a manmade waterway. Approximately 5,800 soldiers were employed in digging the canal.

A 1979 Swedish booklet, containing six different stamps, Scott 1285-90, was dedicated to the Göta Canal. The stamps and booklet cover show various scenes on the canal.

In September 1822, Karl XIV Johan, on board the schooner Frigga and escorted by the sloops Hector and Neptunas, sailed through the 19 locks to Hajstorp and farther on to Lakes Vättern, Viken and Vassbacken. Karl XIV Johan is shown on Sweden 1025 of 1973.

Forsvik

The first lock, Forsvik, was built in 1813. Two brothers, John and Nils Eriksson, worked on the project, John as a 14 year old in charge of 600 workers. John Eriksson (1803-89) appeared on Sweden 1178 of 1976 (shown at right).

Nils Eriksson, in addition to building the Saffle and Dalslands Canals and laying out railway routes, worked on Finland’s Saima Canal, commemorated on Finland 476 of 1968. In later years there appears to have been friction between the brothers. Nils dropped an 's' in his name on his marriage to Countess Wendela von Schwerin.

A Vadstena cancel on a postcard. The message on the card reads, "We're in the canal just before Motala...."

Lake Vättern appears on a 1976 pair, 1185-6 (1185 shown at left). Vadstena, on Lake Vättern, can be illustrated with Scott 1154 (shown at left), portraying a bobbin lace maker and Vadstena's 1430 Abbey. Sweden commemorated the 600 year old convent in Vadstena with a 1984 stamp (shown).

The area between Vadstena, Motala, and Lake Vättern, often referred to as the “Trevlign Triangle,” contains many historical, archaeological, and other interesting sights, such as the 9th century Rök Stone with the world's longest runic inscription (Scott 1120).

Motala

In accordance with his wish, Count von Platen, builder of the Göta Canal, was buried alongside the canal just east of Motala at Memorial Lock.
Commemorative cancels for the Göta Canal.

Westbound, ships generally give two long blasts with their whistles in recognition of his accomplishment.

The first Swedish iron ship, the paddlewheeler Seandia, was built in 1841-2 at the Motala Works. Of the ten third class warships built between 1865 and 1875, the first was built at these works.

The Kinda Canal, a subsidiary waterway from Lake Roxe to Lake Äsunden, is 80 km long, containing 14 locks providing a 52 m lift. I have not found any philatelic material for this canal.
Baltic Sea to Stockholm via Lake Mälaren

Norrköping, a 600 year old town on the Baltic coast toward Stockholm, was portrayed on a 1984 issue of Sweden.

Lake Mälar (Mälaren) is the third largest lake in Sweden, approximately 45 km by 117 km. It is a connecting link between the Göta Canal, the Baltic Sea, and the Hjälmare and Strömsholm Canals, among others. (See Figure 5, Page 42)

The Södertälje Canal

Samuel Owen built the first lock in 1819, a Cassen type 42 m. long, 8.7 m. wide, and 3.6 m. deep. It was rebuilt in the twentieth century, and reopened by King Gustav V on November 17, 1924. At the time it was the largest Nordic lock, 135 m. long. Owen also was a shipbuilder. He constructed the paddlewheeler Josephine in 1824.

This vessel burned and sank near Strängnas in November 1827. A 600 passenger ship, it had an 80 HP. engine and was capable of 8 knots. In 1875-76 divers found what are believed to be the remains of this ship.

Samuel Owen was honoured with a stamp, Scott 1038, in 1974. The Landsort Lighthouse, on the approach to the canal, was shown on Scott 1001, issued in 1973.

The Stromsholms Canal, built in 1795, is the third oldest, and the third longest canal in Sweden. The canal has 25 locks, and runs north from Lake Mälar. No philatelic material relating to this canal has so far been found.

Two more canals connect with Lake Mälar. The Torshälla Canal runs south from Lake Mälar to Eskilstuna. Suitable stamps are Scott 1235 of Sweden, showing Örebro Castle, and a 1986 issue showing Eskilstuna Church. The Hjälmaren Canal is 14 km. long, and was constructed in 1596-1610. It was completed, with 14 locks, in 1639. It provides 21 m. of lift, and accommodates ships 30 m. long and with a 1.95 m. draught. No philatelic material on this canal has been located.
Vinterviken

Situated below Riddarholmen, Vinterviken was the site of Alfred Nobel’s nitroglycerin plant, constructed in 1860. There were two serious explosions, in 1867 and 1874. Nobel lost a son in one, and in the other, a Von Platen canal boat unloading saltpetre was almost totally disintegrated.

