OLD SCHOOLBOY COLLECTIONS

Everyone who is known to be a stamp collector is asked, from time to time, for advice on the value and disposition of an old schoolboy stamp collection. I have had a rash of these over the past few months. Sometimes the owners think they can cash in on a worldwide collection they assembled 35 of 40 years ago. Others have found a collection among the possessions of a deceased relative, and are certain they have stumbled on a surprise inheritance of untold worth. Still others are anxious to dispose of an accumulation of cacheted first day covers from the 1960s and 1970s, confident that they have appreciated greatly in value.

I have yet to see one of these collections with anything of substantial value in it. The “ancient bearded king” described to me on the telephone turns out to be George V, and the “rare stamp with Queen Victoria” is badly thinned and has a missing corner.

It is not pleasant to tell these people that there is nothing salable in their collections. Some insist that I give them the names of several dealers who will buy their stamps. I no longer do this. I would be wasting the dealer’s time, as well as raising the expectations of the owner.

My usual advice is to give the collection to a junior collector, or to a youngster who might be interested in starting a collection. I also sometimes suggest that the owner hold on to the stamps, and become a collector. So far I have had no luck in my recruitment efforts.

It often worries me that an encounter such as this is the only one that these people have with organized philately, and that it is not a satisfactory one. There seems to be an assumption among the public that dollar value and market activities are the only preoccupations of stamp collectors. We would all like to become wealthy through buying and selling stamps in our spare time. It is hard to get across the point that monetary value is not a major part of the hobby.

Some people seem to think that we are anxious to get our hands on anything with perforations around it. One man, a few weeks ago, became abusive when I insisted that I had no interest in purchasing his first day covers from the 1970s. He was convinced that I was trying to beat the price down.

I am troubled both by the perception of the hobby that so many people hold, and by our inability to attract owners of these old collections to the active ranks of philately. A generation ago virtually every newspaper ran a weekly stamp column. These performed a valuable function in providing basic philatelic information to the general public—fundamental points such as the importance of condition and the point that age does not equate with rarity.

Today the public sees new issue promotions by postal administrations, and expensively packaged stamps and covers advertised with an implied investment potential on television and in magazines. No wonder so many people think we are only investors and speculators.

DID YOU ENJOY CAPEX?

Although I have not seen any attendance figures, by all accounts CAPEX 96 was an outstanding success. Due to a serious family matter I was able to attend only briefly, rather than the three or four days I had originally planned. Consequently, I missed many people I had hoped to chat with, and I saw only a small portion of the exhibits.

It struck me that covers were much more prominent in the exhibits than in previous CAPEX shows, not just in the postal history, but in all classes. My impression was supported by several other collectors. There were some truly outstanding exhibits. Others I found disappointing, but perhaps I am becoming more opinionated as I get older.

Dealers as a group seemed satisfied, but I did hear a few comments that there was not enough material for sale for the novice and casual collector. The dealers, of course, had to emphasize their more expensive material to cover their expenses.

All told, it was a fine showing for philately. A tip of the editor’s visor to the show committee.

OUR MAY-JUNE ISSUE

Sir,
I have just received my May-June copy of the journal. I have found the series of James E. Kraemer, "The Battle of the Atlantic and Canadian Mail," intriguing, and I marvel at the detail he has gathered. I don't think that many of us who lived in the days of the Second World War realized or in fact were even aware of the terrible loss of life in the merchant marine. One wonders how many of the ships torpedored on the east coast were even involved in the war effort, but submarine warfare was as cowardly an occupation as one could devise and could be compared to a "hunter" potting at a sitting duck. It is also incredulous how soon we can forgive and forget and why the commanders should have been awarded for valor.

I also think that Basil Stead should be commended for his "Philatelic Commentary." I think there are many stamp collectors who can agree with everything he said, and while he didn't blame Canada Post or criticize it in any way in the last paragraph, I don't mind saying that I am through collecting mint Canadian stamps for several reasons, after some 60 years of collecting stamps. Booklets and self-adhesive stamps make it a farce.

L.F. Bence
Regina

Sir,

Thanks for publishing Jim Kraemer's fine articles on "The Battle of the Atlantic and Canadian Mail." There are well documented and cover a field, if you'll pardon the term, that is seldom covered in the literature.

The article led me to search out an old autograph album I had in my youth. When I went to live in England in 1938, I got people I met on the Continental Limited to write a page, and we agreed to send one another postcards of our ships. My ship was the splendid Empress of Britain, a Mr. Alex Richardson went over on the Athenia, and a ship's surgeon I talked to was on the Lady Hawkins.

I think the Athenia was the first of the big ships to be sunk (3 Sept. 1939). The article says the Lady Hawkins was the first ship carrying Canadian mail to go down, in January of 1942, and the Empress was sunk in October of 1940!

Would there have been any mail on the Empress of Britain?

AN ADMIRER FOR MALOTT

Sir,

As a stocktaker in a Canadian Forces Ammunition Depot, one of the books on the bookshelf is An Analysis of Depot Stocktaking Procedures within the Canadian Forces Supply System, co-authored by S/L Richard K. Malott and dated August 1966. I enjoyed reading the article about him in the May-June issue of The Canadian Philatelist. It was nice to see a picture too.

A CORRECTION TO "THE IRON ROAD"

Sir,

I am returning from a visit to CAPEX. While enquiring about steps to join the RPSC, I received a copy of The Canadian Philatelist, Sept.-Oct. 1992.

Although this is a rather old issue, I would like to comment on a stamp depicting a train accident ("The Iron Road, p. 423). The description of a 1950 Cuban stamp says that "the derailment occurred during the Battle for Santa Clara." I would guess that the author refers to the battle of Santa Clara that took place during the uprising against the government in late 1958. Therefore, the stamp could hardly commemorate an action that had not yet taken place.

This set (Scott 452-54) was released on 21 September 1950, as the eighth annual issue for the Communications Employees Pension Fund. It depicts two postal clerks (Manuel Balanzategui and Antonio L. Pausa) and a train wreck at San Luis, province of Oriente. The wreck took place on 30 May 1947. Both clerks died as a result of the wreck. By the way, San Luis is some 400 km from Santa Clara.

A SPRAY CANCEL VARIETY

Sir,

I have a question to present to the membership. An overseas stamp colleague of mine, from Austria, is an avid collector of Canadian stamps and cancels. He has come across a curiosity which to date has been unsolved: a mirror-image cancel.

Spray cancels are on the rise, no doubt. These cancels are usually readable in the normal fashion, from left to right. The question is, how can such a cancel happen mirror-image inverted? This is not a prank. It actually happened, as the example shows. Does anyone know how come?

PROOFS AGAIN

Sir,

Let me briefly respond to the letter of Mr. M. Madesker (May-June issue) criticizing me for my comments regarding the definition of proofs published in the March-April issue of The Canadian Philatelist.

My intention was to show that certain definitions of proofs are illogical and as such are ambiguous and misleading. I do not think that a dissection was necessary for this and the readers can judge for themselves whether or not I was successful in achieving my goal. When criticizing one definition I had to offer an alternate definition or at least point out a direction to pursue. I chose the later option. This is why my comments had been entitled “Proof: Towards the Correct Definition.”

My opponent claims that when commenting on the definition of a proof, I have created a controversy but did not bother to show where and how I did it. He states that I have accomplished nothing. Well, he is not exactly right, although his letter is not what I would normally expect. The future will show whether my publication was a pure waste of time or whether it initiated efforts to clarify the issue.

Mr. Madesker insinuates that by writing my comments I targeted the exhibit which I had previously judged and accuses me of breach of mandate of a philatelic judge. My comments are about defining. I did not identify an exhibitor or his exhibit; even stamps which made me question the definition were described very generally. What I have identified was a catalogue which was used by the exhibitor as a reference, but the catalogue is also not a target. The only target is one definition included in it. The charge of unethical behaviour has therefore no foundations.

I believe that even the most controversial issue can be discussed. Discussion, however, means arguing about the subject of the opponent’s opinions, reasoning, etc., not attacking the opponent himself. Discrediting me will not improve the definition that I have criticized.

Mr. Madesker’s contribution to philately cannot be overestimated and I have a great deal of respect for him. I am astonished, however, by the way he responded to my comments.

“NO” TO UNCUT PANES

Sir,

Now that Canada Post has broken the ice by issuing an uncut sheet of five panes of the birds stamps, perhaps they could be persuaded to issue double width rolls, so that I could paper my den.

STAMP MOUNTS

Designed for collectors who have noted the following complaints about stamp mounts:

1) 25 strips per size in a package is too many ... Now you can buy only what you want!
2) Mounts are too thin and mark too easily ... PROTECT mounts are heavier, and they do protect!
3) Black background of mounts vary in color ... PROTECT background is a solid black!
4) Glue lets go and mounts fall off ... PROTECT is not pre-glued. Our low-odor Protect Adhesive requires only a small amount to hold mounts tight!
5) Pages warp when you apply a wet mount ... PROTECT ADHESIVE used as directed does not distort the stamp page!
6) Top open mounts allow stamps to fall out ... PROTECT mounts have a built-in head stop which help keep stamps in!
7) Stamp mounts are priced too high ... PROTECT mount prices are affordable!

a convenient spiral binding. The Unitrade catalogue, which features the Scott numbering system, runs to 552 pages and is priced at $25.95 for the spiral binding and $23.95 for the paperback version. The rival Darnell catalogue employs its own numbering system, and includes an extensive section on varieties. It costs $22.95 in the spiral bound and $19.95 in the paperback versions. Both catalogues are available from dealers across Canada.

