A TRUE PHILATELIST

A couple of weeks ago I received a note from Harry Sutherland with the pleasant news that Ray Ireson had been awarded the 1995 Geldert Medal for his two-part article on Colombian airmail.

I first encountered Mr. Ireson about a decade ago through his well-known exhibit on the Panama Canal, a subject that has long interested me as a historian. I well recall the heated discussions that this exhibit generated. Was it a topical or postal history? Was the detailed treatment of individual stamp issues appropriate for either a topical or postal history exhibit? I remember that one moss-backed accredited judge stated emphatically that it should not be shown competitively at all in its existing form.

In essence, Mr. Ireson placed the stamps and postal services of the Panama Canal Zone against their political and historical context. For this particular subject, the context is very rich and exciting. His exhibit therefore ranged widely, incorporated material that some people thought should be omitted.

Despite his refusal to be slotted neatly into pre-existing categories, Mr. Ireson’s Panama Canal did well on the competitive circuit. I have not doubt that it influenced the thinking of both judges and other exhibitors along the way.

Mr. Ireson used the same methods with his Colombian Airmail story. The basic structure is that of a postal history treatment, but it sometimes strolls into a topical treatment of the subject. There are pauses and asides when he includes items that are interesting, but do not relate directly to the subject. Mr. Ireson also includes a few personal reminiscences. The subject crossed paths with his own career as a banker in Central and South America—very likely this is the reason he started collecting Colombian airmails in the first place.

When editing the article for publication I was tempted to delete some of this material. I resisted the impulse for two reasons: it would make the article less interesting for the vast majority of readers, few of whom collect Colombian airmails; and it would betray the collecting style of the author.

I think that most philatelists form their collections in much the same way as Mr. Ireson: accumulating corollary and tangential material, picking up items that attract their fancy in one way or another, and seeking items with a personal connection to their own lives. Such material seldom finds a place in the formal version of the collection assembled for competitive display. Mr. Ireson has succeeded in the difficult task of combining this material in such a way that the main thread of the story is never lost. This is a rare and enviable art, producing an engaging story with an intensely personal perspective.

I believe that the Geldert Committee chose wisely this year. To Ray Ireson: My warmest congratulations, sir. Well done.

OUR ANNUAL INDEX

Once again we heartily thank Brian Russell for the preparation of the index for 1995. The index appears in this issue as a four-page unnumbered insert bound into the centre of the issue. You can leave it there, or remove it to keep with the indexes of previous years, depending on how you store your back issues.

The insert in this issue also contains information on CAPEX, plus a proxy form and information on our annual meeting. You can also remove these pages without destroying the integrity of the magazine.

I’LL SEE YOU AT CAPEX

The Directors and Officers of the Royal will have a strong presence at CAPEX in June. We hope to see many members at the Royal’s booth, either as volunteers for an hour or two, or just dropping by for a chat. I intend to spend a day at the booth, on June 14, for anyone who wants to meet the editor. I’ll be happy to talk about any aspect of the magazine, and I hope to meet many readers and some of the regular contributors. I have never met some of them in person.

REVENUE STAMPS IN EXHIBITS

Sir,

This is the ninth year I will have exhibited at the local and/or international level. It has provided many happy hours, in preparation, exhibition and new friendships found.

However, the last exhibition I participated in has made me wonder if the effort is worthwhile.

I refer, first of all, to the admission for competition, by the Exhibits Committee, of “Hunting Revenues of Canada” as a philatelic exhibit in VANPEX 95.

Secondly, even if it slipped through the committee screening, the judges should have refused to judge it competitively, let alone judge it Best in Show.

Our hobby has surely reached an all time low when such exhibits are classed as philatelic material. In coming years we will no doubt see an exhibit of “The Drivers Licences of Canada,” which of course are also revenue producers.

The famous 5 Ws are surely applicable here: WHAT have hunting licences to do with philately?
WHY are they allowed competitively?
WHEN will the judges refuse to judge such items?
WHERE are we going to draw the line?
WHO is going to write the RPSC Exhibition Committee and say enough is enough?

As an exhibitor, unless there is a firm commitment by the Royal to end the inclusion of non-philatelic material in competition, I will only exhibit in jurisdictions where such material is banned. If, as an exhibitor, you are in agreement, let your feelings be known. Maybe we can stop the erosion of our hobby before it is too late.

Canada Post Corporation started offering U.S. stamps to Canadian collectors via our National Philatelic Centre because a sufficient number of our customers requested this service. The sale of these stamps has not adversely affected our own stamp sales, and we believe that any interest in stamp collecting will eventually lead to better Canadian stamp sales. On the competition issue, if all Canadians were truly satisfied with the prices, accessibility, and availability of U.S. stamps from private dealers, they would not have requested this service from Canada Post.

An improved bottom line allows Canada Post to continue offering affordable postal service for everyone—who could argue with that?

INFORMATION WANTED

Sir,

At STAMP SHOW 95 in St. Louis I met a collector who wants information on:
1. Yukon Law Stamps: 1903 Dawson Mining Court issues, 1903 Territorial Court issues, 1903 overprints.
2. National Cash Register meters used from the 1920s to 1970s, Types 1 and 2. He would like to meet someone who has these for sale and trade.

Please send initial correspondence to me at 514 Gardiner St., Oromocto, NB E2V 1G3, and I will forward it.

BAD CANCELS AND LATE DELIVERY

Sir,

Enclosed is a photocopy of a package sent to me with rather beautiful Canadian stamps. However, some overzealous misguided minion of the Canada Post Corporation has gone to great lengths to obliterate/deface the stamps! There is no date stamp, so I can’t even be sure who else, i.e. Canada Post Corporation, Canada Customs, US Customs or USPS, to chastise for the rather tardy delivery of this catalogue—one day after the auction was over!

I assure you this is not a random event. As Mr. Eddy Cosenheim suggests (Canadian Stamp News, 13 June 1995), it is becoming the rule.

James C.S. Colquhoun
Spokane, Washington

(Ed. note: The item referred to by Dr. Colquhoun was an auction catalogue from a Toronto house, franked with a block of 8 ship stamps, and very heavily obliterated with a roller cancel. We have in the past urged Canada Post to be more sensitive in the handling of philatelic mail, and will continue to do so.

Late delivery has been troublesome for this journal as well for several years. The RPSC took the matter up with Canada Post, and there have been great improvements in domestic delivery times over the past year. There still are difficulties with copies sent to the US and overseas—sometimes eight weeks or more en route, and frequently damage in transit. We are still working on these problems. International surface mail no longer seems to be of much interest to most postal administrations. Obviously they prefer mail items to go by more lucrative airmail services.)

STAMPS IN SCHOOL

Sir,

I am a teacher who would like to get my students interested in collecting Canadian stamps to stimulate their interest in the history and geography of Canada.

Would it be possible for your members to support this worthwhile project by sending us brochures, information, and sample stamps? I appreciate your assistance.

WORLDWIDE PHILATELIC PARTY

Sir,

In 1994, a science fiction fan named Benoit Girard invented the Worldwide Party. It is held each year on June 21. The idea is that at 9 pm local time, science fiction fans will raise a glass and toast their fellow hobbyists worldwide.

I would like to suggest that philatelists adopt this idea, and have a Worldwide Party on May 6, the anniversary of the first postage stamp in 1840. I therefore ask all readers to take time on May 6 at 9 pm to salute their fellow stamp collectors around the world. Let's get a wave of philatelists circling the planet and toasting the hobby.

There are many ways to celebrate this event, whether a full-blown party, a quiet moment with a raised glass, or a special ceremony. The idea is to have fun and to appreciate the links we have with each other though we may never meet in person. Afterwards, write to The Canadian Philatelist and tell the editor how you celebrated.

One important note: you should celebrate the event exactly at 9 pm local time on May 6. Having it on another day to match your club meeting destroys the idea of the Worldwide Party spanning the planet.

The Canadian Philatelist
NEW CSDA EXECUTIVE
The Canadian Stamp Dealers' Association recently announced the results of its election of officers for 1996-97. They are: President, John Sheffield of London; Vice-president, Roy Houtby of St. Catharines; Secretary, Rick Day of Burlington; Treasurer, Emil Talacko of Toronto. Regional directors are Dwayne Miner of Cochrane, Alberta for the West; Izzy Baum of Laval for Quebec; Andrew Blanchard of Vancouver for BC; Ted Wright of Toronto for Ontario; and Charles Firby of Waterford, Michigan for the USA.

The CSDA consists of 185 dealers in Canada and worldwide. It represents its members in all philatelic matters. We wish them well with their activities in the coming year.

CANADA POST SUPER HERO CONTEST
The winner of the Super Hero Search Contest, conducted by Canada Post Corporation during Stamp Month, is Richard Lee of Mississauga. The character he created, named Gauge, is equipped with high tech armor and sensors, energy weapons, and a containment suit.

Runners up were Tommy Zhu, Heather Clark and Chris Daman. The contest drew 23,000 entries from juniors across Canada under 16 years of age. Some of the entries will be on display at the CAPEX show.

PACIFIC 97 DEADLINE EXTENDED
The deadline for submitting entry forms to PACIFIC 97, the international show to be held in San Francisco, has been extended to June 3. This will allow additional exhibitors to qualify at various national level shows. Canadian exhibitors seeking to enter this show should contact the Canadian commissioners listed in the "Coming Events" section.

IDA GEORGINA PIKE
Canadian philatelists will be sad to learn of the death of Mrs. Pike, which occurred on Dec. 21, 1995. She was the widow of James Pike, an RPSC Fellow and long-time director of this Society.

STAMP SHOW 96
The 1996 STAMP SHOW and 110th annual convention of the American Philatelic Society will take place in Orlando, Florida from August 22 to 25. A show prospectus is available from the APS at Box 8000-N, State College, PA 16803 USA.

DUCK AND WILDLIFE PRICE LIST
Erling van Dam, the revenue stamp dealer, has just released a comprehensive price list of Canadian duck and wildlife conservation stamps. E.S.J. van Dam Ltd. can be reached at Box 300, Bridgenorth, ON K0L 1H0.