Alfred Nobel on Scott 380 of Sweden, one of a set of three stamps issued in 1946.

Stockholm

The Skeppsholmen Lock at Stockholm was built under Dutch direction in 1637-1642. Paintings of scenes depicting canals in Stockholm appeared on a 1985 souvenir sheet issued for Stockholmia 86. These show locks (by S. Hjerten) and the Riddarholmen Canal (by H. Linnqvist).

Paintings of locks and the Riddarholmen Canal at Stockholm (first and second at left), Scott 1353 and 1354.

The Chapman, a tourist hostel, is shown docked in central Stockholm. A backpacking tourist is on the other stamp of this 1985 Swedish coil pair.
A number of stamps can be used to illustrate the Stockholm end of the Canal. Drottningholm, the Swedish Versailles, houses treasures looted from Prague and Bavaria. The Drottningholm Chinese Palace, built in 1763, appeared on Sweden 858, issued in 1970. Gripsholms Castle, started 450 years ago by Gustav Vasa, was commemorated in 1987. Riddarholmen, the ‘Isle of the Knights,’ with church towers, appeared on Scott 449 and 451 of 1953. Other suitable issues are Stockholm in 1783 (Scott 944), the Djurgarden Ferry (Scott 1222), and Riddarholmen (Scott 1455).

This is the end of our tour across along the Göta Waterways. In working on this study, I found that my limited Swedish was not a hindrance. In no way have I exhausted the thematic possibilities of this subject.

There is the now vanished Viking town of Birka, Ansvar who laid the foundation for the area’s Episcopal sees, Lt. Arrhenius’ discovery of Ytterbium, botanist Carl von Linne who for a period also served as Sweden’s fleet surgeon, the legend of Sigurd the Volsung, Eskilstuna’s master cutlers (the Swedish Sheffield), and the start of such manufacturing industries as ASEA and Electrolux.

While the search can be interesting, and pertinent material can be found with a little imagination, you should pay close attention to your collecting boundaries or the theme may become too spread out and unwieldy.

Now who is for a voyage from the English Channel to the Mediterranean through France and then by other waterways to the Black Sea, or perhaps a trip down the Volga. Or, closer to home, a trip on the St. Lawrence, Richelieu and Hudson Rivers to New York. Bon Voyage!

As a postscript, I will return to the R-100 mentioned at the beginning of this article, the one that gave me my start as a young collector. I found a slot for it in my ‘Neptune’s Realm’ collection, albeit as an inadmissible citizen or anomaly. It now resides with various admiral and skipper butterflies, and boatswain and frigate birds, and other exotica. The cover, with the cachet showing the R-100 ‘airship,’ is mounted on the same page with ‘Portuguese Men of War,’ a ‘Prairie Schooner,’ and some ‘Ships of the Desert.’ The page is shown in Figure 6.

The First Official Canadian Airmail Designation

by Murray Heifetz

Ever since the first regular airmail services began in 1918 in Austria, both postal administrations and individuals have used various methods to designate pieces of mail for transport by air. The vast majority of these were private, although Universal Postal Union agreements in 1924 and 1928 established some uniform concepts. Hence, we find the designations "VIA AIRMAIL" AND "PAR AVION," typed, written or stamped on envelopes; blue and red lozenges or stripes on envelopes, and specific stamp issues valid only for air service.

The Canadian Post Office had no need to create specific rules until late 1927 since, until that date, it had no contracts for the carriage of mail by air. From 1927 to mid 1928 the Canadian Post Office authorized a series of experimental flights to investigate the feasibility of mail transportation by air. These flights culminated with the introduction of the five-cent domestic airmail rate in August, 1928. The issuance of the first airmail stamp followed on Sept. 21, 1928.