PHILATELIC LITERATURE

The Royal Philatelic Society of Victoria advise us that they are printing a catalogue of their library, which is the largest holding in existence of Australasian and Oceania material. The cost is $200 U.S., or $250 Australian. The RPSV offers a number of other volumes of specialized Australian philatelic literature. For more information, contact the society at Box 2071, GPO Melbourne, Victoria, 3001, Australia.

Collectors who photograph stamps and covers may be interested in Charles Lewton-Brain’s Small Scale Photography, a combination 80-minute video and 70-page booklet demonstrating the production of professional quality macrophotography and close-up work. It costs $59.95 in U.S. funds from Brain Press, Box 1624, Stn. M, Calgary, AB T2P 2L7.

CANADIAN YOUTH AT CAPEX

Competition was intense at CAPEX 96 as 52 youths from all over the world, aged 15 to 21, vied for top honours.

The jury awarded four Large Vermell medals, the highest that can be given to a Youth exhibit in International competition. These top winners were Guillaume Vadeboncoeur of Canada, Staffan Ferden of Sweden, Kathryn Ydon of the United States, and Andrade Liliana of Romania.

Mr. Vadeboncoeur (pictured below) also won the best in class award, and a special prize of a silver cloisonné plate donated by the Cyprus Philatelic Society. He showed his five-frame exhibit on the Small Queens of Canada, a specialized study featuring essays, die and plate proofs, issued stamps and usages. He was Canada’s Philatelic Youth of the Year in 1992.

Fifteen Canadian youth, almost a quarter of the total, competed at CAPEX. Their names and awards are listed elsewhere in this issue.

From all appearances philately is thriving among our youth—a good sign for the future.

CAPEX WINNERS

For members who do not have a copy of the CAPEX Palmares, we have listed the Canadian winners on pages 259 and 261. We congratulate all the exhibitors on their achievement and the fine and diverse showing they presented of philately in Canada.

A number of Canadians served on the jury, which consisted of 57 members, apprentices, and consultants. Dr. Robert Chaplin of Toronto served as President of the jury, Harry Sutherland of Toronto as Vice-President, and Charles Verge of Ottawa as Secretary. Jurors included Murray Heifetz, Miet Kamienski, James Kraemer, Jean-Claude Lafleur, Michael Madesker, and Kenneth Rowe. Richard Gratton provided services with the Expert Group. R.K. Malott acted as a consultant, while Cimon Morin and Joseph Shelton gained international level experience as apprentices.

AN IMPORTANT BIRTHDAY

To celebrate her 100th birthday, Mme. Berthe de Tremaudan was honoured by her philatelic friends at a gathering hosted by the Greater Victoria Philatelic Society and the Vancouver Island Philatelic Society on April 19. Above, Rick Deegan and Don Shorting, presidents of the two clubs, give their personal greetings to the guest of honour.

Canada Post prepared a specially designed commemorative cover, featuring her portrait in stamp format as the cachet. The stamp received a cancel featuring a birthday ribbon (probably a first in Canada). Following the formal presentations, she narrated a slide presentation of one of her interests, "Humour in Philatelic Terminology."

As well as being a knowledgable and active collector, she is a published author and poet, and has won literary awards in Quebec. Attending society members received copies of the cover, many of which were autographed by Mme. Tremaudan.

The Canadian Philatelist
SPECIAL CANCEL FOR LUCAN
On June 4 Canada Post authorized a special cancel for use during the 125th anniversary celebrations of Lucan, Ontario between June 21 and 23. The village of 1,900 is located about 25 km north of London. A special First Day Cover, priced at $1.50, went on sale at the Lucan post office on June 21, featuring the Vehicles set.

The Lucan post office, opened in 1857, predates the 1871 incorporation of the village. Some covers may still be available from Postmaster Vicki Whitters, Lucan, ON N0M 2J0; telephone (519) 227-4400.

FREE ADMISSION AT PACIFIC 97
The organizers of the PACIFIC 97 International show, running from May 29 to June 8 next year, have announced that there will be no admission charge at the show. This is a major departure from the standard practice at International shows. In foregoing admission revenue, exhibition manager Bob Thomson hopes to encourage more families to attend, and to be more effective in promoting philately by encouraging the largest possible attendance.

The PACIFIC 97 show has already proved to be popular with potential exhibitors. Commissioner-General Joseph Schwartz reports that some 1,300 applications have been received, requesting space that would consume 7,500 frames. As only 3,500 frames are available for competitive exhibits, the Committee will be busy through August with a selection process. Notification to exhibitors will go out in early October. Preliminary entries had to be submitted by 3 June 1996. The space restrictions do not apply to literature entries, and all qualified literature exhibits will be accepted.

We will publish further updates on PACIFIC 97 when information is available.

Well, CAPEX 96 is history. After years of preparation it sped by in a few days. Although the crowds weren't large by Asian or European standards, the dealers and postal administrations appeared happy with their financial results.

The show was graciously opened by our Patron, the Governor General, Romeo LeBlanc, and was jointly hosted by Canada Post and the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada. A reception was held on the opening day to welcome RPSC members, and visitors from the Royal Philatelic Society of London and the Commonwealth and foreign societies. This was held in the atrium of the new Canadian Broadcasting Corporation building—across Front Street from the CAPEX site. The guests were welcomed by the Honorable André Ouellet, chairman of the board of Canada Post Corporation, and myself, along with our respective wives. There was a full house.

Over 3200 frames filled with the finest exhibits ever seen in Canada greeted visitors, along with showings from the Queen's collection brought by the curator, Charles Goodwyn. There were exhibits of Canadian rarities assembled by Charles Firby, Yukon exhibits gathered by Gray Scrimgeour and Ken Kutz, and many Championship Class exhibits from all over the world.

Numerous philatelic societies hosted lounges to greet their members and to attract prospective members. Our own booth was efficiently hosted by Michael Nowlan of Oromocto, N.B., assisted by our treasurer, David Oberholtzer of Waterloo, Ont., and numerous dedicated members. Over seventy new members were recruited, and many RPSC ties, scarves, pins, and other products were sold. Our sincere thanks are expressed to the many volunteers who made this a success.

Our Annual General Meeting was held on Saturday, June 15. We elected eight directors to serve from 1996 to 1998, received the audited financial statements for 1995, received reports from all the officers and section heads, decided to start publishing a Chapter Newsletter (to be edited by Ray Ireson of the Lakeshore Club of Dorval, Quebec). The directors re-elected the officers by acclamation for 1996-97.

During the year we lost three Fellows of the Society—Robert H. Pratt, E. Richards Toop, and Ralph Mitchener. This dropped the roll to 38 (of whom two are inactive. To replace them the Fellows elected K. Gray Scrimgeour of Victoria, Joseph M. Shelton of Toronto, and F. Burton Sellers, RDP, of Sun City, Arizona, FIP Coordinator for CAPEX and past president of the American Philatelic Society.

We hope to see many of you at PACIFIC '97 in San Francisco next May, and are looking forward to this show which will emphasize Pacific Rim philately.

Our next convention and Annual General Meeting will be held in Calgary, September 19 to 21, 1997. Calgary is noted for fine western hospitality, and we hope you will be able to attend. CAPEX 96 will be a hard act to follow, but we have no doubt that Calgary will succeed. ALL THE BEST et BIEN A VOUS.

RPSC BOOTH A GREAT SUCCESS!

Our booth at the CAPEX show was a busy spot, and often was a beehive of activity. Several members volunteered to serve two-hour shifts, and several helped out for longer periods. Many members stopped by to chat and sign the guest book. Some raised concerns that we were able to answer on the spot, and we referred others to the RPSC office for follow-up.

The booth raised the awareness of and profile of the RPSC. During the show we signed up 76 new members. Visitors also had a chance to purchase RPSC materials. We sold out the available supply of ties and almost sold out the scarves. RPSC pins were also popular. Back issues of The Canadian Philatelist were also available.

A feature to attract new members was a free RPSC pin, six assorted back issues of The Canadian Philatelist, and a chance to win a daily prize or one of two grand prizes.

These were the daily prize winners:
June 8: Lawrence Greer, Cobourg, Ontario
June 9: Gerald Parsons, St. George, Ontario
June 10: William Wright, Sacramento, California
June 11: David Beech, London, England
June 12: Keith Rourke, Lachine, Quebec
June 13: Gerald Dunn, Mississauga, Ontario
June 14: Richard Hale, Vancouver, British Columbia
June 15: Patrick Hollingworth, Holland Landing, Ontario
June 16: David McIntyre, Amherst, New York

The Grand Prize from Canada Post Corporation, a framed uncut Historic Vehicles sheet, was won by F. Beatle MacDonald of Burlington, Ontario. The other Grand Prize, a Life Membership in the RPSC, went to Lenore Gray of Livonia, Michigan.

I want to thank everyone who worked in the booth and those who supported the RPSC cause in any way during CAPEX 96. It was an event at which the Royal was very visible, and members seemed very pleased.

I also want to thank President Bill Robinson and the executive for the confidence they placed in me to organize the booth. A special thanks goes to David Oberholtzer who gave me much assistance in setting up the booth and the return of materials to the office on Merton Street after the show.