DEALERS ON INTERNET
DTS International, the well-known philatelic accessories supply house in Gatineau, has opened an Internet site. Readers can access the site at http://www.vli.ca/dtsi. Denis Tango, owner of DTS, is developing an on-line catalogue of varieties and errors. The firm is working on other innovative ways for marketing its products and serving its customers.

Mr. Lee wins a Macintosh home computer system and other prizes. Gauge will appear in a forthcoming comic book, to be launched at CAPEX in June.

Philatelic Pals: Harold Gosney has collected stamps for 70 years but still enjoys lending a hand to Laura, age 9, just starting in the hobby with Disney stamps. Gosney has been exhibiting his philatelic gems for 49 consecutive years at North Toronto Stamp Club annual exhibitions. Laura is the granddaughter of a club member. This year’s show is March 30-31 at the Civic Garden Centre, Don Mills, Ont.

As well, the British North America Philatelic Society has had a page on the World Wide Web for several months. It can be found at: http://www.compusmart.ab.ca/bnaps.htm.

Also of interest is Joe Luft’s philatelic resources site: http://www.execpc.com/~joeluft/resource.html.

At present only a minority of philatelists have access to the Internet, but the number is growing rapidly. We will be happy to make note in these columns of other dealers who are adding on-line services for their customers.

PHILATELIC LIBRARIES GOING GLOBAL

The American Philatelic Research Library and the British Library are taking the initiative in creating an organization of the world’s major philatelic libraries. The initial meeting is scheduled for CAPEX in Toronto this June.

It is expected that about 25 libraries, in North America, Europe, and South Africa, will be involved initially. The structure and services to be offered have not yet been decided.

This organization promises to be a major aid for philatelic researchers in tracing rare and obscure information.

IRESON WINS GELDERT MEDAL

The Geldert medal is awarded annually to the author of the best article to appear during the year in The Canadian Philatelist. The judging committee is pleased to announce that the 1995 winner is Raymond W. Ireson of Roxboro, Quebec, for his study entitled “Aviation and Airmail Services in Colombia.” The article began in the Nov.-Dec. issue, and concluded in the Jan.-Feb. 1996 issue.

A REPORT ON SINGAPORE 95

The preparatory work of the past three years clearly showed in the results for this World Stamp Exhibition, held from September 1 to 10 in the brand new International Convention & Exhibition Centre on Raffles Boulevard. There was a fantastic Court of Honour headed by examples of early Mauritius Post Office and high value Strait Settlements stamps from the Royal collection, 21 exhibits in the FIP Championship Class, and over 600 competitive exhibits which resulted in the award of 32 large gold medals, 89 gold, 113 large silver, 121 silver, 87 large silver, 92 silver, 54 silver-bronze, 39 bronze, 3 diplomas, and one certificate of participation. There were over 200 literature entries.

Canada’s ten exhibits fared well. The Lindemann Collection of early Canada received a gold, while Leon Ballian of Montreal with early Egypt and Dick Malott of Ottawa with Canadian Crash Covers won large vermeils. Warren Dickson with Estonia and Donald Welsh with early Fiji, both of Toronto, Robert Bayes with the Admiral Issues of Canada and Bill Robinson with The Canadian Contingents in the Anglo-Boer War, both of Vancouver, received vermeils, while Fred Fawn and Alan Hanks of Ontario received silvers for their thematic exhibits on The Lion and Insects respectively. Karel Fischer of Toronto achieved a silver-bronze with an exhibit of Czecho-Slovakia’s Kosice issue.

In the Literature section, a large gold and the John Gartner Award went to The Postal Services of the British Nigeria Region to 1914 by Jack Ince of Sterling, Ontario and John Sacher. Ritch Toop of Ottawa received a large silver for the second edition of the check list of Canadian Military Markings produced by himself and Bill Bailey. L. Col. Bailey of Vancouver and Ritch Toop won a silver medal for Volume 3 of The Canadian Military Posts, and another silver was won by Thomas Hillman of the National Archives for a fine study of the Post Office Department from 1780 to 1925. Silver-bronzes were awarded to John Peebles of London for Volume 8 of his newsletter The Canadian Connection, and to Bill Robinson for A Canadian Railway Post Office Anthology.

The social events were outstanding, with receptions hosted by all up-coming International Exhibitions—including CAPEX 1996, where the new Bridge stamps were unveiled. There was a tour of Singapore City, including a voyage on the Singapore River, and an outing to the island of Sentosa where a fine underwater aquarium and a waxworks museum were toured.

In all, some 200,000 visitors passed through the doors of the exhibition, and the Singapore Post Office booth was mobbed continually by collectors purchasing new issues. Numerous other postal administration booths—including Canada Post—were very busy, and about 100 prominent dealers from around the world supplied varied material.

Your Commissioner had a few problems transporting the exhibits in a good-sized trunk which Singapore Airlines obliquely handled, and with Customs and GST requirements of Canada and Singapore. It was an enjoyable job which gave a good deal of satisfaction, and allowed contact with many serious philatelists and good friends from all over the world—there were about 100 National Commissioners. I hope to have a similar opportunity to serve the exhibitors of Canada again in the near future.

DAVID OLBERHOLTZER APPOINTED
RPSC President William G. Robinson announced on February 9 that David Oberholtzer, Treasurer of the RPSC, has been appointed to the Society's Board of Directors to fill the unexpired term of the late Ralph Mitchener, who passed away on December 20, 1995.

In cases such as this, an unexpired term is filled by a vote of the current directors.

Mr. Oberholtzer, an accountant by profession, resides in Waterloo, Ontario.

ANOTHER HARDYS WINE PROMOTION
A year ago we reported that Hardy's Wines of Australia was using packets of stamps to promote their products. Academy Brands International, the Canadian distributor, reports that the campaign was a great success, and will be repeated in 1996.

This time, there are three different packets: Koalas and Kangaroos (4 stamps), Vineyard Regions (3 stamps) and Aboriginal Art (3 stamps). These packets will be attached to bottles of Hardy's Semillon Chardonnay and Shiraz Cabernet Sauvignon from May 22 to June 15 and Aug. 14 to Sept. 7. A third period began in February.

Both products are in the Stamp Series of wines produced by Hardy's, which feature 1937 Australian stamps on their labels.

We congratulate Academy Brands for repeating this promotion, which helps to raise the profile of stamp collecting among the general public.

We recently lost a dedicated philatelist and hard-working Director of the RPSC. Ralph Mitchener was well known as the stamp columnist of the Ottawa Citizen, and as this Society’s archivist and historian. Our sympathy goes to his family.

I should also mention the receipt of a very fine seasonal greeting card from our Patron, the Governor General, and his wife, addressed to “Management, Staff and Members, The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada.” We thank His Excellency for this continued mark of his interest in the Society.

On November 18, 1995 the Directors met in Toronto for a full day of business. Among other things, they received reports from the several department heads, and made decisions based on these. It was decided that more publicity should be given to our outstanding insurance program, that the Anti-Theft Committee should be kept active—although there were no recent reports of problems, and that new members enrolled at CAPEX in June should receive either a Society pin or six selected back issues of The Canadian Philatelist as a bonus.

On the basis of a report from the Chairman of our Finance Committee, Alan McKenna, they also decided to revise the cost of life memberships as follows: effective 1 August 1996, the cost of life memberships should be increased to $500. Two equal payments six months apart would be acceptable. For members aged 60 or over, with ten or more years membership, the cost will be $200 immediately, and $250 after 1 August 1996. For those 65 or over with 10 years membership, the costs will be $150 immediately and $200 after August 1. With this advance notice, perhaps some older members may wish to enroll before August 1.

In this issue are the biographies of the eight public-spirited members who have been nominated as Directors for the next two years. As usual, you will see familiar names. There were no nominations from the membership. Let’s have some next year. Please review my comments in the Nov.-Dec. issue, and let me have some reaction to the alternatives. There has been very little so far. Your use of the proxy forms in this issue will indicate your support or otherwise of the executive.

The most important event on the horizon is CAPEX in Toronto from June 8 to 16, 1996. All exhibitors have been advised of their acceptance or otherwise of their pride and joy. We look forward to seeing some tremendous material. The RPSC will be hosting an opening reception, and the Annual General Meeting will be held on Saturday, June 15. Please plan to attend. We also need your support to staff the Society’s table during the course of the show. If you are able to give any time to this, please contact Michael Nowlan at 514 Gardiner St., Oromocto, NB E2V 1G3.

Please let us have your feedback—it’s the only way we know whether we are doing a good job, or whether there are things undone which you consider important. Good health to you all.

CAPEX 96 UPDATE...

RPSC BOOTH AT CAPEX
The RPSC will have a strong presence at CAPEX 96, and it is still not too late for members to play a role in the success of the booth. Michael Nowlan (514 Gardiner Street, Oromocto, NB E2V 1G3) is coordinator for the booth. If you will be attending CAPEX, please write to him and offer to do a shift.

No members should feel that the RPSC booth will tie them up for endless lengths of time because we all recognize there will be much to see and do at such a large International stamp exhibition. Nor should members feel they are not qualified to work at a booth at an International stamp show. Michael Nowlan is planning a realistic schedule for those who attend. The more people he gets to assist, the lighter the schedule will be. Moreover, it will be a good experience and an opportunity to meet many people and make new philatelic friendships.

COURT OF HONOUR DISPLAYS
The CAPEX Organizing Committee is completing arrangements for a series of special displays. These philatelic rarities will be housed in a series of galleries. There will be much material on display that is rarely seen by the public. Confirmed so far are British North America material from the Queen’s personal collection; selections of The Mizuhara Collection covering the postal history and classic period of Chinese philately; a Jewels of the World gallery containing individual items on loan from private owners and postal administrations around the world; a Canada-France gallery arranged by the Musée de la Poste in Paris and containing priceless material from the 300 year postal relationship between Canada and France; and a Gems of British North America gallery, assembled from the collections of the most prominent BNA collectors and dealers.

