The Canadian Philatelist
From the Editor’s Desk  by J.J. Macdonald

This is the second issue by your novice editor and things haven’t gotten much easier as yet. But never mind, I asked for it, I guess. I have not yet had any feedback from the November-December 1997 issue as I doubt if members have received their copy for very long. The postal strike and the seasonal holidays did delay that issue and this one is being compiled in the first week of January. This is something of a gain in the direction of correct issue dates, but the big problem now is that the ‘cupboard’ is bare. I need articles!!

This issue is also an eclectic mixture of themes and topics which may or may not be a bad thing. I must say my thanks again to Andrew Parr for the efficient work of the National Office in co-ordinating production of the Journal and also to our regular columnists: Hans Reiche, Michael Millar, Jay J. Edwards and others without whom we could not survive.

I will wait for another issue before I give you the answer to the brain teasing question asked in the last issue. I again solicit your views on the nature of articles desired, and on other questions such as the surfeit of new stamps, or other issues of mutual concern.

The Golden Egg and all that...

Many collectors are becoming more and more convinced that a larger number of respected postal administrations are joining the “sand” countries in producing an excessive number of new issues. My predecessor, Steve Thorning, on page 291 of volume 48, has already shrewdly discerned that the “fads” of the stamp world appear to be now the result of co-operatively marketed and managed thematic programs - when someone issues pigs or werewolves, everybody does it - aggh!! What a way to run a ship.

Even the American Philatelic Society has begun to ask its membership if there are too many stamps coming out of the USPS. In a recent survey in The American Philatelist, their members have been asked to describe their feelings on the subject with the first choice of four answers being “the USPS issues too many face different stamps and the program injures the hobby.” Are we in Canada much different? Consider the following facts, direct from Canada Post for 1998: a) there will be 21 release dates; b) a total of 69 different stamps will become available (or should be available, if you order from the Philatelic Agency in Antigonish, NS); c) their face value will be $36.72 and d) the tax on them will be $2.67. Or, if you wish to collect corner blocks and all the varieties of special sheets etc. the cost will be significantly larger. Talk about killing the goose and breaking the egg! Your comments, please, because if none make their views known nothing can possibly change.

Who can we blame for this situation? Maybe the Directors of Canada Post but their responsibilities really extend beyond the desires of stamp collectors. A closer group to the issue would be the stamp design committee, but again, their interests are more focused on the individual stamp and not necessarily on the numbers.
WHAT IS YOUR FAVOURITE COUNTRY?

In 1974, The Universal Postal Union Celebrated the Centenary of its existance. Five hundred delegates got very fancy sets of booklets. None were sold to the public in this form. I'm breaking up several sets at reasonable prices. Over 100 countries involved.

The USA Centenary booklet has $2.40 face value in stamps. I'll buy any number at $100.00 per book.

The one for Canada is more generous, it has about $25.00 face value. Again, I'll buy any number at $100.00 each.

My price for these, and others, will be higher but, still quite a bargain, as hardly one collector in a 1,000 has even seen these. Name your country, and I'll introduce you to something you will be proud to display!

Canada Post Corporation is governed and managed by the Board of Directors appointed by the government. The Board includes the President and Chief Executive Officer, George C. Clermont, the Chairman, the Hon. Andre Ouellet and nine members appointed by the Governor in Council (effectively the Cabinet). These latter are:

Vivian G. Albo, insurance company executive from Winnipeg, MB;
Gilles Champagne, lawyer, Grand-Mère, QC;
Kay M. LeMessurier, company president, St. John's, Nfld.; Robert Murray McClelland, publisher, North York, ON;
Glen G. McDougall, lawyer, Sydney, NS;
Richard William Nerysoo, consultant, Fort McPherson, NWT; Gerald Prefontaine, Ottawa, ON;
Brian J. Steck, securities executive, North York, ON;
Helene Lorrain Tardif, Ste-Julie, QC.

The Stamp Advisory Committee is also chaired by Mr. Ouellet and has, as Vice Chair, David Bowden, Canada Post's General Manager of Marketing. The nine members are:

Claude Bouchard, an Ottawa artist;
Ian Kimmerly, an Ottawa stamp dealer;
Jean Lepointe, an artist from Austin, QC;
Robert McClelland, Toronto publisher and Board member;
Shirley McKercher, a Saskatoon designer;
Claude Poulin, a Montreal artist;
Gilles Renaud, an administrator from Outremont, QC;
Lorraine Sheppard, a teacher from New Waterford, NS; Karl H. Telschow, an accountant from Lombardy, ON.

That is the line-up of those to whom you should make your complaints. What does this have to do with the future of your hobby? Your views, please.

A Different Cure for Messy Cansels

My predecessor pointed out, in the September-October issue of The Canadian Philatelist that Canada Post was experimenting with a small piece of peelable plastic, ca. 2 by 3 inches, which can be placed over special cancels. The counter clerk would add the 'protective pellicle' after the item was cancelled. The British Post Office has a different solution, very similar, I am told, to the German arrangement, where a thin almost clear plastic envelope is used to protect the item. A RPSC member kindly sent the editor a card from the National Postal Museum in London housed in such a protective device. The plastic is heat sealed, thus stable and secure, but it is easily opened if desired. Whether there is some agreement between countries to treat such items carefully, I don't know but Canada Post certainly was very good to the card - just look at the address shown in the illustration. The large '1' on the other side of the plastic cover apparently refers to first class service.

Letter to the Editor

I enjoy reading The Canadian Philatelist, many interesting articles for collectors.

I have always felt that the former Governor Generals that were not Canadian born should be recognized by a stamp issue. Many of these people made an outstanding contribution to our nation much greater than some that have been honored by a stamp issue.

Prices on the auction market seem to be on the upswing with many choice and seldom-available items making their way for sale. Increased realizations are partly the result of several auction firms producing library-quality full-colour catalogues which have now become important reference works in themselves.

R. Maresch & Son continue to provide excellent, full-colour, reference-quality sale catalogues, along with an exceptional array of rare and exotic philatelic treasures. On October 7-8, 1997, the firm held an interesting sale of Canadian, B.N.A. and other worldwide items.

Certainly the showpiece of the sale was lot 102, Canada's 1851 12d Queen Victoria in mint VF OG condition complete with a huge right sheet margin. Estimated at $75,000+ (with a 1997 Unitrade Canada Specialized Catalogue value of $135,000), the stamp sold for $50,500 (prices include the 15% buyer's premium). Another Canadian classic, an unused 1852 3d Red Beaver on medium wove paper followed in lot 103. This item, having full margins and a full imprint, went to a new home for $5,462.50. A Unitrade value of $2,200 was noted by the auctioneers. A vertical pair of this stamp in Deep Red on a choice embossed 1854 "lady's cover" was offered in lot 132. It also featured a superb "Steam Boat Letter Quebec" cancel. The item sold for $805 against an estimate of $300+ (Unitrade $500). A 2c Green Victoria Canadian Bank Note Co. engraved essay in a top XF imprint block of twelve (lot 479) reached $8,625 with an estimate of $3,500+. An interesting 1899 "Port Hood Provisional" on piece with a 1968 B.P.A. Certificate (lot 770) was estimated at $500+ and sold for $747.50.

Newfoundland airmail collectors would have been pleased to add lots 1072, 1080 and 1085 to their collections. A mint NH OG copy of the April 1919 Hawker Flight Caribou issue overprint (lot 1072) sold for $17,825 (Unitrade $37,500). A mint NH OG Columbia Flight Caribou overprint single (lot 1080), with a Unitrade value of $18,000, sold for $6,027.50. Lot 1085 featured a mint NH OG copy of the 1932 Dornier DO-X Flight Map overprint with the rare inverted surcharge. It reached $9,775 against a Unitrade value of $15,600.

Collectors of Great Britain postal history would have enjoyed lot 1161, a three-margined 1d "Penny Black" tied to an 1840 folded letter from London to Toronto. Full of character, this FL featured various forwarding and postage due handstamps. Estimated at $2,000+, it went to a new owner for $6,612.50. Used single examples of the 1840 1d Black (with various plates) were plentiful with prices ranging from

Rencontre insolite avec Tarzan Partie 1
par Denis Cottin

Qui a dit que la philatélie est un passe-temps sans culture et sans imaginaire? Qui aurait pu penser qu'elle nous mènerait un jour à la rencontre de Tarzan? Bien sûr, ceux et celles qui suivent avec attention la prolifique production de la Société canadienne des Postes ont acquis le fort joli carnet ayant pour sujet les personnages de bandes dessinées. Mais, cette fois, ce n'est pas de timbres commémoratifs dont il s'agit, mais de timbres d'usage courant. Mais de quoi s'agit-il au juste?