Members who assisted in the booth included John Lane, Mark Armstrong, George Vandenberg, John Robertson, Ronald Allen, David Oberholtzer, John Powell, Graham McCleave, Bill Bailey, Niels-Erik Jensen, Ernie Moyle, Brian Limbourn, Molly Krajewski, Don LeBlanc, André Theriault, and Bill Robinson. If I missed someone, I am very sorry. I took these names from my work sheet, and there may have been one or two who did a shift and whose names I did not record.

Thanks again, everyone!

The Canadian Philatelist
Alan McKanna, membership number 6661, was elected a Fellow of the Society in 1965 and is now the longest serving Fellow.

Mr. McKanna was born in England where he lived until after the Second World War. He is a chartered accountant by profession, but is now retired.

During World War II he served in the Royal Artillery and saw service in India and Burma. After the war he held senior accounting positions in the chemical industry, in Britain and Singapore. In 1951 he came to Canada to establish a Canadian subsidiary company. Upon his retirement he was Vice-President, Finance, still in the chemical industry.

Mr. McKanna has been a collector most of his life and his main interest has always been French philately with an emphasis on the Sower Issues of France, as well as cancellations during that period and Paris cancellations in earlier periods. In addition, he developed specialized collections of the Wilding and Machin Issues of Great Britain, New Zealand, and some definitive issues of Denmark. His exhibits have won him many high awards nationally, and he has served for a number of years on national juries.

He has been actively involved in organized philately for many years and his service to the Royal has been extensive. From 1958 to 1968 he was Treasurer of the Society, and a Director from 1968 to 1970 and from 1979 to date. Mr. McKanna was directly involved with the late Dr. G.M. Geldert, the then President of the Society, in the process leading to the Society receiving Royal recognition in 1959.

He served as Treasurer of CAPEX 78, CANADA 82, CAPEX 87, and was on the committee for CAPEX 96. In 1982-83 he served as President of the Philatelic Specialists Society of Canada. From 1987 to date he has been the Treasurer of the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada Philatelic Research Foundation.

Mr. McKanna and his wife reside in Alliston, Ontario, but are quite frequently in Toronto pursuing their interests.

FORGERIES

If you ever need to look for the information on the identification of forgeries of any country, it may be useful to consult the well-known Album Weeds—How to Detect Forged Stamps, by the Rev. R.B. Earleé, Rector of Miserden, Cirencester. His third edition starts with some technical notes on papers, watermarks, methods of printing, and perforation. This is followed by a number of pages of typical postmarks. Unfortunately, the cancels have been drawn in by hand and are not very accurate. Accuracy is very important for the identification of fakes. Although this book is outdated by almost a hundred years, it still ranks as a good reference for the subject of fakes. Stamp issuing entities from Afghanistan to Zurich are covered. Canada is listed on two pages, starting with the Three Pence Beaver.

Other excellent references for classic European nineteenth century stamps and old German states are the two books by Hermann Schloss. Schloss was an expert in classic stamps, and especially old German states. He once owned one of the best collections of Thurn and Taxis.

Many classic stamps exist with faked cancels. Mr. Edwin Muller from Vienna once suggested the following reasons: At the beginning cancels were not faked to improve the value of a stamp. In early collecting times catalogues seldom indicated higher prices for used stamps. One did not realize that older classic stamps had short usages. In addition, collectors often did not want to add to their collections mint stamps, and rather looked for used stamps. Used stamps were often unavailable from dealers.

Only later did catalogues begin to list these stamps with higher values in used condition. This soon led to the faking of cancels to increase stamp values. Muller mentioned specifically such faked cancels on stamps from Austrian Levant, old German states, and the old Italian states.

CANADIAN PRECANCELS

Many different stamp shades exist on certain values of Canadian precancels. These are not specifically listed in the precancel catalogue. It would be interesting to collect data on these shade varieties from existing collections. For example, Toronto 7-113, the 7c Admiral, can be found in olive bistre as listed, but also in the straw shade. Your reports would be welcome.

Precancel collectors have asked how on can distinguish the two Toronto style precancels. The Standard Canada Precancel Catalogue of 1992 does not identify the differences among Styles 7, 8, and 9. Although dimensions are given for Styles 8 and 9, the dimensions for Style 7 were omitted accidentally.

All this information was originally published in the Official Catalog of Canada Precancels, 14th edition, in 1983. The Style 7 dimensions should read as follows: "Toronto 13.5 mm long, Ont. 11.5 mm long. Lines not parallel." The next edition of the Standard Canada Precancel Catalogue should include this information.

FIFTY-CENT ADMIRAL

The 50c Admiral, printed from four plates, exists in both wet and dry printings. Plate 4 is known as the last plate, the dry printing. Stamps from this plate are 0.25 to 1.0 mm wider than wet printings because of less horizontal shrinkage in the drying process after printing.

Auction Sale 131 of R. Maresch and Son (11 June 1981) contained two lots described as Plate 4 in black and one "with re-entered inner filaments." Plate 4 is usually in sepias or black brown. Stamps from Plate 4 in black are very rare. Measurements show that these are about 0.75 mm narrower than others from this plate. Paper used for these black stamps must have had a higher moisture content, like wet printed stamps, resulting in horizontal shrinkage. Only a few copies have been located.
A PECULIAR BOOKLET
Illustrated below is an interesting booklet, a sample from the British America Bank Note Company. It shows a suggested design of two children. The format and style is typical of the 1967 period. The pane is gummed, perforated vertically and horizontally, with the tab mounted on the inside. The colour of the engraved part is grey. This booklet is badly miscut. Does anyone have any explanations, information, or suggestions?

ADVANCES IN COLOUR REPRODUCTION
Many collectors have trouble with the identification of shades of the Small Queens and the Admirals. Some attempts were made many years ago to publish charts that would reflect the various shades of these two series of stamps. But colour photography and colour reproductions were not as advanced as they are today.

When one looks at the latest colour auction catalogues, especially from Europe, one can note the excellent reproductions that are now possible, and without very high costs. For example, the Admiral Colour Identification book, by this writer, was published in Switzerland almost 20 years ago. Major improvements could today be made to such a publication.

Here is an opportunity for someone to work in the projects of producing two new colour charts and booklets, one for the Small Queens and the other for the Admirals.

NEW CONCEPT IN PAGES
Mr. Rockford Gauthier recently developed some new and interesting stock or album pages. These are for mint stamps. Each pocket is designed to match a particular size of stamp, and is enclosed on three sides, and open on the fourth to allow for air circulation. The pages allow a complete visual examination of the stamp on both sides; that is, one can turn the enclosure over and examine the stamp from front to back.

These features are important. Many existing enclosures and mounts are practically closed on all four sides, allowing no air circulation and thus drying the stamp out. The viewing of stamps enclosed in mounts is difficult unless one takes the stamp out of the mount, and this often leads to damage. No such problem here.

At the same time, space is given to each enclosure for labelling, something not normally available with mounts. These enclosures are ready for insertion in a three-ring binder. The pages go by the name "Stampview."

XLIV. Comments on Special Packet Rates Pertaining to B.N.A.

On 5 April 1792, the General Post Office, London issued an extensive table of local, overseas, and foreign postal rates. The pertinent ones applying to British North America were the inland ones and two packet rates, which were:

For letters conveyed by Packet-Boats between London and any Ports in His Majesty’s West India Islands, or North America .............. 12d.

For Letters conveyed by Packet-Boats from any Port in the West-India Islands, or His Majesty’s Dominions in North America, to any other Port Thereof ................................................................................................. 4d.

While this seems very straightforward, it was obviously subject to misinterpretation, as the letter below illustrates. This was written by George Bethune at Halifax, when in transit from New York to Tobago, on 25 October 1799. He noted that “A Packet is daily expected here on her way to you [New York].”

The letter was mailed the following day—Halifax backstamp—rated 4d. Stg. prepaid postage, and struck with an encircled “POST PAID”. This was incorrect, for the 4d. Stg. rate only applied between British possessions. However, the table of postage rates did not cover the packet postage between Halifax and New York, so the 4d. was applied.
Over fifty years later, another letter caused some confusion as to the correct rating. This was the result of an earlier attempt by Thomas Stayner, the Canadian Deputy Postmaster General, to speed up the transfer of letters between the Maritime Provinces and the Canadas by means of the Cunard link between Halifax and Boston. In 1845-46, he sought the agreement of his U.S. counterpart to send “closed mails” between the two regions via Boston. Although they were able to reach an agreement, legal opinion in Britain was that such letters would be subject to the full 1s. 0d. Stg. transatlantic packet rate, plus any B.N.A. inland postage. After further argument with the British authorities, the Treasury agreed to a total postage of 1s. 0d. Stg. in November 1846. However, before this could be implemented, the regular “closed mail” agreement for transatlantic packet mails was cancelled by the U.S. Post Office prior to the retaliatory Act. Such an arrangement was finally adopted in October 1851.