COMPETITIVE EXHIBITORS CONFIRMED
CAPEX officials have selected the exhibits to be judged at the show. Altogether, about 1,100 philatelists applied for space. There were requests for twice the 3,800 frames available. Those exhibitors who have been accepted will receive a Notice of Confirmation of Acceptance, which must be returned to their National Commissioners. Those whose exhibits were declined will also be notified. Unfortunately, many good exhibits had to be declined due to lack of space. Requests for frames far exceeded those in the previous CAPEX shows in 1978 and 1987.

The approximate breakdown of the 3,800 frames is as follows: 200 frames for the FIP Championship Class, 1,300 frames for traditional philately, 950 postal history, 200 postal stationery, 250 aerophilately, 450 thematic, 75 maximaphily, 125 revenues, 200 youth, and 50 mophila. The total number of exhibits is 635, with an additional 190 literature entries. Overall, 39% of the entries have never before been shown at the International level.

TWO CANADA POST STAMP LAUNCHES AT CAPEX 96
The last souvenir sheet in the Canadian Land Vehicles series is to be launched by Canada Post at CAPEX 96 on June 8. The theme of the 1996 sheet is “Vehicles of Industry and Commerce.” The issue ties in with the CAPEX 96 transportation theme. The launching of the sheet will take place during the opening ceremonies of the show.

On June 13, designated as “Gold Rush Day” by CAPEX organizers, Canada Post will launch a set of five stamps to mark the centennial of the Yukon Gold Rush.

The ceremonies around these two issues will allow many people to attend a stamp launch in person for the first time.

SOME NEW VARIETIES

A find of a booklet of ten 43-cent stamps shows the red part of the design completely doubled. This is not an offset. Only one has so far been reported.

The 6¢ Pearson precancelled double, listed as Y 519-D, has been known for some time. Now, a similar double has been noted for the 3¢ Borden, with the double missing where the tagging is, just as on the 6¢. This is the first report of this variety.

LARGE QUEENS

The Large Queen stamps have many different paper varieties, some of which are very scarce. Two denominations come on a horizontal laid paper: the 1¢ brown red and the 2¢ green, as well as the 3¢ red. These paper varieties are believed to have been issued around 1868. It is claimed that less than 10 mint copies each exist of the 1¢ and 3¢. The 2¢ green exists only in used condition, and only two copies have been found so far.

The 1¢ brown red in used condition is much scarcer than the 3¢ red, which can be found in very fine condition. Many are off-centre, and a well-centred stamp brings a premium.

Recently there has been a report of a 1/2¢ stamp on laid paper. If genuine, this would be a major find.

One must not forget that laid paper varieties existed in 1851 and the first stamp of Canada, the three-penny beaver, was on laid paper.

One factor that governs the value of a laid paper variety is the strength of the laid lines on the stamp. In some cases the laid lines are almost invisible. My book, A Large Queen’s Report, lists these papers.

GERMAN CANCELS

The International stamp exhibition in Sindelfingen, Germany, generated five special cancels. In addition, each participating country had its own cancel. The German Post Office is very cooperative, and probably makes enough out of this to make it worthwhile.

POSTAL REFORMS

The following letter may have been published before. If so, it is copied here with apologies.

Ottawa, 3 March 1893.
To the Hon. PostMaster General.
Sir:
I have the honor to transmit a copy of a paper read before the Canadian Institute by Dr. Sandford Fleming, LL.D., CMG, suggesting some reforms in postage stamps, in accordance with the resolution passed by the Institute at its meeting on 17th December last. Recognizing the fact that a large proportion of the community is afflicted by the defect in vision known as color blindness, whilst others from defect of sight are unable to determine the value of a postage stamp, the author in his paper made some suggestions pointing to a change in the form of the stamp, which seems to the Institute to be eminently practical. This subject appears to have engaged the attention of many foreign countries, as well as the postal authorities of Great Britain as we find in many stamps the value marked in large figures, sometimes with some other design, at other times simply the figure alone. I am directed to bring this matter under your notice, and to crave on behalf of the Institute, your most favourable consideration of the points raised by Dr. Fleming in his paper. I have the honor to be, Sir, your obedient servant,

Alan MacDougall, Secretary.

RE-ENTRIES
A question that is asked by some collectors of stamps that show re-entries is, why is it not possible to find more of them in bulk lots.

Re-entries can be found on many older issues, and particularly the Small Queens, the Maple Leaf issues, the Numerals, the Edwards, and the Admirals. The number of plates that were produced to manufacture the stamps in these series runs into the hundreds. Although not all these plates were re-entered, many were. Some of the re-entries are extensive and are called major, with stamps showing much doubling of the design. An imprecise application of the transfer roll caused such re-entries.

Other re-entries are only minor. These are often overlooked, because they require a good magnification to be seen.

Some plates were reworked more than once to extend their life, allowing further printings and postponing the cost of making a new plate.

In examining some large lots of these stamps, it may not be possible to find even one re-entry. This is because unpicked lots are becoming difficult to find these days. In other lots it may be possible to find up to 5% of the stamps with re-entries.

If one attempts to locate re-entries on the actual plate proofs that are in the Philatelic Archives in Ottawa, one may be surprised that many of the re-entries found on the stamps cannot be located on the plate proofs. One may also find re-entries on the proofs that have never been reported on printed stamps. What is the reason for this?

Re-entries on the plate proofs show the state of the original plate prior to plate approval. Final plate corrections eliminated some of the varieties prior to going to press. Therefore, some re-entries do not exist except on the proof. Any reworking done on the plate at a later time, of course, will not show on the plate proof.

The latter are the most common re-entries. About 63% of re-entries cannot be located on the plate proofs. Even with all the study done over the years, it is still possible to find re-entries that have never been reported before.

One must keep these points in mind when looking for re-entries that are described in books but that can never be found on actual stamps. For detailed study of re-entries it is suggested to consult the excellent Re-entry Study Group Newsletter published by Ralph Trimble.

THE USE OF REVENUE STAMPS IN THEMATIC EXHIBITS
Rumour had it several years ago that thematic exhibits were no longer to contain revenue material when exhibited at an international exhibition sponsored by the Fédération Internationale de Philatélie (FIP). This erroneous interpretation, seemingly supported by the FIP’s Revenue Commission and taken as gospel by some of the world’s more senior thematic collectors, came from the fact that the FIP had seemingly changed its definition of philatelic material.

The FIP, in its quarterly publication Flash, FIP informations of December 1995 (No. 54), has now laid to rest this incorrect interpretation by admitting that its published definition in the GREVs (General Regulations of the FIP for the Evaluation of Competitive Exhibits at FIP Exhibitions) was missing several lines of text. It now should read:

3.2 Appropriate philatelic material is that which, for the purpose of transmitting mail or other postal communications or other payment of official dues, has been issued, intended for issue, or produced in the preparation for issue, used, or treated as valid for postage by governmental, local or private postal agencies, or by other duly commissioned or empowered authorities or other payments of official dues including Revenues.

I hope this lays to rest one of the more pernicious rumours to have hit international exhibiting in a long time. However, I must caution thematic exhibitors, that this is not now an unlimited permission to exhibit masses of revenues in a thematic exhibit. An excellent thematic exhibit is one which

LE MATÉRIAL FISCAL DANS LES COLLECTIONS THÉMATIQUES
Il y a plusieurs années, une rumeur circulait que les collections thématiques ne devraient plus contenir du matériel fiscal lorsqu’elles seraient exposées dans une exposition international organisée par la Fédération Internationale de Philatélie (FIP). Cette interprétation erronée, apparemment entraînée par le Commission fiscale de la FIP et acceptée sans contredit par certains des plus éminents de nos collectionneurs thématiques, venait du fait que la FIP semblait avoir changer sa définition du matériel philatélique.

La FIP, dans sa publication trimestrielle FLASH, informations FIP de décembre 1995 (N° 54), vient d’avisier que cette interprétation est fausse. Elle nous informe que la définition publiée dans les GREVs (Règlements généraux de la FIP pour l’évaluation des collections en concours à des expositions FIP) manquait plusieurs lignes de texte. Elle devrait se lire comme suit:

3.2 Le matériel philatélique approprié est celui qui, pour les besoins du transport du courrier ou autres communications postales ou autres paiements de taxes officielles, a été émis, conçu pour être émis, ou utilisé dans la préparation du matériel a été émis, utilisé, ou traité comme valable pour la poste par les agences gouvernementales, locales ou privées, ou par d’autres autorités sous commission ou autorisés ou autres paiements de taxes officielles incluant la fiscalité. (N.B. Traduction non-officielle)

J’espère que cette clarification met fin à la plus dommageable des rumeurs depuis longtemps concernant l’exposition des collections au niveau international. Je dois, par contre, avertir les exposants de collections thématiques qu’ils (elles) n’ont pas le champ libre pour mettre des grandes quantités de matériel fiscal dans leur collection. Une thématique parfaite en est une qui balances ALL philatelic elements in appropriate quantities. In addition, Revenues, like all other elements, MUST be relevant to the subject and fit within the development of the story where they are displayed.

ASSURE un équilibre des éléments philatéliques. De plus, le matériel fiscal, comme tout le reste du matériel se DOIT d’avoir rapport au thème exposé et être placé à l’endroit le plus approprié dans le développement du thème.

Collectors of Newfoundland were treated to a wonderful array of rare Pence stamps and covers when Christie’s Inc. offered the collection of Dr. Chan Chin Cheung on September 29, 1995. Many of the items contained in this sale were previously parts of the Pratt, Dale-Lichtenstein, N. Clifford-Jones, and Alfred H. Caspary collections.

One of the sale’s most exquisite items was contained in lot 74, an 1857 letter from William Solomon, Newfoundland’s Postmaster General, to the Postmaster General of Nova Scotia, relating news of the recent stamp issue. Seven Pence stamps are attached in the left margin of the letter. The item was stated to be “...one of the gems of Newfoundland philately...” Estimated at $100,000-$120,000, the letter sold for $68,500 (prices include the buyer’s fee: 15% up to and including $50,000 and 19% above).