En 1994, les Postes sont à la recherche d'un coup d'éclat pour consacrer la valeur de la créativité des artistes canadiens. Depuis plusieurs années, l'idée de créer un imprimeur ou sur le modèle de la Monnaie Royale du Canada ou de l'Imprimerie des Timbres-Poste de France a été abandonnée. En effet, il est loin le temps où le ministre des Postes pensait grossir la machine de l'État. Depuis les années 80 il est, paraît-il, beaucoup plus payant (au moins politiquement) de travailler en partenariat avec l'entreprise privée. Ce qui nous a valu la quasi disparition des magnifiques impressions gravées en taille-douce, si populaire chez nos voisins du sud et dans les administrations postales européennes. Alors, à défaut de belles impressions, la Société canadienne des Postes redouble d'ardeur pour innover et nous propose de multiples nouveautés, plus originales les unes que les autres. Parmi celles-ci, les timbres souhaits autocollants.

La conception graphique

C'est la jeune firme montréalaise Tarzan Communication Graphique qui a réalisé tous les éléments du projet, carnet et couverture: «on a voulu donner une forme spéciale au timbre, tout en respectant les normes et dimensions imposées par la SCP» dit Daniel Fortin, directeur artistique associé de Tarzan.

La conception visuelle devait respecter différents éléments: une trame de 250 lignes; des dimensions comprenent entre 22 x 22 mm et 40 x 40 mm; une bordure blanche de 2 mm pour permettre l'impression d'une encre fluorescente et des caractères cachés.

Les concepteurs de Tarzan, George Fok, Daniel Fortin et Steve Spazuck, ont proposé que les timbres soient imprimés en six couleurs: cyan, magenta, jaune et noir, plus deux couleurs métalliques: bleu et argent. Plusieurs esquisses manuelles ont été soumises (ill. # 1). Puis, le projet a été repris à l'ordinateur à l'aide des logiciels Photoshop (pour la numérisation des photos d'Adrien Duey) et Illustrator pour le montage-imposition. Quelques tâches ont été particulièrement complexes à réaliser. Par exemple, incorporer les mots définissant les thèmes: «naissance; mariage; party; fête des mères; amour; correspondance; anniversaire» tramés dans les valeurs de 20% et 80% sur le fond des banderole. Ce fond est lui même dégradé, dans les valeurs de 90% à 10%, en couleur métallique (Pantone).

(Illustration #1: Esquisses au crayon à mine. Sortie de maquette en noir et blanc sur imprimante laser.

L’ombre visible sous le rond central (ill. #2), sous le chiffre 43 et sous le mot CANADA a été difficile à réaliser, explique Daniel Fortin: «on ne pouvait pas utiliser Illustrator pour créer une transparence visible à l’écran dans un dégradé de noir. Nous avons donc dû réaliser ce détail en continuant le développement graphique dans Photoshop». La date cachée est sous le premier A ou sous le D de CANADA.

Pour les vignettes thématiques centrales, Tarzan a réalisé des esquisses illustrées dont s’est inspiré le photographe montréalais, Adrien Duey: (voir ill. #3)

⇒ Le hochet symbolise la naissance;
⇒ Le mariage illustre la vie en couple;
⇒ Les ballons symbolisent les fêtes et rassemblements;
⇒ Les fleurs illustrent la fête des mères;
> Le coeur symbolise l'amour qui s'exprime particulièrement lors de la Saint Valentin;
> Le stylo-plume représente la correspondance et la joie d'écrire;
> Enfin, le gâteau illustre l'anniversaire.
> L'Étude détaillée de ces vignettes fera l'objet d'un second article.
La préimpression

L'Atelier de préimpression Herzig Somerville, de Toronto, a combiné les deux fichiers, procédé au montage et produit une épreuve de couleur Matchprint.

L'Impression

L'Impression a été réalisée par l'imprimerie australienne Leigh-Mardon, qui avait déjà une expertise en fabrication de timbres-poste autocollants. Les timbres ont été imprimés sur des presses 28x40 pouces, en imposition de quatre feuillots à la fois. Des corrections, concernant le repérage, les couleurs et le recouvrement ont été apportées sur un système Scitex.

Illustration # 4: carnet de timbres-souhaits à personnaliser:

Les carnets imprimés par Leigh-Mardon PTY Ltd en Australie ont une dimension de 17 " de haut par 4 1/16 de large (438 x 103 mm). Les timbres découpés à l'emporte pièce occupent un rectangle de 57 x 30 mm avec inscriptions bilingues sur fond tramé: correspondance, naissance; mariage; party; fête des mères, amour; anniversaire et 35 (5x7) vignettes thématiques de 19 mm (photos par Adrien Duley).

Les carnets imprimés, dans un second temps, par Ashton-Potter au Canada ont une dimension de 11 3/4 de haut par 3 1/16 de large (298 x 78 mm). Les timbres occupent un rectangle de 52 x 27 mm avec inscriptions bilingues sur fond tramé: Manitoba; Québec; Nouvelle-Écosse; Ontario; Alberta; Territoires du Nord-Ouest; Saskatchewan; Yukon, etc, et 15 vignettes thématiques (17 mm) illustrant: 4 l'écriture; 4 l'amour; 4 le mariage; 3 la feuille d'éritable. Comme ce tableau nous l’indique, la succession de production est assez élevée pour satisfaire théoriquement la voracité de tous les collectionneurs, mais ce serait trop simple, car il faut aussi compter les multiples possibilités de vignettes thématiques centrales.

Ainsi, pour le timbre de 0,43 $, outre de l’avoir avec volute à droite ou à gauche, il faut tenir compte des possibilités de 7 thémes. Donc, du tirage initial de 4 400 000, nos chances sont réduites à 2 200 000 de chaque (volute à droite ou à gauche). Et, si toutes les vignettes ont été utilisées dans les mêmes proportions, il faut diviser notre tirage de 2 200 000 par sept, soit environ 314 286 possibilités de chaque thème!

Mais ce chiffre doit être pondéré. En effet, une récente étude d’un philatéliste reconnu, Monsieur Léo Donald Lachaine, l’amenuit à conclure que plus de 35% des timbres-souhaits étaient utilisés sans vignette thématique centrale. Ce qui réduirait notre capacité totale de 2 200 000 à 1 430 000 timbres de chaque type de volute et à 204 286 possibilités de chaque avec vignette thématique, soit le timbre complet. Et que dire de la quantité infime qui sera conservée sur enveloppes entières? (ill. # 6).

Tout compte fait, il s’agit non seulement de deux timbres très originaux que Tarzan aura produit, mais probablement aussi de véritables rariétés philatéliques modernes.

Le philatéliste canadien
janvier - février 1997 / 15
As I write these notes, the temperature has fallen and the Alberta landscape has changed from brown to white. In some quarters, this is known as winter but Royal members know better – this is definitely stamp collecting weather and albums should be dusted off and hinges and tongs made ready for action!

Canada Post – and a pile of other postal administrations – are set to celebrate the “Year of the Tiger”. Your Directors and our National Office, however, plan to make 1998 the “Year of The Royal”. We are all feeling very bullish about our new and timely “Philatelist” – kudos to our new Editor, Dr. J.J. Macdonald, and our other programs and services too. We’re determined to make your Royal membership an even better value and we are launching an aggressive membership recruitment program. As a current member, you can play an important role in our new member program and can have valuable rewards too. To find out how you can be part of our “Grow with The Royal” program, drop our National Office a note and our staff will set you up.

As you may have read in the philatelic press, our Society has signed an agreement with the Canadian Stamp Dealers’ Association (CSDA). The goal is to combine our resources so as to promote stamp shows and stamp collecting in general. This is a first step in the pursuit of new cooperative relationships with other societies.

ties and organizations — all aimed at benefiting our members and our favourite pastime.

Finally, it's not too early to be thinking about our forthcoming annual meeting set for Hamilton, May 29, 30, & 31, 1998. John Miller and his committee have worked hard to guarantee visitors a strong exhibition, dealer attendance from across Canada, seminars and entertainment. Canada Post will participate with a stamp launch and we invite you to be there too! Plan now to attend — I look forward to meeting you in the “Steel City”.

Comme vous l'avez peut-être lu dans la presse philatélique, notre société a signé récemment une entente avec l'Association canadienne des négociants en timbres-poste (ACNTP). Le but consiste à combiner nos ressources afin de promouvoir les expositions et la collection des timbres-poste en général. Il s'agit de la première étape vers de nouvelles relations coopératives avec d'autres sociétés et organisations, au bénéfice de nos membres, bien sûr, et de notre passe-temps favori.

Finalement, il n'est pas trop tôt pour penser à notre convention annuelle prévue pour les 29, 30 et 31 mai 1998, à Hamilton. John Miller et son comité organisateur travaillent avec grande énergie pour assurer aux visiteurs une exposition intéressante avec beaucoup de marchands, de séminaires et de divertissements. Postes Canada y participera en effectuant un lancement de timbre, et nous vous invitons à être des nôtres. Planifiez dès maintenant votre séjour et j'ai hâte de vous rencontrer dans la “ville de l'acier”.