In the meantime, it appears that the original opinion to include inland postage was applied to such letters. Above is a letter from Pictou, N.S. dated 17 June 1849 to New York, which was mailed the same day with 1s. 8d. Cy. postage from Pictou to Halifax plus 1s. 2d. Cy. packet postage. This letter arrived at Boston in the early days of the U.K.-U.S. Postal Convention and, although it had the packet postage prepaid, it was not shown in accordance with the new agreement, nor was the U.S. credit shown, coupled with the fact that it was not arriving from Britain, although on a Cunard steamer. Obviously not sure of what to do, the Boston postmaster took the safest course, treating it as a ship letter and rating it with 24 cents postage due as a transatlantic letter.

Letters such as these make collecting packet letters so fascinating.
JAMES E. KRAEMER STEPS DOWN AS PRESIDENT OF FOUNDATION

After guiding the RPSC Philatelic Research Foundation through its formative years, beginning with its incorporation in 1986, Jim Kraemer has decided to step down as the Foundation’s President. He has agreed to stay on as a Director for another year. Succeeding Mr. Kraemer as President is Denis Hamel of Toronto, Ontario.

The Foundation was registered as a charitable organization in 1990 with tax exempt status and the right to issue tax receipts for tax purposes. Since that time the Foundation has received more than $100,000.00 worth of philatelic material from generous donors.

One of the Foundation’s notable achievements has been the establishment of Canada’s Philatelic Youth of the Year. Beginning in 1992, the youth chosen to receive this annual award receives the Foundation’s Roland Michener silver medal and a cheque for $100.00. The latter is known as the Manfred Walther Award and is made possible from funds given to the Foundation by the Harmonie Stamp Club of Toronto for this purpose.

Opusculum I, a volume of collected postal history and philatelic articles by outstanding worldwide philatelic authors, was published by the Research Foundation in 1995. A second volume, Opusculum II, is being prepared for release in 1997. The author of the best article in each volume, as judged by a panel of FIP International judges, is awarded a Roland Michener medal for philatelic authorship.

The RPSC Philatelic research Foundation fulfills its mandate of assisting in the education of junior collectors by various means. The Research Foundation and Canada Post Corporation have announced that they will be embarking on a joint endeavour, the research and preparation of subject matter, using postage stamps as a medium, for use in schools.

SUPPORT THE RPSC PHILATELIC RESEARCH FOUNDATION

A donation to the RPSC Philatelic Research Foundation in memory of a loved one, a philatelist or a friend who has passed away is very appropriate. All donors receive an official receipt. The donor’s name is recognized in this column unless we are instructed otherwise. A membership in the RPSC Philatelic Research Foundation makes an ideal gift.

For more information, write to the National Office, and ask for a copy of the Foundation’s newsletter. Write to:

VENICE:
SOME EARLY POSTAL HISTORY
PART VI — THE 18th CENTURY

by Michael Madesker, FRPSC

Shown below is a letter dated 19 January 1762 from Treviso to Venice. It demonstrates a most interesting phenomenon. Postage was collected on departure and acknowledged on the sealing flap with a Treviso red handstamp; 2 soldi dazio (tax) was noted on the address side.

![Image of the letter]

The Senate of Venice approved new postal tariffs on August 22, 1782. A combination fee structure is shown on a letter accompanying a parcel sent on 9 June 1788 from Padova to Venice. Illustrated at the top of page 279). The enclosed parcel consisted of two rolls of documents: “Con Due involti.” The red “2” handstamp marked payment of one soldi postage and one soldi dazio. The manuscript “X” indicated enclosure, while the two circles, Rötelkreisen, were applied to show payment of postage and dazio for the parcel. The PADO/VA handstamp with the St. Marc’s Lion was applied on departure. An en face St. Marc’s Lion was embossed on the sealing wafer.
The 1782 Tariffs provided payment of 2 1/2 soldi postage and one soldo dazio for a single sheet letter. The letter of 25 June 1785 from Lendenara to Venice, shown below, carries a 3 1/2 soldi handstamp. This device was used from 1782 to 1797. The departure postmark, applied to the sealing flap, was in use from 1779 until 1792.

The paper strip overlapping the seal was intertwined in much the same manner as if it were a string, and held both sides of the sealing flap, securely reinforced by wax or wafer.

At the top of page 280 is a letter, with an enclosure, dated 12 July 1777, from Calaijio, Lombardy to Venice via Bergamo. It was taxed 5 soldi. The fees of 4 soldi postage and 1 soldo dazio were marked in manuscript near the crease of the sealing flap. The address side carried the designation “FRANCA” — prepaid — and a mute transit postmark of Bergamo.
At the top of page 281 is a letter from Bergamo to Venice, dated 14 April 1795, and bearing a 5 soldi handstamp. The breakdown of fees followed the now familiar pattern: 4 soldi postage and 1 soldo dazio. The “BERG/AMO” departure handstamp was applied on the sealing flap.

It must be noted that in special instances, temporary raises in fees were permitted. This fact makes it important for the student of this subject to study all documents carefully for verification. These temporary raises are not to be confused with special assessments which are, as a rule, well documented.

Services Outside the City of Venice

The Republic of Venice was served by the postal services of several states and cities, by private couriers, and its own institutions, in most cases for the convenience of its citizens. The activities of all came under the jurisdiction of an officer appointed by the Senate.
Most of the postal services had their terminals within the city of Venice and, as a rule, did not have the licensing rights to deliver or pick up mails within the Republic. Services within the Republic were maintained by the Compagnia dei Corrieri Veneti, its agents and transformations.

The City-State of Ferrara was one of the jurisdictions providing its services to Venice. Above is a letter dated 22 February 1794 from Ferrara to Venice. It was taxed 8 soldi for one ounce weight, according to the Regulations of June 3, 1716.
Below is a letter from Reggio nel Emilia to Padova. It was carried by Corrieri di Modena via Bolgna to the terminal in Venice and then delivered to Padua by Corrieri Veneti. The letter was taxed 7 soldi: 6 soldi postage from Reggio to Venice, 1 soldo for delivery to Padua. The letter was postmarked on departure with Reggio’s bollo di cuore, showing that mailing took place in the ninth week of the year.

The Corrieri di Roma carried a letter dated 16 May 1786 (shown below) from Naples to Padova via their Venice terminal. The letter was taxed 10 soldi: 8 soldi on behalf of the Corrieri di Roma, 1 soldo for postage from Venice, and 1 soldo dazio.
ROYAL PHILATELIC SOCIETY OF CANADA
AUDITORS' REPORT

To the Members of The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada

We have audited the balance sheet of The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada as at December 31, 1995 and the statements of members' equity (deficit), income and expense and changes in financial position for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of the Society's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with generally accepted auditing standards. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance that the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation.

Fees and miscellaneous income received, by their nature, are not susceptible to complete audit verification. Accordingly, our verification of receipts from these sources was limited to a comparison of recorded receipts to bank deposits.

No physical count was made and accordingly the value of the inventory (which consists of medals, pins, ties, scarves and decanters) was not susceptible to audit verification.

In our opinion, except for the effect of adjustments, if any, which we might have determined to be required had we been able to audit the fees and miscellaneous income and examine the inventory, these financial statements present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the Society as at December 31, 1995 and the results of its operations for the year then ended in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles.

NOTES TO THE FINANCIAL STATEMENTS

1. OPERATIONS AND SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada is a non-profit organization incorporated under the laws of Canada without share capital. The objectives of the Society are to:

(1) Encourage and promote the science of philately by the acquirement and study of stamps;
(2) Encourage and assist new collectors and to assist local clubs and societies wherever possible;
(3) Stimulate and advance affiliations between collectors and similar organizations in other countries.

(a) Inventory is determined and valued at approximate cost from the records at year end.
(b) Income and expense are accounted for on the accrual basis. Membership fees received in advance are deferred and recognized as income in the applicable year.
(c) The computer equipment is recorded at cost and is being amortized on the straight line method at 20% per annum.
(d) Current assets in foreign currencies are translated into Canadian dollars at the exchange rate prevailing at the balance sheet date. Foreign currency transactions during the year are translated at the rate applicable at the time of the transaction.

2. TRUST FUNDS RE SALES DEPARTMENT

The Society operates a sales department where members can offer stamps for sale to other members. The funds received from the sale of such stamps net of commissions are held in trust for owners until the books containing the stamps are retired at which time payments are made. The operation of the sales department is contracted out and the details of the operation are not part of the records of the Society. The net funds received on behalf of owners however are held in bank accounts in the name of the Society. There were balances totalling $57,728 on deposit as at December 31, 1995 (1994: $58,966).

3. LIFE MEMBERSHIP EQUITY

In the current year the Society adopted the policy to amortize life memberships to General Equity over a thirty year term. Life Members Equity is credited annually with interest at 4 3/4% per annum on the end of year balances.

The $19,892 transfer from Life Members included in comparative figures represents retroactive application of the amortization policy to December 31, 1993.

4. COMPARATIVE FIGURES

Certain comparative figures have been reclassified in order to conform with current year presentation.

THE BATTLE OF THE ATLANTIC AND CANADIAN MAIL, PART IV

by James E. Kraemer, FRPSC

(Note: the first part of Mr. Kraemer's article on Canadian mail and mail losses on the North Atlantic during World War II appeared in the May-June 1995 issue, the second part in the November-December 1995 issue, and the third part in the May-June 1996 issue. This is the concluding part of the series.)

Allied shipping went through a very difficult period in 1942. The German U-boats were ranging far into the Atlantic. They could remain at sea for four months. Allied raids against the U-boat pens in Germany proved useless. By April 1943 the Germans were delivering a new U-boat every Tuesday. The first months of 1943 saw an all-out German onslaught on the North Atlantic sea lanes. In February and March alone U-boats sank 171 Allied ships.