The following lot (75) was equally exciting. It featured an 1857 cover from St. John’s to Boston. A horizontal strip of four of the 1857 1d Brown Violet Heraldic Flowers paid the 4d single rate to the U.S. It was estimated at $40,000-$50,000 and realized $57,500. A folded letter, bearing a horizontal pair of the 1857 2d Scarlet Vermillion Heraldic Flowers from St. John’s to Baltimore, was offered in lot 84. It sold for $32,200 against an estimate of $30,000-$40,000.

Two nice selections of the 1861-62 Pence Issue, one unused and the other in used condition, were sold as lots 154 and 155. Lot 154 contained a range of 16 used stamps (1d, 2d, 4d, 5d, 6d, 6-1/2d, 8d, and 1/-) including two pairs and duplicates was estimated at $400-$500. It went to a new home for $1,093. Lot 155, with 18 used stamps (2d, 4d, 5d, 6d, and 1/-), sold for $1,495 despite its $500-$600 estimate.

Rarely seen Pence Issue complete sheets were in abundance in this sale. Lot 158 contained a sheet of 20 of the 1861 2d Rose Flowers. Estimated at $4,000-$5,000, it sold for $3,880 despite its trimmed right margin. It is the only recorded sheet of any shade of the 2d value. Lot 166 featured a sheet of the 1861 6-1/2d Rose Flowers and was estimated at $600-$800. Despite some marginal creasing, the sheet went to a new home for $1,380. The 1861 1/- Rose Flowers sheet in lot 171 was also popular with bidders. Estimated at $2,000-$2,500, it reached $2,300.

The superbly illustrated catalogue, both in black and white and colour, is a wonderful addition to one’s Newfoundland library. Christie’s Inc. is at 502 Park Avenue at 59th Street, New York, New York 10022; telephone (212) 546-1000; fax (212) 759-7204.

ROYAL CANADIAN NAVY AT DANIEL'S HEAD, BERMUDA

At the turn of this century Canada undertook the task of building a navy. Even from those early days before World War I, Canadian warships visited Bermuda. During harsh winter months Canadian crews underwent training in Bermuda’s warmer waters.

The Royal Canadian Navy (RCN) was founded in 1910. However, there were no formal contacts between Canada and Bermuda until the first World War. It was then that Canadian naval recruits went to Bermuda for gunnery training.

The RCN’s major wartime commitment was to operate small patrol vessels off east coast Canadian ports to meet the threat of attacks by German U-boats. Canadian submarines used Bermuda as a restful stopover and as a site for repairs to the vessels. During the First World War Canadian troops were sent to replace the British Garrison when it was withdrawn in 1914. Escorting these troops was the RCN’s first warship, HMCS Niobe. This was but the beginning of a long association between the Canadian Navy and Bermuda.

After the war, Bermuda was the home to Canadians undergoing winter training with the British America and West Indies Squadron. As the waters around Nova Scotia were unsuitable for most training exercises during the winter months, Canadian warships continued to go to Bermuda each winter in the 1920s and 1930s for training with the British cruiser squadron.

When World War II broke out in September 1939 the Royal Canadian Navy was a force of 11 warships and fewer than 4,000 regular and reserve personnel. By the end of 1943 the service had grown to 250 warships and over 50,000 personnel in active service. The RCN had undergone the greatest wartime expansion of any navy, with most of the new vessels built in Canada. This rapid expansion of Canada’s navy required the rapid training of crews. A good, year-round operating base was needed. From the beginning of 1944 to the War’s end in 1945, over 120 Canadian vessels went to Bermuda for fair-weather training.

As British military involvement in Bermuda began to wind down in the early 1940s, Canadian use of the island increased. Canada, under the auspices of the Royal Navy, established an anti-submarine warfare school in Bermuda. An RCN shore facility was commissioned as HMCS Somers Isles on August 1, 1944. This training base was decommissioned on October 16, 1945. In all, 125 Canadian and British escorts passed through HMCS Somers Isles.

During the 1950s the Royal Navy Dockyard was virtually a Canadian base. In August 1957 a permanent RCN detachment was established and the first Canadian Naval Liaison Officer was posted to the Dockyard in Bermuda.

At the northwestern corner of Somerset Island is a small peninsula known as Daniel’s Head. In 1914 the Bermuda War Department acquired land in the area and a radio station was established. The radio station was revived during the Second World War and a residence for a commanding officer and a barracks plus associated buildings were constructed. Several large antennas were erected to help locate German submarines in the North Atlantic by tracking their outgoing radio messages. The Bermuda station was linked with other radio stations in Halifax, Nova Scotia and Derby in England.

After being in constant use during World War I, the site had actually been dismantled in 1926. The area was turned over for farming. Re-established by the Royal Navy during World War II, the site again closed down in 1949.

The 1950s marked the emergence of the Soviet Union as a world power and the development of nuclear weapons. Daniel’s Head was to become strategically active again militarily. In the early 1960s most of the peninsula was leased to the Canadian military as a radio station. During the Canadian tenure several new buildings were erected on the site.

It had been in November 1959 that the Canadian government was approached by the RCN Director of Supplementary Radio Activities on behalf of the United States Navy Chief of Naval Operations. In January 1961 the Canadian Cabinet formally approved the establishment of a Canadian installation in Bermuda. Negotiations with Bermuda concluded in late 1962 for the 21-year lease of approximately 14 acres of land at Daniel’s Head for the purpose of building a naval radio station. The lease was later renegotiated a number of times, eventually bringing the total land area up to 17.1 acres. The station opened in 1963 with a complement of one officer and 15 men.

The facility assumed the role of providing High Frequency Direction Finding support to the Canadian Forces and Search and Rescue operations.

Due to a changing and less threatening world, and largely due to domestic debt, in the February 1992 Federal budget the Canadian government announced the decision to close its station at Daniel’s Head. Official notice was given to the Bermuda government in September 1992 that the lease would be terminated effective December 31, 1993. By 1993 Canadian Forces Station Bermuda had grown to an establishment of four officers and 84 non-commissioned officers, some 150 family members, plus 21 full-time and four part-time Bermudian civilians.

Over the 30 year period, Canadian Forces Station Bermuda had, indeed, grown to a sizable community. Today Daniel’s Head is largely open space with a series of small, beautiful beaches.

On December 4, 1995, Bermuda released a set of six stamps on the theme “Military Bases.” The $1 value (shown above) honoured the Canadian Forces Station at Daniel’s Head. According to Karla M. Hayward, Assistant Archivist at the Bermuda Archives,

Because of its mid-Atlantic location, Bermuda might appear to have been well situated for an existence of isolation throughout its history. Yet from earliest settlement until just recently, Bermuda has been of strategic importance to Great Britain, the United States and Canada. Eighteenth century fortifications, the Royal Navy Dockyard, the U.S. Naval Air Station, as well as the Canadian base at Daniel’s Head, provide physical reminders of Bermuda’s defensive significance to both its colonial parent and its seemingly remote new-world neighbours.
The Canadian Forces Base at Daniel's Head was at the western end of Bermuda. This map shows its relation to other British and American bases on Bermuda.

Hayward also notes that, "The image used for the $1.00 stamp is actually the artist's rendering from a photograph held in the collection of the Bermuda Maritime Museum." The stamps were designed Ross Watton of the United Kingdom.

When contacted by us, K. Ashbury, Registrar of The Bermuda Maritime Museum, confirmed that:

The Bermuda Post Office used a photograph in the [Bermuda] Museum's collection depicting telegraphists at Daniel's Head for a series of commemorative stamps about Bermuda Military Bases. The photograph was donated to the Bermuda Maritime Museum in August of 1994 by Mr. A.P.R. East. Mr. East worked in Bermuda as a telegraphist at Daniel's Head from June 1941 until May 1945. Mr. East wrote in a letter accompanying the photos that telegraphists were responsible for the construction and rigging of directional dipole aerials, reflectors and transmission lines. He did not identify any of the people in the photograph.

On the left of the stamp is the crest of the Canadian Forces. The example shown on the stamp is actually from a photograph of the crest on a plaque presented to Dr. J.C. Arnell in 1973 by the then Chief of Defence Staff on the occasion of Arnell's retirement from an Assistant Deputy Ministerial position in the Department of National Defence.

The Military Bases commemoratives were printed in England by Walsall Security Printers by lithography using C.A. spiral watermarked paper. The stamps were printed in panes of 50 (2 x 25) with a central gutter. In addition to the $1 Daniel's Head stamp, the other denominations in the set are 20¢, 25¢, 60¢, 75¢, and 90¢. These depict various American and British military installations in Bermuda.

[The author wishes to thank Kerla Hayward of the Bermuda Archives for her assistance and for supplying the map.]

THEMATICS/
EXPLORATION UNLIMITED:
NEW SWEDEN 1637-1655

by Carlo I. Rasmussen

Like my earlier article on the Götå Canal, this will again attempt to show the wealth of thematic-related information that we novice researchers can uncover with a bit of plodding.

In a search for the names of the Masters on the immigrant ships it was necessary to find historical material on the colonization of New Sweden, and then familiar philatelic names like Admiral Claes Fleming, Peter Stuyvesant, the Regal Ship Wasa, among others, would crop up. Being a bit awed by the number of stamps, stationery, souvenir sheets and booklets issued by Sweden, Finland and the United States commemorating a colonial span 340 years ago that lasted less than 18 years, one thing led to another.

The United States marked the 350th anniversary of the founding of New Sweden in 1988 with this airmail issue (Scott C117) in 1988. The colony was situated at the mouth of the Delaware River, in the the region of present-day Philadelphia and Wilmington.

Most of the information uncovered is being incorporated somewhere in my collection that not only includes exhibit pages but also other relevant and borderline material within its subchapters that is either of personal interest or suitable for a club show (e.g. postcards, ship shore passes, ferry tickets, and bottle mail). A number of single-frame exhibits could be assembled from the accumulation without much effort.