– Since 1962 –
We all get asked from time to time how we got into stamp collecting. I got started in 1940, when my late father came home from his office with some envelopes bearing the Post Office Centennial stamps. My father's older brother was a career Royal Navy Chief Petty Officer stationed at various times in Port of Spain, Trinidad; Kingston, Jamaica; Valetta, Malta and, for three years right at the end of the war, Mauritius. Unfortunately, he was some ninety-six years too late to get me a first day cover of Mauritius 1 and 2, but one can't have everything. Knowing my Uncle William, he and Lady Gomm probably wouldn't have got along too well anyway, so maybe it's just as well that he was there in 1943 rather than 1847.

In any event, I had my stamp collection. Stamps on old envelopes were dutifully soaked off and mounted in my album, using proper hinges, I might add and not flour and water paste! From the stamp counter in the Woolworth's in Darlington I was able to get the latest issues of Tannou Touva - remember those big triangles? - and other popular stamp issuing countries. Aged relatives were importuned to send all their used stamps to "little Michael" for his collection. Having relatives in Canada helped too because they used to send us parcels during the war - I can still remember my first taste of maple candy. That was good, especially to a kid in wartime England with a sweet tooth who had almost forgotten what candy was like. But what were ever better were the stamps that came with the parcels - War Issue high values. I had quite a collection that I am sure is worth a fortune today, unfortunately I don't have it. Like most kids my collection got put away around the time I went off to boarding school, at age twelve, and I think my mother put it into the church bazaar where it probably sold for 2/6d. For that reason, I am really glad that Uncle William hadn't sent me Mauritius 1 and 2!

The one thing that my early collection had done for me was to give me a great sense of the geography of the world. I mean, how many people today can tell you that not only was there ever such a country as Tannou Touva, but also where it was? I can, thanks to those big triangular stamps they used to issue.

There is no doubt that our hobby has undergone a major revolution over the past twenty to thirty years. Remember how we used to point our fingers in scorn at the stamp issuing policies of the "Persian Gulf Sand Dunes"? I found the Editorial in the September-October 1997 issue of The Canadian Philatelist most interesting. Our learned Editor quoted at length from a lecture given by Mr. Paul Vernon, Chief Executive Officer for the Guernsey Post Office. Well, chickens have a way of coming home to roost and geese that lay golden eggs have a tendency to get killed. The proliferation of new issues in Canada and the United States has gone from the sublime to the ridiculous. I found out in the same issue of CP that we now have an $8 stamp. Plate block collectors - do we still have any? - will have to shell out $128 for the four corners. I would suggest that for young collectors even a mint single would put a big dent in their stamp budget.

I might not be too far wrong in suggesting that the only people who really profit from all of the “wallpaper” being churned out are the security printers such as Courvoisier, Enschede, Harrison’s, House of Questa, etc.

When I got back into stamp collecting in 1958, I collected mint and used Canada and GB. I continued with Guernsey, Jersey and the Isle of Man when those countries started issuing their own stamps. But then I got started into collecting GB postmarks, particularly squared circles, then my interest in the modern mint issues waned and I sold them. I have no regrets and when I see what is being cranked out by the postal administrations whose issues I used to collect, it makes me glad that I now collect nothing produced after 1912!

Editor’s Note: And that’s Mr. Millar’s opinion. Many of our members find enjoyment and a collecting challenge with modern issues.

Philatelic Exhibitions - Stamp Shows
by DN Jatia, FIP President
With an introduction by Charles J.G. Verge, FRPSC

The RPSC and the Canadian Stamp Dealers' Association (CSDA) view the letter below from D.N. Jatia, President of the Fédération Internationale de Philatélie (FIP) as a very important step in seeking ideas for improving and enhancing stamp shows at all levels. The RPSC and CSDA are looking for the views of RPSC members and Chapters to see how Canadian stamp shows can better serve the needs of show patrons, dealers and organizers. The RPSC will also share the ideas which it receives with the International show organizing community at the FIP workshop in Israel next May. Please send your input to The RPSC National Office to arrive no later than April 1, 1998. Thank you.

Philatelic Exhibitions - Stamp Shows - on all levels, may it be a World, International, National, Regional or even a Local Exhibition - they seem to have something in common - they do not attract the general public. Those uninitiated to the hobby of stamp collecting seldom take notice of a stamp show even though exhibitions could be the best platform to promote our hobby. However, organisers of philatelic exhibitions tend to be traditionalists and it seems that they abhor new ideas. Looking back at the exhibitions of the last 20 or 30 years (and longer) the appearance and layout of philatelic exhibitions remained unchanged, even the visitors do not seem to change. You can see the same faces year by year at exhibitions all around the world. With some few exceptions the local public is usually not even aware that a major event is taking place in their city because the "major event" is designed to attract one genre of people "philatelists"!

As exceptions to the general outlook of exhibitions we have to mention the shows organised in Asian countries enjoy a very successful influx of visitors. This is mainly due to the very wide and thorough publicity and in many parts the close co-operation between the postal administration and the philatelic association.

How can we change the lack of interest of the general public? How can we make people aware that stamp collecting could be an exciting and rewarding past-time? How to attract young people to visit a stamp show? The answer: "We have to change the appearance of these shows!" We have to get rid of the image that these shows are only for the "Rich" and the "Old".

Let’s take as an example National shows (and this applies to most countries of the world) of industry, agriculture or electronics etc. You will have activities related and unrelated and unrelated to the subject of the show.
The media are present throughout the show with live transmissions, there is entertainment of every sort imaginable. Special activities designed to attract a special public and so on.

To tackle this problem FIP has planned to organise another workshop during Israel '98. The aim of this workshop is to create a "model" exhibition, which can be adapted to local requirements – a guide to the successful organisation of a philatelic event at every level. The guide should give an outline of the appearance (layout) of the show, suggestions and ideas to activities and special events, suggestions of how booths could be arranged and decorated etc. including an estimate of the cost.

There are three partners interested in the organisation of a stamp show – the postal administrations, the dealers and the collectors. These partners should also be greatly concerned about the promotion and development of stamp collecting. Therefore the first step would be to have a better and closer collaboration between those partners and therefore we will invite representatives of all the three partners to the workshop.

At the present the usual layout of the stamp show contains one hall with rows and rows of frames of admittedly fantastic philatelic material but presented in an unattractive way and a second hall with the equally unattractive booths of dealers and postal administrations.

We want and have to change the appearance of our exhibitions and we would like your suggestions, ideas of how a stamp show should present itself in the year 2000.

We assume that the competitive side of the exhibition should remain to a certain extent, but there should be more space for creativity, space to show new ways of collecting and presenting a collection. There should be more collaboration with other organizations i.e. special shows with the involvement of organizations interested in environment, peace, sports, folklore, fashion or ...there is no limitation of possibilities as we all know every subject can be backed up with stamps. Guided tours among the competitive classes to explain the exhibits could be of great interest to many people but it must be advertised, of course.

Dealers and Postal Administrations should endeavour to present their booths in a more attractive way – especially Postal Administrations who could work together with their tourist board and promote their country as a tourist attraction at the same time. Special events for a target public (i.e. for children, teens, women, early-retired people etc.) should be organised and widely advertised. Get local champions and celebrities for special events during the show. In this way you also have the interest of the media.

There are lots of ideas around no doubt – but we would also like to have your input. Therefore, please send us your thoughts on the following questions:

- What do you expect a stamp show should to look like?
- How would you convert a stamp show to an optimum platform for promoting the hobby?
- What could make philatelic exhibitions more attractive to a general public and to stamp collectors?
• How would you present stamp collecting as an exciting hobby?
• How would you get the local public and the press to take notice of a philatelic event?

Please send your ideas and suggestions to the National Office of The Royal Philatelic Society of Canada to be received no later than April 1, 1998:

Expositions Philatéliques Parades de timbres-poste

par DN Jatia, FIP President
Introduit par Charles J.G. Verge, FRPSC

La SRPC et l’Association canadienne des négociants en timbres-poste (l’ACNTP) considèrent la lettre ci-dessous de D.N. Jatia, Président de la Fédération Internationale de Philatélie (FIP) comme une étape importante dans la recherche d’idées pour améliorer et rehausser les expositions de timbres-poste à tous les niveaux. La SRPC et l’ACNTP désirent connaître les opinions des membres de la SRPC et des chapitres pour découvrir comment les expositions de timbres-poste canadiennes peuvent mieux servir les besoins des patrons, négociants, et organisateurs. La SRPC partagera aussi les idées qu’elle reçoit avec la communauté organisationnelle des expositions internationales à l’atelier de FIP en Israël le mai prochain. Veuillez envoyer vos commentaires au bureau national de la SRPC le 1er avril, 1998, au plus tard. Merci.