Postal Corps clerks sorting mail at a Canadian Base Post Office.

S.S. Newton Ash

The British steamship Newton Ash, which left Halifax on 22 January 1943, was the first ship carrying Canadian mail to be lost at sea in 1943 due to enemy action. She carried a total of 4,432 bags of mail, most of the which was parcel post. There were 1,991 bags from the Sub Base Post Office in Montreal, 189 bags from Montreal, and 2,000 bags from the Base Post Office in Ottawa. In addition there were 250 bags of newspapers from the Ottawa post office and two bags of empty mail bags from National Defence, Ottawa.)
The Newton Ash, a 4,625 ton steamer, was on a voyage from Saint John, New Brunswick to Hull, England with a load of grain and mail. She was torpedoed and sunk on 8 February 1943 by the German submarine U-402 under Lt. Commander Siegfried von Forstner, K.C., at 25° 25'N, 22° 26'W, about 700 miles west of Inishtrahull. Of her crew of 38 and five gunners, there were only four survivors.

The steamer was built in 1935 by C. Strubin and Company, for W. Pickersgill and Sons. She had 346 n.h.p. triple expansion engines and measured 372 feet by 54 feet.

Mail Loss Complaints

Despite the U-boat successes, the Canadian wartime Postmaster General, William P. Mulock, reckoned that all but three per cent of armed forces mail was getting through. Not everyone was so certain. A parliamentary exchange recorded in Hansard of 15 April 1943 has Mulock commenting on criticisms levelled against the Post Office in letters and in an editorial in the Toronto Globe and Mail:

As a matter of fact total losses of all parcels for armed forces and civilians from all sources, including enemy action, theft, fire and other causes did not amount to three per cent. In regard to parcels containing cigarettes and tobacco, during 1942, 2,149,974 parcels were dispatched to the troops overseas. Of these, 61,889 parcels were lost as a result of enemy action, a percentage of 2.87.

James Ralston, the Minister of Defence, said that a Canadian army overseas order restricting the number of cigarettes any one serviceman could receive to 1,000 per month, was passed because British authorities were alarmed at the sale of duty-free Canadian cigarettes to British civilians.

Matches and Fires

Relatives of those in the armed forces liked to send matches with their cigarettes, and the fires they caused were almost as dangerous as the U-boats. On 5 December 1942 a major fire caused by matches in a parcel on board a ship at Halifax resulted in damages to part of a shipment of 7,041 bags of mail destined for overseas.

Another loss of mail took place on 20 April 1943 when matches in a parcel caught fire in the Halifax post office. Fortunately, the fire was extinguished and the loss was small. Warnings continued to be given in the Post Office Bulletin following every fire. The Post Office Act was amended to make the mailing of inflammables (matches were classed as inflammables) a summary offence with a $100.00 fine or three months in jail or both. In addition, it was made an indictable offence. A notice reporting these changes to postal regulations was printed in the Post Office weekly bulletin of 19 June 1943.

A further small loss of mail resulted on 29 November 1943 when matches in parcels ignited at a Base postal facility.

S.S. "T-1"

The Chief Superintendent of the Railway Mail Service received word on 29 March 1943 that the S.S. "T-1," on which mail had been loaded on February 26 in Halifax, had been lost at sea in early March as a result of enemy action. The steamer carried 3,837 bags of mail as follows: three bags of registered mail and 19 of letters from Halifax; one bag of registered, 18 of letters and 212 of parcels from the Halifax Base Post Office; two bags of registered and ten of letters from the Fleet Mail Office; 31 bags of registered, 151 of letters and 386 of parcels from Montreal; 1,450 bags of parcels from the Montreal Sub Base P.O.; 40 bags of diplomatic mail and one of registered from Ottawa; 17 bags of registered mail, 237 of letters, 110 of newspapers, and 1,090 of parcels from the Ottawa Base P.O.; 42 bags of registered mail from Newfoundland; and a single bag of registered mail from St. Pierre and Miquelon. There were also 16 bags of empty mail bags from Montreal.

S.S. "T-2"

The S.S. "T-2" was due in Saint John, New Brunswick on or about 9 March 1943. She was overdue and presumed lost. On board were 2,427 bags of mail destined for Canada. The mail was posted in England and Scotland between February 17 and 25 inclusive. Included in the mail were magazines posted between February 8 and 25th.

Were the S.S. T-1 and the S.S. T-2 the S.S. Empire Standard and the S.S. Fort Norman? Both ships were approximately 7,000 tons and were reported lost at sea by enemy action on 9 March 1943.

S.S. "M-790"

The steamer S.S. "M-790" left the United Kingdom bound for Canada on 12 April 1943. The ship was lost at sea. In her hold was an unknown amount of mail addressed to Canada. It had been posted in England and Scotland from April 1 to 8 inclusive.

In the interests of secrecy some ships were identified by a number. Many of these numbers were prefixed with the letter "W." The ships mentioned above have the letter "T" or "M." Despite many enquiries the author has been unable to determine the actual names of these ships.

The Battle Turns

During April 1943 the tide of battle began to turn and May proved to be as disastrous for the U-boats as March had been for the convoys. More escorts, more experience, continuous air cover and support groups, new weapons, and improved intelligence were defeating the U-boat. During the month of May 1943, 41 U-boats were sunk. Admiral Dönitz lost his son when U-954 was destroyed. On 24 May 1943 Dönitz called off the U-boat offensive and announced, "we have lost the Battle of the Atlantic." The Axis forces in North Africa surrendered on May 7.

During the War bigger and better U-boats were developed. The use of snorkels, improved batteries, radar detectors and other electronic devices made the submarine difficult to sink. On the other hand, the Allies developed an underwater sound location device known as "asidie" or "sonar," and became skilled in the use of depth charges.

Another new device, known as the "hedge-hog," was an effective weapon. An increased American presence helped turn the tide against the U-boat. In 1943 more than 200 U-boats were destroyed.
The Corvettes

In 1943, 26 Canadian corvettes were modified. They carried the latest in radar and heavy secondary armament of Overlikon guns. The latest ant-submarine weapon, the “hedge-hog,” proved successful 30% of the time. Its 24 bombs, spread over a wide area, were effective to a depth of 1,300 feet.

Canada built 122 corvettes and Britain 147 during World War II. These inexpensive, small, cramped, uncomfortable little ships that the sea tossed about like corks, played a major part in escorting and protecting convoys. Ten Canadian corvettes were lost in World War II, but they sank or helped sink 16 U-boats. Not bad for a navy that the British in 1941 considered “an assembly of wildly misdirected amateurs.” On 10 July 1943 the Allies invaded Sicily and on September 3 they landed on the mainland of Italy. Five days later, on September 8, Italy signed an armistice. The Russians recaptured Kiev on 6 November 1943.

The Canadian navy came to assume responsibility for escorting all North Atlantic convoys, and provided about 30% of the anti-submarine strike force. In mid 1943 a unique Canadian-administered theatre of war was created in the northwest Atlantic. Rear Admiral L.W. Murray became Canada’s only Commander-in-Chief. By now, Canada’s navy was the third largest among the Allies.

Expanded Mail Service

A big expansion of transatlantic airmail took place with the inauguration of government service in 1943. The Post Office arranged with the Royal Canadian Air Force to provide a supplementary service with a special squadron of Flying Fortresses carrying first class mail, airmail, and airgraphs across the Atlantic. Parcels still went by sea. On 28 February 1943 the rate on airmail lettercards, sent to Canada from the United Kingdom by members of the armed forces, was reduced from 6 pence to 3 pence. At the same time, the rate from India was reduced to 4 annas and from Ceylon to 20 rupees.
The Canadian Post Office constantly endeavoured to increase the mail, but at the same time reduce the weight of the mails. The following table of weights and shipping space for one 60 lb. bag of mail was used in postal calculations.

On 15 April 1943 the Honourable W.P. Mulock, Postmaster General, rose in the House of Commons in Ottawa in order to reply to the Leader of the Opposition who alleged that only 60% of the parcels sent to the Canadian forces on active service were actually delivered. Mulock stated that total losses of all mail to the armed forces and civilians from all sources (fire, theft, enemy action, and other causes), was less than three per cent.

S.S. Colin

At 8:46 pm on the night of 26 April 1944, the German U-boat U-859 under Lieutenant Commander Jebsen torpedoed and sunk the 6,254 ton steamer Colin. The S.S. Colin was under Panamanian registration and was formerly known as the Villarparoza. She went down at 54° 16' N, 31° 58' W. At the time of sinking she was being operated by the United States Maritime Commission. The Colin had been built in 1921 by Soc. Anon. Iiva Piombino. The vessel was 397 feet long and 52 feet wide, and had a crew of 39 plus 15 gunners.

She was on her way from New Orleans and Halifax to Garston. Her cargo included 4,500 tons of sulphur, 47 tons of vehicles, five tons of aircraft parts, and 4,629 bags of Canadian mail. The latter had been loaded on board at Halifax on 14 April 1944 and was made up as follows: two bags of registered mail from Halifax; 38 bags registered, 218 of newspapers, and 521 of parcels from Montreal; a bag of registered mail from Ottawa; 350 bags of newspapers and 2,175 of parcels from the Ottawa Base P.O.; 963 bags of parcels from the Montreal Base P.O.; and a bag of registered mail from the Fleet Mail Office in Halifax. One crew member was lost in the sinking.