A natural instinct we could easily succumb to is to go overboard trying to include too much material in one of the subdivisions of one's exhibit. While I may feel it shows depth of coverage, the judges may note an unbalance of material in other subdivisions of the exhibit, and consider it padding.
NEW SWEDEN

In 1624 King Gustavus II Adolphus, backed by his country’s leading families, requested the founder of the Dutch West Indies Company, Willem Usselinx, to investigate the formation of a similar company to acquire wealth through trade with the New World, as Spain and the Netherlands were doing.

King Gustavus II Adolphus was depicted on a 1920 set of Sweden, Scott 164-66 (164 shown at left). William Usselinx appeared on a 1934 Curacao set, Scott 110-12 (111 shown at centre). The tercentenary of the death of Gustavus II Adolphus in the Battle of Lutzen was commemorated by Sweden in 1932 on Scott 230-35 (233 shown right).

Unfortunately, capital was in short supply at the time. This was due to Sweden’s involvement in the Thirty Years War, and other setbacks such as the loss of the Regal Ship Wasa, which keeled over and sank within the harbour in full view of spectators gathered to see her off on her maiden voyage. Sweden had lost 15 of its largest warships within a four year period in the 1620s, including Admiral Fleming’s flagship, Kristina. In the end, this initial venture at colonization fizzled out after the King’s death at the Battle of Lutzen in 1632.

Admiral Fleming appeared in 1944 on Scott 352 (also 357). The ill-fated Wasa was portrayed on a 1969 set, Scott 830-35 (830 shown).

A combination of renewed Swedish interest and Dutch experience stimulated a fresh start at colonization by Queen Christina’s Head Regency, Chancellor Alex Oxenstierna. Admiral Fleming, as Counsellor of State, was the driving force for the establishment of a colony. Six Dutch investors held 50% of the shares in this venture. They demanded control of the lucrative tobacco trade and intended that its import be extended to Virginia.
The two immigrant ships Kalmar Nyckel (Key of Calmar) and the Fagel Grip (Griffen) set sail in November 1637 from Gothenburg under the command of Peter Minuit on a stormy voyage lasting four months. As a former Governor of New Netherlands and a director for seven years, Minuit was acquainted with the areas along the Delaware River.

As Finland was under Swedish rule at the time, Finns were among the original settlers. In 1640 some Dutch immigrants joined the colony, arriving from Utrecht aboard the Freedelburgh.

The Kalmar Nyckel and the Fagel Grip appeared on 1988 stamps commemorating the founding of New Sweden: a 3.60k issue of Sweden (above, left) and a 3m stamp of Finland (right). These repeated the same basic design as United States C117, issued the same year. The Kalmar Nyckel is depicted sailing from Gothenburg harbour on Scott 274 of Sweden, issued in 1938.

The picture side of the 1936 stamped postal card of Sweden commemorated the Swedish settlers' tercentenary at present-day Wilmington. It depicts Peter Minuit making the land purchase from the Lenni-Lenape Indians and views of the Kalmar Nyckel and the Fagel Grip off shore.
The settlement founded by Minuit in 1638 was named Fort Christina in honour of the Queen. Sweden commemorated the tercentenary of the event in 1938 with a set of five designs, issued on five coils and two booklet stamps (Scott 268-274).

In 1938 Finland issued Scott 214 to mark the 300th anniversary of the New Sweden colony (above, left), and the United States issued Scott 836 (centre). The 1987 Delaware Statehood stamp, Scott 2336, might also be mentioned here (right).

Sweden resurrected its 1938 designs on a 1976 postcard to mark the bicentennial of the United States. One of the designs at the left depicts Governor Johan Printz in a parley with an Indian chief. Printz arrived aboard the Swan on 15 February 1643. The other designs show the two immigrant ships, symbols of New Sweden, Holy Trinity Church in Wilmington, and Queen Christina.
The colony of New Sweden and Fort Christina were located at the mouth of the Delaware River, in the vicinity of present-day Wilmington. Never a large colony, the population of New Sweden peaked at a little over 1,000.

An intriguing corollary item to the New Sweden collection is this 1944 cover, franked with a copy of Scott 269, issued in 1938 and depicting the first two immigrant ships. This censored item was sent to Denmark during the German occupation. Until a club lecture given on Danish prestamp postal markings and notations, I had not speculated about the envelope’s corner markings. It is probable that the pencilled “#173” indicates the daily incoming censor sequence and the “M” is the censor’s initial. The blue chalked “8” is a postal marking. As 15 ore was the letter rate at the time, the letter had likely been missorted and was being redirected to District 8. The envelope’s lining has been removed, probably by the censor.
On May 22, 1654 Johan Risingh arrived in New Sweden on the Eagle. He had far-reaching visions for development of the colony, and the development of trade routes and shipping. This necessitated the building of a fortified staple port at Fort Christina. After Risingh’s decision to seize Fort Casimir from the Dutch in May 1654, strong counter moves by Peter Stuyvesant should have been anticipated. An opportunity for the Dutch came when the Gyllene Hagen (Golden Shark), loaded with the New Sweden’s vital winter supplies, made a navigation error in September 1654. The ship entered the mouth of the Hudson instead of the Delaware. Stuyvesant confiscated the ship and its cargo, and early in 1655 he recaptured Casimir and then took over New Sweden.

Peter Stuyvesant’s visage graces Scott B117 of Netherlands, issued in 1939. Stuyvesant can also be seen on Scott 478 of Netherlands Antilles, and an accompanying souvenir sheet, 478a.

Below: This summary of voyages to New Sweden can serve as a basic organizational framework for a thematic study of the colony.

* Departed from Holland
Following the takeover of New Sweden by the Netherlands, the majority of the colonists preferred to stay in the colony after persuasive campaigns by the Dutch.

Issued in 1953 to mark the 300th anniversary of New York City, Scott 1027 depicts a windmill and a Dutch ship from the time when the city was known as New Amsterdam. This stamp can be used to depict the Dutch seizure of New Sweden. Peter Minuit, who figured prominently in the history of New Sweden, was the founder of New Amsterdam.

So ended the colony of New Sweden.

IN CONCLUSION

To conclude, I offer a few comments on thematic exhibits and their judging.
First, surely the aim of entering a thematic exhibit in a show is to obtain a personal evaluation on one’s effort, not that it is purely a competition between you and the other frames. With the broad range of topics shown today, the old adage of oranges and apples must come to mind.

The term “Advanced Thematics” from our Editor’s Desk (July-Aug. 1994) caught my attention, and from my limited experience at our club and at public exhibitions, it is certainly those that attract a dialogue with the general public. This is particularly true for non-collectors, when the exhibitor is available to answer inquiries from the public and explain the reasons for the inclusion of particular items in the exhibit. Major shows lack this close contact, and the present F.I.P. rules emphasizing a short correct thematic text often result in an inadequate write-up.

Given the limited time the judges have for adjudicating, I feel the system is inadequate and in no way recognizes the thematic research the exhibitor may have contributed. On the other hand, the philatelic aspect of the exhibit is easily recognized and rewarded by the judges. For example, I don’t think that Usselinx, Oxenstierna, or Fleming would by considered to be related to New Sweden by a philatelic judge, although they would be by a historian.

One solution might be to have the thematic content reviewed by local educators, historians, scientists, or people with experience or expertise in the subject matter of the topical exhibit. They might be advisors to the judges, or an official supplement to the jury. This would also provide a benefit by allowing the philatelic judges to devote more attention to the philatelic aspects of the exhibit.

The Royal’s booth has two purposes. Firstly, it will represent the Royal to the broader stamp collecting public, and will help us to recruit new members. Secondly, it will serve as a meeting place for Royal members. Please drop by for a visit. Renew old friendships and make new ones.

International shows are held in Canada only once per decade. We all gain by helping The ROYAL at CAPEX.
What are you doing on your summer vacation? June is just around the corner, and with it CAPEX '96, the World Philatelic Exhibition being held June 8 to 16, 1996 at the Metro Toronto Convention Centre in Toronto, Canada.

Now is the time to make your plans to visit CAPEX '96! This show will present a unique mix of traditional philatelic displays and competitive events, plus an entertaining array of exhibits and programming designed to capture the imaginations of all who attend.

See the Best: CAPEX '96 will present close to 3,800 frames of competitive exhibits, showing the finest philatelic material from collectors around the globe.

Shop the World: Over 125 stamp merchants from North America and Europe will be at CAPEX '96. In addition, representatives from over 75 foreign postal administrations will be offering the newest stamps and other postal material from their home countries. In a special area called International Destinations, selected participating postal administrations will combine sales counters with displays of philatelic materials and artifacts.

Be Impressed: The organizers of CAPEX '96 have created a series of “galleries” to showcase unique or rare philatelic material, including: The Queen's Court (examples from Queen Elizabeth II's personal collection); The Mizuhara Collection; Jewels of the World; Canada-France; and Gems of British North America.

Uncover a Fake: Fakes and Frauds is an intriguing collection of stamps created by fraud artists to dupe unwary collectors and defraud the postal system.

Transcend Time: This exhibit will present an authentic re-creation of the interior of the Post Office in Rigaud, Quebec circa 1890.

Trace the Mail: The Moving The Mail exhibit will trace some of the more "unusual" methods of mail transportation, including cats, ostriches, and stilts, among many others.

Experience Toronto: This world-class city offers all the attractions found in larger centers, in a safe, pleasant urban atmosphere. Great restaurants, Broadway-style shows...even a zoo! There's so much to see and do; it's a trip you'll always remember.

"PROOF": TOWARDS THE CORRECT DEFINITION

by J.J. Danielski

A few months ago, during the judges' critique, I was asked for my comments regarding one of the exhibits. Among other things I pointed out that some of the items presented were incorrectly described as proofs. The items in question were imperforate varieties of normally perforated stamps issued in the 1930s in Estonia. They were printed in the same colours and on the same paper as the regular issues. The exhibitor has claimed that the items were so described in the Catalogue and Handbook to the Estonian Philately and Postal History by Vambola Hurt and Elmar Ojaste, issued in 1986 under auspices of Estonian philatelic societies in Sweden and New York.