Expositions philatéliques – parades de timbres-poste – à tous les niveaux, que ce soit une exposition mondiale, internationale, nationale, régionale ou même locale – elles semblent toutes avoir un point commun – elles n’attirent pas le grand public. Les non-initiés à la collection de timbres remarquent à peine qu’une exposition de timbres a lieu, même si ces manifestations pouvaient être la meilleure plate-forme pour promouvoir notre passe-temps. Néanmoins, les organisateurs des expositions philatéliques ont tendance à être traditionalistes et il semble qu’ils aient en horreur les nouvelles idées. En se remémorant les expositions des derniers 20 ou 30 ans (et même plus), l’on constate que l’apparence et la dispositions des expositions philatéliques restent inchangées, même les visiteurs ne semblent pas changer. Vous pouvez voir les mêmes têtes d’année en année aux expositions du monde entier. À de rares exceptions près le public local ne remarque en général même pas qu’un événement majeur a lieu dans sa ville parce que «l’événement majeur» est conçu pour attirer une seule catégorie de personnes – les philatélistes! Seules exceptions à cette règle: les expositions organisées dans les pays...

asiatiques qui enregistrèrent un afflux de visiteurs impressionnant. Ceci était surtout dû à une formidable publicité, parfaitement agencée, et en grande partie à l'étroite coopération entre les administrations postales et l'association philatélique.

Comment pouvons-nous convertir le manque d'intérêt du grand public? Comment pouvons-nous rendre les gens attentifs au fait que collectionner des timbres peut être un passe-temps excitant, pouvant procurer une intense satisfaction? Comment inciter les jeunes gens à visiter une exposition de timbres? La réponse est: «Nous devons changer l'aspect de ces expositions!» Nous devons nous débarrasser de l'idée que ces expositions ne sont faites que pour les «Riches» et les «Vieux»!

Prenons par exemple les expositions nationales (et ceci s'applique à pratiquement tous les pays du monde) industrielles, agricoles ou électroniques, etc. Vous trouverez des activités relatives et étrangères au sujet de l'expositions. Les médias sont présents pendant toute la durée de la manifestation avec des transmissions en direct, il y a des attractions de toutes sortes. Des activités originales destinées à attirer le public et ainsi de suite.

Pour remédier ce problème la F.I.P. a décidé d'organiser un autre atelier de travail à l'occasion d'Israel '98. Le but de cet atelier de travail est de créer une exposition «modèle» pouvant être adaptée aux exigences locales - un guide garantissant le succès des événements spéciaux, des suggestions sur la façon de disposer et de décorer les stands etc. y compris une estimation des frais.

Il y a trois parties intéressées dans l'organisation d'une exposition de timbres - les administrations postales, les négociants et les collectionneurs, et ces partenaires devraient aussi se préoccuper de la promotion et du développement de la philatélie. Une meilleure collaboration entre ces partenaires constituerait donc le premier pas et pour cette raison, nous inviterons des représentants de ces trois parties à l'atelier de travail.

Pour le moment la disposition habituelle d'une exposition de timbres comprend une salle avec des rangées et des rangées de cadres remplis de matériel philatélique fantastique, bien sûr, mais présenté de manière peu attrayante et une deuxième salle avec les stands aussi peu attrayants des négociants et des administrations postales. Nous avons l'intention et la mission de changer l'apparence de nos expositions et nous attendons vos suggestions et vos idées sur la façon dont une exposition de timbres devrait se présenter en l'an 2000.

Nous présumons que le côté compétitif de l'exposition devra subsister dans une certaine mesure, mais il devrait y avoir plus de place pour la créativité, pour présenter de nouvelles façons de collectionner et d'exposer une collection. Il devrait y avoir une collaboration plus étroite avec d'autres organisation, c'est-à-dire des manifestations spéciales impliquant des organisations concernées par l'environnement, la paix, les sports ou le folklore ou la mode ou... les possibilités sont illimitées puisque nous savons tous que chaque sujet peut être illustré par...
Les négociants et les administrations postales devraient s’efforcer de présenter leurs stands de façon plus attrayante – surtout les administrations postales pourraient collaborer avec leurs offices du tourisme et promouvoir leur pays comme attraction touristique en même temps. Il faudrait organiser des manifestations spéciales pour un public typique (p.ex. pour les enfants, les adolescents, les femmes, les personnes en retraite anticipée etc.), autour desquelles beaucoup de publicité devrait être faite. Inviter des champions et des célébrités locaux pour des événements spéciaux pendant l’exposition afin de susciter l’intérêt des médias.
À votre avis, de quoi doit avoir l’air une exposition de timbres-poste?
Comment transformer une exposition de timbres en une plate-forme optimale pour promouvoir le passe-temps?
Comment rendre les expositions philatéliques plus attractantes pour le grand public et pour les collectionneurs de timbres-poste?
Comment présenter la collection de timbres-poste comme un hobby excitant?
Comment amener le public local et la presse à prêter attention à un événement philatélique?
Europe’s Largest Off-shore Gas Field

by Jay J. Edward

It may come as a surprise to many of us that the largest off-shore gasfield in Europe is about 70 miles off the coast of Bergen, Norway. Known as the Troll field, it was discovered in 1979 by Norske Shell. On a clear day, the Troll platform can be seen from the mainland. Today, Norway is one of the leading gas-producing countries in the world.

Everything about Troll gas is incredibly large. The Troll platform, shown in Figure 1, was towed from its berth at Vats in Rogaland, Norway to its North Sea field in May 1995. This platform was the largest object in the world ever to have been moved by humankind. The concrete gravity base structure and slab weigh more than one million tons. The height of the platform from top to bottom is 472 metres. By comparison, the Eiffel Tower is only 300 metres high.

Gas is carried from the Troll field by pipeline to Killnes, near Bergen, where it is processed and then piped down to the continent. Norway’s state-owned oil company, Statoil, took over management of the Troll field on October 1, 1996, the day that the first delivery of gas was made to the European continent.

Troll is expected to be the main supplier of gas to much of Europe for the next 100 years. Revenues will likely form the backbone of the Norwegian economy for future generations. The Troll field was officially opened June, 1996, by Norway’s King Harald. It will produce 24 billion cubic metres of gas per annum.

Norsk Hydro, a global player in diverse industries including the Troll field, has invested in the Hibernia and Terra Nova fields off Newfoundland.
and is Petro-Canada's main partner. The state-controlled Norwegian company is probably better known as Europe's largest aluminum producer and the world's largest producer of mineral (nitrogen) fertilizer. Norsk Hydro, in 1996, had an operating budget of $3.3 billion US. Oil and gas accounts for 30% of its operating income.

Sable Island, Nova Scotia, has cleared regulatory and environmental hurdles and the infrastructure should be completed within a year and a half. The product will provide gas to Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and the northeastern United States. Canada has yet to announce stamps commemorating these achievements.

Recently, in Canada, off-shore production of both oil and gas have been in the news. Oil has already come "ashore" from the Hibernia Field off Newfoundland. The story here is one of great success with the major platform delivered and in place ahead of schedule and remarkably under budget with the oil flow greater than anticipated. On January 8, 1998, Canada Post Corporation issued twenty million commemorative stamps in celebration of the Year of the Tiger, which officially began at sunset on January 28, 1998. The stamp was unveiled in Scarborough at a ceremony attended by approximately 300 members of Toronto's Chinese community. A similar event occurred earlier in the day in Vancouver, at Vancouver's Chinese Cultural Centre.

"This is a very exciting day for Canada Post and the Chinese Community," said Peter McInenly, Vice-President, Central Area, Canada Post Corporation. "Lunar New Year is a very important celebration for more than one million Chinese Canadians, and we're delighted to be part of it by issuing this commemorative stamp."

Also on hand at the ceremony were representatives of the Chinese Cultural Centre of Greater Toronto, which is in the midst of opening the largest Chinese Cultural Centre in North America after a decade of preparation and planning.

"We have been awaiting this year, when our new cultural centre will be completed, with great anticipation," said Dr. Ming-Tat Cheung, Chairman and President of the Chinese Cultural Centre of Greater Toronto. "The unveiling of Canada Post's Lunar New Year stamp is a wonderful start to an exciting and important year."

En le 8 janvier, 1998, La Société canadienne des postes a émis 20 millions de timbres afin de souligner l'Année du Tigre, qui ont débuté officiellement le 28 janvier prochain, au lever du soleil, dans le cycle du Nouvel An chinois. Ce timbre a été dévoilé lors d'une cérémonie qui s'est déroulée en présence de quelque 300 membres de la communauté chinoise de Toronto. Un événement similaire a aussi eu lieu plus tôt aujourd'hui au Centre culturel chinois de Vancouver.