In May 1928, flights were made from Rimouski to Montreal and between Toronto, Montreal, and Ottawa. Presumably in anticipation of these services, the Post Office proofed three handstamps, all with the same wording, but differing in destination. The wording was "THIS MAIL WAS CARRIED BY POSTAL AIRPLANE TO MONTREAL" (or "OTTAWA" or "TORONTO"). The proof book indicates that these handstamps were approved in April 1928. While Post Office notices with respect to these strikes (as well as several others currently under study) have not been located, it is assumed that the strikes - with specified dimensions - were sent to the postmasters in the several cities involved. These postmasters would then order a number of rubber stamps to be made. Although specifications of size would have been provided, it is evident that stamps were produced with slightly differing characteristics. The following analysis is based solely on the covers in my collection. There may well be others which have not yet come to light.

There is one difference in these strikes which may have determined locally is the choice of the colour of ink used. Almost all strikes I own or have seen are black or grey-black. I have one cover with a double strike in violet. I also know of one other strike reported in blue. These are the only two examples I am aware of in colours other than black.

The major difference in these strikes is in the spacing between the three horizontal lines of type. The differences are sufficiently large and constant to designate these as two separate categories. Thus there is a wide spacing variety and a narrow spacing variety, depending on which is considered the standard. The more common, by far, are the narrow spacing examples. However, the proof strikes, which should be considered the standard, are the wide spacing. Although the wide spacing varieties can be identified easily without resort to measurement, the easiest way is to note that all the wide spacing markings have a period after the destination city name. The narrow spacing markings have no period.
The illustration above is an enlarged drawing of the airmail marking. Specific dimensions are designated by letters. In all the markings I have examined, all dimensions with the exception of E, F, G, H, and K are reasonably constant. There is some variance in the horizontal dimensions A and B; this probably results from excess pressure on the left hand side of the rubber stamp during application. This spread is 3 mm to 5 mm in dimension A. This spreading effect also increases dimension B, unusually through a spread in the width of the letters T and H in "THIS".

An example of the wide spacing variety of the first official Canadian airmail marking. This strike, from May 1928, is an early use. Note that it is used on a specially approved envelope, with two heavy horizontal stripes.
The narrow spacing variety of the first airmail handstamp. Note that it has no period after "MONTREAL". The narrow spacing variety is the most common.

The differences in vertical dimensions show variance from one marking to another and also between the markings for the different city destinations, but for simplicity we can assign a general number which will suffice. Dimension K, the overall box height, is 20 mm in the narrow spacing and 23 mm in the wide spacing. The dimensions E, F, G and H are 1.6 mm in the narrow spacing and 2.4 mm in the wide spacing.

The one other major difference noted is in the marking for Toronto. In this marking, the length of the word "TORONTO" is 2 mm to 3 mm longer in the narrow spacing marking than in the wide spacing.

These markings were in use from May 1928 to about mid 1929. By this date many more mail contracts had been awarded for service beyond the three original cities. The replacement handstamps had the simple wording "AIRMAIL" enclosed in a rectangular box.

A comparison of the wide spacing variety (above) and the narrow spacing (below).

Warning Inscriptions on Canada Precancelled Sheets—New Plates Reported
by Hans Reiche

The so-called "Warning Inscriptions," the messages that the Post Office printed on the margins of sheets of precancelled stamps, are not commonly seen. Most collectors did not purchase large blocks that would have included them. All known plates, with various types of Warning Inscriptions, were reported in The Canadian Philatelist in the March-April 1993 issue. (E.R. Toop and Hans Reiche, "Warning Inscriptions Varieties on Canada Precancel Sheets," Vol. 44, No. 2, pp. 137-42.) The article illustrated various types of the warning inscriptions in English and bilingual formats.

Donald LeBlanc of Caraquet, N.B. has reported additional plates that until not previously been recorded. Of great interest are precancels of the 1¢ and 3¢ values of the War Issue of 1942 which shows the inscription, "WARNING! - TO BE USED ONLY AS SPECIALLY AUTHORIZED." The War Issue appeared long before February 1962, when approval for the inscriptions was given. A plausible explanation is that these sheets were remainders at the Philatelic Agency in Ottawa, which still had them for sale in 1962. The Post Office overprinted them as precancels rather than destroying them. The 1¢ War Issue also exists with a "5850" precancel (Winnipeg), and the 3¢ with a "9780" precancel (Vancouver).

A warning inscription on a strip of the 1¢ War Issue precancel, Plate 5. The author theorizes that remaindered Philatelic Agency sheets were precancelled in the 1960s.