Having reviewed several sources, I have noticed that the information provided is very often ambiguous and misleading. Therefore this issue requires addressing.

Let me start with the Estonian handbook. On pages 15 and 16 it defines some basic terminology. The definition of the proof reads as follows:

any impression of an officially approved design die, plate or stone, regardless of the color or paper used. Proofs were not to be sold to the public.
Under this heading are included the imperforated stamps, which had been sold perforated in the Post Offices and which had been stored in the Government Printing Works. Some of these sheets were sold to dealers in 1943/44 by the German occupation authorities. A large part of the remainders in the GPW came to the collectors unofficially due to irregular war times.

A few comments:

1. The definition seems to be based on the one adopted by the Essay-Proof Society in 1944 which reads as follows:

proof — any impression from an officially approved design die, plate or stone, or a new plate made from the approved die in which the design is exactly like the stamp as officially sold to the public, regardless of the color, kind of paper or material on which it is printed, or any experimental treatment to which it was subjected and not used on stamps sold to the public. Proofs were not sold to the public [as cited by L.N. Williams, Fundamentals of Philately, rev. edition (1990), p. 131].

2. The authors do not say expressis verbis that the imperforate varieties of normally perforated stamps are proofs but only that they are included under the same heading. It is interesting that they do not dot the i's and cross the t's; since the imperforate varieties meet the criteria specified in the definition they should be given as an example of proofs. Instead we find the very ambiguous statement "...under this heading are included the imperforated stamps [that]...had been stored in the GPW [and]...came to the collectors unofficially due to irregular war times...".

3. The definition is wide enough to include so-called printer’s waste; that is, in the strict sense, stamps not allowed for distribution as spoiled printed material and discarded as waste paper.

4. The other items which fall under the definition, are stamps which did not go through the entire production process, but having passed through the quality control, were sold in a post-office as normal stamps (for example, imperforate or partially perforated stamps, multicolour stamps with missing colour, etc.)

5. Another category which also falls under the definition are reprints and special printing from original dies or stone/plates.

6. Although the above definitions differentiate proofs from regular stamps, they do not specify any criteria which would allow us to distinguish them.

7. The wording “impression from an officially approved die, stone or plate...” may suggest that proofs might be taken only after the design die, stone or plate are officially approved. Such an understanding excludes, for example, so-called imprimatur (the final plate proof in colour, bearing an approval note by the stamp issuing authority) because the imprint is taken for the purpose of approval from a plate or stone which has not yet been approved.

The definition from the book by V.Hurt and E. Ojaste is not the only one which lacks precision. Two more examples: the 1995 edition of the Unitrade Specialized Catalogue of Canadian Stamps provides the following definition: “plate proofs: impressions taken from [...] plate, in which the design and colour are the same as the stamps issued to the public.” The 1995 Scott Standard Catalogue: “proofs are impressions taken from an approved die, plate or stone in which the design and colour are the same as the stamps issued to the public. Trial colour proofs are impressions taken from approved dies, plates or stones in varying colours.” The reader can easily see that those definitions repeat most of the ambiguities expressed above.

The definitions quoted above were taken from the sources I had handy on my desk. Based on the fact that even such a reputable source as L.N William’s Fundamentals of Philately (revised edition) quoted the Essay-Proof Society definition without any comments, it would not be surprising to find similar definitions in other sources.

How Should “Proof” Be Defined?

In common language, the term “proof” means a trial or a test applied to certain manufactured or other articles; a rough impression of type, in which errors may be detected and marked for correction. In engraving the term means an impression taken from an engraving to show the state of it. In printing it usually means a rough impression of composed type, taken to see if any errors remain for correction.

In philately we usually deal with six major types of stamp proofs. They include:
1. engravers’ progressive or trial proofs from dies.
2. final die proofs for official approval.
3. plate proofs.
4. colour proofs from dies or plates.
5. colour proofs in the colours of the issued stamps.
6. proofs from relief dies for letterpress or lithographic printing.

The die is a steel plate on which the design of post-stamps is engraved. The first imprints from those plates allow engravers to study their own progress and correct imperfections. When the die is ready, the final proofs are made for official approval. After approval, the design is transferred from the die to the plate.

The plate proofs are impressions from the finished plate for the purpose of inspection and/or final approval. The trial colour proofs are impressions from approved dies, plates or stones in varying colours, usually to select and approve the final colour of the stamp. The proofs indicated as item 6 are from other printing techniques like typography (letterpress) and lithography.

What has been said above, allows us to determine the most essential characteristic that is common for every proof. The proof is printed to allow inspection and if necessary correction of the die, stone or plate design as well as selection and/or approval of final colour of the stamp. It means that the proof is a trial impression which usually is taken at a very early stage when first dies and then plates/stones are being prepared for production. As such, it is not destined for the public. Some authors, for example Douglas and Mary Patrick The Musson Stamp Dictionary, (1972), p. 196, restrict their definitions to the above characteristic. In my opinion the definition is not complete because it does not allow us to exclude some imprints taken before the die is approved and which cannot be considered proofs.

If, in the process, any correction is carried out on the die or plate/stone, the imprints taken before the correction are not considered proofs but are called essays. The essays are designs which were corrected by the engraver or rejected by the stamp approving authority. To identify essays we have to compare the item with the finished stamp sold to the public. If, the design is identical we deal with a proof, if there are even slight differences, we deal with an essay. It has to be noted that the notion of essay is wider to include not only impressions from printing plates but also artwork and engravings.

In numerous definitions we find the wording “proofs are impressions from officially approved design die, plate or stone”. For the reasons stated above [paragraph 7] it is ambiguous. I believe that the statement “proofs are impressions from design die, plate or stone which were officially approved” much better reflects the interdependence between approval and the time when imprints were taken. This is the second important characteristic of proofs. Proofs may be taken before the approval of the die, stone or plate, or after, but it is only after the approval that we can distinguish them from essays.

In Summary: A Definition

In summary we may conclude that proofs are trial imprints from dies, plates or stones which were approved, taken for the purpose of inspection, correction, selection of colour/design, and/or finally, approval.

Defining proofs as trial imprints as opposed to final prints implies the possibility of differentiation of one from another. The question is how? Generally speaking, there are three instances where we may find differences between stamps issued to the public and proofs: paper, colour, and the look of imprint itself.

Proofs are usually printed on different paper or cardboard. Some of the die proofs are often distinguishable by the size of the margin (so-called large die proofs with margin from 4-7 cm). Sometimes die proofs are autographed on the margins by engravers. Occasionally we may find on proofs special markings of printing companies. It is difficult to elaborate more on proofs in general terms because different countries developed various typical characteristics for proofs.

Proofs are usually imperforate but a lack of perforation does not necessarily mean that we deal with a proof. If paper and colour are the same as on the regular stamp and there is no other indication showing a trial imprint, we deal with an imperforate variety of a normally perforated stamp.

Sometimes, we may find imprints which resemble proofs. They are reproductions from original dies, stones or plates of formerly issued postage stamps. We called them reprints. Within reprints we can distinguish so-called special printings that are printings for a special purpose (for example, reprints prepared for sale during important events or gifts for important people, reprints prepared as an advertisement material for marketing purposes, etc.). Reprints might be produced in the colour of original stamps or in different colours. Some of those reprints may imitate die, plate, or colour proofs. They are not genuine proofs because they were issued after the original issue of postage stamps is out of stock. Reprints are usually distinguishable from prints of the original issue.

Why therefore, is the Essay-Proof Society’s definition different from the one offered above?

I believe that the Essay-Proof Society’s definition reflects more the subject of interests of club membership than attempts to properly define the term proof. In the United States there are few, if any, proofs as defined above. There is a substantial number of so-called official reprints which also included essays and proofs. They have had nothing or very little to do with the production preparation process and postal usage but they were issued for collectors. The Essay-Proof Society has played an important role in their cataloguing.

Of course, status of those stamps is quite different from the status of imperforate varieties of normally perforated stamps.

The original purpose of this article was to provide a thorough explanation of my questioning of the definition of proofs in the Estonian handbook. While doing this, I realized that other sources of philatelic information also lack precision. It was not my intention to conduct thorough research on how proofs are defined in philately. Maybe, it was just a coincidence that most of the sources at my desk cited faulty definitions. I would not be surprised if somebody has already come to similar conclusions.

I believe that what has been said above shows that the information included in catalogues can be questioned. It is very unfortunate that sometimes even reputable sources provide incorrect or misleading information because eventually an exhibitor will lose marks when following it.

The Canadian Philatelist
Modern First Day Covers are popular collectibles, especially among young enthusiasts. The reasons for collecting can be many: topic, design of the postmark, special dates, fancy cachets, or just plain desire to fill album pages.

These days postal administrations around the globe are churning out new issues by the boat load. Consequently, FDC addicts can fill pages until the pocketbook runs dry. Not long ago, I was told that popularity is so high in several countries that post offices no longer sell ‘ready-made’ FDCs, but buyers must affix stamps first and then present the envelope for cancellation. Thus, with less labour, more net revenue is generated for the postal administrations with each new stamp issue.

I do appreciate certain types of FDCs. However, my very favourite is a first day without a cover!

Illustrated opposite are portions of a letter (or historical document) that was the first communication to be processed by the Ottawa Post Office at the two-cent Imperial Penny Postage rate, on December 25, 1898. It is a four-page missive from the Map Stamp’s creator and champion of Imperial Penny Postage, Postmaster General Sir William Mulock, to the Duke of Norfolk, the British Postmaster General.

The letter reads in part:

My dear Duke,

At last Christmas Day has arrived and with it the inauguration of the “Inter Imperial Penny Post” Scheme, and this letter to Her Majesty’s Postmaster-General will be the first communication at the new rate to be stamped by the Post Office of Ottawa, the Dominion Capital.....

Wishing you the compliments of the Season,

I am,

Yours sincerely,

W. Mulock

Attached to the letter is the actual stamp on a portion of the original envelope. At the beginning of the letter has been added in manuscript, probably by the Duke of Norfolk, “Mulock re Penny Postage Jan. 16/99.”