« C'est une journée très excitante pour la Société canadienne des postes et la communauté chinoise, a souligné Peter McInenly, vice-président, région centrale, de la Société canadienne des postes. Le Nouvel An lunaire est une célébration très importante pour plus d'un million de Chinois du Canada. Nous sommes donc heureux de nous joindre aux festivités par l'émission de ce timbre commémoratif. »

Plusieurs représentants de Centre culturel chinois du Grand Toronto ont également assisté à cette cérémonie. Après dix ans de préparation, ces derniers se préparent en vue de l'ouverture du plus important centre culturel chinois en Amérique du Nord.

« Nous attendons cette année avec beaucoup d'impatience parce que notre nouveau centre culturel sera complété, a déclaré le Dr. Ming-Tat Cheung, président du conseil du Centre culturel chinois du Grand Toronto. Le dévoilement du timbre du Nouvel An lunaire de la Société canadienne

Allan Steinhart, Postal Historian.
Edited by David Handelman & Gray Scrimgeour.
Publisher: Postal History Society of Canada, 1997, vi-211pp. Available by writing to Dr. Handelman at 287 Second Ave., Ottawa, ON, K1S 2H8 or by e-mail at <dehsg@uottawa.ca>.

Hardbound copies are $44.69CAN, $39.69US or $44.69US (other than Canada and the US) postpaid and spiral bound $29.69CAN, $25.69US and $28.69US (other than Canada and the US) postpaid.

It is not often that recently passed on individuals are honoured by their peers with a literary memorial. Allan Steinhart (1940-1996), the eminent Canadian postal historian, is one of these well-deserved exceptions. His friends and colleagues have banded together under the joint editorship of Dr. Gray Scrimgeour of Victoria and Dr. David Handelman of Ottawa to produce a book of postal history articles and anecdotes by and about Allan. The 200+ page book contains 20 of his articles showing a wide range of BNA postal interests. There are also photographs of Allan, written tributes and some 15 postal history articles written by his clients on the theme of “My favourite cover from Allan.” Then there is a section on talks that Allan gave over the years. The book concludes with a Miscellaneous section which covers such diverse topics as...

The St. Lawrence Hall Postal History Society and Just Covers, Allan’s venture into mail sales. The section also includes Allan’s philatelic biography, a bibliography of his works and an index of the book.

Allan’s constant discoveries of new material were frequently followed by well researched articles of differing lengths to make sure that postal historians were made aware of these new discoveries and the postal history aspects underlying them. The editors have made a judicious choice from published material as well as unpublished manuscripts to show the depth of interest and knowledge of Canada’s foremost postal historian. Nothing was beyond Allan’s capacities from the most arcane French Regime rating and routing to the recent Klüssendorf and spray-on cancellations. The short articles on reminiscences of Allan by family, friends and colleagues are interesting and entertaining as they gather in one place many of the anecdotes which coloured Allan’s life and for which he was famous. They also reveal, particularly in the article written by Allan’s sister, Paula Silver, aspects of Allan, which many of his clients, friends and acquaintances were unaware of. Many of us have our own reminiscences of Allan that could join the excellent ones found here.

The philatelic biography and the bibliography are extensive and will serve as an excellent reference for postal historians and researchers for Continued from page 34 years to come. Unfortunately the bibliography is given in a chronological listing, a typically academic approach, that makes finding the writings on any given subject in this 17-page bibliography more difficult. The book as a few typos and some redundancy of information which does not detract from its information. Additional information and errors of fact in the pub-ished articles and reminiscences are usually picked up by the editors by frequent interjections throughout the text.
Two errors need to be mentioned for the record. One made by Dr. Handelman in his Introduction where he identifies Cimon Morin as “of the Canadian Postal Museum” rather than as “of the Canadian Postal Archives”.
The other error of fact is one that Allan perpetuated himself and cannot be blamed on the editors. Allan went on for years telling all around him, particularly when World Philatelic Exhibitions were discussed, that he was the only living Canadian to have won a Large Gold medal internationally. Ian Bett won a Large Gold at CAPEX ’96 and, when he passed away six weeks later, Allan became as he said the only living Canadian with a Large Gold medal. What Allan knowingly ignored—because I told him on many occasions; and what the editors probably where not aware of, was that Ri-charde K Malott received four Large Gold medals for his Canadian Pioneer
Airmails exhibit during the 1980’s.
Technically the book is excellently produced with a few illustrations a tad dark. The lack of cataloguing publication data including printer’s identification and ISBN number will make retrieval of this book difficult for future researchers.

The book as a ‘biography’ of a great postal historian is a must buy.
As a font of information of different aspects of postal history it is a must buy.
If you wish to help, through awards, recognize and support research in BNA postal history, Allan Steinhart, Postal Historian is a must buy. The proceeds from the sale of this book go to the Postal History Society of Canada’s Allan Steinhart Memorial Fund.

The Canadian Philatelist
Collectors, using computers, have designed a number of new Precancel album pages. One such design includes not only the regular listed stamps from the Precancel Catalogue but also the specialized listings of the Precancel Handbook. These are the Dies, the shades and the printing types. For example, the 10c Admiral No. 118 comes in two shades, the bistre brown and the yellow brown. The 1c yellow (Scott 105) comes in wet and dry printings. The are all listed on the newly designed album pages.

At a meeting of the Cobourg Stamp Club, we were told that the City would celebrate its 200 years next year. The stamp club, a very active one, will participate with an exhibition. Collectors from Cobourg in England and Cobourg in Germany will arrive to help celebrate this event.

The 2c Admiral, red, exists in a shade that is listed as pink in some catalogues. Many have difficulties identifying this shade. It is listed used at around $10 and mint at $100, both for fine condition. It comes from the original first few plates only. Most of the stamps from plates 1 to 5 can be identified as follows. The vertical right numeral box outer line is fine and unbroken. The left vertical box line is slightly thicker. The top right vertical spandrel line stops at the second line and does not reach the top. A second type, in this shade, shows a small break in the right box line and the upper right frame line shows a fine white line 4mm below the top.

The early plates of the 2¢ Carmine Admiral stamps, some showing the so-called pink shade, originate from the original Die, plates 1 to 26. Many of the types from these early plates can be identified in accordance with the descriptions given by G.C. Marler. The key features are the breaks in the right numeral box line. The illustrations show the major features of these breaks.

The left numeral box line is usually slightly heavier than the one on the right box but with one single exception, no major breaks can be noted on any of these early plates. Yet, Marler refers to the concerns engravers had about the left box line. A good number of these left box lines were retouched but none were re-touched on the right box line, the one that obviously had many problems. The question must be raised, why was the left box and not the right box retouched? Has it anything to do with the continuous reuse of plates? In some cases the plates were reused three times, as indicated by the change in the manufacturing order numbers.

The harbour of Kingston, Jamaica, is one of the finest in the world. It is partially enclosed on the south side by the Palisadoes, a narrow strip of land, about 13 kilometres in length, and at the western extremity of which is situated Port Royal...the topic of this short story.

Over 2,000 sinful souls perished; but there is an amazing account of one Lewis Galdy being swallowed up in the first shock, and then being thrown into the sea by the second.

Today, Port Royal is not even a faint shadow of its former self; yet it is steeped in history. In its palmy days it was known as the City of Gold – the Babylon of the West – the rendezvous of the swash-buckling riff-raff of the seaports of England and Europe. It had the reputation as being the “Wickedest City on Earth”...and the wealthiest...thanks to its pirate inhabitants.

But the day of reckoning was to come. On June 7, 1692, just before noon a thunderous noise was heard and Port Royal’s palmy days were ended abruptly by three successive earthquakes which partially destroyed the town.

He was rescued and lived on until 1739; the inscription on his tombstone in St. Peter’s Church in Port Royal attests to this fact. Parts of the sunken town can still be seen when the harbour waters are dead calm. And in recent times divers have explored the area and recovered many artifacts.
The town slowly rebuilt itself and continued to be the main commercial centre of Jamaica...and the favourite haunt of the buccaneers. The most infamous of these was Henry Morgan. Eventually he gave up his nefarious vocation and joined forces with the Crown to suppress privacy. He was eventually knighted and made Lt. Governor of Jamaica! The communion plate in St. Peter's Church is said to have been donated by Morgan, after he had stolen it from the Cathedral in Panama when he sacked that City in 1671.

In January of 1704, Port Royal was swept by a fire that destroyed every structure, which the earthquake had spared, except for Fort Charles. But it was rebuilt yet again and became an important base for the British Royal Navy: until the first quarter of this century it was still her chief West Indian naval station.

In this fortress there is a paved platform on which Horatio Nelson, not yet twenty-one years of age but already entrusted with command of the fort in 1779, paced back and forth watching for the French fleet which was expected to attack Jamaica. It is known today as “Nelson's Quarter Deck”, and a marble plaque on the site states:

IN THIS PLACE DWELT HORATIO NELSON

You who tread his footprints
Remember his glory

In the year 1782, Admiral Rodney won a great naval victory over the French at the Battle of the Saints, off St. Vincent. He brought nine prize ships into Kingston and the dockyard of Port Royal was kept busy patching up vessels from both fleets.