Another heavy loss of mail, over 109,000 lbs. (approximately 1,820 bags), took place in April 1944. These were newspapers and parcels despatched from the Ottawa Base Post Office, and were destined to the Canadian armed forces in the United Kingdom. They were lost at sea through enemy action. The loss was not reported in Canada until 14 May 1944. No further details are to found in existing records.
Mail Losses by Air

As more and more mail went overseas by air rather than by sea, the losses at sea lessened dramatically while losses in the air increased.

It was reported on 8 May 1944 that 5,059 lbs. of air and surface letters were lost when jettisoned by an airplane damaged by enemy action. This happened on 29 March 1944 while the aircraft was on its way to the Mediterranean.

An aircraft bringing Canadian armed forces mail to Canada from the Mediterranean developed engine trouble on 9 May 1944. Those on board jettisoned 176 bags of ordinary mail, plus one bag of airmail. On the same date another airplane carrying 4,851 lbs. of Canadian letter mail from Britain to the Canadian Mediterranean forces crashed and burned.

In early May 1944, 861 bags of mail (all types), addressed to Canada, were lost while enroute from a Base Post Office overseas. Another 361 bags of similar mail were also lost in May as a result of enemy action. Postal records do not give any further particulars, but the author believes the losses were suffered in air crashes.

A Lancaster plane carrying 85 lbs. of letter mail and 4,815 bags of armed forces mail crashed and burned on 29 December 1944 while enroute from Canada to Africa.

Matches, Fires, and More Fires

By June 6, 1944 (D-Day), when the invasion of Europe at Normandy took place, the U-boat menace had subsided. But fires caused by matches continued to plague postal officials.

Fire severely damaged 34 bags of armed forces mail early in 1944, but the loss was not reported until 8 May 1944. The loss occurred in March 1944 in a consignment of parcels for the central Mediterranean. On the same date (May 8), a parcel on board a Canadian train, east of Montreal, was destroyed when matches in the parcel ignited. More bad news arrived at postal headquarters on May 9 when they received a report from British authorities that 301 bags of mail for Canada from a United Kingdom Base Post Office had been destroyed by fire as a result of enemy action.

Then, on 22 July 1944, 23 bags of Canadian armed forces mail was destroyed on a mail train in the United Kingdom during a fire caused by matches in a parcel.

Post Office authorities' worst fear, that a major fire might take place as a result of a parcel containing matches, had materialized. The first major fire took place on 25 October 1944 on shipboard in Montreal. This fire badly damaged 691 bags of Canadian armed forces mail. Six days later, on October 30, fire on board a ship at Saint John, New Brunswick damaged another 245 bags of mail being despatched to England. A much larger loss of armed forces mail caused by matches in parcels was still to come.

On 28 June 1945, 4,000 bags of Canadian forces mail were damaged when fire broke out on board a ship in the harbour at Liverpool, England.

S.S. Beaverhill

The S.S. Beaverhill grounded on Hillyards reef while proceeding out of Saint John, New Brunswick harbour on 24 November 1944. She was enroute to Liverpool with a general cargo and grain. To that date, the Beaverhill had led a charmed life. Over a four-and-a-half year period, 1940 to 1945, she made 55 crossings of the North Atlantic, almost as regular as in peacetime, without being attacked by the enemy.

A towing hauser snapped, wrapping itself around the propeller. The wind and tide stranded the vessel on the reef where, the next day, she broke in half as the tide ebbed. On 11 December 1946 the stern section was refloated, towed out to sea and scuttled off Grand Manan Island.

The Beaverhill was launched from the yards of Barclay, Curle and Company of Scotstown on 8 November 1927. She was 503 feet long and 62 feet wide, and had a gross tonnage of 10,041. She had Parsons marine engines providing a speed of 14 knots. The Beaverhill arrived in London on 3 September 1939, the day war was declared.

Of the five "Beaver" cargo liners built for and operated by Canadian Pacific, the Beaverhill was the last one. The Beaverburn, which was torpedoed on 5 February 1940, was the only one that had no mail on board when she sank. A few bags of civilian and military parcel mail on board the Beaverhill were lost.

The second S.S. Beaverford. It is customary in shipping circles to replace a ship that has been lost or retired with one of the same name. Canadian Pacific purchased the Empire Kitchener, built in 1945, and renamed it the S.S. Beaverford. It is quite different from the "Beaver" ships lost in the Battle of the Atlantic.

The End of the U-Boat Menace

By 1944, Germany may have lost the Battle of the Atlantic, but not the War. U-Boat construction reached its wartime peak in December 1944 when 31 submarines were launched. New 1,600-ton subs, equipped with T-5 homing torpedoes, went into service during the summer. Heavy losses and almost complete lack of success brought Dönitz’s campaign in the mid-Atlantic to a halt in early November 1944. During August 1944, 64% of the U-boats in transit were sunk. American aircraft carrier hunter-killer groups, directed by special intelligence, took a dreadful toll.

Between June and August 1944, Germany lost 74 U-boats, 57 of which were destroyed by aircraft carrying the latest equipment. A pack of six U-boats, located in mid-Atlantic waters and headed for North America, were plotted by Allied intelligence in December 1944. Massive American forces caught and destroyed the group.

Between January and May 1945 the Allies sunk 153 German U-boats. The Battle of the Atlantic was rapidly coming to an end. On 4 May 1945 the 43 remaining German U-boats at sea were ordered by Dönitz to surface and proceed to designated ports flying a black flag of surrender. The capitulation of Germany came into effect on the 5th of May. The longest running battle of World War II ended on VE Day, May 8, 1945. It had started on September 3, 1939.

On 23 May 1945, Admiral Dönitz, who had directed the German forces through the Battle of the Atlantic and who had succeeded Hitler as President of the Reich, was arrested. He was tried at Nuremberg, found guilty, and sentenced to ten years in prison.

The Cost to the Allies

The Battle of the Atlantic was over. Its cost to the Allies amounted to 2,673 merchant ships sunk, totalling over thirteen and a half million tons. As well, 175 naval vessels of the Allied forces were sunk. The Royal Canadian Navy lost 2,024 men. Another 95 were taken as prisoners of war and 319 were wounded. There were 1,451 Canadian merchant seamen killed and 198 taken prisoners of war. Canada lost 67 ships. Canadian ships sunk 27 U-boats and sank, captured or destroyed 42 enemy surface ships.

The Cost to Germany

The cost to Germany was great. Of the 830 U-boats taking part in the Atlantic operations, 784 were lost. Of the 40,900 men in the submarines, 28,000 lost their lives and 5,000 were taken prisoner.
Of the 1,162 submarines built by Germany, only 378 survived the war. A few were scuttled by their crews, but most were scuttled by the British off the west coast of Ireland.

IS THERE ANYTHING COLLECTABLE IN YOUR MAIL?

by Ross W. Irwin

Introduction

These are difficult times for philatelists. The press is full of reports that the minions in Canada Post have used advanced mechanical technology to destroy the value of the postage stamp due to these efficient cancelling techniques. Collectors overlook the fact that the purpose of the operation is to cancel the stamp. Cancellation indicates the stamp has fulfilled its original purpose of prepayment for a service.

If a stamp has any residual value as a collectable item once it passes through the system it is of no concern to Canada Post. One of the questions to be asked is whether anything issued by Canada Post over the past half century is truly collectable if an increase in value is the measure of collectability, regardless of the appearance of the item or whether it is collected from circulation in good condition or bad. Looking at our philatelic newspapers and magazines it is obvious that what gives current postage stamps any premium is the fact that printing quality control is low. Errors are eagerly sought after. Is this philately?

If excessive cancellations haven’t discouraged philatelists, then the fact that over 60 percent of incoming mail is metered will surely put a damper on collecting. Canada Post recently reported, in their submission to the Radwanski Commission which is currently examining the mandate of Canada Post, that 74 percent of the letter mail carried by Canada Post is posted by banks, utilities, credit card companies and other financial institutions. Another 13 percent is sent by individuals to businesses. So, almost 90 percent of today’s mail is business related and much of it is delivered at incentive volume rates below 45 cents. Practically all of this mail is metered or permit mail.

Collecting Opportunities

So, why not add metered mail to your collecting interest? Collecting metered mail presents a number of collecting opportunities. Prior to 1982 the postal rate system was simple. It was reasonably easy to acquire examples of each use. A very challenging opportunity is now the study and collection of examples of the myriad of postal rates used since 1982. Today there are over 50 postal rates offered to customers! You can’t collect postal rates unless you collect metered mail.
Another collecting opportunity is that of postage meter ads. Exhibitors often include examples of postage meter ads for added information in prize winning thematic exhibits. The variety is great—not just the current POSTAL CODE/ CODE POSTAL. A collection of postage meter ads will stand on its own. Books have been written on metered slogans used to promote the Olympics and similar events. With a little effort, you can find ads for every theme.

After the above wide-ranging (and possibly controversial) introduction the main purpose of this article is to detail the types and form of metered impressions are to be found in today’s mail.