Blocks of the precancelled 1977 12¢ Parliament stamp, which contained the plate number in addition to the warning inscription, were sold to collectors by the Ottawa Philatelic Agency.

The newly recorded Warning Inscription and Plate Number varieties are listed below, and should be considered an addendum to the previous article. Numbers are from the Canada Precancel Catalogue.

Hans Reiche’s column, "Postmarked Ottawa," has appeared in this journal for many years. He is also the author of several philatelic handbooks.
Canada Post Corporation has announced that on January 28 it released the world's first self-adhesive customized Greeting Stamps. Available in booklets of 10, these 43¢ pressure-sensitive stamps allow customers to personalize quickly, and in effect, to create their own postage.

The Greeting Stamps, which replace the 'Flag' Quick-Sticks that first appeared in 1989, feature a revolutionary 'watch-band' design with a blank white circle in the centre. Customers can create a variety of messages by affixing one of seven different festive greeting symbols or stickers into the central area.

The colourful and easy-to-apply stickers depict the following images: a heart, perfect for a Valentine’s card; a bride and groom, to announce a wedding or send anniversary congratulations; a baby rattle for birth announcements; a birthday cake; balloons, symbolic of a party; roses, ideal for Mother’s Day greetings; and a pen, representing written communications.

Stamp booklets will contain two variations of the Greeting Stamp. One version reads (right to left) "Canada (circle) 43", the other "43 (circle) Canada". The stamps were designed by Tarzan Communication Graphique Inc. of Montreal, with photography by Adrien Duey.

The official stamp launch took place on January 28 in Love, Saskatchewan. Only in Love can you have your Valentine’s Day cards and other romantic correspondence cancelled with a special red ink postmark. Beginning this year customers can also have the option of using the new Greeting Stamp on their Valentine’s Day cards.

LES TIMBRES-SOUHAITS AUTOCOLLANTS

La Société canadienne des postes a émettra, le 28 janvier, les tout premiers timbres-souhaits autocollants et personnalisés du monde. Offerts en carnet de 10, ces timbres de 43 cents peuvent être personnalisés en un clin d'œil, permettant à l'expéditeur de créer le motif qui lui convient.

Les timbres remplacent la série de timbres de timbres-Express illustrant le drapeau canadien lancée en 1989, est formé d'un trait ondulé portant en son centre un cercle vierge. On peut créer une variété de messages en apposant dans le cercle l'un des autocollants illustrés de sept symboles différents. Colorés et faciles à appliquer, les autocollants sont ornés des symboles suivants : un cœur, motif idéal pour agrémenter une carte de la Saint-Valentin ; un couple de mariés, pour annoncer un mariage ou souligner un anniversaire ; un hôtel pour annoncer une naissance ; un gâteau d'anniversaire ; des ballons, symboles de rassemblements de tous genres ; des roses, idéales pour accompagner les souhaits émis à l'occasion de la fête des Mères, et une plume, pour évoquer la communication écrite.

Les timbres du carnet présenteront deux motifs différents, l'un portant l'inscription «Canada (cercle) 43,» l'autre, «43 (cercle) Canada.» La conception est l'oeuvre de la maison montréalaise Tarzan Communication Graphique Inc., et les photos sont signées Adrien Duey.

Le lancement officiel aura lieu le 28 janvier à Love, en Saskatchewan. La ville de Love est le seul endroit où l'on peut faire oblitérer les cartes de la Saint-Valentin et autre correspondance galante au moyen d'un cachet à encre rouge. Les clients pourront aussi agrémenter leurs cartes de nouveaux timbres-souhaits.

This work was published to commemorate the one hundredth newsletter published by the Canadian Railway Post Office Study Group. William Robinson has done a masterful job in his selections from those hundred newsletters.

The very first article, "The Introduction of the Railway Postal Car to Canada (A Little History)" by Thomas A. Hillman, is alone almost worth the price of the book. In addition, there is a lot of useful information for the novice and newcomer to railway postal history. For example, "What Do All Those Letters Mean," by Joe Purcell, explains railway name abbreviations. Frank Waite undertook quite a project with his multi-part article, "After the Ampersand." This helps to decipher partial and incomplete strikes by identifying the second terminal.