The French Admiral De Grasse's flagship, Ville de Paris, was the first first-rate man-o-war ever to be taken and carried into port.

One of her cannons forms part of the Rodney Memorial in Spanish Town.

On her way to England as a prize of war, she floundered in a hurricane off the Banks of Newfoundland.

Admiral Rodney's victory was quite decisive. At the time, England was at war with France and America, as well as with Spain and Holland. Had Rodney lost the day it might well be asked: What would have become of all the British possessions in the Western Hemisphere, including Canada?

Port Royal: your days of glory are gone...but not the pageantry of your history! It lives on through philately, as we have seen!

Richard Weber of Canada and Mikhail Malakhov of Russia left Ward Hunt Island, Canada on February 13, 1995 bound for the North Pole. Not only would they ski to the North Pole but they would ski all the way back as well. What is even more remarkable about this expedition was the fact that it was completely unsupported. The two explorers received no outside assistance. Each of them carried 230 kilograms (506 lbs.) of supplies and equipment in back packs and on sleds. On June 15, 1995, after 123 days on the Arctic ice, they returned to Ward Hunt Island and set a world polar record. This was the first time anyone ever succeeded in reaching the North Pole and returned without assistance.

Canada’s farthest north post office (Figures 1 and 2) was established on Ward Hunt Island (83° - 5°N, 74° - 10°W) on February 13, 1995, in order to cancel 500 special historic envelopes (Figure 3). Richard Weber was the Official Postmaster. R.T. Kenny of Buckingham, Quebec was Acting Postmaster. Due to space and resource limitations, no other mail could be accommodated. Each serially numbered cover is cancelled February 13, 1995, the date of the expedition’s departure and again on June 15, 1995, the day they returned to home base. All covers were personally autographed by the two explorers. The RPSC Philatelic Research Foundation sponsored the covers in order to raise funds for the expedition and the Foundation.

Both Richard Weber of Chelsea, Quebec and Mikhail Malakhov of Ryazan, Russia are experienced, seasoned arctic explorers. They have made many trips to the Arctic. In 1986, Richard Weber was a member of the Steger International Polar Expedition that went to the North Pole. Both were members of the 1988 Polar Bridge Expedition, a Russian – Canadian Transpolar ski expedition. The expedition left the northernmost tip of Russia, the Severnaya Islands, crossed the North Pole and touched land again at Cape Columbia on Canada’s Ellesmere Island. In 1989, there was the record setting North Pole balloon flight in the Rainbow Endeavour for the “Save the Ozone” campaign. Finally, in 1992, Richard Weber and Mikhail (Misha) Malankhov made their first unsupported ski expedition to the North Pole and back. This expedition failed after 108 days when the explorers were only 25 miles from their home base. They had to be air lifted to safety due to ice break-up. The experience gained by the two explorers helped immeasurably in the training, planning and co-ordination of the successful 1995 expedition.

The 1995 Expedition

The 1995 expedition was much more than a high-risk, history-making effort. Temperatures were -72°F (-58°C) when the expedition set out for the Pole on February 13th (Figure 4). By the time they returned on June 15th, it had warmed up to 37°F (3°C). The four month trek to the North Pole took the explorers over jagged mounds of ice, across wind swept flat areas, around huge pressure ridges or arctic ice, over heaving ice surfaces and through relentless howling blizzards that lasted for days. Tom Metuzals, an expedition spokesman, was in daily contact with the expedition. He said “they were the first explorers to make it to the North Pole unsupported. The two had gone through an incredible experience but were in good condition and of great spirit. No one has ever done this without outside help, without dogs, supply drops or snow mobiles. This was one of the last great things for someone to accomplish and they have succeeded.”

Arrival at the Pole

Ward Hunt Island is 740 kilometers from the North Pole. Detours caused by open water, ice obstacles and many other factors forced the two explorers to ski many more kilometers, about 2000, in order to reach their goal. They arrived at the North Pole on May 13, 1995. As Richard and Misha neared the pole, they set up camp at 89° - 42°.

Leaving their supplies at this camp, they skied about 15 miles to the pole at 90°. As they approached the pole, they turned on their Argos beacon and sent a one way signal to a receiver which relayed it to the expedition's base quarters in Chelsea, Quebec, Canada. On arrival at the pole, they sent confirmation via their Tubsat communication set. Thirty one hours after starting their dash to the pole they arrived back at their temporary base camp. Here they rested and then began the trip back to Ward Hunt Island. The return journey was much more rapid as they discarded their heavy sleds and other expendable equipment. The drift in the Arctic ice was in their favour plus there was a psychological pull to get back to land as quickly as possible.

Strategy and the Dash Home

Weber and Malakhov's tactics contributed greatly to the success of their expedition. With the help of flares dropped from their airplane, they were able to land in darkness on Ward Hunt Island a month earlier than traditionally possible. This meant that they were able to start their trek in darkness, as it would be about a month before the sun would come over the horizon. This gave them valuable time on the return trip to avoid the ice break-up. Even so, the final week of their expedition became a race against time. Early June warming temperatures started to melt the snow and break up the ice. There was not enough time to ski, eat and sleep. Time was running out. The explorers gave up sleep. They slept only a total of 18 hours over the last eight days of the expedition. They arrived at Ward Hunt Island at 8:30 a.m. on June 15, 1995 and had to wait 4 hours for the plane that was to pick them up.

The two explorers had radioed as they approached Ward Hunt Island that they would like a warm bath, some Chinese food and doughnuts. Thirty members of the organizing team accompanied by the two explorers' wives flew to Ward Hunt Island and welcomed them back with champagne, strawberries, watermelon, chocolates, etc.

Other 1995 Polar Expeditions

Every year various expeditions from all over the world challenge the Arctic. The 1995 season was no exception.

• Italians Reinhold and Hubert Messner attempted to travel unaided from Russia to Canada via the North Pole. Dangerous ice break-ups forced cancellation only two days after they started.

• A Japanese explorer on a solo attempt to reach the North Pole from Russia had to be flown out with very severe frostbite.
• A Korean expedition and a Russian women's expedition started for the pole from the Russian side of the Arctic. No information on their success has ever been received.
• From the Canadian side of the pole a Scotsman from the British Army tried and failed.
• Two Polish explorers attempted solo one way trips to the Pole. They made it only with support and were airlifted part of the way.

Did Peary Really Reach the North Pole?

In 1909, Commander Robert Peary of the U.S. Navy supported by 23 men and 133 dogs claimed to be the first person to reach the North Pole. His claim has been discussed and disputed in scientific circles for many years. The lack of navigational data and the enormous mileage claims he made have been seriously questioned. No one has repeated Peary's alleged trip to the Pole, adding more skepticism to the claim. No one knows the endurance required nor the hazards and travelling conditions enroute to the Pole better than Weber and Malakhov. They both are of the opinion that Peary never reached the Pole.

"Project Follow Us"

Another great achievement of the 1995 North Pole expedition was a "computer educational hands on project," known as "Project Follow Me". It allowed over 10,000 school children around the world to follow the two explorers through "School Net", a computer network. Confederation High School in Ottawa, Canada acted as headquarters to receive, transmit and relay the messages via satellite to and from students worldwide. Friendships between students in six countries including Canada, Brazil, United States, Russia, Austria and Britain have resulted. Nearly 300 schools participated. "Tubsat", known for its reliability, was used for transmitting messages. Engineers and electronic experts in Ottawa, Canada; Cape Cod, USA; Memorial University, St. John's, Newfoundland; in California and Berlin, Germany cooperated in the Tubsat operations. The schools in Canada, Russia and other countries used Internet e-mail to keep in touch with the expedition through Confederation High School in Ottawa.

Place Bonaventure
Un gros bravo à La SCP
par Grégoire Teyssier

L'on a souvent bien raison de faire des critiques à l'égard de notre société canadienne des postes, mais j'avoue que cette fois, je me dois de lui adresser des louanges. En septembre 1996 j'adressais cette lettre (figure 1) à destination du Burundi.

Le service postal ayant été interrompu vers ce pays, la lettre m'a été retournée, comme c'est la pratique lors d'embargo, mais à la différence que cette fois, la SCP a été d'une attention exemplaire. En effet, les Postes ont retourné ma lettre dans une enveloppe de retour (figure 2) expédiée du bureau des envois non-distribuables (Scarborough), accompagnée d'une lettre d'excuses et d'explication (figure 3), et surtout, surtout, de 93 cents en timbres-poste, correspondant à l'affranchissement de la lettre retournée, taxes comprises! Peut-on demander plus? Oui, pour un marcophile comme moi, que la lettre ait été revêtue d'un spécifique puisque je les collectionne! Je crois qu'je vais me plaindre!

The history of the world is replete with conflict and warfare. In the over 150 years since the first postage stamp, there have been numerous wars and revolutions, some of which are still ongoing. This is a small attempt to show some extremely interesting and war related covers. Many covers are so specialized they will never form a part of an exhibition and therefore will only be displayed to a select few.