Postage Meter Distributors

Manufacturers and corporate distributors of postage meters in Canada are only four in number. Pitney Bowes Inc. was the first to market a postage meter in Canada, back in 1923. Postalia of Germany started in 1960. Friden, now called Friden Alcatel Neopost, marketed postage meters beginning 1967. The Swiss-made Hasler postage meter, distributed by International Mailing Machines entered the market in 1981. If there is a market for a postage device these companies will provide a machine to fill the need.

Distributors attempt to minimize cost when they can by using the same meter model on several types of mailing machine. This becomes confusing as each small modification to a postage meter or mailing machine usually means that a new model number is assigned by the distributor. Canada Post requires that the “postage meter” is rented to the user by a postage meter distributor. The distributor is responsible to ensure the postage meter operates properly, is secure and accurately accounts for the postage used. The postage meter is attached to a mailing machine. The mailing machine is purchased or rented from the distributor by the user.

Postage Meters and Mailing Machines

Each distributor offers a low cost standard postage meter model for imprinting postage on envelopes. Such a meter will be a hand-operated desk model suitable for use in a small office where mail volume is low. The meter also has the ability to print tapes for use with parcel post and larger envelopes. The postage meter and mailing machine is combined in a single unit and is taken to the post office for resetting with postage. Pressure sensitive tape has been adopted for many meters of this class for postmark ads.

The next improvement is to change the hand operation to an electric assisted operation, called semi-automatic operation. Each envelope is still fed by hand into the meter which automatically applies the postage rate that is preset by the operator. Semi-automatic machines can feed envelopes at 120 a minute through the postage meter, where the postage is applied. The mailing machine can also seal the envelope. Power stacking can be added, as well as folding and inserting at 20 times faster than manual processing.

Small electronic models now seal, stamp, and stacks envelopes at 30 per minute. The postage meter is removed from the mailing machine and taken to the post office for resetting. On resetting, postage is added and paid for and noted in the meter account book, and a lead security seal is applied by the postal clerk.

Upgrading after this stage is one of applying modules to make a system appropriate for a particular business. Many tasks can be performed.

Fully automatic mailing machines now feed mixed sized envelopes at 10,000 per hour. They electronically weigh and imprint the correct minimum postage to regular and oversize envelopes, flats, and small parcels. These machines have an integrated system for electronic information processing. It interfaces with electronic scales and/or data systems for tracking the mail. The computerized data system permits complete department accountability; that is, it records the mailing Department Number, the number of items mailed by that Department, and the value of postage. Electronic scales, which weigh from 0.1 g to 5 kg, can select the least postage rate for each item. The postage meters use the RMRS (remote meter resetting system) system where postage is set or added to the postage meter by telephone. They cost a lot!

Rates

Rates that could be printed by a mini or small desk model postage meter until recently were from 1¢ to 20¢ and $1.00. We all know such rates are no longer convenient. Only a few meters of this type now exist. Their use of postage is very small.

There are many 3-bank postage meters; that is, they have three print wheels that apply postage. Commonly, such meters print values from 1¢ to $9.99. The postage meter itself usually has a maximum capacity of $9,999.99 in unused postage. Most companies only fill a meter with a fraction of the capacity.

Larger companies and financial firms often use a 4-bank postage meter; that is, a meter with four print wheels. These meters are capable of printing postage values from 1¢ to $99.99.

Companies that are specially licensed to use the post office volume incentive program will have a decimal postage meter. There is much variation on what is available but generally the values printed are from 1/10¢ to $9.99. Before 1982 postage meters were fractional and printed a 1/2¢ rate, when applicable.
Postage Meter Ads

The postmark ad is optional at the operators discretion. A postage meter ad can be printed by most meter models. Often they are omitted as they add to the cost of use through using 60 percent more ink. They also use 60 percent more pressure sensitive tape paper when printing labels. Probably 40 percent of today’s mail carries some form of postmark advertising.

There are tape only models used to apply postage to flats, parcels and bulky envelope packages. Courier companies use similar equipment but must call them parcel registers instead of postage meters. They perform the same function of accounting for money spent to send a package.

Indicia

Everyone recognizes the indicia; that is, the so called postage stamp which infers the postage has been prepaid. The general design is mandated by Canada Post regulation. We won’t spend time on the varieties that exist. The indicia, that is, the printed impression, is in two parts.

The townmark includes the town name, province and the datemark. There are variations in type fonts. The province is usually abbreviated, but not always. Some use the two letter system with or without a period. There is a lot of collectable variety here. Since 1949 bilingualism brought a datemark that is in one line, usually with the month in Roman Numerals, as DMY. Some newer postage meters use the European style dating of YMD, with the month as a numeral.

The frank is the portion of the indicia that contains the postage rate. The amount of postage that can be applied is dependent on the number of print wheels. These are usually three or four. Pitney Bowes meter impressions printed a star in place of the dollar value when postage was less than the dollar. The U.S. triad (3 wavy lines) is now used. These print wheels are made in the U.S. and have been standardized for most uses in Canada. They may not be operational or they may contain the ten dollar value. This may be followed by a “0” for the dollar rate. The period is part of the 10 cent print wheel. If the meter is a decimal meter there is usually a triad following the 1 cent print wheel. There are variations in the size and form of the final triad. Colons are a substitute for a triad.

The third portion of the indicia is the decorative border and overall design. Each meter type has its own design. Within the design the word POSTAGE and POSTES must appear as well as a serial number which identifies the particular postage meter printing the indicia.

An ascending register (total amount of postage used in dollars and cents) and decending register (how much postage is left) provide automatic postage accountability.

Identifying What’s in the Mail

Space does not permit a complete listing of postage meter indicia found in today’s mail; however, examples are shown below to show the trends of collectable material. Pitney Bowes developed a new postage meter indicia in 1959 which has been used with many of their products for the next 30 years. The only way of differentiating the model and capability is by the serial block used and the appearance of the ratemark.

296 / July - August 1996

The Canadian Philatelist
The first meter in the new series used the 540000 serial block. This series is now well over 590000. The ratemark has 0.00 preceded with a long triad.

This postage meter was followed by one sharing the same serial block but the ratemark was 0.00: preceded by a short triad. Some of these postage meters printed a ς value when fractional rates were introduced.

The same design was carried into the other blocks in the same series. For example, 500000 (T.00), 520000 (T.00T), 557000 (T.00:), 6000000(T.00), 630000(T0.00). Two examples are shown below.

In 1969 Pitney Bowes introduced the Touchmatic 800000 series, a replacement for an older Desk Model used in small offices. Again, the design did not change although a new serial block, 630000, was adopted when the previous one was filled.
The electronic series of postage meters use an upgraded indicia design. A modified indicia was adopted for a new postage meter which was produced to fill the small office market.

Pitney Bowes markets the 1000000 and 1050000 serial blocks for their standard high use mailing machines.

The new Paragon (200000 serial block) has all the bells and whistles and is used by governments and financial institutions.

The Hasler postage meter uses a single indicia design. There are 3-bank (above) and 4-bank (right) postage meters with values - 00.00; or, 0.00: The colon often inferred the postage meter will print a decimal value.
The Hasler series began at 2000000 but the models are intermixed within the block (above).

Postalia also have an indicia which is used for all their current models. Their 3-bank and 4-bank indicia is shown below. The assigned serial block is 400000 (0.00) and 465000 (00.00).

The Friden company have many indicia. Those mostly found in the mail today are illustrated here. The townmark is standard and each of the regulated components are present but are changed for each model. The serial blocks in today's mail tend to be 320000, 330000, 360000, 370000, 380000 and 385000.
Further examples of indicia styles used on various models made by the Friden Company.

The above examples illustrate the range of material available. Items found in everyday mail are not only collectable, but provide the opportunity for a fascinating and challenging philatelic collection.

Darnell Stamps of Canada, 1997 edition. Available in both French and English. Editor: Lyse Darnell. 388 pages, fully illustrated in colour. Published by Darnell Publishing, Inc., Box 104, Station B, Montreal, QC H3B 3K9. Available from dealers across Canada or from the publisher for $22.95 (softcover), $19.95 (spiral bound) or $29.95 (hardbound). Add $4.00 shipping for mail orders.

The 1997 Darnell catalogue of the stamps of Canada is the best edition they have published. It follows the tradition of their first bilingual edition of 1979. This new revised edition, featuring the Canadian numbering system (N.N.S.), has become the number one catalogue in Canada. All the stamps of Canada listed at retail value are superbly and beautifully illustrated in full colour.

Greatly enlarged with a number of added varieties is the section on Canadian constant varieties. Paper folds and perforation varieties are accurately illustrated in colour. Overall this section runs to 64 pages. Between this section and the Canadian booklets are Canada's wildlife habitat stamps, including the provincial issues. The booklet section has been revised and covers the subject completely. Included in the catalogue are sections on bundled used stamps of Canada, annual souvenir collections, official presentation sets, and a listing of Canada's stamps by theme.

In order to understand references in the major Canadian philatelic journals you will need this truly Canadian catalogue.

It is also being put on the Internet. A CD-ROM is also available for those interested in a multi-media presentation of Canadian stamps. The section on Canadian varieties will be available shortly in a special edition. We recommend that you order your copy of this catalogue now.

Mario Kurchan, the well known author and international jurist living in the Buenos Aires suburb of Olivas, has written another very interesting postal history book, a companion to Argentine Postal History of 1994. It is bilingual (French and English) and as a result will be very popular among philatelists and historians.