Cross border railway postal history is well represented by articles and even a poem by Dr. John McCrae, who must be considered a foremost expert on the subject. There are maps and timetables, and other useful data. The dean of R.P.O. collectors, Lewis M. Ludlow, is represented by several articles. The coverage of R.P.O.s is national, from Newfoundland to British Columbia. Well chosen articles familiarize the reader with the carrying of the mails in the age of steam, and with the history and development of the many railroads over which the mails travelled.

The anthology is useful not only to members of the R.P.O. Study Group, but it also should also be in the library of all students of Canadian postal history.

The new edition of the Stanley Gibbons Collect Birds on Stamps is a most useful work, not only to collectors, but to thematic dealers such as myself. I find the book a great asset in organizing my stock.

The stamps depicting birds (some 10,000, representing 2,200 different species) are organized by country and year of issue. Along with the Stanley Gibbons catalogue numbers, the Latin names of the birds are also provided.

The first stamp in each set is illustrated. This makes it easy to find a particular listing quickly by the appearance of the stamp. Finding individual stamps is also made easy by the indexes. There are two of them, listing birds by their common and ornithological names.

This third edition is in a larger format than the 2nd edition, which was published in 1988. It stays open on the table, rather than flipping closed as the old edition does. The publishers might consider issuing a future edition in a spiral-bound format. This would allow the book to lay flatter on the table, making it easier to use when working on a collection.

New Zealand and the Universal Postal Union to 1907, by Colin Capill. Published by the Royal Philatelic Society of New Zealand, Box 1269, Wellington, New Zealand, 1993, ISBN 0112-2053. 133 pages, 6 1/2 x 9 1/4, soft cover.

The Royal Philatelic Society of New Zealand has encouraged Colin Capill to put together an excellent and scholarly treatise on the Universal Postal Union. Mr. Capill’s discussion covers material relevant not only to New Zealand but to many other postal administrations up to 1907.

Students of worldwide postal history will find much of interest relating to rates, routes, and carriers to and from South Pacific destinations.

This book covers, in thorough detail, the birth and development of the various proposals made to New Zealand to join the Universal Postal Union, as well as the conferences and the Congress that led to the eventual mutual acceptance of terms.

An excellent chapter, and one that will be of interest to Canadian postal historians, describes New Zealand's involvement in Universal Penny Postage commencing in 1901.

Appendices (which take up 66 pages of the book) detail the articles and regulations of the 1874 Treaty of the General Postal Union, the 1891 Convention of the Universal Postal Union, and the 1897 Amendments.

The production quality of this work is outstanding. Some 40 covers are illustrated, and the reproductions are generally sharp and clear.

The Mediterranean Mails, edited by Fred Stubens. Published by Philatelic Specialists Society of Canada; available from Clifford R. Guile, 342 St. Clair Ave. E., Toronto, ON M4T 1P4. 90 pages, 100 black and white illustrations, colour map, soft cover. $42.80 postpaid in Canada; $37.50 U.S. postpaid elsewhere.

This book is a presentation of original research by 17 members of the Philatelic Specialist Society of Canada. The studies are of mails from, to, and through the Mediterranean countries. The time span runs from the early 16th century to the end of the 19th century.

It begins with two historically important Venetian letters, followed by an early 19th century letter from Greece with the rare Malta 'F' cancelation of Falmouth. Allan Steinhart pro-vides a Canadian connection with four pre-adhesive letters between British North America and the Ionian Islands. These are among the great rarities of BNA postal history.

The book contains background studies which provide some of the vast amount of information required by postal historians in their work. These include Michel Houde's study of the movement of mail across the Isthmus of Suez, developed by Thomas Waghorn. Complementing this work are Alan McKanna's study of the main shipping lines, Kenneth Rowe's listing of forwarding agents, and Nicholas Coddington's history of the Suez Canal.

Miet Kamienski, Piotr Madej and Ted Wright study Polish and Russian mails to the Mediterranean area while Ted Walton, Fred Stubens and Cliff Guile contribute articles on letters and postcards to exotic destinations. Peter Lerpinier presents a study of mails between France and its North African territories of Algeria and Tunis. Andrew Cronin provides notes on the Macedonian District and Harry Sutherland gives a glimpse of the Balkans with the "Bandit Mails" of Montenegro.