The Second World War started in 1939 and ended in 1945. Both sides sent millions of letters and the largest number have been lost, however many still remain.

These two covers illustrate the additional postal mark “S.O.S. TO CANADA” added to a cover when the recipient was no longer with his/her assigned unit. S.O.S. was an abbreviation for ‘Struck Off Strength’ and in these two instances the soldier apparently had been sent back to Canada.

The upper left has three red straight-line strikes of S.O.S. TO CANADA.
Figure 2: This is the back of the above cover and indicates it was received back in Springfield, MB about four months later, on October 21, 1942. There are two purple strikes of the RECORDS SERVICE CAN. POSTAL CORPS, one 28 July 1942 and one 3 August 1942. There is also one red strike of October 17, 1942 of BASE ARMY POST OFFICE, DIRECTORY SERVICE.

Figure 3: This cover also has the S.O.S. TO CANADA handstamp marking and is even more interesting. It was mailed in Belgium, from Zwevegem, on June 18, 1945 after Germany had surrendered on May 8th and was also addressed to a member of the Canadian army overseas.

The front has two blue straight lines S.O.S. TO CANADA, one blue ADDRESSEE RETURNED TO CANADA, REGISTRATION STICKER, S.M. in manuscript, a censor control label and at least five or six other markings.

Philatelic Importance

by Derek Pocock

Editor's Note: The questionnaire by Dr. Pocock in the article which follows has been brought to my attention by our own Society's Director of International Affairs, Harry Sutherland, FRPSC. It covers a topic very seldom written about or discussed in philatelic literature. Please give it your serious consideration particularly if you seek to participate in National or International Exhibitions. “Importance” is a very difficult concept and one commonly misunderstood by those exhibiting.

If importance means what it says, even if this aspect of judging is enhanced or reduced by the treatment that the exhibitor gives it, nevertheless logically there must be some perceived pecking order to the subjects shown.

Many of us of course will accept that firstly our own subjects are important and have no difficulty in self-justification in this opinion. They are important to us.

Judging importance requires comparison with other similar exhibits both on show and known to exist as well as relative to those around them in the frames. Yet apart from national prejudice, such as that Victorian TPO’s are more important in Melbourne than in Cincinnati, there should be some agreed concept of a priority of A versus B in this section of judging an exhibit. If not, then after all, is there any difference between a study of the penny black of Great Britain, equated with the halfpenny kangaroo? Here, if treatment, rarity, presentation, condition and philatelic knowledge were all equal, which would win?

To see if there was any consistency amongst serious philatelists, not all of whom are judges, the following questionnaire was handed out to a dozen or so exhibitors at a Perth meeting. You may not like the choices offered, but as an exercise, I would suggest you try to do it, if only to prove either that importance is rubbish or perhaps that there is something in it but it is rather over-rated.

The questionnaire is based on the principle that there should be a table of respective levels to which any exhibit can be positioned with consequent realisation of the marks that it will be awarded when shown, given of course that the title of the exhibit agrees with the content.

If this is the overall concept of philatelic importance, then we should be able to rank and score any subject exhibited. Yet one wonders whether there is any consistency in such rankings of subjects even allowing for a higher score when at its own national show.

In this questionnaire, the first column should be marked from first to tenth, with those considered equal give the same number. Column 2 should be marked with a score between one and ten inclusive. It is doubtful if any of the fifty subjects merit less than three marks here and few probably merit ten.

The more results we get, the better is our evidence to justify or devalue this aspect of philatelic judging. We will publish the results at a later date if there are a sufficient number of replies.
Starting with the Traditional class, here are ten exhibits all of equal quality, it is suggested that readers rate each in importance and then score them out of ten points for their position in the ranking order...

Figure 4: This is the reverse of the cover showing at least 13 postal markings, including 7 field post offices, among them 131, 635, 827. Because it was a registered letter, other notations indicate efforts to trace the sargeant back to Canada but there is nothing to confirm that they were successful.
On Philatelic Literature
Opening the Door
Part One
by Michael O. Nowlan

Editor's note: This is the first in a series of personal essays on the literature of stamp collecting.

In January 1992, The Atlantic Advocate, a magazine for which I had written a regular column on books for almost 15 years, folded. Little did I realize that as one door closed, another would open, and an exciting one too.

In November 1991, Canadian Stamp News advertised for writers. Having written for many publications on a wide variety of topics, I was eager to try my hand at philatelic writing. When I replied to the advertisement, I suggested I might write on books about stamps, similar to what I did for Atlantic books in The Atlantic Advocate.

A few days after I heard about the demise of The Atlantic Advocate, I got a letter from the editor of Canadian Stamp News asking me to try a piece on philatelic literature, and another column was born. More importantly, I was now going to write about the literature of my favourite hobby.

Although I had a respectable philatelic library, I had no new titles that could serve as 'review' copies for a quickly put together column. Nonetheless, I managed to meet the first deadline, and I haven't missed one since.

I quickly set up correspondence with a number of philatelic publishers informing them of my new assignment and asking for review copies. Before I knew it, my 'review' shelf had enough material for two or three issues. Today, I have several months of supply on shelf. I even find difficulty in getting titles reviewed when they are still current. Being on the mailing list for several publishers and journals cuts down on writing requests for new materials as they come out.

It has been wonderful! Moreover, it has opened so many opportunities that philatelic literature sometimes gets more preference than my several collections of stamps.

The spinoffs to my column are many. I am now published in at least five other philatelic publications, including one in Great Britain, and I do a bimonthly column on stamps for our local newspaper. My contacts in the philatelic literature community are broad ranging. I even pursued and obtained certification as a national philatelic literature judge. That experience has been a special highlight.

Since the rewards of my open door have been numerous, I want to share these experiences in the next few issues of The Canadian Philatelist.

I am often asked, "Where do I get this title? How do you know where to get such information?" or "That book is just what I need. I am glad you wrote about it." There have been instances where collectors are often amazed that a particular text or handbook is available to help build a collection with authenticity and accuracy.

I hope these columns will benefit, not only the beginners, but also the veterans whose philatelic library may be weak.

As philatelic bibliophiles know, there are collectors for whom the only item of philatelic literature is the latest stamp catalogue. The stamp catalogue is crucial, but it is not the only instrument.

Let me support this with John Holman’s observation found in his fine text, The Stanley Gibbons Guide to Stamp Collecting (1989). He says “it is one of the most curious characteristics of stamp collectors generally that they do not, to any great extent, avail themselves of existing literature.”

There are other sources I could use that run a similar theme, for example, Ralph Kimble was much more forceful in his How to Collect Stamps (1933). Kimble was emphatic with “I do not consider any person proficient in collecting until he has at least a working acquaintance with that greatest of all sources of information, the philatelic press.”

Kimble considered every item written about stamps part of the philatelic press, and, although he did not expect all collectors to have every item, he maintained there was “a gold mine of information” collectors were missing.

Let me go back a generation to June 1, 1917, when Percy C. Bishop put quite a different slant on the subject: “The simple fact is that the ‘literature’ side of our hobby has taken a stronger hold than many of us would have believed possible.”

The viewpoints vary. Times change. Today, philatelic literature appears to be enjoying better fare than it did five years ago. It may not have the truly high profile many would like or that it serves, but it is advancing.

Perhaps I can use a couple of examples to illustrate philatelic literature growth in Canada.

Thanks to The RPSC’s Vice-President, Charles Verge, Canada now has a firmly established biennial philatelic literature exhibition. The fourth show was held in Ottawa, in May 1997, and plans are well advanced for the fifth in 1999.

Annually, since its inception, the Canada National Philatelic Exhibitions have generated a large number of entries in all classes of literature.

Philatelic literature exhibitions raise awareness. They may not generate great sales for books or periodicals, but creating knowledge of what is available is a big step.

The latest evidence came from John Jamieson of Saskatoon Stamp Centre (Box 1870, Saskatoon, SK, S7K 3S2) just before Christmas when I received an impressive Canadian & BNA Philatelic Literature catalogue. Saskatoon has run occasional literature lists, but, to my knowledge, this was John Jamieson’s first genuine catalogue. In contemporary times, I am certain it is the first ever catalogue completely devoted to the literature of the hobby in this country.

Although Canada has a small market for philatelic literature, there is much available. George S. Wegg Ltd. (53 Adelaide Street East, Toronto, M5C 1K6) has an extensive holding of literature, not only in Canada & BNA, but for many parts of the world. Whenever I am in that big city, I plan a visit to Wegg's.

Canada's major publisher and distributor of philatelic literature, Unitrade Associates (99 Floral Parkway, Toronto, ON M6L 2C4), has produced some important and informative handbooks besides their annual Unitrade Specialized Catalogue of Canadian Stamps. Two recent books:
The Unitrade Stamp Collector's Handbook and The Unitrade Postage Stamp Identifier, should have a place on every collector's bookshelf. The Unitrade catalogue of accessories and literature has several pages listing handbooks and catalogues on stamps.