Dr. Kurchan covers the historical-geographical period before 1880 and then describes the Uruguayan mail service in two more chapters. He goes on to describe the conveyance of mail by warships and the German, Belgian and French navigation companies. The part played by the British navigation companies and the British consular post office markings are well described and illustrated in chapter 8. A chapter on forgeries illustrates the spurious cancellations associated with the early mail of Uruguay.

The arrival postmarks used in France on Uruguayan mail are included in a chapter on the Le Havre–River Plata correspondence. Another part of Uruguay's postal history, the Italian and Sardinian navigation companies, are also covered. A chapter on Uruguay's postal markings on foreign maritime mail is followed by a chapter on rates, exchange markings, and arrival markings used under the British–French postal agreement. The book closes with a listing of the forwarding agents, a reference section, and an index.

All in all this is a worthwhile addition to your library and will be of special interest to the historian looking for information on British navigation and consular markings used in South America.
Canada Post Corporation issued a stamp on June 28 to commemorate Canada Day 1996. The self-adhesive stamp depicts a maple leaf in a quilt pattern. It is available in sheets of 12, superimposed on an enlargement of an identical quilt design. The stamp’s artist, Raymond Bellemare, has designed other stamps for Canada Post, including the Birds set issued earlier this year.

BRICKLIN / LA BRICKLIN

Canada Post Corporation unveiled its “mystery vehicle,” the 25th stamp in the Land Vehicles series, at CAPEX on June 8. The design features a 1975 Bricklin model SV-1 sports car. Designed to be both sleek and safe, the Bricklin featured gull-wing doors and a body of acrylic plastic with the colour molded right into the material. Production was halted after only two years in 1975. Only 2700 vehicles were assembled.

Canada Post will make 1,000,000 25-stamp panes available. Only the Bricklin stamp will be 45 cents. The other 24 will be redenominated at lower values. In addition, 25,000 uncut press sheets, each containing three panes, will be available. The complete Historic Vehicles series is also available as a set of 25 maximum cards, each with an enlargement of one of the stamps.

La Société canadienne des postes produira un million de feuilles de 25 timbres. Seul le timbre de la Bricklin aura une valeur nominale de 0,45 $, les 24 autres vignettes étant affectées d'une faciale réduite. On offrira également 25 000 planches non coupées, formées de trois feuilles de timbres chacune. La série complète des véhicules historiques a également été reproduite sur des jeu numérotés de 25 cartes maximum.
Five Canadian Olympic gold medal winners appear on a set of stamps issued on July 8. The set is a tribute to the 100th anniversary of the modern Olympic Games, as well as to this year's Olympic Games in Atlanta, Georgia.

The featured Olympians are Étienne Desmarteau, 56 lb. weight throw (1904); Ethel Catherwood, high jump (1928); Fanny Rosenfeld, 4 x 100m relay (1928); Percy Williams, 100m and 200m (1928); and Gerald Ouellette, smallbore rifle (1956).

The set was designed by Mark Koudys of Atlanta Art and Design Inc. of Toronto.

BRITISH COLUMBIA / LA COLOMBIE-BRITANNIQUE

Canada Post Corporation issued a stamp on July 19 commemorating the 125th anniversary of British Columbia entering Confederation. The design presents a multi-layered collage of images integral to the history and development of the province. Matt Warburton of Herrainco Design Associates Inc., Vancouver, designed the stamp.

Le 19 juillet, la Société canadienne des postes émettra un timbre à l'occasion du 125e anniversaire de l'entrée de la Colombie-Britannique dans la Confédération canadienne. Habile montage de silhouettes, le motif rappelle des éléments importants de l'histoire et de l'évolution de la province.

Le concepteur du timbre est Matt Warburton de la maison vancouvéroise Herrainco Design Associates Inc.
Canada Post Corporation will issue a stamp on August 19 commemorating heraldry, the system of symbols such as coats of arms, flags, and badges, that are used to signify people, societies, and nations. The stamp is being issued to coincide with the 22nd International Congress of Genealogical and Heraldic Societies, to be held in Ottawa August 18 to 23. Derek Sarty of Halifax designed the stamp.

The Canadian Philatelist
From Michael Millar, Anti-theft Committee Co-ordinator....

The following is an update to two of the reports I detailed in the May-June Canadian Philatelist.

File R96/001: I am advised by the victim that the collection stolen is of New Zealand, including semi-postals. Investigating officer is Cpl. Dickenson, Enfield detachment RCMP, phone (902) 883-7077; fax (902) 883-7060. Occurrence number 95-5782.

File R96/003: Shown as "pending." Shipment of twelve related 16th, 17th and 18th century letters ranging in date from Venice to Tripoli (Syria), 18 February 1504; to Venice to Piano via Udine, 9 February 1793. This shipment was mailed from Castagnola, Switzerland on 2 January 1996 to an address in the Toronto area and appears to have gone missing in the mails. Canada Post investigators are dealing with the matter. Contact is Francine Lacelle, 2701 Riverside Drive, Ottawa, ON K1A 9B1; telephone (613) 734-9074. File number ZB09-960075.

Members will remember the brief account in the May-June 1995 issue of The Canadian Philatelist of the arrest and conviction of one Paul Carter. Carter is a former staff photographer of the Archives of Ontario who, while working in the Archives in the late 1970s, removed hundreds of letters, covers, and documents from several collections. Some of this material was sold to stamp and postal history dealers in the Toronto area, who in turn sold these items to their customers. One was even purchased by myself, but that's another story.

Carter was arrested and scheduled for trial in 1980, but, in a plea bargain, was given a suspended sentence in exchange for turning over all of the other material in his possession. This he very obviously did not do. In January 1995 at the PHILEX show in Toronto he attempted, fifteen years later, to sell off additional material that had not been returned to the authorities. Through the co-operation of several dealers and the Canadian Stamp Dealers Association, Carter was arrested and his home in Mississauga searched. Some 700 items were recovered. This was reported in the May-June 1995 issue of The Canadian Philatelist.

The Anti-Theft Committee has now received from the Archives of Ontario an appalling 68-page inventory of items unaccounted for. Most are believed to be related to the Carter matter. Some items, though, have gone missing since Carter was dismissed from his position. I have been informed by Mr. Richard W. Ramsay, Portfolio Manager at the Archives of Ontario, that he and some of the Archives staff attended CAPEX 96. While there they checked the stocks of several dealers and purchased items they are reasonably sure have come from their collections.
Mr. Ramsay has asked the Royal Philatelic Society of Canada and the Anti-Theft Committee to assist by publicizing the pilfered collections in an effort to recover, what is by this time, widely dispersed historical material belonging to the Province of Ontario. I quote from Mr. Ramsay's letter of 17 June 1996: "I am enclosing with this letter a detailed listing of the missing and stolen archival documents from the collection of the Archives of Ontario. The majority of the items were likely taken by a former employee of this institution in 1978/1979. However, the attached listing, which is probably far from comprehensive, shows that many more remain unlocated. It is likely that over time this individual sold many of these items to stamp dealers and manuscript dealers. While at CANEX this past week, I and other staff of the Archives of Ontario purchased a number of items which were not on the attached listing, but which likely came from our collections, given their content and dating. The help of your Committee in making all members of the philatelic community aware of the enclosed listing would be especially helpful."

For record purposes I have assigned File Number R96/007 to this case. While all of the missing material is important, Mr. Ramsay has asked me to draw particular attention to the William Hamilton Merritt (builder of the Welland Canal) collection and the Peter Russell collection. A total of 221 items are missing from the Merritt collection and 47 from the Russell collection. Date ranges are 15 October 1798 to 1865, with the majority of the dates from 1810 to the 1840s for the Merritt material, and 18 October 1735 to 3 October 1805 for the Russell correspondence.

A listing of the pilfered collection follows.

Government Records: RG1 Natural Resources / Crown Lands, RG2 Education, RG3 Premier's Office, RG7 Labour, RG8 Provincial Secretary, RG18 Commissions and Committees, RG22 Court Records.

Further information may be obtained either from the Anti-Theft Committee at (705) 726-5019, or from Mr. Ramsay at the Archives of Ontario, 77 Grenville Street, Unit 300, Toronto, ON M5S 1B3, telephone (416) 327-1600, fax (416) 327-1999.

All collectors in possession of any of the above listed materials are urged, as a matter of good conscience and philatelic ethics, to return this material to its rightful owner, the Province of Ontario. Remember, you are in possession of stolen property and to continue in possession, knowing that it is stolen, is an offence under Section S.354.1(a) of the Criminal Code. I am assured by Mr. Ramsay that there will be no questions asked of anyone who does return material to the Archives.

Dear Mr. Maresch:

I wanted to write and thank you and your staff for the wonderful experience I had in selling some of my treasures through you. You told me up front what to expect, and when, and you met and exceeded those expectations.

I had had some less desirable experiences with others before dealing with you, and I am very glad that I chose to sell the bulk of my material through you. My only regret is that I had tried someone else first, but I eventually realized that going with you was going with the best.

I had seen all those testimonials in your ad, and I wrongly assumed that all auction houses were the same. How wrong I was, and I know now better. When someone now asks me for a reference on where to sell their stamps and covers, I tell them "R. Maresch & Son".

Thank you very, very much. It was very much a pleasure doing business with you.

Sincerely,

Paul Burega