The Map Stamp is cancelled with an Ottawa duplex, and part of the London receiving mark is visible. Obviously, the Duke fancied the Map stamp, but certainly was not a collector of FDCs.

Another first-posted FDC (illustrated opposite) is preserved in its entirety, including the enclosed two-page letter. The circle date stamp shows the time and date: Toronto Jan 1 1-0 1899. The first of January 1899 was the first day of two rate changes, the Domestic letter rate and the United States letter rate, which were reduced on this day from three cents to two cents.

On the face of the cover is the Assistant Postmaster’s certification:

This is to certify that this letter was mailed at the Toronto Post Office at One quarter of a minute past Twelve o’clock on the morning of the 1st January 1899 and is the first letter to be posted and cancelled at the Toronto Post Office on the inauguration of the Two Cent postal rate in the Dominion of Canada.

The addressee, J.J. Mason, signed the receipt: “Received at the Masonic Hall, Hamilton, Ont. at 9:15 o’clock a.m. on the Second day of January 1899.”

The sender of this unique letter was John Ross Robertson, the founder of the Evening Telegram of Toronto. In the letter to his “Bro Mason” Robertson sends personal greetings and emphasizes the importance of the cancellation, being the first day at the new rate.

A resident of Toronto, Fred Fawn pursues a number of philatelic specialties in both classic and thematic subjects. He is also a successful exhibitor at the international level.

RALPH D. MITCHENER (1926-1995)
A TRIBUTE

by Charles J.G. Verge

Ralph Donald Mitchener, a cherished member of the world philatelic community, passed away with peace, strength and dignity in the early hours of December 20, 1995. His lung cancer had been diagnosed only six weeks before. He spent his last days at the Queensway-Carleton in suburban Nepean, supported by his family and his many philatelic friends. His funeral, on December 22 in the West Chapel of the Hulse, Playfair and McGarry Funeral home, was a celebration of the family man, the philatelist, and the friend. The national and local philatelic communities were well represented.

There is a lot to be said about Ralph Mitchener: husband, father, grandfather, bureaucrat, journalist, historian, and philatelist. Here is a little bit of a ‘potted’ biography of the man I call my friend and mentor.

Born in Fort Garry, Manitoba on May 25, 1926, Ralph had lived in Ottawa since joining the Public Service on June 15, 1951. He received degrees from the University of Manitoba (BA, 1947), the University of Toronto (MA, Sociology and Demography, 1951), and Carleton University (BA, Geography, 1955). From 1956 to 1961 he completed his course work for a PhD in the History and Administration of Higher Education at New York University. He received a Canada Council grant for these studies, which he attributed to the novelty of weekend commuting costs from Ottawa.

He served the Canadian public first from 1947 to 1949 as a social worker in Dauphin, Manitoba before joining the Federal Civil Service with the Higher Education Section of Statistics Canada (1951-1967) and then with the Education Support Programs Branch of the Department of the Secretary of State until his retirement in 1986. He also had a three month assignment with UNESCO as an “expert in education statistics” in East Africa, just prior to the independence of what was then Tanganyika. During his career he had more than twenty articles published on historical, current and future aspects of Canadian education. These included articles in the Canadian Annual Review and UNESCO’s World Survey of Higher Education as well as contributions to The Encyclopedia Americana. He was named an Honorary Life Member of the Canadian Association of University Teachers in 1967 for his work on their behalf.

His community activities and other outside interests included baseball, hockey, and writing. He played hockey with local senior teams in Manitoba and was most proud of his two base hit off Satchel Paige. He coached Little League baseball and managed pee-wee football teams and was Chairman of the "A" Division of the National Capital Minor Hockey Association. In addition, he was a faithful supporter and promoter of the Hockey Hall of Fame. He donated material to it and his thematic exhibit on Hockey has been displayed there on numerous occasions.

A member of the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada since 1962, he actively participated in the Society as Library Affairs Officer from 1983. He became the Society's Historian in 1986 and Editorial Consultant of The Canadian Philatelist in 1990. The membership elected him a Director of the Society in 1991 and he was re-elected in 1993 and 1995.

In 1989 he was made a Fellow of the Society, the highest award given to a philatelist in Canada. Since 1985, Ralph had been a Director of the Postal History Society of Canada. He was a Past President of the RA Stamp Club and of the Ottawa Philatelic Society. He was a member of many other philatelic organizations in Canada and the United States, including the British North America Philatelic Society, la Fédération québécoise de philatélie, la Société d'histoire postale du Québec, the Philatelic Specialists Society of Canada, the American Topical Association, the American Association of Philatelic Exhibitors, and many more.

A national level philatelic judge for over two decades, he became, in 1992, an internationally accredited philatelic literature judge. He had looked forward to judging at CAPEX 96, the World Philatelic Exhibition, which will be held next June in Toronto. He was the only philatelic literature judge to have performed these duties in all three of Canada’s National Philatelic Literature Exhibitions (1991, 1993 and 1995).

Ralph was a gifted man of exceptional talent, who gave so much and had so much more still to give. He was so willing to share his love of Canadian and world philately with others. His knowledge of philately was encyclopaedic; his collecting habits Catholic; and his love of the hobby’s literature and history academic.

His “Stamps” column in The Ottawa Citizen, which he took over from Ian Kimmerly in 1983, was his pride and joy. It was not his first love, however. In the 1940s he had written a weekly sports column for The Dauphin Herald. Although he was devastated when his “Stamps” column went from a weekly column to one every three weeks, he soldiered on. He never wavered from the guidelines he penned on how to write stamp columns for non-philatelic publications. That steadfastness earned him, in 1992, a Large Silver award at PHILITEX in New York. This was, and still is, the highest award ever received for stamp column writing. Only two others, an American and a Peruvian, have equalled that level of competence. Many writers, including yours truly, now follow the Mitches Maxims of stamp column writing.

In 1987 he was honoured by the RPSC with the Geldert medal for his writings in The Canadian Philatelist which were published under his own name and the R. Molar pseudonym.

Truman Capote once said that, for him, “the greatest pleasure of writing is not what it’s about, but the inner music that words make.” That was also the way with Ralph. He felt it was one of his tasks to impart the beauty of words and literature. He loved words; he loved to understand their meaning; and he loved to make puns out of them. He was particularly proud of his trilingual pun “Cafe Ole.”

His award winning stamp exhibits flowed from other events in his life. His trip to Africa for UNESCO in the sixties was the basis for his collection of Ethiopian postal markings during the Italian Occupation. His love of Hockey gave him the impetus to put together a topical collection on the subject. Not wanting to compete with the late Colin Bayley, but loving the philately of the Ottawa area, he dropped active collecting of Bytown Postal History in favour of that of Ottawa and Hull. He was an avid researcher, and formed a substantial collection of Canada Post First Day replacement covers. I don’t know where his interest in teeth came from, but his exhibit entitled “Roots, Necks and Crowns: A tongue-in Cheek Look at Teeth and Dentistry” was perhaps rooted, if you will pardon the pun, in his own experience with false teeth. He has also left an immense amount of research on the early years of Canadian philately, and its collectors and dealers. He leaves an extensive collection of early Canadian philatelic literature.

I would like to close by paraphrasing Winston Churchill who, on his 75th birthday, talked about passing on in words somewhat reminiscent of the following: Ralph is ready to meet his maker. Whether his Maker is prepared for the great ordeal of listening to Ralph’s jokes and puns is another matter. But then, we have it on good evidence in the Bible that laughter is allowed in Heaven. How much more there will be now that Ralph has decided to move.

To Jackie (Greene) and his children, Christine, Hugh and Sue, and to Ralph’s adored grandchildren, Shannon and Keith, go our heartfelt sympathy.

Goodbye my friend, I’ll miss you very much.
VENICE: SOME EARLY POSTAL HISTORY
PART IV — THE 18th CENTURY

by Michael Madesker, FRPSC

The Republic of Venice entered the Eighteenth Century in relative peace, having concluded the Treaty of Karlowitz just prior to the turn of the century, in 1699. This was followed by the Treaty of Passarowitz on July 21, 1718, negotiated with the Ottoman Empire on the urging of Austria, England and Holland. All these efforts gave Venice a lasting peace, but they did not address all the needs, or take into account the military victories.

J.J. Norwich, an eminent English historian has said that as Venice entered the Diciotto (the Eighteenth Century) it experienced “an age of elegance and restraint.” The age ended on May 12, 1797 with the dissolution of the Serenissima Signoria, under the pressure of Napoleon’s military might.

To understand the postal history of this period one must abandon a strict chronological sequence in favour of the tracing several parallel currents which governed the conveyance of mails within and without the Most Serene Republic.

The Peace of Passarowitz is the topic of the letter illustrated below. It is dated August 9, 1718. It was carried from Corfu (Kerkyra) to Venice by a ship’s Captain with the invocation C.I.D. (with God’s guidance). The route from Corfu led through Cattaro, Dalmatia and Trieste.

Not everyone felt secure under the Peace of Passarowitz. Given also that Venice, in effect, no longer ruled the waves of the Adriatic Sea, it was prudent to direct the mails by a circuitous route. An example is illustrated below. This letter, dated at Alexandria, Egypt on September 29, 1719 was routed via Livorno, on the west coast of the Apennine Peninsula. From Livorno the letter was transported east to Ancona and then north to Venice. This voyage took two months. The letter arrived at its destination on November 25, 1719, roughly double the time required by the usual routes and four times that of a direct ship connection.

The smooth flow of mails in Eighteenth Century Europe was governed not only by treaties and agreements between governments, but also by the involvement of various private services.

The next letter is an example. Mailed on April 4, 1704, this letter travelled from Venice to Staffordshire in England with the aid of two forwarding agents. It was taken from Venice to Amsterdam by Davis and Fuler, and from Amsterdam to London by Marcus and Le Jolle, where its arrival on April 18, 1704 was noted by a Bishop’s Mark. The charges from Venice to Amsterdam were 8 patars, in accordance with Article XLIII of the 1676 French Tariffs, with a further 11 pence applied on arrival in Staffordshire.