Lighthouse Publications (255 Duke, Montréal, QC H3C 2M2) is the exclusive distributor for Stanley Gibbons in Canada. They also carry Michel and other reference books.

All of the above accept mail orders and they welcome want lists, so opportunities are there without leaving your stamp room.

The sources are there, but col-collectors need more knowledge and perhaps a gently nudging. A rich philatelic bookshelf puts the collector in the lead, whether a specialist or generalist.

Future columns will examine the hobby's literature in and outside of Canada, literature shows, auctions, and publishing houses. I do not pretend to have exclusive information, so I will happily accept comment, suggestion, and criticism. Please write your ideas to me in care of The Canadian Philatelist.

68 / January - February 1998
The Canadian Philatelist
First Anniversary

Though it may seem hard to believe, the National Office has now been in place for a full-year. And what a year it has been. During this time, we have received many calls, faxes and e-mails from members of the society. We hope that we have been able to serve all of you with diligence. During this period, we have also received over 300 letters and have been able to respond to these usually within 10 business days.

The membership renewal process is continuing. During this year, we have been able to establish a standard procedure for renewals. At the beginning of each month, we issue the first notices for members whose renewal is due at the end of the month. At the beginning of the following month, we issue Second Notices to those who have not submitted their Annual Dues. Finally, the third month, we will issue a Final Notice to remind members who have not paid to do so as soon as possible. Members who have not paid 30 days after the Final Notice are automatically dropped from the Rolls of active members.

By establishing this uniform process, we can better track those members who have or have not paid. We can also be assured that those who ultimately end up being dropped from the Membership Rolls have been given ample reminder to pay their annual dues.

Postal Interruption

For many, the interruption in postal service has been difficult. This too goes

Premier Anniversaire

Difficile à croire, peut-être, mais le bureau national est en place depuis déjà un an. Et quelle année! Durant ce temps, nous avons reçu plusieurs appels, faxes et postes-électroniques des membres de la société. Nous espérons que nous avons pu tous vous servir avec diligence. Nous avons reçu plus que 300 lettres, envoyant habituellement une réponse en dedans de 10 jours d'affaire.

Le processus de renouvellement d'adhésion continue. Au long de cette année, nous avons établi une procédure fixe pour les renouvellements. Au début de chaque mois, nous envoyons les premiers avis pour les membres dont le renouvellement est due à la fin du mois. Au début du mois suivant, nous envoyons les deuxième avis à ceux qui n'ont pas soumis leurs cotisations annuelles. Finalement, le troisième mois, nous envoyons l'avis finale pour rappeler aux membres qui n'ont pas payés le faire au plus tôt que possible. Les membres qui n'ont pas payés trente jours après leurs avis finales seront exclus de la liste des membres actifs.

Cette procédure uniforme nous permet de mieux tracer les membres qui n'ont pas payés. Elle nous assure aussi que les membres éventuellement exclus de la liste d'adhésion ont eu suffisamment de rappels de payer leurs cotisations annuelles.

Interruption postale

Pour plusieurs, l'interruption dans le service postal a été difficile. Cela est vrai pour for The RPSC. While it was only a couple of weeks during which we officially went without postal service, there was considerable time before and after the interruption where service was not up to its usual standards. This has meant that our communication with the membership, via correspondence, renewals and The Canadian Philatelist, has been greatly affected. For those of you who have paid your annual dues but get a subsequent reminder, please be patient. Incidences where payment has been made but not received will be greater due to the volume of mail to be moved by the post office.

The Canadian Philatelist

We here in the National Office look forward to working with J.J. Macdonald and helping refine the magazine to meet the needs of the Membership. We are also working hard to develop a new and innovative means of production for the magazine to ensure that it delivered in a timely and cost-effective manner.

Our Objectives

If the objectives of the National Office during our first year were to increase the level of communication with the membership, our second year will most likely focus on increasing the number of services for members, as well as increasing the number of members. It is imperative that all of us get the word out to our fellow collectors that The RPSC is a valuable organization to which they should belong. It is also helpful if you, the membership, communicate with the Board of Directors and the National Office and tell us the kinds of services that you are looking for from this society. No idea is too small to warrant consideration...this is, after all, your society.

la SRPC. Malgré le fait que c'était seulement deux semaines durant lesquelles nous avions officiellement aucun service postal, il y avait une période considérable avant et après cette interruption où le service n'était pas à son niveau habituel. En conséquence, notre communication avec les membres (correspondance, renouvellements et le philatéliste canadien) a été grandement affectée. Pour ceux qui ont payés leurs cotisations annuelles mais recevons tout de même un avis, veuillez patienter. Les fréquences où le paiement a été fait mais pas reçu seront plus nombreuses à cause du volume de poste à être distribué par le bureau de poste.

Le philatéliste canadien

Nous ici au bureau national anticipons travailler avec J.J. Macdonald et l'assister à raffiner la revue pour rencontrer les besoins des membres. Nous travaillons très fort à développer de nouvelles façons innovatrices à produire la revue pour s'assurer qu'elle est distribuée d'une manière prompte et économique.

Nos objectifs

Si les objectifs du bureau national durant notre première année étaient d'augmenter le niveau de communication avec les membres, notre deuxième année est plus apte à concentrer sur le montant croissant de services pour nos membres, en plus du montant croissant de membres. Il est impératif que nous communiquions à tous les collectionneurs que la SRPC est une organisation précieuse auquelle ils devraient être membres. Il serait aussi bien si vous, les membres, communiquons au conseil d'administration ou le bureau national pour nous dire quelle sorte de services vous désirez de cette société. Aucune idée est trop petit pour être considérer... après tout, c'est votre société.

74 / January - February 1998 The Canadian Philatelist
The Board of Directors has passed a motion to consolidate the charges levied against Chapters for annual dues and Notices that appear in The Canadian Philatelist. As a result of this motion, Chapters will be levied a single fee of $30.00 which will include their annual dues and a notice to appear in this section.

This will mean savings for Chapters, as total fees are now $30.00 rather than $36.05 ($20.00 annual dues + $16.05 for Notices). It will also mean a reduction in the administrative burden of issuing two separate payments.

Chapters that have not provided a notice for inclusion in The Canadian Philatelist, should do so immediately by faxing it to (416) 979-1144. In taking this step, the Board is not only streamlining the payment mechanisms for Chapters but also providing better service as every Chapter is entitled to a notice. This will also ensure that more information will be available about local meetings to the membership and the broader collecting public.

Le conseil d'administration a passé une motion pour consolider les frais prélevés contre les Chapitres pour les cotisations annuelles et notifications, qui apparaissent dans Le philatéliste canadien. Grâce à cette motion, les Chapitres seront prélevé une somme unique de 30$, qui va inclure leurs cotisations annuelles et une notification qui apparaîtra dans cette section.

Cela signifie des épargnes pour les Chapitres, puisque les frais totales sont maintenant 30$ au lieu de 36,05$ (20$ de cotisation annuelles et 16,05 pour les notifications). Cela veut aussi dire une réduction du fardeau administratif d'envoyer deux paiements séparés.

Les Chapitres qui n'ont pas inclus une notification pour inclusion dans Le philatéliste canadien devraient le faire immédiatement en le faxant au (416) 979-1144. De cette façon, le conseil est non seulement en train de rationaliser les mécanismes de paiement pour les Chapitres, mais il procure aussi un service supérieur puisque chaque Chapitre a le droit d'une notification.

Ceci assurera aussi que plus d'information sera disponible pour les membres et le public général de collectionneurs au sujet des rencontres locales.

Dear Bill,

The results are now in on your sale of my collection of used Canadian stamps and covers, and I must take the opportunity to share my reaction with you and your colleagues at R. Maresch & Son.

When I approached you last fall to discuss the possible disposition of my collection, I did so with some trepidation. Guided by your advice over many years, and with key acquisitions from your sales, I knew I had formed a collection of quality and some philatelic value. I was none the less concerned about the timing, how the material would be catalogued, and whether I would have any input. I need not have worried.

From the time of my initial consultation with you and Rick Sheyer, my concerns received your fullest attention. As your work progressed, you kept me fully informed and gave me several opportunities to be involved. The collection could have been spread among several auctions, but instead you recommended a single sale that would highlight my approach, in a catalogue that departed from your normal format. In terms of lotting, layout, and colour illustration, it set new standards, in my opinion. By sale time I was completely satisfied that everything had been done to present the best possible sale, from my perspective and that of the bidders you hoped to attract.

The results, which far exceeded my expectation, confirmed that my selection of R. Maresch & Son had been the right choice. I would not hesitate to direct prospective clients to your firm.

Thank you.

Yours sincerely,

David Roberts