The articles are well written and properly documented, with the general collector in mind.

Tres Seculos e Meio da Historia Postal Brasileira (1500-1843), [Three and a Half Centuries of Brazilian Postal History]. Published by Correios do Brasil, in honour of the 150th anniversary of the first Brazilian stamp, and the BRASILIANA '93 exhibition in Rio de Janeiro.

This is a concise, softbound volume, written in Portuguese, with ample illustrations. It contains routes, rates, and other pertinent information for the student of Brazilian postal history. It should be considered a primer for the novice and a source of otherwise unavail-able information for the researcher.

The Nickel Box circuit has started well; we have about 35 of them now and they are always mostly out. However, the amount made on the sales per circuit, with the price of the stamps at five cents, has not warranted the amount of work involved.

One buyer I spoke to said that if he found a stamp he wanted, it was immaterial to him whether he had to pay five or ten cents for it. An owner I was talking to said that if we sold the stamps in Nickel Boxes at ten cents, it would allow him to improve the quality, i.e. put in all stamps catalogued at 15 cents. This was reported at the executive meeting of the Society on November 13th, and when I told them that I was going to put the price up to ten cents, there was no argument. The Nickel Boxes being new and experimental, it was expected that there might have to be changes in the light of experience.

We are not however changing the name which was chosen because we thought that it would convey the general idea to stamp collectors everywhere.

With the success of the Nickel Boxes, they now providing an outlet for common material, the minimum value per book of $50 will be more strictly enforced, and may be raised again later.

To participate in the Sales Circuit, as either a buyer or seller, write to Molly Krajewski, R.P.S.C. Stamp Circuit, Box 10, Ajax, Ont. L1S 3C3.

A graduate of the University of Alberta with several degrees, Keith is a criminologist and a faculty member of his alma mater. In addition to his philatelic interests, he is active in sports.

Charles J.G. Verge, M.A.
Ottawa, Ontario

Since 1986, Mr. Verge has been involved in many positions with ORAPEX, Ottawa's national philatelic exhibition, culminating in his chairing the Organizing Committee for four shows from 1988 to 1991, and the co-chairing of ROYAL*1993*ROYALE, the 65th convention of the R.P.S.C. As well, he was a member of the Executive and Organizing Committees of CANADA 92 in Montreal, and was president of the Société de promotion des expositions philatéliques, a managing firm responsible for putting on philatelic exhibitions, including CANADA 92.

Ses intérêts philatéliques sont reliés à la philatélie et à l'histoire postale de l'Irlande. En septembre 1993 M. Verge a été élu à un terme de deux ans comme Président de l'E.P.A., une société internationale de collectionneurs intéressés à la philatélie de l'Irlande. Ses autres intérêts sont l'histoire postale de comté de Papineau et la littérature philatélique. On lui connaît même des tendances vers les thématiques.

Mr. Verge has exhibited nationally and internationally and is an accredited national-level philatelic and literature judge. He is currently Chairman of the R.P.S.C.'s Judging Programme. He has written two books and numerous philatelic articles, and is a member of over 20 philatelic organizations. He is a director of Writers' Unit 30 (1993-97).

Charles Verge is married to Alana Forrester and is the father of three daughters. Professionally, he is Director, Facility Management, at the Canada Department of Transport.
Exchanges Wanted / Demandes d’échange

Since the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada is the national society of philatelists in Canada, many requests for exchange partners are referred to us. As a service to our members, we are pleased to present these names, so that those who wish to do so can make overseas contacts. Please note that we have no way of checking the credentials of the individuals who write to us asking that their names be published; therefore, we urge that caution be taken when answering these requests.

La Société royale de philatélie du Canada ne s'occupe pas normalement des échanges entre philatélistes, mais comme elle est la société philatélique nationale du Canada, ou lui transmet de nombreuses demandes de philatélistes désireux de trouver des correspondants pour échanger des timbres. Ainsi a-t-elle décidé, pour rendre service à ses membres, de publier les noms intéressés d'outre-mer, afin que ceux qui désirent établir des rapports avec eux puissent la faire. Je vous signale toutefois que nous ne savons rien des personnes qui nous demandent de publier leur nom, c'est pourquoi je vous conseille d'être prudent en épondant à ces demandes d'échange.