Another item expedited by forwarding agents is shown below. This letter, mailed from Venice on September 3, 1704 to Brussels, was carried by Austrian-owned Corriere delle Flandre, arriving at its destination on October 3, 1704. Its passage was seemingly unhindered by the raging Spanish War of Succession (1701-1714). The letter carries, at the top of the address side, a fine guild mark. It was assessed 8 patars as per the French Tariffs.

Mails from overseas possessions also proceeded unimpeded during the War of the Spanish Succession. Shown below is a letter written on May 19, 1710 from Zante (Zacynthus), one of the Ionian Islands to Venice. It travelled with Godsped, as endorsed by A. Fratti, a ship's captain.

Relations with Venice's closest Italian neighbour, Lombardy, were very cordial at this time. In fact, the Compagnia Corrieri, established in the early 1200s, was at first operated by citizens of Bergamo until it came under the control of the Venetian Senate on January 6, 1305.

Illustrated above is a letter that accompanied a parcel, dated July 12, 1716. The inscription below the address indicates that the letter travelled with one box: “Con un invoglio di Cassinarro.” The manuscript mark above the address notes that all fees and taxes have been paid: “Fco Di Tutti.” A postmark reading “BRES. A/VEN.”, indicates that the item and its accompanying parcel were routed directly from Brescia to Venice.

New on the Philatelic Bookshelf...

Edwin Drechsel’s long-awaited second volume of his Norddeutscher Lloyd set appeared late last fall. Volume II traces this important shipping firm from the end of World War I to the merger in 1970 with the Hamburg-Amerika line.

Mr. Drechsel added the subtitle “History—Fleet—Ship Mails” to the work, to indicate the three threads to the story he traces. Norddeutscher Lloyd, for decades one of the world’s major shipping lines, possesses a history that is fascinating. The firm’s history was interwoven with the tumultuous history of Germany itself during the twentieth century. Likewise, the firm’s rising and falling fortunes, and its responses to changing circumstances, will captivate anyone who studies business history.

Maritime specialists and thematic collectors will forever be grateful for Mr. Drechsel’s work in gathering technical data and photographs of all the Norddeutscher Lloyd ships. For this alone the book has enduring value. Unlike many other historians of technical subjects, Mr. Drechsel is sensitive to the human dimension. There are many photographs of crew members and illustrations of personal memorabilia.

As a major ocean carrier, Norddeutscher Lloyd played a large role in the transportation of international mail. There are dozens of illustrations of postmarks and covers associated with the company. As a philatelist himself, Mr. Drechsel is able to write Knowledgeably on this aspect of Norddeutscher Lloyd history.

In many respects this is a sad story: the fresh start for the company after World War I, the restrictions that rising nationalism in the 1920s placed on international freight and passenger traffic, the depression of the 1930s, the decimation experienced by the firm during World War II, and the rebuilding of the firm from scratch in the late 1940s. When things started to look up in the 1950s, passenger traffic started to melt away.

There are high points too: success with container traffic late in the firm’s life, and the launching of the fifth Bremen in 1959.

Mr. Drechsel’s personal and family connections with Norddeutscher Lloyd plus his hobby of philately qualify him as a biographer of this firm. His book should have a wide appeal, far beyond the ship mail and shipping enthusiasts one might expect. We wish this book the widest possible circulation.

-Steve Thornig

Canada Post Corporation has redesigned its annual collection, with a new page size, heftier binding and a slipcase. All 68 stamps issued by Canada come with the book, and as in previous years, there are mounts for them attached to the pages. The written text (it is bilingual) is similar in style and quantity to that in previous years, providing information on each of the stamp issues. Visually, this edition is more satisfying than the 1994 volume, which seemed a little cluttered with too many illustrations and overlapping graphics. The 1995 edition is cleaner visually, and the stamps stand out much better against the text and illustrations. The printing and binding are of exceptionally high quality.

It appears that Canada Post intends this book to be both a gift item and an educational tool. It is appropriate for both. The eye-catching text and colourful graphics will certainly appeal to school children, but there is sufficient content that even advanced philatelists can learn something from the book. It is also a bargain. When the value of the stamps is deducted from the cost, the actual price is less than $8.00.

Canada Post Corporation issued a miniature sheet of 12 stamps on January 9 featuring four Canadian birds: the Atlantic puffin, the pileated woodpecker, the ruby-throated hummingbird, and the American kestrel.

The puffin and woodpecker appeared on stamped envelopes issued the same day. The other two birds will appear on postal stationery in July. A new aerogramme will feature the harlequin duck.

Collectors will be given the opportunity to purchase uncut press sheets of the panes. Each sheet consists of five panes of 12 stamps, and will be sold at face value.

La Société canadienne des postes nous réserve le spectacle d'une enveloppe fabuleuse : quatre oiseaux du Canada déploront leur plumage sur les timbres en bloc-feuillet qui seront offerts au public dès le 9 janvier. Nos quatre dancys allés sont : le macareux moine, le grand pic, le colibri à gorge rubis et la crécerelle d'Amérique.

Les deux premiers figureront aussi sur les enveloppes préaffranchies émis le même jour, tandis les deux autres illustrent celles qui seront émises en juillet.

Les collectionneurs bénéficieront de la possibilité d'acheter des planches d'impression intacts. Chaque planche comprend cinq feuillets.
In addition, a limited edition of 1,000 numbered sheets, signed by the designer and artist, have been made available.

The miniature sheet was designed by Raymond Bellemare, based on paintings by Pierre Leduc.

Society Reports / Rapports de la Société

From Molly Krajewski, Sales Circuit Manager....

Condition six on the back of our Circuit Advice Notes says, "If you would like to see some of the books again, please mark the Advice Note with an asterisk (*) next to their numbers." However we don't promise to send the book again. What we do is put an asterisk next to the Chapter or Member's number on the back of the book where we record the sales, and put the book back on the rack. If tempted to select the book again for a circuit to that same Chapter or Member the asterisk tells us that we may, however this rarely happens. If there is a stamp you really would like to buy, we recommend you take it right away. This condition was really written for the Chapters, so that if their members who collect in the area to which the book belongs, miss their meeting, we can send the book again next time. We can't allow them to hold books over since accepting incomplete circuits back would throw the computer records into error.

We don't allow packets of "100 different" in our books because (i) they never sell, and (ii) they make the books too lumpy. However, a cellophane pocket with a nicely arranged complete set is acceptable, even though the set may contain some low value stamps which we would otherwise prefer to see in a nickel box.

Now that most of the common stamps are in Nickel Boxes the rack at the Stamp Circuit office has lots of room for more, we could use more books in all areas except perhaps Canada Mint post-war.

Born in Digby, N.S., Graham began collecting stamps as a member of the school stamp club. He attended Dalhousie University, receiving his M.D. in 1963.

Following six years in general practice in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, he returned to Dalhousie University for post graduate training. In 1973 he received his fellowship in Diagnostic Radiology. Since 1973 he has been a radiologist in Fredericton, N.B., where he and his wife, Louise, live.

Graham has continued to have a general interest in stamps while limiting his collection to BNA, especially early Canada and the Cents Issues of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. Recently, he has added stampless covers of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia to his list.

While attending university, he joined the Nova Scotia Stamp Club and is still a member of that club. He has exhibited at their annual show. He has also been the R.P.S.C. liaison member for the Fredericton Stamp Club.
Alan was born in England, emigrating to Canada in 1951. A chartered accountant by profession, he is now retired. Prior to coming to Canada, he served as a Major in The Royal Artillery and The Royal Indian Artillery in India and Burma.

His service to The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada has been extensive. He was Treasurer from 1958 to 1968, a Director from 1968 to 1970, and from 1979 to date. Alan was directly involved in the Society receiving Royal recognition in 1959.

He is the senior Fellow of the Society, having been elected in 1965. Alan served as President of the Philatelic Specialists Society of Canada in 1982 and 1983. He was Treasurer of three international philatelic exhibitions, CAPEX '78, CANADA '82 and CAPEX '87. Alan is presently Treasurer of the RPSC Philatelic Research Foundation.

He specializes in the definitive issues of France and has specialized collections of some issues of Denmark, New Zealand, and the Wilding and Machin issues of Great Britain.

Exchanges Wanted / Demandes d'échange

Since the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada is the national society of philatelists in Canada, many requests for exchange partners are referred to us. As a service to our members, we are pleased to present these names, so that those who wish to do so can make overseas contacts. Please note that we have no way of checking the credentials of the individuals who write to us asking that their names be published; therefore, we urge that caution be taken when answering these requests.

La Société royale de philatélie du Canada ne s'occupe pas normalement des échanges entre philatéliques, mais comme elle est la société philatélique nationale du Canada, ou lui transmet de nombreuses demandes de philatéliques désireux de trouver des correspondants pour échanger des timbres. Ainsi attelle décidé, pour rendre service à ses membres, de publier les noms intéressés d'outremes, afin que ceux qui désirent établir des rapports avec eux puissent le faire. Je vous signale toutefois que nous ne savons rien des personnes qui nous demandent de publier leur nom, c'est pourquoi je vous conseille d'être prudent en répondant à ces demandes d'échange.

R. Maresch & Son
330 Bay St., Ste 703
Toronto, Ontario M5H 2B8

Dear Mr. Maresch:

I wanted to write and thank you and your staff for the wonderful experience I had in selling some of my treasures through you. You told me up front what to expect, and when, and you met and exceeded those expectations.

I had had some less desirable experiences with others before dealing with you, and I am very glad that I chose to sell the bulk of my material through you. My only regret is that I had tried someone else first, but I eventually realized that going with you was going with the best.

I had seen all those testimonials in your ads, and I wrongly assumed that ALL auction houses were the same. How wrong I was, and I now know better. When someone now asks me for a reference on where to sell their stamps and covers, I tell them "R. Maresch & Son".

Thank you very, very much. It was very much a pleasure doing business with you.

Sincerely,

Paul Burega

May we hear from you when you are ready?
